Eight Lives Lost in Big Game Hunt

By United Press International

Colorado's 1963 big game hunting fatality toll rose to eight Wednesday. Another hunter was rescued after spending the night trapped on a mountain ledge.

The eighth victim of the season, which began Saturday on the state's western slope, was identified as Gale A. Thorensen, 49, of El Paso, Tex.

Thorensen, a well-known border guard in El Paso, was accidentally shot by a member of his hunting party early Tuesday near Cortez. He died in a Cortez hospital early Wednesday.

Rescuers from Durango, Colo., said it took them two hours to lift Lyle D. Henry from the ledge. He fell 150 feet to it while hunting Tuesday afternoon.

Henry suffered bruises and scratches, but otherwise was reported in good condition. He returned to his hunting party after the rescue.

At Denver, Jack E. McDonald, 42, an appraiser in the Jefferson County Assessors Office at Golden, Colo., was reported in good condition at a hospital after a bullet wound.

Officials said the accident oc-

Springs Pilot Missing In Nicaragua

An air search is continuing today for a 44-year old Colorado Springs pilot missing for nine days on a flight to the east coast of Nicaragua.

Mrs. Anderson told the Gazette Telegraph today that eight planes are involved in the search but that more are needed.

"The last word we had is that they need help badly there," the woman said.

She said that Anderson's brother has been in touch with the Air Force in an effort to get them to join in the search for the crop-dusting plane and the pilot.

"But they told him they can't join the search until they are invited by the Nicaragua government. They said their hands are tied but they are ready to join," Mrs. Anderson said.

She said her husband had been in Nicaragua for the past two years running an air-cargo

Hungary Gets 1.2 Million Bushels American Corn

By BARY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has cleared the way for sale of 1.2 million bushels of corn to Communist Hungary. But the larger issue of wheat sales to the Soviet bloc remains confused.

Cabinet officers huddled Wednesday with a Soviet trade delegation and failed to iron out the chief obstacle to completion of the wheat deal—the higher shipping rates charged by American shipowners.

There is a growing feeling here that the problem can be resolved only by a White House decision, not through negotiation.

The corn sale to Hungary was resolved smoothly because corn and other grains are exempted from the condition that wheat sold to the Soviet bloc must be carried in American ships where available.

The Commerce Department Wednesday approved the $1,929,-384-shipment by issuing a license for its export, and a spokesman

BEAUMONT, Tex. (UPI)— Sixty Cubans who faced starvation on the seas to escape food and water shortages on their Communist-held island were being considered today for political asylum in the United States.

Immigration authorities were expected to announce today what disposition would be made of the refugees, including 16 children and 16 women. They docked here Wednesday night.

They were rescued Tuesday from an overcrowded 25-foot sailboat in the Yucatan Strait between Cuba and Mexico. The British freighter Essequibo plucked them from the turbulent sea where they had drifted two days without food.

Stormy seas had hampered their sailing in the fishing boat. They said friends, armed with automatic weapons, guarded them while they rowed in five small boats from beaches in Pina Del Rio and Oriente Provinces.

Five miles from shore, after rowing eight hours, they rendezvoused with the sailing vessel and started sailing toward Mexico. Sailing was thwarted by the battering seas and erratic winds.

War in Sahara Continues Despite Pleas

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

MARRAKESH, Morocco (AP) —King Hassan II offered today to meet Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella "anywhere and without prior conditions" to stop bloodshed between the two North African nations.

At the same time, the youthful monarch appealed to Ben Bella to quit what he called undermining of the Moroccan regime.

Hassan told a news conference he is making no prior conditions on a meeting with the Algerian chief of state to iron out all difficulties between the two nations.

Shortly before the king addressed newsmen, his headquarters said new fighting had broken out around the Saharan oasis of Hassi Beida.

Moroccan planes sped into action to ward off what was described as a major Algerian attack.

Referring to Algeria's sweep toward socialism, Hassan said the Algerian president "is introducing a dangerous virus into North African political life."

"I am personally ready to use all peaceful means to stop this fratricidal conflict," Hassan said. "I will go anywhere and without prior conditions to meet the Algerian president."

Exercise Big Lift Reported Ahead of Plan

By CARL HARTMAN

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) —Exercise Big Lift moved swiftly and efficiently ahead today with all indications pointing to completion ahead of schedule for the historic airlift of more than 15,000 American troops from Texas almost to the iron curtain.

By 7 a.m. (1 a.m. Eastern Standard Time) 150 of the big four - engine transports had brought 9,436 men of the 2nd Armored Division to bases in West Germany and France. Military spokesman thought the bulk of the transatlantic ferry job would be completed by 10 p.m.—some 63 hours after the first C135 jet took off from Bergstrom Air Force Base near Austin, Tex.

The Army and Air Force had set a 72-hour deadline for completion of the biggest airlift in U.S. history.

The last of the 234 airlift planes left Bergstrom base just before midnight and headed for Germany at 600 miles an hour.

"Smoothest thing I've ever seen," said Brig. Gen. R. H. Safford. "I'm sure that in a tighter situation we can even beat this time."

Big Lift's clockwork operation and assurances by top American officers did not quiet the fears of West German officials and newspapers that the airlift presaged a reduction of American troops in Europe.

The worrying Germans believe the United States will argue that it has demonstrated its ability to ferry large numbers of troops over quickly to meet threats of trouble and the 250,000 U. S. troops in Europe therefore can be reduced.

A high U.S. official in Washington already has said that Secretary of State Dean Rusk will announce on a visit to West

Combat Forces To Be Reduced In Europe Area

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The question does not seem to be whether the United States will reduce its combat forces in Europe, but how soon it will be done.

The State Department is concerned over a recent speech by a top ranking Pentagon official which dealt, among other things, with "evolutionary changes" ahead for units deployed overseas. And it is anxious to get word out that no immediate troop reduction in Europe is planned.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is expected to use the occasion of a visit to West Germany during the next few days to make a formal announcement. It will be aimed at calming alarm in West German government quarters, evidenced by a request for clarification on the speech of Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell L. Gilpatric in Chicago last Saturday.

In that speech, Gilpatric talked about change in the size and type of forces overseas which "lies ahead" and said the current test airlift of 15,000 troops to Europe demonstrates the capability to deploy military power far faster and longer than ever before.

Gilpatric and others have talked publicly and privately on

Two Bookmobiles Ordered for Library Program

Two bookmobiles have been ordered for the new Pikes Peak regional district library program and delivery of the 2,500 volume units is expected about mid-December.

Mrs. Margaret Reid, head librarian for the regional library, said the 3,500 volume bookmobile which now services Colorado Springs will continue to be used in that capacity.

The new bookmobiles, estimated to cost $9,000 each, will serve the fringe communities of Colorado Springs with the exception of Manitou Springs and Security, both of which voted not to participate in the regional system.

Mrs. Reid said two staff members will be assigned to each of the three bookmobiles and tentative plans call for a once-a-week visit to the several communities involved in the program.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force brought to 300 Wednesday the number of Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missiles under ground and ready to fire.

A second 150 - missile base was completed near Rapid City, S.D. The first wing of these missiles is in the vicinity of Great Falls, Mont.

Further construction will bring the Minuteman total to 950. Additional bases will be at Minot, N.D., Knob Noster, Mo., and Cheyenne, Wyo.

Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, Air Force chief of staff, said recently 450 ICBM's were ready to fire. His figure included Atlas and Titan missiles as well as the Minuteman.

Surprise Storm Zig-Zags Into Colorado

By United Press International

A surprise storm zig-zagged into Colorado late Wednesday, spawning showers at lower elevations and snow in some of the higher mountains.

The Colorado State Patrol said Trail Ridge Road was closed early today because of heavy snow.

Rain was reported at Akron, Craig, Eagle, Fraser, and Grand Junction, while cloudiness was spread over virtually all of the state.

Lamar's 82 degrees was the warmest in Colorado Wednesday. Fraser, the state's cold-spot early today, had 33 degrees.

Forecasters said the storm would blow itself out of Colorado and predicted Friday would be clear and warmer.

No Objection Seen to Carson Land Trade

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen Gordon Allott, R-Colo., said today the Defense Department had informed him it would not object trading land at Ft. Carson, Colo. and the Pueblo Ordnance Depot for a tract at the former Lowry Air Force Base bombing range.

The State of Colorado now leases to the federal government the Ft. Carson and Pueblo Ordnance land which would be included, and wants to acquire the Lowry land.

The General Services Administration orginally suggested the swap. It has been approved by both the Senate and House Armed Services Committee.

Yank Student Forgets English In Red Jail

By JOHN O. KOEHLER

BERLIN (AP) — American student Robert Mann said today he was physically well treated while jailed for 21 months in Communist East Germany. But, he said, the experience had left him a nervous wreck.

Mann, 20, from Sepulveda, Calif., told a news conference he was jailed on a charge of "luring away" East German citizens.

When he appeared before reporters in the U.S. mission in West Berlin he was very pale and obviously nervous. He spoke haltingly and his English was stumbling, as if spoken by a German. He frequently turned to a U.S. official to ask for the translation of a German word into English.

Mann was released by the Red regime yesterday. He said he stayed last night in a private home in West Berlin.

"I'm glad to be back, but one of the most important things for me now is the process of making a transition," he said. "I am nervous and I still have difficulty speaking English."

Mann was sentenced to 21 months imprisonment after a secret trial in East Berlin July 14, 1962, on charges of trying to help an East German escape to the west. Informed sources said he was accused of trying to sup-

198 Begin Return Trip To Tristan de Cunha

SOUTHAMPTON, England, (UPI) — A party of 198 men, women and children turned their backs today on the comforts of modern England to return to the rugged, simple life of Tristan de Cunha island in the South Atlantic.

They were scheduled to start the long voyage to "the loneliest island in the world" aboard the chartered Danish ship Bornholm.

The group was the main body of the island's total population, which was removed two years ago when a volcano eruption forced them to leave their tiny British-administered island.

Two advance parties totaling 64 men have gone ahead to prepare the island to be lived on again, now that the volcano has subsided.

Eleven Tristaners chose to remain in England. Five others died here, mainly of pneumonia and related ailments attributed to the harsh winter weather. Eight babies were born during the islanders' stay in England.

Victor Rogers, 50, his wife and their three children are among the islanders who chose to face the cold weather and complexities of modern life in Britain.

"We are happy to stay," Rogers said. "My younger children will get a better education. Life is much harder on Tristan."

The rocky island was inhabited in the early 1800's by fishermen, shipwrecked seamen and other persons who arrived by chance at the isolated spot off the normal shipping lanes and lacking a harbor.

Tristaners learned to eke out a living by fishing, raising sheep and growing potatoes. The modern developments of 160 years passed them by and until they arrived in England they had never seen such things as television, automobiles, trains, neon lights, cement sidewalks, movies or nylon stockings.

When experts declared Tristan de Cunha once again safe for occupancy, the islanders voted overwhelmingly to return and the British government started making the necessary arrangements.

Four Americans Are Killed in Viet Nam Crash

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — A U.S. Air Force transport plane crashed and burned today about 65 miles south of Saigon, apparently killing all four American crewmen and four Vietnamese airmen aboard.

It was the second major air accident in little more than two weeks involving Americans in South Viet Nam. On Oct. 7 two U.S. Marine Corps helicopters crashed north of Saigon, killing 12 Americans.

Prolonged Drought Holds Firm Grip on Wide Areas

CHICAGO (AP) — Autumn's severe prolonged drought held a firm grip on broad areas of the nation from the Southern Plains to New England today.

Drought conditions, forest fires and water shortages continued to plague many sections. Losses to crops and property mounted into the millions of dollars.

There appeared no prospect of an immediate, general break in autumn's extended dry and unseasonably warm weather. Record high temperatures in the 80s in many parts of the dry belt heightened the fire danger in many of the parched woodlands.

The Weather Bureau in Washington said drought conditions continued unabated in most of Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, the southern third of Missouri and across most of the country east of the Mississippi River except for parts of Illinois.

Ohio has not had measurable rain for 42 days. Many other sections in the drought region have reported rainless days and summer-like temperatures for the past several weeks. Rain fell across scattered sections in the Central States the past few days, bringing a measure of relief to the farm lands.

But the Weather Bureau predicted rainfall in the Eastern quarter of the nation — where the forest fires are the most critical — will be below normal for the next 30 days. Nearly normal rainfall was forecast for the Central region and above seasonal amounts in the western Corn Belt.

State forestlands in New York, New England and in areas in the South and Midwest have been closed to lessen the fire hazard. Officials have halted hunting and fishing in some states. It appeared likely the drought and forest fires will force postponement of the big game (bear, deer) hunting season in northern New York, scheduled to open Friday.

Millions of people, including residents in New York City, were urged to conserve water.

Denver Lawyer To Probe State Jobless Fund

Atty. Gen. Duke Dunbar said Wednesday that Waggener, 35, had been named to the part-time job for $500 a month. He will supervise the work of auditors checking the fund's records.

The investigation is being conducted under the general direction of Gov. John Love. He ordered the probe after private auditors said their partial findings indicated fraudulent claims had been submitted to the agency by jobless persons. The auditors projected their samplings and estimated that as much as $11 million could have been paid to fraudulent claimants.

New York Mother Gives Birth to Quadruplets

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York's contribution to the population explosion, a set of quadruplets born to a grade school teacher and her attorney husband, were reported in "satisfactory" condition today.

The petite, 90-pound mother of the three girls and one boy, 27 year old Mrs. Rhoda Brecker was "doing fine" following the multiple delivery by Caesarean section.

A spokesman at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center said the quad's proud father, Martin Brecker had not yet decided on names for the couple's first-born, now known as 1, 2, 3 and 4.

The quads, weighing a total of 13½ pounds were born Wednesday night between 6:32 and 6:35 p.m. (EDT). They were placed in incubators but only as a precautionary measure, according to a hospital spokesman. They are expected to be kept in incubators for a few days at least.

The infants arrived on their due date but their parents who had been advised to expect "more than one" were shocked when the number hit four.

But the father, whose family grew from two to six in a matter of four minutes, rose to the occasion.

"It's magnificent. It's a wonderful blessing," he said. He added that he and his wife looked forward to having more children to keep the quads company.

The first born, a girl, weighed a flat four pounds. The boy, second born, was two pounds, 15 ounces and the two other girls weighed three pounds, 11 ounces and two pounds, 12 ounces.

Odds against having quads range from once in 680,000 births to once in a million.

Yank Student Forgets English In Red Jail

By JOHN O. KOEHLER

BERLIN (AP) — American student Robert Mann said today he was physically well treated while jailed for 21 months in Communist East Germany. But, he said, the experience had left him a nervous wreck.

Mann, 20, from Sepulveda, Calif., told a news conference he was jailed on a charge of "luring away" East German citizens.

Combat Forces To Be Reduced In Europe Area

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The question does not seem to be whether the United States will reduce its combat forces in Europe, but how soon it will be done.

The State Department is concerned over a recent speech by a top ranking Pentagon official which dealt, among other things, with "evolutionary changes" ahead for units deployed overseas. And it is anxious to get word out that no immediate troop reduction in Europe is planned.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is expected to use the occasion of a visit to West Germany during the next few days to make a formal announcement. It will be aimed at calming alarm in West German government quarters, evidenced by a request for clarification on the speech of Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell L. Gilpatric in Chicago last Saturday.

In that speech, Gilpatric talked about change in the size and type of forces overseas which "lies ahead" and said the current test airlift of 15,000 troops to Europe demonstrates the capability to deploy military power far faster and longer than ever before.

Gilpatric and others have talked publicly and privately on

Two Bookmobiles Ordered for Library Program

Two bookmobiles have been ordered for the new Pikes Peak regional district library program and delivery of the 2,500 volume units is expected about mid-December.

Mrs. Margaret Reid, head librarian for the regional library, said the 3,500 volume bookmobile which now services Colorado Springs will continue to be used in that capacity.

The new bookmobiles, estimated to cost $9,000 each, will serve the fringe communities of Colorado Springs with the exception of Manitou Springs and Security, both of which voted not to participate in the regional system.

Mrs. Reid said two staff members will be assigned to each of the three bookmobiles and tentative plans call for a once-a-week visit to the several communities involved in the program.

The present bookmobile schedule for Colorado Springs will

SOUTHAMPTON, England, (UPI) — A party of 198 men, women and children turned their backs today on the comforts of modern England to return to the rugged, simple life of Tristan de Cunha island in the South Atlantic.

They were scheduled to start the long voyage to "the loneliest island in the world" aboard the chartered Danish ship Bornholm.

The group was the main body of the island's total population, which was removed two years ago when a volcano eruption forced them to leave their tiny British-administered island.

Two advance parties totaling 64 men have gone ahead to prepare the island to be lived on again, now that the volcano has subsided.

Eleven Tristaners chose to remain in England. Five others died here, mainly of pneumonia and related ailments attributed to the harsh winter weather. Eight babies were born during the islanders' stay in England.

Victor Rogers, 50, his wife and their three children are among the islanders who chose to face the cold weather and complexities of modern life in Britain.

"We are happy to stay," Rogers said. "My younger children will get a better education. Life is much harder on Tristan."

The rocky island was inhabited in the early 1800's by fishermen, shipwrecked seamen and other persons who arrived by chance at the isolated spot off the normal shipping lanes and lacking a harbor.

Tristaners learned to eke out a living by fishing, raising sheep and growing potatoes. The modern developments of 160 years passed them by and until they arrived in England they had never seen such things as television, automobiles, trains, neon lights, cement sidewalks, movies or nylon stockings.

When experts declared Tristan de Cunha once again safe for occupancy, the islanders voted overwhelmingly to return and the British government started making the necessary arrangements.

Four Americans Are Killed in Viet Nam Crash

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — A U.S. Air Force transport plane crashed and burned today about 65 miles south of Saigon, apparently killing all four American crewmen and four Vietnamese airmen aboard.

It was the second major air accident in little more than two weeks involving Americans in South Viet Nam. On Oct. 7 two U.S. Marine Corps helicopters crashed north of Saigon, killing 12 Americans.

Prolonged Drought Holds Firm Grip on Wide Areas

CHICAGO (AP) — Autumn's severe prolonged drought held a firm grip on broad areas of the nation from the Southern Plains to New England today.

Drought conditions, forest fires and water shortages continued to plague many sections. Losses to crops and property mounted into the millions of dollars.

There appeared no prospect of an immediate, general break in autumn's extended dry and unseasonably warm weather. Record high temperatures in the 80s in many parts of the dry belt heightened the fire danger in many of the parched woodlands.

The Weather Bureau in Washington said drought conditions continued unabated in most of Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, the southern third of Missouri and across most of the country east of the Mississippi River except for parts of Illinois.

Ohio has not had measurable rain for 42 days. Many other sections in the drought region have reported rainless days and summer-like temperatures for the past several weeks. Rain fell across scattered sections in the Central States the past few days, bringing a measure of relief to the farm lands.

But the Weather Bureau predicted rainfall in the Eastern quarter of the nation — where the forest fires are the most critical — will be below normal for the next 30 days. Nearly normal rainfall was forecast for the Central region and above seasonal amounts in the western Corn Belt.

State forestlands in New York, New England and in areas in the South and Midwest have been closed to lessen the fire hazard. Officials have halted hunting and fishing in some states. It appeared likely the drought and forest fires will force postponement of the big game (bear, deer) hunting season in northern New York, scheduled to open Friday.

Millions of people, including residents in New York City, were urged to conserve water.

Denver Lawyer To Probe State Jobless Fund

Atty. Gen. Duke Dunbar said Wednesday that Waggener, 35, had been named to the part-time job for $500 a month. He will supervise the work of auditors checking the fund's records.

The investigation is being conducted under the general direction of Gov. John Love. He ordered the probe after private auditors said their partial findings indicated fraudulent claims had been submitted to the agency by jobless persons. The auditors projected their samplings and estimated that as much as $11 million could have been paid to fraudulent claimants.

New York Mother Gives Birth to Quadruplets

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York's contribution to the population explosion, a set of quadruplets born to a grade school teacher and her attorney husband, were reported in "satisfactory" condition today.

The petite, 90-pound mother of the three girls and one boy, 27 year old Mrs. Rhoda Brecker was "doing fine" following the multiple delivery by Caesarean section.

A spokesman at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center said the quad's proud father, Martin Brecker had not yet decided on names for the couple's first-born, now known as 1, 2, 3 and 4.

The quads, weighing a total of 13½ pounds were born Wednesday night between 6:32 and 6:35 p.m. (EDT). They were placed in incubators but only as a precautionary measure, according to a hospital spokesman. They are expected to be kept in incubators for a few days at least.

The infants arrived on their due date but their parents who had been advised to expect "more than one" were shocked when the number hit four.

But the father, whose family grew from two to six in a matter of four minutes, rose to the occasion.

"It's magnificent. It's a wonderful blessing," he said. He added that he and his wife looked forward to having more children to keep the quads company.

The first born, a girl, weighed a flat four pounds. The boy, second born, was two pounds, 15 ounces and the two other girls weighed three pounds, 11 ounces and two pounds, 12 ounces.

Odds against having quads range from once in 680,000 births to once in a million.

Eight Lives Lost in Big Game Hunt

By United Press International

Colorado's 1963 big game hunting fatality toll rose to eight Wednesday. Another hunter was rescued after spending the night trapped on a mountain ledge.

The eighth victim of the season, which began Saturday on the state's western slope, was identified as Gale A. Thorensen, 49, of El Paso, Tex.

Thorensen, a well-known border guard in El Paso, was accidentally shot by a member of his hunting party early Tuesday near Cortez. He died in a Cortez hospital early Wednesday.

Rescuers from Durango, Colo., said it took them two hours to lift Lyle D. Henry from the ledge. He fell 150 feet to it while hunting Tuesday afternoon.

Henry suffered bruises and scratches, but otherwise was reported in good condition. He returned to his hunting party after the rescue.

At Denver, Jack E. McDonald, 42, an appraiser in the Jefferson County Assessors Office at Golden, Colo., was reported in good condition at a hospital after a bullet wound.

Officials said the accident oc-

300 Minutemen Established Underground

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force brought to 300 Wednesday the number of Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missiles under ground and ready to fire.

A second 150 - missile base was completed near Rapid City, S.D. The first wing of these missiles is in the vicinity of Great Falls, Mont.

Further construction will bring the Minuteman total to 950. Additional bases will be at Minot, N.D., Knob Noster, Mo., and Cheyenne, Wyo.

Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, Air Force chief of staff, said recently 450 ICBM's were ready to fire. His figure included Atlas and Titan missiles as well as the Minuteman.

Springs Pilot Missing In Nicaragua

An air search is continuing today for a 44-year old Colorado Springs pilot missing for nine days on a flight to the east coast of Nicaragua.

Mrs. Anderson told the Gazette Telegraph today that eight planes are involved in the search but that more are needed.

"The last word we had is that they need help badly there," the woman said.

She said that Anderson's brother has been in touch with the Air Force in an effort to get them to join in the search for the crop-dusting plane and the pilot.

"But they told him they can't join the search until they are invited by the Nicaragua government. They said their hands are tied but they are ready to join," Mrs. Anderson said.

She said her husband had been in Nicaragua for the past two years running an air-cargo

War in Sahara Continues Despite Pleas

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

MARRAKESH, Morocco (AP) —King Hassan II offered today to meet Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella "anywhere and without prior conditions" to stop bloodshed between the two North African nations.

At the same time, the youthful monarch appealed to Ben Bella to quit what he called undermining of the Moroccan regime.

Hassan told a news conference he is making no prior conditions on a meeting with the Algerian chief of state to iron out all difficulties between the two nations.

Shortly before the king addressed newsmen, his headquarters said new fighting had broken out around the Saharan oasis of Hassi Beida.

Moroccan planes sped into action to ward off what was described as a major Algerian attack.

Referring to Algeria's sweep toward socialism, Hassan said the Algerian president "is introducing a dangerous virus into North African political life."

"I am personally ready to use all peaceful means to stop this fratricidal conflict," Hassan said. "I will go anywhere and without prior conditions to meet the Algerian president."

Hungary Gets 1.2 Million Bushels American Corn

By BARY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has cleared the way for sale of 1.2 million bushels of corn to Communist Hungary. But the larger issue of wheat sales to the Soviet bloc remains confused.

Cabinet officers huddled Wednesday with a Soviet trade delegation and failed to iron out the chief obstacle to completion of the wheat deal—the higher shipping rates charged by American shipowners.

There is a growing feeling here that the problem can be resolved only by a White House decision, not through negotiation.

The corn sale to Hungary was resolved smoothly because corn and other grains are exempted from the condition that wheat sold to the Soviet bloc must be carried in American ships where available.

The Commerce Department Wednesday approved the $1,929,-584-shipment by issuing a license for its export, and a spokesman

Exercise Big Lift Reported Ahead of Plan

By CARL HARTMAN

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) —Exercise Big Lift moved swiftly and efficiently ahead today with all indications pointing to completion ahead of schedule for the historic airlift of more than 15,000 American troops from Texas almost to the iron curtain.

By 7 a.m. (1 a.m. Eastern Standard Time) 150 of the big four - engine transports had brought 9,436 men of the 2nd Armored Division to bases in West Germany and France. Military spokesman thought the bulk of the transatlantic ferry job would be completed by 10 p.m.—some 63 hours after the first C135 jet took off from Bergstrom Air Force Base near Austin, Tex.

The Army and Air Force had set a 72-hour deadline for completion of the biggest airlift in U.S. history.

The last of the 234 airlift planes left Bergstrom base just before midnight and headed for Germany at 600 miles an hour.

"Smoothest thing I've ever seen," said Brig. Gen. R. H. Safford. "I'm sure that in a tighter situation we can even beat this time."

Big Lift's clockwork operation and assurances by top American officers did not quiet the fears of West German officials and newspapers that the airlift presaged a reduction of American troops in Europe.

The worrying Germans believe the United States will argue that it has demonstrated its ability to ferry large numbers of troops over quickly to meet threats of trouble and the 250,000 U. S. troops in Europe therefore can be reduced.

A high U.S. official in Washington already has said that Secretary of State Dean Rusk will announce on a visit to West

Two Bookmobiles Ordered for Library Program

Two bookmobiles have been ordered for the new Pikes Peak regional district library program and delivery of the 2,500 volume units is expected about mid-December.

Mrs. Margaret Reid, head librarian for the regional library, said the 3,500 volume bookmobile which now services Colorado Springs will continue to be used in that capacity.

The new bookmobiles, estimated to cost $9,000 each, will serve the fringe communities of Colorado Springs with the exception of Manitou Springs and Security, both of which voted not to participate in the regional system.

Mrs. Reid said two staff members will be assigned to each of the three bookmobiles and tentative plans call for a once-a-week visit to the several communities involved in the program.

The present bookmobile schedule for Colorado Springs will

BEAUMONT, Tex. (UPI)—Sixty Cubans who faced starvation on the seas to escape food and water shortages on their Communist-held isiand were being considered today for political asylum in the United States.

Immigration authorities were expected to announce today what disposition would be made of the refugees, including 16 children and 16 women. They docked here Wednesday night.

They were rescued Tuesday from an overcrowded 25-foot sailboat in the Yucatan Strait between Cuba and Mexico. The British freighter Essequibo plucked them from the turbulent sea where they had drifted two days without food.

Stormy seas had hampered their sailing in the fishing boat. They said friends, armed with automatic weapons, guarded them while they rowed in five small boats from beaches in Pina Del Rio and Oriente Provinces.

Five miles from shore, after rowing eight hours, they rendezvoused with the sailing vessel and started sailing toward Mexico. Sailing was thwarted by the battering seas and erratic winds.

"In Cuba there are not

CHICAGO (AP) — Autumn's severe prolonged drought held a firm grip on broad areas of the nation from the Southern Plains to New England today.

Drought conditions, forest fires and water shortages continued to plague many sections. Losses to crops and property mounted into the millions of dollars.

There appeared no prospect of an immediate, general break in autumn's extended dry and unseasonably warm weather. Record high temperatures in the 80s in many parts of the dry belt heightened the fire danger in many of the parched woodlands.

The Weather Bureau in Washington said drought conditions continued unabated in most of Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, the southern third of Missouri and across most of the country east of the Mississippi River except for parts of Illinois.

Ohio has not had measurable rain for 42 days. Many other sections in the drought region have reported rainless days and summer-like temperatures for the past several weeks. Rain fell across scattered sections in the Central States the past few days, bringing a measure of relief to the farm lands.

But the Weather Bureau predicted rainfall in the Eastern quarter of the nation — where the forest fires are the most critical — will be below normal for the next 30 days. Nearly normal rainfall was forecast for the Central region and above seasonal amounts in the western Corn Belt.

State forestlands in New York, New England and in areas in the South and Midwest have been closed to lessen the fire hazard. Officials have halted hunting and fishing in some states. It appeared likely the drought and forest fires will force postponement of the big game (bear, deer) hunting season in northern New York, scheduled to open Friday.

Millions of people, including residents in New York City, were urged to conserve water.

Denver Lawyer To Probe State Jobless Fund

Atty. Gen. Duke Dunbar said Wednesday that Waggener, 35, had been named to the part-time job for $500 a month. He will supervise the work of auditors checking the fund's records.

The investigation is being conducted under the general direction of Gov. John Love. He ordered the probe after private auditors said their partial findings indicated fraudulent claims had been submitted to the agency by jobless persons. The auditors projected their samplings and estimated that as much as $11 million could have been paid to fraudulent claimants.

New York Mother Gives Birth to Quadruplets

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York's contribution to the population explosion, a set of quadruplets born to a grade school teacher and her attorney husband, were reported in "satisfactory" condition today.

The petite, 90-pound mother of the three girls and one boy, 27 year old Mrs. Rhoda Brecker was "doing fine" following the multiple delivery by Caesarean section.

A spokesman at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center said the quad's proud father, Martin Brecker had not yet decided on names for the couple's first-born, now known as 1, 2, 3 and 4.

The quads, weighing a total of 13½ pounds were born Wednesday night between 6:32 and 6:35 p.m. (EDT). They were placed in incubators but only as a precautionary measure, according to a hospital spokesman. They are expected to be kept in incubators for a few days at least.

The infants arrived on their due date but their parents who had been advised to expect "more than one" were shocked when the number hit four.

But the father, whose family grew from two to six in a matter of four minutes, rose to the occasion.

"It's magnificent. It's a wonderful blessing," he said. He added that he and his wife looked forward to having more children to keep the quads company.

The first born, a girl, weighed a flat four pounds. The boy, second born, was two pounds, 15 ounces and the two other girls weighed three pounds, 11 ounces and two pounds, 12 ounces.

Odds against having quads range from once in 680,000 births to once in a million.

Prime Minister May Meet With Kennedy

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Lord Home may meet President Kennedy before the end of the year, diplomatic sources said today.

A spokesman from the prime minister's office said.

"The prime minister saw President Kennedy only 15 days ago. At the moment no arrangements for such a meeting exist but relations between Britain and the United States being what they are, these could easily be made."

Diplomats said Home was planning a number of personal contacts with Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany in the near future, and with President Charles De Gaulle of France sometime in the new year.

Prime Minister May Meet With Kennedy

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Lord Home may meet President Kennedy before the end of the year, diplomatic sources said today.

A spokesman from the prime minister's office said.

"The prime minister saw President Kennedy only 15 days ago. At the moment no arrangements for such a meeting exist but relations between Britain and the United States being what they are, these could easily be made."

Diplomats said Home was planning a number of personal contacts with Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany in the near future, and with President Charles De Gaulle of France sometime in the new year.

WARNING ON WESTERNIZING

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Christian faith cannot allow itself simply to be identified with Western culture as its religious face," the Rev. Charles D. Kean, a Washington Episcopal pastor, writes in a new book, "That Hearing They Shall Perceive" (Seabury). He says Western culture cannot assume it has universal relevance.

OWLED LANG SYNE — They've been having a real, live hootenanny, complete with owl, around the Seattle University campus the past few days. A belligerent owl has been scaring the girls, swooping down on the pathways, knocking at their dormitory windows and causing the girls to scream and run around and clutch towels, and like that. But he doesn't scare pretty Annie Curfman, 20-year-old coed from Los Angeles, who climbed a 40-foot tree to pose for the picture. One suggestion was to catch the owl, tame it and make it a pet of the philosophy department. (AP Wirephoto)

Increase Submitted In State Budgets

DENVER (UPI)— Authorities at three state institutions, perhaps mindful of the state's financial woes, Tuesday submitted 1964-65 budget requests involving a combined increase of less than $1 million over 1963-64.

The State Penitentiary asked for a $3,723,233 budget, $299,330 higher than this year, with $195,000 pegged to salary increases.

Ridge Home and Training School requested $3,694,252, an increase of $554,596 over 1963-64.

Evening Class Openings Soon Available Here

Opening for adults in certain limited enrollment evening classes will soon be available according to John L. Cameron, director of adult education for the Colorado Springs Public Schools.

The courses are Welding, Machine Shop, and Lapidary and each requires a telephone reservation prior to the time of the first class meeting.

Welding is a 39 hour course which meets for three hours twice a week and covers both Oxy Acetylene and AC and DC Arc Welding thru individual instruction and actual practice.

Beginners and experienced students alike can be accommodated. The fee is $22 with students furnishing their own helmet and goggles which may be purchased at the school

Lapidary is also a 39 hour course which meets for three hours twice each week and is offered as a hobby course for teaching the techniques of cutting, shaping, and polishing stones. Instruction also includes sources of material and how to recognize usable rocks. The fee is $19.00 plus materials.

Machine Shop is a practical course which covers theory and practice in the use of machines and tools commonly found in a machine shop. Instruction is mainly on an individual basis to fit the specific needs of the student. Classes meet twice each week for three hours and the fee is $12.

Persons interested in any of the above courses should call 633-5268 at their earliest opportunity to reserve a space in class. Reservations may also be made by going in person to 406 N. Weber St.

Washington — The red-carpet treatment given Marshal Tito by the White House serves to emphasize the problem the Republican Party faces in Presidential 1964.

It cannot, for example, go after President Kennedy on the Tito issue without repudiating former President Eisenhower. It was Ike who brought

* * *

Marshal Tito
No grist for the GOP mill

* * *

Nikita Khrushchev, the biggest Communist of them all, over here in 1959 on his personal invitation. So how can the GOP now pick on Kennedy for having a lower-rung Red factotum use the official welcome mat?

For that matter, it is most unlikely that Kennedy would have risked pulling out the stops for Tito if his predecessor had not done so for Nikita. Kennedy has always been most cautious about political pitfalls.

He must know that there are some deadfalls in connection with his glad-handing of Tito. But he also is probably well aware of the fact that if some Americans find the official show for the Red Yugoslav boss repulsive, they cannot look to the COP opposition for support.

But for what Ike did, it might be different.

It also happens that the Republican Party is somewhat stymied, because of the record of the Eisenhower Administration, in mounting a forceful attack on Kennedy on some other key cold war issues.

This is true on the nuclear test-ban issue. Democrats in 1964 will not let the voters overlook the fact that the Eisenhower Administration pushed the same idea years before, but without success.

The Cuba issue gets gummed up in somewhat the same way. Fidel Castro took over in January of 1959. He is still there, but he was also still there when Ike left office, two years after Cuba became a Moscow satellite.

KENNEDY VULNERABLE

This does not mean that foreign policy will not be an issue next year. But it will be hard for any Republican presidential candidate to pivot his campaign around that point unless there is a big shift from the present status of the cold war.

It will be possible, the political experts concede, to make a sweeping attack on Kennedy as an "appeaser" and charge that he has been suckered into following the Moscow "peaceful coexistence" line.

He also can be accused or refusing to take strong action to throw Castro out of Cuba, and of mishandling the South Viet Nam situation until it developed into a mess.

On Viet Nam, however, Kennedy, it is generally admitted, actually is not as vulnerable as Ike was on the same issue. President Eisenhower turned down a proposal backed by Richard M. Nixon and the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to use our naval air power against the Viet Minh. Kennedy has thrown 14,000 American troops into the area.

In connection with Tito's visit itself, as far back as 1957 Gen. Eisenhower had in mind asking the Yugoslav dictator to pay the U. S. a formal visit. The backtracking came only after a storm of resentment arose in and out of Congress.

What the Eisenhower Administration then had in mind was some soft-soaping of Tito, for then as now, Tito was superficially flirting with the West while never loosening his hard ideological ties with Moscow.

Ike did see Tito in New York at the United Nations in 1960, but he didn't invite him to drop down to Washington, and the lack of such an invitation irked Tito.

Kennedy has had to kick around this problem ever since he got into office, for it was known that Tito always had his bags packed, and he used every diplomatic ruse to inveigle an invitation. He was not going to be recognized globally as the big shot he thought wanted it for a most simple reason. Until he came to Washington, he was.

Well, he may not have a most pleasant swing around the country, even if President Kennedy has urged that he be treated as a distinguished visitor. This sort of appeal to the people, incidentally, Ike felt required to make in 1959 when Krushchev looked the country over.

In order to get the right perspective about this Tito visit, the first thing to dismiss is the phony guff from certain Administration officials about its significance. There is, for example, the report that by talking to Tito the President can get a complete fill-in on what Khrushchev said to Tito on K's recent visit to Belgrade. Our embassy in Yugoslavia transmitted all this information weeks ago.

Actually, it is admitted by those in the Administration who can be most relied on, the Kennedy-Tito meetings were important in only a very limited sense. They allowed the two leaders to look each other over. A confrontation of this kind is worthwhile, whether between adversaries or between friends involved in a petty quarrel.

Kennedy has had to kick around this problem ever since he got into office, for it was known that Tito always had his bags packed, and he used every diplomatic ruse to inveigle an invitation. He was not going to be recognized globally as the big shot he thought wanted it for a most simple reason. Until he came to Washington, he was.

Well, he may not have a most pleasant swing around the country, even if President Kennedy has urged that he be treated as a distinguished visitor. This sort of appeal to the people, incidentally, Ike felt required to make in 1959 when Krushchev looked the country over.

In order to get the right perspective about this Tito visit, the first thing to dismiss is the phony guff from certain Administration officials about its significance. There is, for example, the report that by talking to Tito the President can get a complete fill-in on what Khrushchev said to Tito on K's recent visit to Belgrade. Our embassy in Yugoslavia transmitted all this information weeks ago.

Actually, it is admitted by those in the Administration who can be most relied on, the Kennedy-Tito meetings were important in only a very limited sense. They allowed the two leaders to look each other over. A confrontation of this kind is worthwhile, whether between adversaries or between friends involved in a petty quarrel.

Evening Class Openings Soon Available Here

Opening for adults in certain limited enrollment evening classes will soon be available according to John L. Cameron, director of adult education for the Colorado Springs Public Schools.

The courses are Welding, Machine Shop, and Lapidary and each requires a telephone reservation prior to the time of the first class meeting.

Welding is a 39 hour course which meets for three hours twice a week and covers both Oxy Acetylene and AC and DC Arc Welding thru individual instruction and actual practice.

Beginners and experienced students alike can be accommodated. The fee is $22 with students furnishing their own helmet and goggles which may be purchased at the school.

Lapidary is also a 39 hour course which meets for three hours twice each week and is offered as a hobby course for teaching the techniques of cutting, shaping, and polishing stones. Instruction also includes sources of material and how to recognize usable rocks. The fee is $19.00 plus materials.

Machine Shop is a practical course which covers theory and practice in the use of machines and tools commonly found in a machine shop. Instruction is mainly on an individual basis to fit the specific needs of the student. Classes meet twice each week for three hours and the fee is $12.

Persons interested in any of the above courses should call 633-5268 at their earliest opportunity to reserve a space in class. Reservations may also be made by going in person to 406 N. Weber St.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

Washington — The red-carpet treatment given Marshal Tito by the White House serves to emphasize the problem the Republican Party faces in Presidential 1964.

It cannot, for example, go after President Kennedy on the Tito issue without repudiating former President Eisenhower. It was Ike who brought

* * *

Marshal Tito
No great for the GOP mill

* * *

Nikita Khrushchev, the biggest Communist of them all, over here in 1959 on his personal invitation. So how can the GOP now pick on Kennedy for having a lower-rung Red factotum use the official welcome mat?

For that matter, it is most unlikely that Kennedy would have risked pulling out the stops for Tito if his predecessor had not done so for Nikita. Kennedy has always been most cautious about political pitfalls.

He must know that there are some deadfalls in connection with his glad-handing of Tito. But he also is probably well aware of the fact that if some Americans find the official show for the Red Yugoslav boss repulsive, they cannot look to the COP opposition for support.

But for what Ike did, it might be different.

It also happens that the Republican Party is somewhat stymied, because of the record of the Eisenhower Administration, in mounting a forceful attack on Kennedy on some other key cold war issues.

This is true on the nuclear test-ban issue. Democrats in 1964 will not let the voters overlook the fact that the Eisenhower Administration pushed the same idea years before, but without success.

The Cuba issue gets gummed up in somewhat the same way. Fidel Castro took over in January of 1959. He is still there, but he was also still there when Ike left office, two years after Cuba became a Moscow satellite.

KENNEDY VULNERABLE

This does not mean that foreign policy will not be an issue next year. But it will be hard for any Republican presidential candidate to pivot his campaign around that point unless there is a big shift from the present status of the cold war.

It will be possible, the political experts concede, to make a sweeping attack on Kennedy as an "appeaser" and charge that he has been suckered into following the Moscow "peaceful coexistence" line.

He also can be accused or refusing to take strong action to throw Castro out of Cuba, and of mishandling the South Viet Nam situation until it developed into a mess.

On Viet Nam, however, Kennedy, it is generally admitted, actually is not as vulnerable as Ike was on the same issue. President Eisenhower turned down a proposal backed by Richard M. Nixon and the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to use our naval air power against the Viet Minh. Kennedy has thrown 14,000 American troops into the area.

In connection with Tito's visit itself, as far back as 1957 Gen. Eisenhower had in mind asking the Yugoslav dictator to pay the U. S. a formal visit. The backtracking came only after a storm of resentment arose in and out of Congress.

What the Eisenhower Administration then had in mind was some soft-soaping of Tito, for then as now, Tito was superficially flirting with the West while never loosening his hard ideological ties with Moscow.

Ike did see Tito in New York at the United Nations in 1960, but he didn't invite him to drop down to Washington, and the lack of such an invitation irked Tito.

Kennedy has had to kick around this problem ever since he got into office, for it was known that Tito always had his bags packed, and he used every diplomatic ruse to inveigle an invitation. He was not going to be recognized globally as the big shot he thought wanted it for a most simple reason. Until he came to Washington, he was.

Well, he may not have a most pleasant swing around the country, even if President Kennedy has urged that he be treated as a distinguished visitor. This sort of appeal to the people, incidentally, Ike felt required to make in 1959 when Krushchev looked the country over.

Exercise Big Lift Reported Ahead of Plan

Germany this weekend that the United States does not expect to cut its forces in Europe. But a spokesman for Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's government gave notice Erhard will question Rusk about the situation when the secretary arrives in Bonn Friday.

Big Lift's schedule appeared threatened for a time during the night by a forecast of fog for the Rhein-Main Air Base near Frankfurt the chief arrival port for the big jet transports. But the fog did not develop and the day dawned cloudy but clear.

New Gold-Mine Formula Given In Subsidy Plan

proposals for paying subsidies up to $70 an ounce for newly mined domestic gold.

Treasury officials, who feared any tampering with the Treasury set price of $35 an ounce for gold would shake world confidence in the dollar, had threatened to ask for a presidential veto.

Gruening, chairman of the subcommittee, said he hoped the new formula— by avoiding any reference to gold prices— would prove acceptable to the Treasury.

Those appearing in support of the Guening bill included Sen. E.L. Bartlett, D- Alaska; Sen. Gordon Aloltt, R- Colo.; Rep. J. Edgar Chenoweth, R-Colo.; Rep. Harold T. Johnson, D - Calif., Max W. Bowen, executive vice president of the Golden Cycle Corp., Cripple Creek, Colo., and Elgin Groseclose, a financial and investment consultant.

Bartlett complained that the treasury's price of $35 had been "plucked from the air in 1934" and maintained in the face of rising prices for everything else. The result, he said, had been the near collapse of the gold mining industry.

Allott said the legislation would be of "immense value" to the gold mining industry, but expressed some doubt as to whether it would prove acceptable to the Treasury.

Chenoweth and Bowen declared passage of the bill would reopen mines in Colorado's Cripple Creek district, which the Colorado congressman said had been second only to the Black Hills of South Dakota in gold production.

"There is still a great deal of gold to be produced there," he said, "but not a single mine is open."

"I think if this bill could be passed, it would reopen the mines of the Cripple Creek district," Chenoweth added.

Bowen, speaking for the Golden Cycle Corp., said passage would "mean the resumption of profitable mining operation in this as well as in many other gold mining camps in most of the Western states and Alaska."

Clothing Valued At $340 Stolen In Car Prowl

A Pueblo man told sheriff's deputies that $340 worth of clothing was stolen from his car Wednesday night while the car was parked outside the Las Vegas Club, 711 E. Las Vegas St.

Deputies Vince Denboske and Robert Snuggs said there was no sign of forced entry to the car altho the owner, Warren Robbe, said the car was locked at the time of the theft.

Twelve sport shirts, a western style suit, five pairs of western saddle pants and other clothing was taken in the theft, according to a sheriff's office report.

Hungary to Get Huge Shipment Of U.S. Corn

for Cargill, Inc., big Minneapolis grain processing and shipping firm, said the corn will be shipped soon, probably from an East Coast port.

Involved are 30,000 long tons of corn—about one-third the amount the Communists are expected to buy and a mere trickle when compared to the $250-million worth of wheat whose sale now appears clouded.

In giving advance approval of grain sales to the Soviet bloc President Kennedy stipulated that shipments be made on American ships when they were available. Last Friday the Commerce Department exempted grains other than wheat from the requirement.

Soviet officials are balking at the higher rates charged by American shippers—about 20 to 30 cents a bushel higher than foreign rates. This led to Wednesday's luncheon at the State Department, although the United States had advised Moscow that the wheat deal ceased being a government matter once Kennedy had cleared the way for the sales.

McKnight-Lausch Suit Dismissed By Hardeman

District Court Judge Hunter D. Hardeman announced Wednesday that he has dismissed a suit brought by William C. McKnight against Fire Chief Fred H. Lausch, City Manager John Biery, members of the City Civil Service Commission and the City of Colorado Springs.

Lausch filed charges against McKnight in July 12, 1960, charging McKnight, who was then a member of the Fire Department, of violating department rules which state that a fireman cannot engage in other employment and must live within the city limits.

McKnight was fired from the department after an Oct. 6, 1960 hearing before Biery in which the charges were sustained.

McKnight then filed a petition with the City Civil Service Commission asking for a review of the findings. The commission sustained the findings on July 12, 1961.

McKnight brought suit in District Court asking that the Fire Department rules be declared null and void. He also asked that he be given back his job and awarded $8,400 in damages plus wages he would have earned since being fired.

Hardeman dismissed the case on grounds that Biery's authority to make rules was not an improper delegation of legislative power, that the rules were reasonable and valid, and that McKnight waited almost ten months since the ruling of the commission to file the suit and this constituted an unreasonable delay.

Yank Student Forgets English In Red Jail

ply false identity papers to a young East Berliner. The fate of the German has not been disclosed.

The court counted the six months Mann spent in jail awaiting trial against his sentence. His term ended yesterday.

Mann said the East Germans never tried to use force to convert him to Communism but often discussed Communism with him.

"Of course, they tried to convert me, to influence me," he said. Their whole system is based on influence. When you read one of their newspapers they try to influence you.

"They would tell me what they thought of Communism and I would tell them what I thought."

Mann said he was arrested in East Berlin on Jan. 22, 1962, after he had received a Belgian passport that he was to take to an East Berlin student so he could escape to the West. He said he did not know how the arrest came about.

Combat Forces To Be Reduced In Europe Area

several occasions about improved strategic deployment capabilities, with implications that economics and other factors were pointing to an eventual cut in forces abroad.

But the Saturday speech was almost on the eve of the dramatic Exercise Big Lift demonstration and test. It was followed closely by an Army announcement that atomic arms for ground forces in Europe and elsewhere overseas would be increased—something that suggested there was a way to maintain the same amount of defensive firepower with fewer men.

There are now five Army divisions and other units amounting to the strength of a sixth division deployed in West Germany. The total manpower of the U.S. ground forces there is about 250,000.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has insisted that no immediate cutback in combat strength in Europe is planned. But he also has decided that some of the non-combat strength can be brought home.

Services Held for Lloyd R. Miller

Funeral services for Lloyd R. Miller, 1831 N. Chestnut St., who died at his home Sunday were held at 3 p.m. Wednesday at the Law Drawing Room. Dr. LeRoy Arend officiated. Burial was in Evergreen Cemetery and rites at the grave were in charge of El Paso Lodge No. 13, AF and AM.

Mr. Miller was born in Honaker, Va., Aug. 24, 1903. He had been a resident of Colorado Springs for 31 years and was a bus driver for the Colorado Springs Transit Co. He was a member of the First Methodist Church and of El Paso Lodge No. 13, AF and AM.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Viola Miller, of Colorado Springs; a son, Richard Miller, and a daughter, Julie, both of San Jose, Calif.; three sisters, Mrs. Helen Kind, Casper, Wyo.; Mrs. Irene Frost, Los Angeles, Calif. and Mrs. Leora Johnson, Cheyenne, Wyo., and his mother, Mrs. Myrtle Miller, Casper, Wyo.

Hurricane Ginny Creeps Closer To Florida Coast

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Ginny lashed Florida's upper east coast with gales today as she crept closer to land.

But the Weather Bureau said Ginny probably wouldn't whip ashore within the next 12 hours. Even if she did, forecaster Gordon Dunn said, "there should be no major damage."

Ginny's peak winds of 75 miles an hour barely qualified her as a hurricane.

Although the Weather Bureau wasn't taking bets on where Ginny would go next, a course 50 to 100 miles offshore parallel to the Florida coast was predicted.

After a brief pause during the night about 100 miles east of Cape Canaveral, Ginny started northwestward at 5 miles an hour. But the danger wasn't quite over and the Weather Bureau maintained a hurricane watch from Cape Canaveral to Brunswick, Ga.

With a baffling series of starts, stops and backward sprints, Ginny harassed the Eastern Seaboard from Cape Hatteras to Miami.

Early today Ginny was centered about 110 miles east of Daytona Beach. Even though Ginny once again began moving forward, her intentions were not clear.

Gale warnings were displayed from Palm Beach to Jacksonville.

Ginny boiled up off the North Carolina coast Sunday and was pushed southward by a large mass of cool air sweeping down from Canada. When the storm reached a point opposite northeastern Florida it began to drift southward at decreasing speed until it pulled up opposite Cape Canaveral.

The Nation's Weather

Early this morning Hurricane Ginny off the east coast of Florida continued to bring considerable cloudiness across the mid-Atlantic coastal states southward.

In addition to rain, gale winds and heavy seas were noted along the upper Florida east coast.

Some showers fell over southern Texas.

Elsewhere over the country, skies were mostly fair.

The Pacific northwest had abundant amounts with a little over an inch across northwest Washington.

Kelly Air Force Base at San Ontonio, Texas, reported a little over three and a quarter inches in the past six hours ending at 6 a.m. CST.

Morning temperatures were generally ranging in the 50s and 60s over much of the country. The 40s were general over the northeast section and the 30s and 40s were recorded thru the northern and central Plateau and the Rocky Mountain region.

Idaho Falls, Idaho, and Winnemucca, Nev., had 24 degrees for an overnight low.

Catholic Scout Event Slated At AFA Sunday

All Catholic Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers and their parents have been invited to attend the first Annual Day of Recollection, to be held at the U.S. Air Force Academy Chapel, at 2 P.M. Sunday.

Scouts and parents are requested to note the change of location for the service. A previous announcement indicated that the event was to be held at Sacred Heart Catholic Church. Upon the invitation of Cadet Chaplain Rusario L. Montcalm, the services have been changed to the impressive Air Force Academy Chapel.

Orville Trainor, chairman of the Scout Council Catholic Relations committee, stated that the invitation to hold the services at the new U.S.AF Academy Chapel would be most impressive to the several hundred Scouts and parents who will be in attendance.

Trainor stated that all Catholic Cubs, Scouts and parents are expected to be present.

Cadet Donald Kane, a former recepient of the Distinguished Ad Altare Dei Catholic Award, and the coveted Eagle Rank, will be a special guest of honor, and discuss the requirements for the Catholic Scout Award. Father John Wood, C.S.V., Chaplain at St. Francis Hospital, and Chaplain Montcalm, U.S. AF Academy Catholic Chaplain will conduct the Religious conferences included in the afternoon program.

Edward Varela, member of the Scout Council Catholic Relations Committee, and Gilbert Hesse, Scoutmaster of Troop 21, Corpus Christi Church, will explain the requirements necessary to receive the Parvuli Dei and Pope Pius Awards.

All Scouts and Cubs are asked to assemble by 1:45 p.m. to participate in the processional preceding the impressive ceremonies.

Chuchill's Eldest Daughter Dies Of Sleeping Pills

The nude body of 54-year-old Mrs. Churchill, ex-wife of Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys, was found on the floor of her bathroom early last Sunday.

Coroner Gavin Thurston did not specifically call the death suicide, a legal term. He listed the cause of death as acute barbiturate poisoning, self-administered, and said she took her own life.

Keith Simpson, a pathologist, testified that he had recovered the equivalent of 17 sleeping pills from Mrs. Churchill's body. He said she probably took half again as many in one dose. He also found she had drunk about one-third of a bottle of whisky.

Ironically, for the past 18 months Mrs. Churchill's main interest in life had been working for an organization called "The Samaritans," which seeks to dissuade people with a suicidal urge from killing themselves.

Dr. J.H.H. MacRae, Mrs. Churchill's doctor, told the inquest she had been in a nervous state in recent months and during August had been kept in bed under sedation for five days.

Mrs. Churchill and Sandys, her second husband, were married in 1935 and divorced in 1960. After the divorce she took the name of Mrs. Diana Churchill.

Pulley, Rope Stolen From Local Building

A pulley and a rope worth a total of $40 was stolen from the Cooper Insulation and Roofing Co. Tuesday night or Wednesday morning, police reported.

C. G. Cooper, owner of the business, told officers the items were taken from a building he was roofing at 548 E. Costilla St.

Burglars caused damage to a safe at Walk Distributors, 220 Sierra Madre St. in an unsuccessful attempt to open the safe Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning, police said.

After forcing a door to enter the building, the burglars pounded and pried on the safe, knocking off a knob and snapping several rivets, police said.

The cost of the damage is not known.

Germany this weekend that the United States does not expect to cut its forces in Europe. But a spokesman for Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's government gave notice Erhard will question Rusk about the situation when the secretary arrives in Bonn Friday.

Big Lift's schedule appeared threatened for a time during the night by a forecast of fog for the Rhein-Main Air Base near Frankfurt the chief arrival port for the big jet transports. But the fog did not develop and the day dawned cloudy but clear.

New Gold-Mine Formula Given In Subsidy Plan

proposals for paying subsidies up to $70 an ounce for newly mined domestic gold.

Treasury officials, who feared any tampering with the Treasury set price of $35 an ounce for gold would shake world confidence in the dollar, had threatened to ask for a presidential veto.

Gruening, chairman of the subcommittee, said he hoped the new formula— by avoiding any reference to gold prices—would prove acceptable to the Treasury.

Those appearing in support of the Guening bill included Sen. E.L. Bartlett, D- Alaska; Sen. Gordon Aloltt, R- Colo.; Rep. J. Edgar Chenoweth, R-Colo.; Rep. Harold T. Johnson, D - Calif., Max W. Bowen, executive vice president of the Golden Cycle Corp., Cripple Creek, Colo., and Elgin Groseclose, a financial and investment consultant.

Bartlett complained that the treasury's price of $35 had been "plucked from the air in 1934" and maintained in the face of rising prices for everything else. The result, he said, had been the near collapse of the gold mining industry.

Allott said the legislation would be of "immense value" to the gold mining industry, but expressed some doubt as to whether it would prove acceptable to the Treasury.

Chenoweth and Bowen declared passage of the bill would reopen mines in Colorado's Cripple Creek district, which the Colorado congressman said had been second only to the Black Hills of South Dakota in gold production.

"There is still a great deal of gold to be produced there," he said, "but not a single mine is open."

"I think if this bill could be passed, it would reopen the mines of the Cripple Creek district," Chenoweth added.

Bowen, speaking for the Golden Cycle Corp., said passage would "mean the resumption of profitable mining operation in this as well as in many other gold mining camps in most of the Western states and Alaska."

Clothing Valued At $340 Stolen In Car Prowl

A Pueblo man told sheriff's deputies that $340 worth of clothing was stolen from his car Wednesday night while the car was parked outside the Las Vegas Club, 711 E. Las Vegas St.

Deputies Vince Denboske and Robert Snuggs said there was no sign of forced entry to the car altho the owner, Warren Robbe, said the car was locked at the time of the theft.

Twelve sport shirts, a western style suit, five pairs of western saddle pants and other clothing was taken in the theft, according to a sheriff's office report.

for Cargill, Inc., big Minneapolis grain processing and shipping firm, said the corn will be shipped soon, probably from an East Coast port.

Involved are 30,000 long tons of corn—about one-third the amount the Communists are expected to buy and a mere trickle when compared to the $250-million worth of wheat whose sale now appears clouded.

In giving advance approval of grain sales to the Soviet bloc President Kennedy stipulated that shipments be made on American ships when they were available. Last Friday the Commerce Department exempted grains other than wheat from the requirement.

Soviet officials are balking at the higher rates charged by American shippers—about 20 to 30 cents a bushel higher than foreign rates. This led to Wednesday's luncheon at the State Department, although the United States had advised Moscow that the wheat deal ceased being a government matter once Kennedy had cleared the way for the sales.

McKnight-Lausch Suit Dismissed By Hardeman

District Court Judge Hunter D. Hardeman announced Wednesday that he has dismissed a suit brought by William C. McKnight against Fire Chief Fred H. Lausch, City Manager John Biery, members of the City Civil Service Commission and the City of Colorado Springs.

Lausch filed charges against McKnight in July 12, 1960, charging McKnight, who was then a member of the Fire Department, of violating department rules which state that a fireman cannot engage in other employment and must live within the city limits.

McKnight was fired from the department after an Oct. 6, 1960 hearing before Biery in which the charges were sustained.

McKnight then filed a petition with the City Civil Service Commission asking for a review of the findings. The commission sustained the findings on July 12, 1961.

McKnight brought suit in District Court asking that the Fire Department rules be declared null and void. He also asked that he be given back his job and awarded $8,400 in damages plus wages he would have earned since being fired.

Hardeman dismissed the case on grounds that Biery's authority to make rules was not an improper delegation of legislative power, that the rules were reasonable and valid, and that McKnight waited almost ten months since the ruling of the commission to file the suit and this constituted an unreasonable delay.

But the Saturday speech was almost on the eve of the dramatic Exercise Big Lift demonstration and test. It was followed closely by an Army announcement that atomic arms for ground forces in Europe and elsewhere overseas would be increased—something that suggested there was a way to maintain the same amount of defensive firepower with fewer men.

There are now five Army divisions and other units amounting to the strength of a sixth division deployed in West Germany. The total manpower of the U.S. ground forces there is about 250,000.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has insisted that no immediate cutback in combat strength in Europe is planned. But he also has decided that some of the non-combat strength can be brought home.

Hurricane Ginny Creeps Closer To Florida Coast

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Ginny lashed Florida's upper east coast with gales today as she crept closer to land.

But the Weather Bureau said Ginny probably wouldn't whip ashore within the next 12 hours. Even if she did, forecaster Gordon Dunn said, "there should be no major damage."

Although the Weather Bureau wasn't taking bets on where Ginny would go next, a course 50 to 100 miles offshore parallel to the Florida coast was predicted.

After a brief pause during the night about 100 miles east of Cape Canaveral, Ginny started northwestward at 5 miles an hour. But the danger wasn't quite over and the Weather Bureau maintained a hurricane watch from Cape Canaveral to Brunswick, Ga.

With a baffling series of starts, stops and backward sprints, Ginny harassed the Eastern Seaboard from Cape Hatteras to Miami.

Early today Ginny was centered about 110 miles east of Daytona Beach. Even though Ginny once again began moving forward, her intentions were not clear.

Gale warnings were displayed from Palm Beach to Jacksonville.

Ginny boiled up off the North Carolina coast Sunday and was pushed southward by a large mass of cool air sweeping down from Canada. When the storm reached a point opposite northeastern Florida it began to drift southward at decreasing speed until it pulled up opposite Cape Canaveral.

Big Lift's schedule appeared threatened for a time during the night by a forecast of fog for the Rhein-Main Air Base near Frankfurt the chief arrival port for the big jet transports. But the fog did not develop and the day dawned cloudy but clear.

New Gold-Mine Formula Given In Subsidy Plan

proposals for paying subsidies up to $70 an ounce for newly mined domestic gold.

Treasury officials, who feared any tampering with the Treasury set price of $35 an ounce for gold would shake world confidence in the dollar, had threatened to ask for a presidential veto.

Gruening, chairman of the subcommittee, said he hoped the new formula— by avoiding any reference to gold prices—would prove acceptable to the Treasury.

Those appearing in support of the Guening bill included Sen. E.L. Bartlett, D- Alaska; Sen. Gordon Aloltt, R- Colo.; Rep. J. Edgar Chenoweth, R-Colo.; Rep. Harold T. Johnson, D - Calif., Max W. Bowen, executive vice president of the Golden Cycle Corp., Cripple Creek, Colo., and Elgin Groseclose, a financial and investment consultant.

Bartlett complained that the treasury's price of $35 had been "plucked from the air in 1934" and maintained in the face of rising prices for everything else. The result, he said, had been the near collapse of the gold mining industry.

Allott said the legislation would be of "immense value" to the gold mining industry, but expressed some doubt as to whether it would prove acceptable to the Treasury.

Chenoweth and Bowen declared passage of the bill would reopen mines in Colorado's Cripple Creek district, which the Colorado congressman said had been second only to the Black Hills of South Dakota in gold production.

"There is still a great deal of gold to be produced there," he said, "but not a single mine is open."

"I think if this bill could be passed, it would reopen the mines of the Cripple Creek district," Chenoweth added.

Bowen, speaking for the Golden Cycle Corp., said passage would "mean the resumption of profitable mining operation in this as well as in many other gold mining camps in most of the Western states and Alaska."

Clothing Valued At $340 Stolen In Car Prowl

A Pueblo man told sheriff's deputies that $340 worth of clothing was stolen from his car Wednesday night while the car was parked outside the Las Vegas Club, 711 E. Las Vegas St.

Deputies Vince Denboske and Robert Snuggs said there was no sign of forced entry to the car altho the owner, Warren Robbe, said the car was locked at the time of the theft.

Twelve sport shirts, a western style suit, five pairs of western saddle pants and other clothing was taken in the theft, according to a sheriff's office report.

He was on his way to Cucra Hill on the country's Caribbean Coast — a trip of about 164 miles — when he disappeared.

"One thing we are thankful for," Mrs. Anderson said, "is that there isn't much water where he went down."

She and her husband and three children have lived in Chipita Park for the past nine years. Anderson's mother, Mrs. D. O. Anderson, lives at 827 N. Institute St. here.

Mrs. Anderson said she has received very little information on the search.

"To be honest, we just have not heard a thing. Not a thing. They just need help badly down there and the Air Force can't go in and help. They're ready to go but they just can't," Mrs. Anderson said.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are natives of Texas.

for Cargill, Inc., big Minneapolis grain processing and shipping firm, said the corn will be shipped soon, probably from an East Coast port.

Involved are 30,000 long tons of corn—about one-third the amount the Communists are expected to buy and a mere trickle when compared to the $250-million worth of wheat whose sale now appears clouded.

In giving advance approval of grain sales to the Soviet bloc President Kennedy stipulated that shipments be made on American ships when they were available. Last Friday the Commerce Department exempted grains other than wheat from the requirement.

Soviet officials are balking at the higher rates charged by American shippers—about 20 to 30 cents a bushel higher than foreign rates. This led to Wednesday's luncheon at the State Department, although the United States had advised Moscow that the wheat deal ceased being a government matter once Kennedy had cleared the way for the sales.

McKnight-Lausch Suit Dismissed By Hardeman

District Court Judge Hunter D. Hardeman announced Wednesday that he has dismissed a suit brought by William C. McKnight against Fire Chief Fred H. Lausch, City Manager John Biery, members of the City Civil Service Commission and the City of Colorado Springs.

Lausch filed charges against McKnight in July 12, 1960, charging McKnight, who was then a member of the Fire Department, of violating department rules which state that a fireman cannot engage in other employment and must live within the city limits.

McKnight was fired from the department after an Oct. 6, 1960 hearing before Biery in which the charges were sustained.

McKnight then filed a petition with the City Civil Service Commission asking for a review of the findings. The commission sustained the findings on July 12, 1961.

McKnight brought suit in District Court asking that the Fire Department rules be declared null and void. He also asked that he be given back his job and awarded $8,400 in damages plus wages he would have earned since being fired.

Hardeman dismissed the case on grounds that Biery's authority to make rules was not an improper delegation of legislative power, that the rules were reasonable and valid, and that McKnight waited almost ten months since the ruling of the commission to file the suit and this constituted an unreasonable delay.

The court counted the six months Mann spent in jail awaiting trial against his sentence. His term ended yesterday.

Mann said the East Germans never tried to use force to convert him to Communism but often discussed Communism with him.

"Of course, they tried to convert me, to influence me," he said. Their whole system is based on influence. When you read one of their newspapers they try to influence you.

"They would tell me what they thought of Communism and I would tell them what I thought."

Mann said he was arrested in East Berlin on Jan. 22, 1962, after he had received a Belgian passport that he was to take to an East Berlin student so he could escape to the West. He said he did not know how the arrest came about.

Combat Forces To Be Reduced In Europe Area

several occasions about improved strategic deployment capabilities, with implications that economics and other factors were pointing to an eventual cut in forces abroad.

But the Saturday speech was almost on the eve of the dramatic Exercise Big Lift demonstration and test. It was followed closely by an Army announcement that atomic arms for ground forces in Europe and elsewhere overseas would be increased—something that suggested there was a way to maintain the same amount of defensive firepower with fewer men.

There are now five Army divisions and other units amounting to the strength of a sixth division deployed in West Germany. The total manpower of the U.S. ground forces there is about 250,000.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has insisted that no immediate cutback in combat strength in Europe is planned. But he also has decided that some of the non-combat strength can be brought home.

Hurricane Ginny Creeps Closer To Florida Coast

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Ginny lashed Florida's upper east coast with gales today as she crept closer to land.

But the Weather Bureau said Ginny probably wouldn't whip ashore within the next 12 hours. Even if she did, forecaster Gordon Dunn said, "there should be no major damage."

Although the Weather Bureau wasn't taking bets on where Ginny would go next, a course 50 to 100 miles offshore parallel to the Florida coast was predicted.

After a brief pause during the night about 100 miles east of Cape Canaveral, Ginny started northwestward at 5 miles an hour. But the danger wasn't quite over and the Weather Bureau maintained a hurricane watch from Cape Canaveral to Brunswick, Ga.

With a baffling series of starts, stops and backward sprints, Ginny harassed the Eastern Seaboard from Cape Hatteras to Miami.

Early today Ginny was centered about 110 miles east of Daytona Beach. Even though Ginny once again began moving forward, her intentions were not clear.

Gale warnings were displayed from Palm Beach to Jacksonville.

Ginny boiled up off the North Carolina coast Sunday and was pushed southward by a large mass of cool air sweeping down from Canada. When the storm reached a point opposite northeastern Florida it began to drift southward at decreasing speed until it pulled up opposite Cape Canaveral.

The Nation's Weather

Early this morning Hurricane Ginny off the east coast of Florida continued to bring considerable cloudiness across the mid-Atlantic coastal states southward.

In addition to rain, gale winds and heavy seas were noted along the upper Florida east coast.

Some showers fell over southern Texas.

Elsewhere over the country, skies were mostly fair.

The Pacific northwest had abundant amounts with a little over an inch across northwest Washington.

Kelly Air Force Base at San Ontonio, Texas, reported a little over three and a quarter inches in the past six hours ending at 6 a.m. CST.

Morning temperatures were generally ranging in the 50s and 60s over much of the country. The 40s were general over the northeast section and the 30s and 40s were recorded thru the northern and central Plateau and the Rocky Mountain region.

Idaho Falls, Idaho, and Winnemucca, Nev., had 24 degrees for an overnight low.

Catholic Scout Event Slated At AFA Sunday

All Catholic Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers and their parents have been invited to attend the first Annual Day of Recollection, to be held at the U.S. Air Force Academy Chapel, at 2 P.M. Sunday.

Scouts and parents are requested to note the change of location for the service. A previous announcement indicated that the event was to be held at Sacred Heart Catholic Church. Upon the invitation of Cadet Chaplain Rusario L. Montcalm, the services have been changed to the impressive Air Force Academy Chapel.

Orville Trainor, chairman of the Scout Council Catholic Relations committee, stated that the invitation to hold the services at the new U.S.AF Academy Chapel would be most impressive to the several hundred Scouts and parents who will be in attendance.

Trainor stated that all Catholic Cubs, Scouts and parents are expected to be present.

Cadet Donald Kane, a former recepient of the Distinguished Ad Altare Dei Catholic Award, and the coveted Eagle Rank, will be a special guest of honor, and discuss the requirements for the Catholic Scout Award. Father John Wood, C.S.V., Chaplain at St. Francis Hospital, and Chaplain Montcalm, U.S. AF Academy Catholic Chaplain will conduct the Religious conferences included in the afternoon program.

Edward Varela, member of the Scout Council Catholic Relations Committee, and Gilbert Hesse, Scoutmaster of Troop 21, Corpus Christi Church, will explain the requirements necessary to receive the Parvuli Dei and Pope Pius Awards.

All Scouts and Cubs are asked to assemble by 1:45 p.m. to participate in the processional preceding the impressive ceremonies.

Chuchill's Eldest Daughter Dies Of Sleeping Pills

The nude body of 54-year-old Mrs. Churchill, ex-wife of Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys, was found on the floor of her bathroom early last Sunday.

Coroner Gavin Thurston did not specifically call the death suicide, a legal term. He listed the cause of death as acute barbiturate poisoning, self-administered, and said she took her own life.

Keith Simpson, a pathologist, testified that he had recovered the equivalent of 17 sleeping pills from Mrs. Churchill's body. He said she probably took half again as many in one dose. He also found she had drunk about one-third of a bottle of whisky.

Ironically, for the past few months Mrs. Churchill's main interest in life had been working for an organization called "The Samaritans," which seeks to dissuade people with a suicidal urge from killing themselves.

Dr. J.H.H. MacRae, Mrs. Churchill's doctor, told the inquest she had been in a nervous state in recent months and during August had been kept in bed under sedation for five days.

Mrs. Churchill and Sandys her second husband, were married in 1935 and divorced in 1960. After the divorce she took the name of Mrs. Duncan Churchill.

Pulley, Rope Stolen From Local Building

A pulley and a rope worth a total of $40 was stolen from the Cooper Insulation and Roofing Co. Tuesday night or Wednesday morning, police reported.

C. G. Cooper, owner of the business, told officers the items were taken from a building that was roofing at 548 E. Cosy St.

Burglars caused damage to a safe at Walk Distributors, 1 Sierra Madre St. in an unsuccessful attempt to open the safe Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning, police said.

After forcing a door to enter the building, the burglars pounded and pried on the safe, knocking off a knob and stripping several rivets, police said.

The cost of the damage is not known.

Boulder Council Told Tax Cannot Be Cut

BOULDER (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Duke W. Dunbar informed the Boulder City Council Tuesday it appears the city cannot cut the 1963 property tax by 2 mills as was promised.

The cut had been proposed as the result of passage of a 1 per cent municipal sales tax. Dunbar said that in the absence of a formal statute, the reduction was impossible.

City Manager Robert Turner said he would recommend that the council pledge itself instead to a 3-mill property tax cut for 1964, and that the money raised by the 2-mill amount of the proposed decrease be put into a reserve fund to carry over until 1965.

Six Annapolis Men Freed for 'Own' Studies

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Six Naval Academy midshipmen have been freed of regular classroom work this year to concentrate on research and studies of their own choosing.

They are known as "Trident scholars," the first participants in a scholarship program the academic program, and thus create a new source of pride for the whole brigade and for the faculty."

Hand-picked for the program from the upper 10 per cent of their class were:

Clark Graham of Jacksonville, Fla., tennis player and captain of the Navy squash team. He'll do research on factors affecting submarine construction.

Bobby Joe Haynes of Watauga, Tenn., who will study chemical characteristics of a heretofore unreported salt compound.

Jeffrey V. Wilson of Kansas City, Kan., studying concepts of fire control in laser or energy-beam weaponry.

Leon P. Brooks Jr. of Jacksonville, Fla., who will do research on radiation effects on transistors.

Melville H. Lyman III of Glen Ridge, N.J., who will conduct research on applied navigation.

The program grew out of a visit to Yale University last spring by Rear Adm. Charles C. Kirkpatrick, academy superintendent, and Capt. Robert W. McNitt, secretary to the academic board.

Each of the Trident scholars works under guidance of a faculty adviser. The program is under supervision of a standing committee from the faculty. A project report or thesis is required of each scholar at the end of the year.

The midshipmen, all seniors, must participate in regular brigade activities except for time they would normally devote to classes. All chose to carry some regular classroom work, from 9 to 12 hours, in addition to their special studies.

Three of the scholars are officers in the brigade of midshipmen. Graham is brigade administrative officer. Haynes is a battalion commander. Plott is a battalion subcommander.

McNitt says the emphasis was on choosing men of over-all ability, as well as scholarship quality.

DOCTORS BEAT SMOKING HABIT

NEW YORK — Heavy smokers in the two pack-a-day category are nine times more susceptible to lung cancer than non-smokers according to the latest findings issued by the American Cancer Society. This year shows an alarming increase in the number of lung cancer deaths, with 346,751 men and women destined to die by 1970.

For the past six months the National Council has thoroughly tested various methods offering smokers release from tobacco addiction. An important breakthrough was achieved by the National Council when it announced the "tablet and method" system which helps smokers stop smoking within 10 days.

A complete report on this achievement has just been released and smokers may have a Free copy by sending their name and address to the National Council on Smoking and Health—Dept. 98PK1, 225 East 46th Street, New York 17, N.Y.

Plenty of Clocks Found In New Federal Building

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Everyone agreed the new federal building was a clockwatcher's paradise. Inadvertently so.

Employes of 50 federal agencies, moving into the $13.5 million structure Monday, found nothing but clocks on several of the building's 11 floors.

Some of the 365 clocks were stewn about various rooms. Others were stacked wall to wall, defying admission to offices.

GSA building manager Mervyn Anderson-Smith said the clock-log resulted from a slip-up in the contract for the building. He said the contract provided for installation of the clocks over office doors, but it failed to specify the locations.

The contractor decided to let the government put up the clocks and placed them indiscriminately on the floors of offices throughout the building. This created a problem for furniture movers who had to shove clocks aside to make way for desks.

Anderson-Smith said the "excess" clocks were being stored until it can be learned where they go.

Indian Borrowing Bill Sent to White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress Tuesday sent to the White House legislation that will permit Indian tribes to borrow money from the government to pay for lawyers representing them before the Indian Claims Commission.

The House wrapped up the legislative details of the measure which will set up a revolving fund to supply the loans. The money will bear an interest rate comparable to the going interest rate the government pays on the money it borrows.

Boulder Council Told Tax Cannot Be Cut

BOULDER (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Duke W. Dunbar informed the Boulder City Council Tuesday it appears the city cannot cut the 1963 property tax by 2 mills as was promised.

The cut had been proposed as the result of passage of a 1 per cent municipal sales tax. Dunbar said that in the absence of a formal statute, the reduction was impossible.

City Manager Robert Turner said he would recommend that the council pledge itself instead to a 3-mill property tax cut for 1964, and that the money raised by the 2-mill amount of the proposed decrease be put into a reserve fund to carry over until 1965.

Six Annapolis Men Freed for 'Own' Studies

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Six Naval Academy midshipmen have been freed of regular classroom work this year to concentrate on research and studies of their own choosing.

They are known as "Trident scholars," the first participants in a scholarship program the academic program, and thus create a new source of pride for the whole brigade and for the faculty."

Hand-picked for the program from the upper 10 per cent of their class were:

Clark Graham of Jacksonville, Fla., tennis player and captain of the Navy squash team. He'll do research on factors affecting submarine construction.

Bobby Joe Haynes of Watauga, Tenn., who will study chemical characteristics of a heretofore unreported salt compound.

Jeffrey V. Wilson of Kansas City, Kan., studying concepts of fire control in laser or energy-beam weaponry.

Leon P. Brooks Jr. of Jacksonville, Fla., who will do research on radiation effects on transistors.

Melville H. Lyman III of Glen Ridge, N.J., who will conduct research on applied navigation.

The program grew out of a visit to Yale University last spring by Rear Adm. Charles C. Kirkpatrick, academy superintendent, and Capt. Robert W. McNitt, secretary to the academic board.

Each of the Trident scholars works under guidance of a faculty adviser. The program is under supervision of a standing committee from the faculty. A project report or thesis is required of each scholar at the end of the year.

The midshipmen, all seniors, must participate in regular brigade activities except for time they would normally devote to classes. All chose to carry some regular classroom work, from 9 to 12 hours, in addition to their special studies.

Three of the scholars are officers in the brigade of midshipmen. Graham is brigade administrative officer. Haynes is a battalion commander. Plott is a battalion subcommander.

McNitt says the emphasis was on choosing men of over-all ability, as well as scholarship quality.

Plenty of Clocks Found In New Federal Building

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Everyone agreed the new federal building was a clockwatcher's paradise. Inadvertently so.

Employes of 50 federal agencies, moving into the $13.5 million structure Monday, found nothing but clocks on several of the building's 11 floors.

Some of the 365 clocks were stewn about various rooms. Others were stacked wall to wall, defying admission to offices.

GSA building manager Mervyn Anderson-Smith said the clock-log resulted from a slip-up in the contract for the building. He said the contract provided for installation of the clocks over office doors, but it failed to specify the locations.

The contractor decided to let the government put up the clocks and placed them indiscriminately on the floors of offices throughout the building. This created a problem for furniture movers who had to shove clocks aside to make way for desks.

Anderson-Smith said the "excess" clocks were being stored until it can be learned where they go.

Indian Borrowing Bill Sent to White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress Tuesday sent to the White House legislation that will permit Indian tribes to borrow money from the government to pay for lawyers representing them before the Indian Claims Commission.

The House wrapped up the legislative details of the measure which will set up a revolving fund to supply the loans. The money will bear an interest rate comparable to the going interest rate the government pays on the money it borrows.

DOCTORS BEAT SMOKING HABIT

NEW YORK — Heavy smokers in the two pack-a-day category are nine times more susceptible to lung cancer than non-smokers according to the latest findings issued by the American Cancer Society. This year shows an alarming increase in the number of lung cancer deaths, with 346,751 men and women destined to die by 1970.

For the past six months the National Council has thoroughly tested various methods offering smokers release from tobacco addiction. An important breakthrough was achieved by the National Council when it announced the "tablet and method" system which helps smokers stop smoking within 10 days.

A complete report on this achievement has just been released and smokers may have a Free copy by sending their name and address to the National Council on Smoking and Health—Dept. 98PK1, 225 East 46th Street, New York 17, N.Y. Adv.

How to Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

(C 1963: By the Chicago Tribune)

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

TELEVISED SELF-HELP PROGRAMS

Emergency health care is stressed by the departments of defense and of health, education, and welfare from time to time. The aim is to teach—through a medical self-help program—as many people as possible what to do in the event of emergency or disaster.

In Chicago, for example, a 16 week television course is being conducted in conjunction with the state medical society. The viewer will be shown how to manage emergency childbirth, burns, shock, bandaging of wounds, nursing care of the sick and injured, and protection against fallout.

But this is only part of the project. Everyone is asked to enroll in the course in order to obtain a 90 - page reference guide, which explains and reviews every lesson offered. Examination is given the "students" at the end of the course.

The disaster program is not just another course in first aid. It includes many emergency situations that most Americans never have experienced. The next war will be fought close to home and if it includes nuclear weapons, special problems will be posed for the civilian population.

In all probability, there will not be a physician in the bomb shelter and many conditions will arise that require emergency care. One of the children might choke on a small toy or a piece of meat. Granny may slip and break her hip, trying to get into the shelter. The excitement may precipitate a hysterical reaction in the neighbor next door. And you might be pregnant and go into labor 20 minutes after the enemy attacks.

These possibilities are not mentioned for scare purposes. But authorities believe a little knowledge will help considerably, even though it is limited to what not to do. Those who pass the course will not be allowed to practice medicine but they can help themselves and others during disasters and emergencies.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

Tomorrow: Weakened artery.

Overweight and Overtired

Mrs. W. writes: I have gained 2 pounds each year since age 40. Now, at 64, I weigh 172 pounds and am 5 feet 1 inch. I try to diet but get weak. I also get weak when I clean house or shop for an hour or two. What would you suggest?

Reply

A complete physical examination. A sluggish thyroid, for example, could account for the gain in weight and the fatigue that follows exertion.

Delay Vaccination

Mrs. H. writes: Is smallpox vaccination harmful during the first three months of pregnancy?

Reply

Not as a rule but reactions occur once in a while and there is no reason to take a chance unless vaccination is absolutely necessary at this time, such as in an impending epidemic.

The Sandman

J. B. writes: I am 75 years and tire easily. Then my eyes feel as if they had sand in them. Would this indicate my blood is low?

Reply

No. Why not have a checkup to determine the cause of your fatigue? If you are healthy otherwise, a tonic may relieve the condition.

Arthritis and the Blood

M. J. writes: Is there a blood test for arthritis?

Reply

Yes. The eosin and Hyland (RA) slide tests are used for screening rheumatoid arthritis. The blood uric acid test is for gouty arthritis.

In Chicago, for example, a 16 week television course is being conducted in conjunction with the state medical society. The viewer will be shown how to manage emergency childbirth, burns, shock, bandaging of wounds, nursing care of the sick and injured, and protection against fallout.

But this is only part of the project. Everyone is asked to enroll in the course in order to obtain a 90 - page reference guide, which explains and reviews every lesson offered. Examination is given the "students" at the end of the course.

The disaster program is not just another course in first aid. It includes many emergency situations that most Americans never have experienced. The next war will be fought close to home and if it includes nuclear weapons, special problems will be posed for the civilian population.

In all probability, there will not be a physician in the bomb shelter and many conditions will arise that require emergency care. One of the children might choke on a small toy or a piece of meat. Granny may slip and break her hip, trying to get into the shelter. The excitement may precipitate a hysterical reaction in the neighbor next door. And you might be pregnant and go into labor 30 minutes after the enemy attacks.

These possibilities are not mentioned for scare purposes. But authorities believe a little knowledge will help considerably, even though it is limited to what not to do. Those who pass the course will not be allowed to practice medicine but they can help themselves and others during disasters and emergencies.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

Overweight and Overtired

Mrs. W. writes: I have gained 2 pounds each year since age 40. Now, at 64, I weigh 172 pounds and am 5 feet 1 inch. I try to diet but get weak. I also get weak when I clean house or shop for an hour or two. What would you suggest?

Reply

A complete physical examination. A sluggish thyroid, for example, could account for the gain in weight and the fatigue that follows exertion.

Delay Vaccination

Mrs. H. writes: Is smallpox vaccination harmful during the first three months of pregnancy?

Reply

Not as a rule but reactions occur once in a while and there is no reason to take a chance unless vaccination is absolutely necessary at this time, such as in an impending epidemic.

The Sandman

J. B. writes: I am 75 years and tire easily. Then my eyes feel as if they had sand in them. Would this indicate my blood is low?

Reply

No. Why not have a checkup to determine the cause of your fatigue? If you are healthy otherwise, a tonic may relieve the condition.

Arthritis and the Blood

M. J. writes: Is there a blood test for arthritis?

Reply

Yes. The eosin and Hyland (RA) slide tests are used for screening rheumatoid arthritis. The blood uric acid test is for gouty arthritis.

How to Keep Well

To the limit of space, questions be answered personally. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries cannot be answered. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual cases.

TELEVISED SELF-HELP PROGRAMS

Emergency health care is stressed by the departments of defense and of health, education, and welfare from time to time. The aim is to teach—through a medical self-help program—as many people as possible what to do in the event of emergency or disaster.

In Chicago, for example, a 16 week television course is being conducted in conjunction with the state medical society. The viewer will be shown how to manage emergency childbirth, burns, shock, bandaging of wounds, nursing care of the sick and injured, and protection against fallout.

But this is only part of the project. Everyone is asked to enroll in the course in order to obtain a 90 - page reference guide, which explains and reviews every lesson offered. Examination is given the "students" at the end of the course.

The disaster program is not just another course in first aid. It includes many emergency situations that most Americans never have experienced. The next war will be fought close to home and if it includes nuclear weapons, special problems will be posed for the civilian population.

In all probability, there will not be a physician in the bomb shelter and many conditions will arise that require emergency care. One of the children might choke on a small toy or a piece of meat. Granny may slip and break her hip, trying to get into the shelter. The excitement may precipitate a hysterical reaction in the neighbor next door. And you might be pregnant and go into labor 20 minutes after the enemy attacks.

These possibilities are not mentioned for scare purposes. But authorities believe a little knowledge will help considerably, even though it is limited to what not to do. Those who pass the course will not be allowed to practice medicine but they can help themselves and others during disasters and emergencies.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

All members and their husbands are urged to attend. Any further information regarding the party may be had by calling Sarah Hammond, 632-4906.

Simplicity Cut to Fit, Slim

The cut is the thing. That dress that looks so great in the drawing may lose its greatness when you see it in reality unless of course it's cut to fit and cut to slim. This is just such a dress. From the curved-in bodice to the curved-out pockets, every line of this slim-easy silhouette is planned to flatter. Make it in shantung, faille, sheer wool, crepe, satin or brocade. To select your correct size, use Spadea's exclusive ready-to-wear size chart.

Size 20: bust, 42; waist, 32; hips, 43; length, 17¾ inches from nape of neck to waist.

Size 16 requires 2⅞ yards of 42 inch fabric for dress. To order Pattern N-1025, state size, send $1. Add 25 cents for first class mail and special handling. Pattern Books No. 20, No. 21, No. 22, No. 23, No. 24, No. 25 and revised Duchess of Windsor are available for 50 cents each OR any 3 for $1.25 OR all 7 for $3.00. Add 10 cents postage for each book.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♣	Pass	2 NT
Pass	3 NT	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♠

A great many apparent guesses can be eliminated if the declarer will make an attempt to obtain a count of his opponents' distribution. In today's hand, South was able to obtain a complete inventory of West's holding which paved the way for declarer's successful manipulation of the diamond suit.

The bidding was routine. Against the final contract of three notrump, West opened the six of spades, and East's ten forced out the queen. Declarer played a small club with the intention of passing the trick into East's hand, but West put up the jack of clubs and dummy won the trick with the ace. A club was returned and West was in with the queen as East discarded a small heart.

West led the king of spades to drive out declarer's last stopper. South held up for one round but won the continuation. When East showed out on the third spade, South saw that he could not afford to continue developing the club suit, for if West got in once more he would cash enough spade tricks to set the contract.

With three tricks already taken in the black suits and two more available in hearts, declarer observed that he would be home if the diamonds ran. Before playing that suit, he cashed the top hearts noting that West followed both times. The latter was known to have started with five spades and four clubs so that, when the king and queen of diamonds were played and West followed with the five and then the ten, his entire distribution was accounted for.

A small diamond was led from the dummy and declarer's nine was finessed with complete assurance, since West was known to have no more diamonds. The ninth and game fulfilling trick was taken with the ace of diamonds.

A great many apparent guesses can be eliminated if the declarer will make an attempt to obtain a count of his opponents' distribution. In today's hand, South was able to obtain a complete inventory of West's holding which paved the way for declarer's successful manipulation of the diamond suit.

The bidding was routine. Against the final contract of three notrump, West opened the six of spades, and East's ten forced out the queen. Declarer played a small club with the intention of passing the trick into East's hand, but West put up the jack of clubs and dummy won the trick with the ace. A club was returned and West was in with the queen as East discarded a small heart.

West led the king of spades to drive out declarer's last stopper. South held up for one round but won the continuation. When East showed out on the third spade, South saw that he could not afford to continue developing the club suit, for if West got in once more he would cash enough spade tricks to set the contract.

With three tricks already taken in the black suits and two more available in hearts, declarer observed that he would be home if the diamonds ran. Before playing that suit, he cashed the top hearts noting that West followed both times. The latter was known to have started with five spades and four clubs so that, when the king and queen of diamonds were played and West followed with the five and then the ten, his entire distribution was accounted for.

A small diamond was led from the dummy and declarer's nine was finessed with complete assurance, since West was known to have no more diamonds. The ninth and game fulfilling trick was taken with the ace of diamonds.

Simplicity Cut to Fit, Slim

The cut is the thing. That dress that looks so great in the drawing may lose its greatness when you see it in reality unless of course it's cut to fit and cut to slim. This is just such a dress. From the curved-in bodice to the curved-out pockets, every line of this slim-easy silhouette is planned to flatter. Make it in shantung, faille, sheer wool, crepe, satin or brocade. To select your correct size, use Spadea's exclusive ready-to-wear size chart.

Size 20: bust, 42; waist, 32; hips, 43; length, 17¾ inches from nape of neck to waist.

Size 16 requires 2⅞ yards of 42 inch fabric for dress. To order Pattern N-1025, state size, send $1. Add 25 cents for first class mail and special handling. Pattern Books No. 20, No. 21, No. 22, No. 23, No. 24, No. 25 and revised Duchess of Windsor are available for 50 cents each OR any 3 for $1.25 OR all 7 for $3.00. Add 10 cents postage for each book.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Report It— Or Share the Guilt!

DEAR ABBY: This isn't the type of letter you usually get, but maybe you can do something about it. Every night a gang of neighborhood teen-age punks search for, and find, poor stray kittens and cats. They torment these poor animals by sticking needles into them, breaking their legs and burning them alive. They even give kittens to large dogs to chew and maul. I have seen them, and so have others. Everybody complains, but nobody does anything about it. I am willing to do anything I can to stop them. Where do I start? —MRS. B.

DEAR MRS. B.: You start by calling the police—and you don't stop there. You also call the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (S.P.C.A.). Anyone who has knowledge of such cruelty and neglects to report it, shares the guilt with the tormentors.

DEAR ABBY: I have been divorced for nine years. I met a man at work (also divorced) and we have been seeing each other for six months. As I am writing this, I am in the hospital recuperating from my second cancer operation. This man really worships me and insists on getting married right away. I have explained the whole thing about my operations, but he says it makes no difference. All he wants is to marry me and take care of me. I love him very much. We are both in our early fifties. Do you think I would be doing wrong in marrying him? I want an honest answer. —BORROWED TIME

DEAR BORROWED TIME: Marry him. And enjoy as much time together as the Lord allows.

DEAR ABBY: Half the time I don't get a chance to read the newspapers, but I always save them to wrap potato and onion peelings in. I want you to know that I never throw garbage on a paper until I make sure I've read your column. I wish I could talk to the mother of the little boy who bit the dentist. Remember? Then the dentist sent his nurse out to tell that mother to take her kid to another dentist next time. My mother raised six of us kids by what she called the "Three B's" system: "Bust their behinds with a board!" that's the way I'm raising mine, and I must admit —it works. —MYRTLE

CONFIDENTIAL TO "Confused In Norfolk, Va.": Don't expect your friends to give you any helpful advice with that problem. They will only tell you what they think you want to hear. Talk it over with your clergyman.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Decadence Can Be 'Fun'

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"The 'fun' ethic is the root of the adolescent problem at home and in school," I was recently told by Fred M. Hechinger, New York Times education editor and author of the widely discussed book "Teen-age Tyranny." "The notion that all struggle should be removed from children's experience must be the first to go if we are to get them back on the track."

I agree with him. But remove the "fun" fraud from children's lives? How can we? Don't we live by it ourselves?

Certainly, many teen-agers indulge in precocious sexual activity. Btu what about their elders who "buy now and pay later" for the fun they want—the vacations, cruises, transistor radios? Isn't this the land of the credit card — the deferred bill? Who among us grownups is willing to postpone gratification until we've paid for it?

Sure, this is the country where teachers teach children that work is ordeal by saying, "O.K., you've had your fun now. Let's get back to work." But isn't this also the country of the time clock, the coffee break? Do we parents go to work with joy in the opportunity to use our energies productively? Or do we have to be hounded to it? Given our playtimes?

Unquestionably, schools have created a whole philosophy to spare children dull drill in phonic preparation for reading. But how about our devotion to "labor - saving" devices? Who among us personally strains baby's vegetables? Aren't our gadgets here to spare us dullness, too? What about our washing machines, the buttons that spare us the exertion of getting up and turning the television dial?

Undoubtedly, the teen - ager dares not differ himself from his "crowd," dares not wear clothes or serve snacks other teen-agers don't wear or serve. But don't our child guidance "experts" tell us to get the support of other parents before we rule against school night parties?

Sure, this is the country among us dares stand up for his own convictions without "his" "crowd" behind him?

It will take a powerful lot of uprooting to uproot the "fun" ethic from the lives of Americans. I wonder what the Founding Fathers would think of the "fun" ethic in operation. It bears little resemblance, I'm afraid, to the "pursuit of happiness" they had in mind on July 4, 1776.

Camp Fire Girls Hold Songfest

Da-Ki-Ya Camp Fire Girls, a fifth grade group at Garfield School, held a backyard songfest for the second and third grade Blue Birds of Garfield School at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Kolstad.

The estimated 50 members, of the United Fund agency, baked cookies for their guests and led the younger group in Blue Bird songs.

Mrs. Kolstad is guardian of the Camp Fire group and was assisted by leaders and assistants Mrs. B. A. Reed, Mrs. P. G. Sanichas, Mrs. Eugene L. Seitz, Mrs. Thomas L. Walker and Mrs. Richard Wright.

Little Girls Trip Over Their Long Skirts

Kids don't need to swipe their mothers' dresses or wait until they have achieved at least a sub-deb status to wear long dresses anymore.

When Mrs. John F. Kennedy started the long dress trend, she started one that reached all the way to the pre-school crowd. The floor length skirt steadily moved back from young adult, to teen, to pre-teen, until now Caroline's counterparts are in them.

For the at-home kid entertaining at a mud-pie barbecue are wild floral-printed muumuus. Or if it is a birthday cake and fruit cocktails occasion brocades and velvets are in order.

The floor sweeping idea even extends to pants with long culottes in velvet, and laced, satin-slashed jump suits.

Popular New Night Look

Here, Mollie Parnis treats you to one of the most charming night-looks going, starting with the high wide neckline that does as much for a pretty face as candlelight or compliments. This talented dress combines the swing of a lightly gathered skirt with the slender line of a full length front panel. Its gently fitted bodice is joined to the skirt on a lowered waistline curve. For glamorous evenings in town, choose brocade slipper satin or an equally elegant fabric. In plain or printed silks, cottons or linen it can cruise straight from Christmas to a southern holiday. To select your correct size, use Spadea's exclusive ready-to-wear size chart.

Size 18: bust, 40; waist, 30; hips, 41; length, 17½ inches nape of neck to waist.

Size 12 requires 3¼ yards of 36 inch fabric for dress. To order Pattern N-1213, state size, send $1. Add 25 cents for first class mail and special handling. Pattern Books No. 20, No. 21, No. 22, No. 23, No. 24, No. 25 and revised Duchess of Windsor are available for 50 cents each OR any 3 for $1.25 OR all 7 for $3. Add 10 cents postage for each book.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

I wonder how many housewives know the wonderful uses for the tube - type refrigerator biscuits? (Bought at our grocery store.)

Jelly doughnuts: Remove the prepared biscuits from the cardboard tube. Fry in deep, hot shortening until brown and floating on the surface. Turn them over so the other side can brown. Drain. When cool make a slit with a small sharp knife and insert a teaspoon of your favorite jelly! Sprinkle with powdered sugar and they are fabulous.

Regular doughnuts: Cut out the center of the biscuit with a large thimble or the center of any doughnut cutter. (One can also cut biscuits in quarters.) Fry, drain, cool and sprinkle with cinnamon sugar or powered sugar. Plain sugar can be put on the donuts when they are warm.

These biscuits may be put in a pan "as usual" and then dotted with margarine, sprinkled with cinnamon sugar and baked.

They may also be rolled in a combination of nuts and cinnamon and sugar, after coating them with margarine. Then place the biscuits on edge, one resting on another to form a ring (such as a breakfast roll). This makes a fast homemade coffee cake. Raisins may also be used.

Stretch biscuits into a two-by-three rectangle. Spread with margarine and then sprinkle the top of each biscuit with parmesan cheese. Roll each biscuit like a jelly roll, then shape to form a crescent, top with margarine and bake. Sesame seeds may be sprinkled on top, or onion flakes.

Form the old rectangle again, but this time spread the biscuit with barbecue sauce and put a weiner in, roll the biscuit around the hot dog and bake. The kids will love 'em.

Pizza: Cover your hands with cooking oil and press the biscuit to a flat round. Put pizza sauce, ground meat, mushrooms, cheese, etc., on the biscuit and bake it until it's brown. I use tomato sauce (one can to ten biscuits) seasoned well with oregano and basil flakes. One pound of ground meat which has been browned well, one medium can of mushroom pieces and parmesan cheese to taste. The kids love 'em—I have eight children—and these are so easy to make and quite filling, too. —Mrs. R. M.

Now aren't you just wonderful? Thanks a million, Mommy. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

My two small children have very inquisitive fingers. The other day I discovered one of the children had pulled off a piece of loose wallpaper, the size of a nickle. I had no more paper to match it and there was no place I could peel some off to paste back over the spot.

What did I do?

I took off the light switch plate, and low and behold, there was just enough extra inches of the matching wallpaper for perfect patching.

After replacing the plate, the missing paper did not even show. —Barbara Gumas

That's a neat trick! —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I use a piece of your nylon net to scrub the stubborn heel marks on my floors. They come off without extra scrubbing. —H. E. D.

Dear Heloise:

I find that I can save time if I remove my clothes from the line when they are just slightly damp. I slip them into a plastic bag and leave them overnight. They are then ready to be ironed and the chore of sprinkling is entirely eliminated! —Rheda

Eva Hikl's Stock Big In Exchange

TORONTO (AP) — More than four million shares of stocks may daily change hands through the Toronto Stock Exchange. Eva Hikl makes sure these transactions are accurately recorded.

The charming, business-like Czechoslovakian woman, recently appointed statistician of the Toronto Stock Exchange, is the first woman in Canada to hold such a position.

In addition to supervising a 22-member staff which prepares data on one of the world's busiest stock markets for daily newspapers and other publications, Mrs. Hikl does all the exchange's official charts and trains newcomers in the research and statistical department.

But she approaches her work with ease. "Everything here has rules. Everything fits, like into a puzzle. It's not as difficult as it sounds."

Mrs. Hikl (the name rhymes with sickle) learned the intricacies of the exchange's operations shortly after she answered an ad for a clerk in 1952, the exchange's 100th anniversary year.

She was still learning to speak English when she joined the exchange. She and her husband, Dr. Mario J. Hikl, director of research for the National Union of Public Service Employees, had fled after Communists took over their country in 1948, and eventually came to Canada because they though people here spoke both English and French.

But her education and business training compensated for her unfamiliarity with English. In Czechoslovakia during the war she had studied economics and industrial planning as well as bookkeeping, typing and shorthand.

Preparing the stock market charts fascinates her most in her present position. But she tries to evade questions from friends seeking advice on the stock market.

"Investing is very personal," she says. "It is not a function of the stock exchange to give advice."

Soon digging will resume for the first time in years in the famed Kimberley Mine, whose glittering harvest made the name Cecil Rhodes a household word in the 19th Century. It is the practice of major companies to alternate production among reserve mines.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Report It— Or Share the Guilt!

DEAR ABBY: This isn't the type of letter you usually get, but maybe you can do something about it. Every night a gang of neighborhood teen-age punks search for, and find, poor stray kittens and cats. They torment these poor animals by sticking needles into them, breaking their legs and burning them alive. They even give kittens to large dogs to chew and maul. I have seen them, and so have others. Everybody complains, but nobody does anything about it. I am willing to do anything I can to stop them. Where do I start? —MRS. B.

DEAR MRS. B.: You start by calling the police—and you don't stop there. You also call the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (S.P.C.A.). Anyone who has knowledge of such cruelty and neglects to report it, shares the guilt with the tormentors.

DEAR ABBY: I have been divorced for nine years. I met a man at work (also divorced) and we have been seeing each other for six months. As I am writing this, I am in the hospital recuperating from my second cancer operation. This man really worships me and insists on getting married right away. I have explained the whole thing about my operations, but he says it makes no difference. All he wants is to marry me and take care of me. I love him very much. We are both in our early fifties. Do you think I would be doing wrong in marrying him? I want an honest answer. —BORROWED TIME

DEAR BORROWED TIME: Marry him. And enjoy as much time together as the Lord allows.

DEAR ABBY: Half the time I don't get a chance to read the newspapers, but I always save them to wrap potato and onion peelings in. I want you to know that I never throw garbage on a paper until I make sure I've read your column. I wish I could talk to the mother of the little boy who bit the dentist. Remember? Then the dentist sent his nurse out to tell that mother to take her kid to another dentist next time. My mother raised six of us kids by what she called the "Three B's" system: "Bust their behinds with a board!" that's the way I'm raising mine, and I must admit —it works. —MYRTLE

CONFIDENTIAL TO "Confused In Norfolk, Va.": Don't expect your friends to give you any helpful advice with that problem. They will only tell you what they think you want to hear. Talk it over with your clergyman.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Decadence Can Be 'Fun'

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"The 'fun' ethic is the root of the adolescent problem at home and in school," I was recently told by Fred M. Hechinger, New York Times education editor and author of the widely discussed book "Teen-age Tyranny." "The notion that all struggle should be removed from children's experience must be the first to go if we are to get them back on the track."

I agree with him. But remove the "fun" fraud from children's lives? How can we? Don't we live by it ourselves?

Certainly, many teen-agers indulge in precocious sexual activity. Btu what about their elders who "buy now and pay later" for the fun they want—the vacations, cruises, transistor radios? Isn't this the land of the credit card — the deferred bill? Who among us grownups is willing to postpone gratification until we've paid for it?

Sure, this is the country where teachers teach children that work is ordeal by saying, "O.K., you've had your fun now. Let's get back to work." But isn't this also the country of the time clock, the coffee break? Do we parents go to work with joy in the opportunity to use our energies productively? Or do we have to be hounded to it? Given our playtimes?

Unquestionably, schools have created a whole philosophy to spare children dull drill in phonic preparation for reading. But how about our devotion to "labor - saving" devices? Who among us personally strains baby's vegetables? Aren't our gadgets here to spare us dullness, too? What about our washing machines, the buttons that spare us the exertion of getting up and turning the television dial?

Undoubtedly, the teen - ager dares not differ himself from his "crowd," dares not wear clothes or serve snacks other teen-agers don't wear or serve. But don't our child guidance "experts" tell us to get the support of other parents before we rule against school night parties?

What parent among us dares stand up for his own convictions without 'his' "crowd" behind him?

It will take a powerful lot of uprooting to uproot the "fun" ethic from the lives of Americans. I wonder what the Founding Fathers would think of the "fun" ethic in operation. It bears little resemblance, I'm afraid, to the "pursuit of happiness" they had in mind on July 4, 1776.

Camp Fire Girls Hold Songfest

Da-Ki-Ya Camp Fire Girls, a fifth grade group at Garfield School, held a backyard songfest for the second and third grade Blue Birds of Garfield School at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Kolstad.

The estimated 50 members of the United Fund agency, baked cookies for their guests and led the younger group in Blue Bird songs.

Mrs. Kolstad is guardian of the Camp Fire group and was assisted by leaders and assistants Mrs. B. A. Reed, Mrs. P. G. Sanichas, Mrs. Eugene L. Seitz, Mrs. Thomas L. Walker and Mrs. Richard Wright.

Little Girls Trip Over Their Long Skirts

Kids don't need to swipe their mothers' dresses or wait until they have achieved at least a sub-deb status to wear long dresses anymore.

When Mrs. John F. Kennedy started the long dress trend, she started one that reached all the way to the pre-school crowd. The floor length skirt steadily moved back from young adult, to teen, to pre-teen, until now Caroline's counterparts are in them.

For the at-home kid entertaining at a mud-pie barbecue are wild floral-printed muumuus. Or if it is a birthday cake and fruit cocktails occasion brocades and velvets are in order.

The floor sweeping idea even extends to pants with long cuffs in velvet, and laced, satin-slashed jump suits.

Decadence Can Be 'Fun'

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"The 'fun' ethic is the root of the adolescent problem at home and in school." I was recently told by Fred M. Hechinger, New York Times education editor and author of the widely discussed book "Teen-age Tyranny." "The notion that all struggle should be removed from children's experience must be the first to go if we are to get them back on the track."

I agree with him. But remove the "fun" fraud from children's lives? How can we? Don't we live by it ourselves?

Certainly, many teen-agers indulge in precocious sexual activity. Btu what about their elders who "buy now and pay later" for the fun they want—the vacations, cruises, transistor radios? Isn't this the land of the credit card — the deferred bill? Who among us grownups is willing to postpone gratification until we've paid for it?

Sure, this is the country where teachers teach children that work is ordeal by saying, "O.K., you've had your fun now. Let's get back to work." But isn't this also the country of the time clock, the coffee break? Do we parents go to work with joy in the opportunity to use our energies productively? Or do we have to be hounded to it? Given our playtimes?

Unquestionably, schools have created a whole philosophy to spare children dull drill in phonic preparation for reading. But how about our devotion to "labor - saving" devices? Who among us personally strains baby's vegetables? Aren't our gadgets here to spare us dullness, too? What about our washing machines, the buttons that spare us the exertion of getting up and turning the television dial?

Undoubtedly, the teen - ager dares not differ himself from his "crowd," dares not wear clothes or serve snacks other teen-agers don't wear or serve. But don't our child guidance "experts" tell us to get the support of other parents before we rule against school night parties?

What parent among us dares stand up for his own convictions without 'his' "crowd" behind him?

It will take a powerful lot of uprooting to uproot the "fun" ethic from the lives of Americans. I wonder what the Founding Fathers would think of the "fun" ethic in operation. It bears little resemblance. I'm afraid, to the "pursuit of happiness" they had in mind on July 4, 1776.

Camp Fire Girls Hold Songfest

Da-Ki-Ya Camp Fire Girls, a fifth grade group at Garfield School, held a backyard songfest for the second and third grade Blue Birds of Garfield School at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Kolstad.

The estimated 50 members, of the United Fund agency, baked cookies for their guests and led the younger group in Blue Bird songs.

Mrs. Kolstad is guardian of the Camp Fire group and was assisted by leaders and assistants Mrs. B. A. Reed, Mrs. P. G. Sanichas, Mrs. Eugene L. Seitz, Mrs. Thomas L. Walker and Mrs. Richard Wright.

Little Girls Trip Over Their Long Skirts

Kids don't need to swipe their mothers' dresses or wait until they have achieved at least a sub-deb status to wear long dresses anymore.

When Mrs. John F. Kennedy started the long dress trend, she started one that reached all the way to the pre-school crowd. The floor length skirt steadily moved back from young adult, to teen, to pre-teen, until now Caroline's counterparts are in them.

For the at-home kid entertaining at a mud-pie barbecue are wild floral-printed muumuus. Or if it is a birthday cake and fruit cocktails occasion brocades and velvets are in order.

The floor sweeping idea even extends to pants with long culottes in velvet, and laced, satin-slashed jump suits.

Popular New Night Look

Here, Mollie Parnis treats you to one of the most charming night-looks going, starting with the high wide neckline that does as much for a pretty face as candlelight or compliments. This talented dress combines the swing of a lightly gathered skirt with the slender line of a full length front panel. Its gently fitted bodice is joined to the skirt on a lowered waistline curve. For glamorous evenings in town, choose brocade slipper satin or an equally elegant fabric. In plain or printed silks, cottons or linen it can cruise straight from Christmas to a southern holiday. To select your correct size, use Spadea's exclusive ready-to-wear size chart.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

I wonder how many housewifes know the wonderful uses for the tube - type refrigerator biscuits? Bought at our grocery store.

Jelly doughnuts: Remove the prepared biscuits from the cardboard tube. Fry in deep, hot shortening until brown and floating on the surface. Turn them over so the other side can brown. Drain. When cool make a slit with a small sharp knife and insert a teaspoon of your favorite jelly! Sprinkle with powdered sugar and they are fabulous.

Regular doughnuts: Cut out the center of the biscuit with a large thimble or the center of any doughnut cutter. (One can also cut biscuits in quarters.) Fry, drain, cool and sprinkle with cinnamon sugar or powered sugar. Plain sugar can be put on the donuts when they are warm.

These biscuits may be put in a pan "as usual" and then dotted with margarine, sprinkled with cinnamon sugar and baked.

They may also be rolled in a combination of nuts and cinnamon and sugar, after coating them with margarine. Then place the biscuits on edge, one resting on another to form a ring (such as a breakfast roll). This makes a fast homemade coffee cake. Raisins may also be used.

Stretch biscuits into a two-by-three rectangle. Spread with margarine and then sprinkle the top of each biscuit with parmesan cheese. Roll each biscuit like a jelly roll, then shape to form a crescent, top with margarine and bake. Sesame seeds may be sprinkled on top, or onion flakes.

Form the old rectangle again, but this time spread the biscuit with barbecue sauce and put a weiner in, roll the biscuit around the hot dog and bake. The kids will love 'em.

Pizza: Cover your hands with cooking oil and press the biscuit to a flat round. Put pizza sauce, ground meat, mushrooms, cheese, etc., on the biscuit and bake it until it's brown. I use tomato sauce (one can to ten biscuits) seasoned well with oregano and basil flakes. One pound of ground meat which has been browned well, one medium can of mushroom pieces and parmesan cheese to taste. The kids love 'em—I have eight children—and these are so easy to make and quite filling, too. —Mrs. R. M.

Now aren't you just wonderful? Thanks a million, Mommy. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

My two small children have very inquisitive fingers. The other day I discovered one of the children had pulled off a piece of loose wallpaper, the size of a nickle. I had no more paper to match it and there was no place I could peel some off to paste back over the spot.

What did I do?

I took off the light switch plate, and low and behold, there was just enough extra inches of the matching wallpaper for perfect patching.

After replacing the plate, the missing paper did not even show. —Barbara Gumas

That's a neat trick! —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I use a piece of your nylon net to scrub the stubborn heel marks on my floors. They come off without extra scrubbing. —H. E. D.

Dear Heloise:

I find that I can save time if I remove my clothes from the line when they are just slightly damp. I slip them into a plastic bag and leave them overnight. They are then ready to be ironed and the chore of sprinkling is entirely eliminated! —Rheda

TORONTO (AP) — More than four million shares of stocks may daily change hands through the Toronto Stock Exchange. Eva Hikl makes sure these transactions are accurately recorded.

The charming, business-like Czechoslovakian woman, recently appointed statistician of the Toronto Stock Exchange, is the first woman in Canada to hold such a position.

In addition to supervising a 22-member staff which prepares data on one of the world's busiest stock markets for daily newspapers and other publications, Mrs. Hikl does all the exchange's official charts and trains newcomers in the research and statistical department.

But she approaches her work with ease. "Everything here has rules. Everything fits, like into a puzzle. It's not as difficult as it sounds."

Mrs. Hikl (the name rhymes with sickle) learned the intricacies of the exchange's operations shortly after she answered an ad for a clerk in 1952, the exchange's 100th anniversary year.

She was still learning to speak English when she joined the exchange. She and her husband, Dr. Mario J. Hikl, director of research for the National Union of Public Service Employees, had fled after Communists took over their country in 1948, and eventually came to Canada because they though people here spoke both English and French.

But her education and business training compensated for her unfamiliarity with English. In Czechoslovakia during the war she had studied economics and industrial planning as well as bookkeeping, typing and shorthand.

Preparing the stock market charts fascinates her most in her present position. But she tries to evade questions from friends seeking advice on the stock market.

"Investing is very personal," she says. "It is not a function of the stock exchange to give advice."

Soon digging will resume for the first time in years in the famed Kimberley Mine, whose glittering harvest made the name Cecil Rhodes a household word in the 19th Century. It is the practice of major companies to alternate production among reserve mines.

COLORADO SPRINGS
GAZETTE-TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Overcoming Obstacles

There are always at least two ways of looking at life. We can look at conditions as they are; we can examine conditions for their intrinsic qualities and determine how they could be improved.

Neither approach is wrong in itself. It is important that we know what conditions are. It is equally important that we understand sufficiently about present conditions to be able to recommend some way of improving these conditions.

If there is error here, it arises from an assumption, often held by those who fancy themselves to be realists, that to understand existing conditions is to preclude their betterment. This pseudo-realist presumes that he is being practical by simply pointing out existing evil, or existing shortcomings.

This is not realism, it is defeatism.

However, error can also come in from the other direction. An idealist is one who wishes to improve existing conditions. But if his hopes for betterment are no more than hopes; if they rest wholly upon imaginary conditions, then his offerings are of no merit at all.

The practical realist, who is also an idealist, is he who understands the reality with which he must deal; and understanding it sufficiently he knows what can be done to improve existing circumstances.

To know that a problem exists is the first step toward a solution.

To understand the principles of human behavior and the laws of nature relative to the problem is to understand how to accomplish your objective.

Are there any problems confronting us in this world?

Obviously, there are many problems.

Just staying alive is a major problem. To manage to stay alive at all, requires an enormous amount of energy expended on the part of very many people.

But the problem area takes on two aspects. There are problems that arise from the nature of things as they are. Then there are problems which men create for themselves and for each other.

It is clear that the first aspect of the problem area is one that will engage most of us a great deal of the time. There are natural obstacles which stand in the way of accomplishing virtually every objective. Each of these must be overcome.

Suppose a person would like to build a factory to supply some useful tool or product for his customers. There are problems by the score. He must find a good location for the plant; one that is convenient to transportation and workers, but one that does not interfere with residential hopes and aspirations of others.

Then there are the costs involved. A great deal of money must be obtained for investment purposes. Various building designs must be considered and a plan selected. There is the hiring of personnel; the organization of the work force; the bringing of the men and the tools together to accomplish the job.

Each of these steps is fraught with peril. Each individual has his own aims and ambitions in life. To obtain his services, his own aims and ambitions must, to some degree, be in harmony with the general objectives the entrepreneur has in his desire for a factory and a going business.

Then there are other obstacles: the weather, disease, time, power, competition, accidents. . .there are scores of these obstacles. To accomplish anything at all, every one of these obstacles must be overcome.

And once the factory is built, a whole new set of problems is at once on hand — assembly line production, sales, distribution, financing, customer service and satisfaction . . . a host of things. And all of these are natural obstacles which must be overcome. There are quite enough of them so that we do not really need to go out to borrow additional problems.

No Notice

It is true that even the worm turns. But if we follow the lead of the worm we should keep in mind that he isn't equipped to make hand signals.

Government-Induced Problems

In addition to the natural obstacles which confront us on every hand as we undertake any major project, we suddenly find ourselves facing a host of new obstacles which do not derive from the nature of things as they are. These new obstacles are man-made.

We suddenly discover that it is not enough to plan our factory to conform to our own best interests in relation to what we expect to produce, we find that the local government insists that before we turn a spade or even give final approval to a plan, we must first obtain a permit from the government. Getting that permit is just the first of a whole mountain of new obstacles which have nothing whatever to do with the nature of things as they are.

Next, in order to have the permit (for which we must deplete our financial reserves, thereby making us less able to accomplish our major task) we are going to have to conform to a host of building regulations. We can build only so high; we must use a certain kind of brick; we must use a certain kind of electrical conduit; we must use a certain kind of tile; we must install a sprinkler system; we must pay wages and fees to all the useless workers who appear on the job who are the only authorized personnel to work with the only authorized materials so that the job can proceed.

Next, we discover that the government does not trust us. Having granted the permit and insisted on the specifications, work proceeds haltingly at best. At each step, work stops while we are forced to wait for an inspector who will come out to make certain that the authorized workers have used only authorized materials in an authorized manner.

Costs have already gone up about 20 per cent above the requirement if we had only to overcome the natural obstacles. But we are not thru. Indeed, we are not. For each moment from here on thru our productive lives we will be harassed and beset by government men who will tell us what to do; how to do it; when to do it; what records to keep; what forms to fill out; and what sums to pay to the government for all of the incursions and invasions against us.

We could go on to examine other activities, other walks of life. We would find the same condition and we would find it on a world-wide basis. Everywhere some men are struggling to overcome the natural obstacles so that we can have a better world. These are the workmen who are improving tools, who are fighting the cold and the heat, the disease and the famine and the drought and the flood. These are they who seek to make the earth more productive, who try to multiply our effectiveness and our satisfactions as human beings.

At the same time we would find a veritable horde of other men who are not engaged in battling the forces of nature so that we can survive. Rather, we would find this horde arrayed against those who so battle. These are the men in government who create obstacles where none exist; who demand conformity and money; who demand regulation and money; who demand reports and money; who demand money and more money.

To be realistic is to recognize that we have both kinds of problems. To be realistic is to recognize that some of the problems we have to face are totally unnecessary. They are simply artificially induced problems which hamper our total ability to produce; interfere with our ability to enjoy life, and stifle ambition; which in the name of protection place us all in a position of extreme vulnerability.

The natural obstacles we must face which arise from the nature of things as they are must always be overcome. But the unnatural, artificial obstacles which are created thru a streak of perversity in human nature. . .not only can these obstacles be overcome as we face them; we can if we are wise strive to educate others as to the lack of necessity for these problems.

Government - manufactured problems are problems we can do without

WASHINGTON RECEIVING LINE

Strength and Weakness

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

At some time during every discussion concerned with the freedom philosophy at least one person will say, "Okay, now that you have explained this subject to my satisfaction, I will agree with you. I'm sure this will make you happy."

The same person will become disturbed when I say their agreement does not make me happy. The fact I have been able to explain my views in a manner which enabled another person or two persons to fully understand what I had to say does provide me with a sense of satisfaction and here again we find that fine, white line which points the way to the road to freedom.

We may each travel along the same road to freedom. Along that road, each of us will find certain things which appeal to us individually. You may find a blonde mate, mine is a medium blonde. I may find a fish to my liking in the stream and you may prefer carrots and beans and peas.

There was this weakness among many of the ancient philosophers and the weakness has persisted to later times. A man may arrive at certain conclusions as the result of long hours of contemplative reasoning. He looks at the conclusion and finds it good, but he may not be strong enough to be comfortable with his conclusion alone. To find company, he finds other men and points to his conclusions as indisputable and he champions his beliefs with a great deal of vigor and strength and in so doing, he betrays his own weakness, the nagging doubt brought on by the fact that his conclusion is his alone.

Pretending great faith in his conclusion, a man may say, "This woman and I will devote ourselves to this behavior and this is the manner in which all free men and women must behave." He presents his conclusions with insistent strength and in so doing betrays his weakness. He may be absolutely correct in his conclusions concerning the behavior which will be correct for him and for his woman, but at this point, he would be wise to rest his case. When he insists that you and your woman must behave in a similar manner, he also betrays his lack of understanding of the meaning of the philosophy of freedom, since he is attempting to force his will upon my will.

I have a friend who enjoys rattlesnake meat. He finds the flavor to his liking, the meat digestible. As a friend, he passes this information on to me without apology for his taste. As a friend, I receive the information and decide I may try the same fare, one day. But, my friend does not say, "You must try rattlesnake meat now. I will go and catch a snake and kill it and prepare it and cook it for you and you must try it tonight because I am sure you will find it good and agree with me."

Being completely satisfied with his own conclusions concerning the meat of a rattlesnake, my friend has no reason to force his taste in food upon me. My agreement will not make his food more tasty or more digestible or in any way more to his liking.

The bright and shining light of freedom does not blind me. It is not necessary for me to force you to accept my conclusions because I am unsure. I do not require your eyes because mine are blinded. Without equivocation, I recognize the fact that you and I are different and that as each of us makes his individual way along the road to freedom, which is illuminated by the identical bright and shining light for each of us, we will inevitably find our happiness in different items we find on the road and in our own behavior, and I will not force my ideas of happiness upon you, nor will I permit you to force yours upon me; in fact, you will not even attempt to do so, if you believe in your right to live and breathe and find your own individual happiness, in freedom.

And, if the person who attempts to force you to believe as he believes, happens also to be in a high position, you may care to ponder on the words of Aristotle, when he said, "A high position is no guarantee of virtue or intelligence, which are the sources from which virtuous activities spring."

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Wit and Whimsy

Khrushchev said he would bury us. Hmm, it took him eight years to bury Stalin and the guy was already dead.

Question Box

We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.

Question No. 355: "How can a local government agency supported by initiated force — taxes — really promote culture and economic understanding?"

Answer: It is hard to think how such a local agency can really promote culture and understanding of human relations. It is absurd to contend that institutions of this kind are beneficial to mankind.

Why should we blame Denver or Washington for wasting billions and billions of dollars when we are wasting in our own community millions of unnecessary dollars by such things as zoning, museums, libraries and tax-supported schools that cannot educate but only can indoctrinate to make the state supreme.

Morality begins at home. It begins in the minds of men. Our trouble comes from a decay in moral ideas; in short, in not respecting private property.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

These Days

The Coal Fields

WHEELING, West Va. — In the nineteen forties I used to write a good deal about the coal industry. When the union contract time came up, the show at the Hotel Shoreham in Washington was always a good one. Invariably, the United Mine Workers' boss, John L. Lewis, would stand before the coal operators and point to their hands. "There's bood on those hands," he would intone dramatically.

There seemed to be absolutely no love lost between management and labor as Lewis launched into his lurid but highly effective personalities. Joseph Moody, then the president of the Southern Coal Producers Association was libelled by Lewis as a "churnhead." Ex-Senator Burke of Nebraska, who had preceded Mr. Moody as the Southern Operators' representative, was always good for a Lewis lashing for the simple reason that Nebraska is hardly noted for its coal mines. Other eminent executives were called "liars by the clock." Regardless of the question about "blood on the operators' hands" there was always blood on John L. Lewis's tongue.

Well, times change. For the past few days I have been flying around the coal country with a group under the tutelage of the National Coal Policy Conference. The NCPC, whose members include men from coal management, men from the coal-carrying railroads, representatives of the coal-burning public utilities, and highly placed United Mine Workers officials (John L. Lewis himself was chairman of the conference until his retirement), is an amazing organization in which lion and lamb lie down together in amity. The change in atmosphere over what prevailed 15 and 20 years ago is absolutely amazing to somebody who hadn't paid much attention to what was going on in coal circles in the fifties and sixties.

ENEMIES

How has the change come about? It happened because coal, as a fuel, was suddenly beset by what seemed to be a thousand enemies. The U.S. government built the Big Inch and Little Inch oil pipelines during World War II — and oil conversions became a standard rule of the day in fuel consuming industries. The oil-burning Diesel train caught on, not only in the west but in the coal-rich east. The need for coking coal in steel diminished. The Atomic Energy Commission started subsidizing atomic power. And one fine day John L. Lewis and his old enemies, the operators, decided they must make common cause if either set of participants in an old grudge fight were to live at all.

Lewis, as is well known, supported every move of the operators to mechanize their mines wherever it was possible to do so. All he asked for in exchange was the highest union wage scale in the world. It seemed little enough to grant him in view of the savings that could be effected thru the spread of mechanical cutters and loaders, and pushbutton sorting and grading equipment. Lewis and Joe Moody, who had become president of the NCPC became the best of friends, willing to forget the harsh words of the past.

With labor and management working in tandem, it might be thought that a monopoly system would be the natural — and menacing — result. But this has not happened. The threat of the other fuels — residual oil, fissioning uranium — is always there to prevent the gouging of the consumer. And in addition to this, the producing end of the coal industry has developed its own threat to those old-time coal carriers, the railroads. The cost of coal transportation has fallen dramatically.

PIPELINES

The big threat to the railroads has been the coal slurry pipeline. The pioneer pipeline, built in Ohio, has recently been closed down. What happened is that the railroads decided to meet the competition by developing the "integral" coal train, capable of hauling tremendous tonnages to big electrical utilities with twenty-four hour turnarounds at each end of the loading-unloading cycle.

The very hint that a coal slurry line might be built from West Virginia and western Pennsylvania to carry pulverized coal to the eastern seaboard was enough to push the development of a Baltimore and Ohio unitized coal train capable of transporting up to 8,800 tons at a whack to such customers as Consolidated Edison of New York, the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, and the Philadelphia Electric Company. For loadings of 7,000 tons and up, the B. and O. was able to knock $1.50 per ton off the coal-carrying price. This has enabled big coal producers such as the Valley Camp Coal Company of Wheeling and the Consolidation Coal Company, with mines in West Virginia and Ohio, to cut the cost to the consumer — and still pay John L. Lewis's union men their high wages.

Competition, competition, competition — it's been good for everyone. Everyone, that is, save for the marginal miners in the "dog hole" mines spotted from the anthracite country of Pennsylvania to the Southern Cumberlands. That is another, and not so happy, story.

WHITE ELEPHANTS

To the Editor:

I just read in yesterday's issue an article in which the three dictators who have the gall to take taxpayers' money to buy new high-priced cars to sport around, now want to build two more white elephants.

A few years ago they built a white elephant when the sensible thing to have done was to employ an efficiency expert to rearrange the court house and throw out the restaurant that occupied a lot of space in the court house. Now, instead of building two more new white elephants the thing to do would be to use the court house as it stands and change the names on the doors. These dictators have not yet awakened to the fact that they are only the taxpayer's hired men and not his dictator; they want to rob the taxpayer to finance their throw-away program.

SERIOUS PROBLEM

To the Editor:

The articles in your October 21 edition on taxes (an 18 per cent increase in local taxes, county taxes, etc.) have touched on a very serious problem. I always thought that taxes and other government policies were determined by the people, not a handful of politicians who happen to be in office. But the attitude I gathered from the paper's report, we pay whatever increase in taxes they wish for whatever project they wish, and like it, or lump it, they don't care which. And of course if we (the property owners) don't like it and refuse to pay the hike, they merely seize our property and sell it, whether it's our homes, business or whatever.

How in the world did they ever get the power to do these things? How have they almost reached the point of dictatorship? What laws have given them this power? If my recollection of history is correct, taxes without representation have been the major cause of many revolts and wars, not the least being the Revolutionary War, in which this, the greatest nation in the world, was born.

So let's see a move started to get the government back to the people. Let the people determine what is to be spent, what it will be spent for, and when. Let's see laws and by-laws that will prohibit wholesale slaughter of our rights to vote on things that affect us and our ways.

CRYSTAL GAZING

To the Editor:

In spite of all this talk about easing of tensions, peaceful coexistence, splits, etc., the Reds are ruthlessly marching toward their goal of world-wide domination, largely because of our colossal naiveness.

The following bears repeating. Lenin, architect of the Red global take-over plan (he died in 1924) said: we will negotiate, whittle-away, and wear them down until "America will fall into our hands like an overripe fruit."

Then in 1931, Dmitri Manulski stated at the Lenin School of Political Warfare in Moscow "... Our time will come in 20 or 30 years... we will be launching the most spectacular peace movement on record... There will be electrifying overtures and un-heard of concessions. The capitalist countries, stupid and decadent, will rejoice to cooperate in their own destruction... AS SOON AS THEIR GUARD IS DOWN, WE SHALL SMASH THEM WITH OUR CLENCHED FIST."

Stepping up to 1960, we read in the Red publication Political Affairs: "Communism is advancing in its full victory the world over," due to our ability to deceive the West with "peaceful coexistence" measures.

Next, in October 1961 — just two short years ago — at the 22nd Red Party Congress in Moscow, Nikita consolidated his long-range, world - domination plan into 13 ominous steps. Space permits giving but two.

Point No. 1 asks for a total nuclear test ban treaty, without adequate inspection to PARALYZE the U.S. development of nuclear weapons. No. 2 recommends "control posts" on each side of the Iron Curtain that would "prevent surprise attack on the Soviet Union" while deluding "the West into the belief that it was immune to Soviet surprise attack."

With countless documents like the above available, why do our foreign policy "experts" ignore them? Henry J. Taylor, noted columnist, hits the nail on the head when he says: "WHY READ THE CRYSTAL BALL WHEN WE CAN READ THE BOOK?" Why keep speculating on what the Communists will do next? Isn't it plain that they intend to harass and double cross us at every future turn?

Midas turned into gold everything he touched. Our State Department "experts" have turned to Red practically every country they've "touched." (Will Santo Domingo be next?)

With every concession, treaty, etc., with the Reds, our "experts" are gambling away our very strength, security and freedom. They run to the Kremlin with hat-in-hand, each time putting Uncle Sam thru a dangerous game of Russian roulette. One of these day, the "loaded chamber" will get into the right position, and all Nikita will have to do is get out his shovel.

Let's implore our congressmen to find out what's going on in our State Department before

Denver's Economy

From Rocky Mountain News

Many businessmen who are opposed to the massive proposed 8½ mills increase in property taxes cite a certain sluggishness evident in the Denver economy.

If this increase should go thru, they are fearful that the economy might suffer even more, and that new businesses would no longer be attracted to Denver.

Denver business leaders, however, are not the only ones to sense the economic stalemate that could stop the city's progress. Here's an article from the October issue of Fortune magazine:

As the trading center of a declining Rocky Mountain agricultural and mining area, Denver badly needed a shot in the arm — and got it with the coming of new people and industry in World War II.

After the war, outside risk capital brought in by such zestful promoters as New York's William Zeckendorf and the Texas Murchisons began giving the conservative city a new shine with the Mile High Center, Hilton Hotel, May-D&F Department Store, and the Denver Club Building. Then, with Martin Marietta Corp.'s giant Titan missile plant in suburban Littleton heading up a growing complex of space-age industries, the Denver area really took off in 1954. Subdivisions sprawled west toward the mountains, southeast into the hilly plains, north and south along the main traffic arteries fronting the Rockies. Speculators plunged, land prices skyrocketed.

In the shabby lower-downtown area, land dropped to $12 a square foot as business moved to the new skyscrapers a few blocks eastward. But in this new center of the city's wealth, square-foot price soared to $35, then to $40, and at times reached $45. Prices of commercial and industrial land roughly tripled. The Mile High industrial-park area started at 25 to 30 cents per square foot, wound up at 75 to 85 cents for interior sites, $1 for good corner locations.

As it normally does, land for shopping centers easily topped the prices of land for factories. On what had been pasture worth perhaps 50 cents a square foot in 1950, the Cherry Creek Shopping Center created sites commanding $6 a square foot by 1960.

But finally, from sheer saturation of demand including an ample reserve of land for future use in the hands of major developers, prices leveled off in 1959-61.

House sales showed a downturn by June 1962 and fell sharply last spring. Apartment vacancies in the area are now estimated at 15 to 17 per cent. Office-building vacancies average about 10 per cent, rising to 40 per cent in older structures. In the swollen suburbs, the main thing going up is taxes.

"It isn't so much that prices in general are down," says a leading Denver realtor, "as that now you can pick up bargains, forced sales." A number of other metropolitan areas, notably in Florida, fall within the stalemate category.

Editor's note: Denver residents are facing a difficult time of it if their tax increase of 8½ mills goes into effect. In Colorado Springs, the total mill levy increase can be as high as 10.08 mills for a total percentage hike of 18.20 per cent. One Denver realtor is saying that money is still to be made there thru "forced sales." How many forced sales will occur in Colorado Springs if the 10.08 mill levy increase goes into effect locally?

GAZETTE TELEGRAPH

Your Freedom Newspaper

Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Overcoming Obstacles

There are always at least two ways of looking at life. We can look at conditions as they are; we can examine conditions for their intrinsic qualities and determine how they could be improved.

Neither approach is wrong in itself. It is important that we know what conditions are. It is equally important that we understand sufficiently about present conditions to be able to recommend some way of improving these conditions.

If there is error here, it arises from an assumption, often held by those who fancy themselves to be realists, that to understand existing conditions is to preclude their betterment. This pseudo-realist presumes that he is being practical by simply pointing out existing evil, or existing shortcomings.

This is not realism, it is defeatism.

However, error can also come in from the other direction. An idealist is one who wishes to improve existing conditions. But if his hopes for betterment are no more than hopes; if they rest wholly upon imaginary conditions, then his offerings are of no merit at all.

The practical realist, who is also an idealist, is he who understands the reality with which he must deal; and understanding it sufficiently he knows what can be done to improve existing circumstances.

To know that a problem exists is the first step toward a solution.

To understand the principles of human behavior and the laws of nature relative to the problem is to understand how to accomplish your objective.

Are there any problems confronting us in this world?

Obviously, there are many problems.

Just staying alive is a major problem. To manage to stay alive at all, requires an enormous amount of energy expended on the part of very many people.

But the problem area takes on two aspects. There are problems that arise from the nature of things as they are. Then there are problems which men create for themselves and for each other.

It is clear that the first aspect of the problem area is one that will engage most of us a great deal of the time. There are natural obstacles which stand in the way of accomplishing virtually every objective. Each of these must be overcome.

Suppose a person would like to build a factory to supply some useful tool or product for his customers. There are problems by the score. He must find a good location for the plant; one that is convenient to transportation and workers, but one that does not interfere with residential hopes and aspirations of others.

Then there are the costs involved. A great deal of money must be obtained for investment purposes. Various building designs must be considered and a plan selected. There is the hiring of personnel; the organization of the work force; the bringing of the men and the tools together to accomplish the job.

Each of these steps is fraught with peril. Each individual has his own aims and ambitions in life. To obtain his services, his own aims and ambitions must, to some degree, be in harmony with the general objectives the entrepreneur has in his desire for a factory and a going business.

Then there are other obstacles: the weather, disease, time, power, competition, accidents. . .there are scores of these obstacles. To accomplish anything at all, every one of these obstacles must be overcome.

And once the factory is built, a whole new set of problems is at once on hand — assembly line production, sales, distribution, financing, customer service and satisfaction — a host of things. And all of these are natural obstacles which must be overcome. There are quite enough of them so that we do not really need to go out to borrow additional problems.

No Notice

It is true that even the worm turns. But if we follow the lead of the worm we should keep in mind that he isn't equipped to make hand signals.

Government-Induced Problems

In addition to the natural obstacles which confront us on every hand as we undertake any major project, we suddenly find ourselves facing a host of new obstacles which do not derive from the nature of things as they are. These new obstacles are man-made.

We suddenly discover that it is not enough to plan our factory to conform to our own best interests in relation to what we expect to produce, we find that the local government insists that before we turn a spade or even give final approval to a plan, we must first obtain a permit from the government. Getting that permit is just the first of a whole mountain of new obstacles which have nothing whatever to do with the nature of things as they are.

Next, in order to have the permit (for which we must deplete our financial reserves, thereby making us less able to accomplish our major task) we are going to have to conform to a host of building regulations. We can build only so high; we must use a certain kind of brick; we must use a certain kind of electrical conduit; we must use a certain kind of tile; we must install a sprinkler system; we must pay wages and fees to all the useless workers who appear on the job who are the only authorized personnel to work with the only authorized materials so that the job can proceed.

Next, we discover that the government does not trust us. Having granted the permit and insisted on the specifications, work proceeds haltingly at best. At each step, work stops while we are forced to wait for an inspector who will come out to make certain that the authorized workers have used only authorized materials in an authorized manner.

Costs have already gone up about 20 per cent above the requirement if we had only to overcome the natural obstacles. But we are not thru. Indeed, we are not. For each moment from here on thru our productive lives we will be harassed and beset by government men who will tell us what to do; how to do it; when to do it; what records to keep; what forms to fill out; and what sums to pay to the government for all of the incursions and invasions against us.

We could go on to examine other activities, other walks of life. We would find the same condition and we would find it on a world-wide basis. Everywhere some men are struggling to overcome the natural obstacles so that we can have a better world. These are the workmen who are improving tools, who are fighting the cold and the heat, the disease and the famine and the drought and the flood. These are they who seek to make the earth more productive, who try to multiply our effectiveness and our satisfactions as human beings.

At the same time we would find a veritable horde of other men who are not engaged in battling the forces of nature so that we can survive. Rather, we would find this horde arrayed against those who so battle. These are the men in government who create obstacles where none exist; who demand conformity and money; who demand regulation and money; who demand reports and money; who demand money and more money.

To be realistic is to recognize that we have both kinds of problems. To be realistic is to recognize that some of the problems we have to face are totally unnecessary. They are simply artificially induced problems which hamper our total ability to produce; interfere with our ability to enjoy life, and stifle ambition; which in the name of protection place us all in a position of extreme vulnerability.

The natural obstacles we must face which arise from the nature of things as they are must always be overcome. But the unnatural, artificial obstacles which are created thru a streak of perversity in human nature. . .not only can these obstacles be overcome as we face them; we can if we are wise strive to educate others as to the lack of necessity for these problems.

Government - manufactured problems are problems we can do without

WASHINGTON RECEIVING LINE

Strength and Weakness

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

At some time during every discussion concerned with the freedom philosophy at least one person will say, "Okay, now that you have explained this subject to my satisfaction, I will agree with you. I'm sure this will make you happy."

The same person will become disturbed when I say their agreement does not make me happy. The fact I have been able to explain my views in a manner which enabled another person or two persons to fully understand what I had to say does provide me with a sense of satisfaction and here again we find that fine, white line which points the way to the road to freedom.

We may each travel along the same road to freedom. Along that road, each of us will find certain things which appeal to us individually. You may find a blonde mate, mine is a medium blonde. I may find a fish to my liking in the stream and you may prefer carrots and beans and peas.

There was this weakness among many of the ancient philosophers and the weakness has persisted to later times. A man may arrive at certain conclusions as the result of long hours of contemplative reasoning. He looks at the conclusion and finds it good, but he may not be strong enough to be comfortable with his conclusion alone. To find company, he finds other men and points to his conclusions as indisputable and he champions his beliefs with a great deal of vigor and strength and in so doing, he betrays his own weakness, the nagging doubt brought on by the fact that his conclusion is his alone.

Pretending great faith in his conclusion, a man may say, "This woman and I will devote ourselves to this behavior and this is the manner in which all free men and women must behave." He presents his conclusions with insistent strength and in so doing betrays his weakness. He may be absolutely correct in his conclusions concerning the behavior which will be correct for him and for his woman, but at this point, he would be wise to rest his case. When he insists that you and your woman must behave in a similar manner, he also betrays his lack of understanding of the meaning of the philosophy of freedom, since he is attempting to force his will upon my will.

I have a friend who enjoys rattlesnake meat. He finds the flavor to his liking, the meat digestible. As a friend, he passes this information on to me without apology for his taste. As a friend, I receive the information and decide I may try the same fare, one day. But, my friend does not say, "You must try rattlesnake meat now. I will go and catch a snake and kill it and prepare it and cook it for you and you must try it tonight because I am sure you will find it good and agree with me."

Being completely satisfied with his own conclusions concerning the meat of a rattlesnake, my friend has no reason to force his taste in food upon me. My agreement will not make his food more tasty or more digestible or in any way more to his liking.

The bright and shining light of freedom does not blind me. It is not necessary for me to force you to accept my conclusions because I am unsure. I do not require your eyes because mine are blinded. Without equivocation, I recognize the fact that you and I are different and that as each of us makes his individual way along the road to freedom, which is illuminated by the identical bright and shining light for each of us, we will inevitably find our happiness in different items we find on the road and in our own behavior, and I will not force my ideas of happiness upon you, nor will I permit you to force yours upon me; in fact, you will not even attempt to do so, if you believe in your right to live and breathe and find your own individual happiness, in freedom.

And, if the person who attempts to force you to believe as he believes, happens also to be in a high position, you may care to ponder on the words of Aristotle, when he said, "A high position is no guarantee of virtue or intelligence, which are the sources from which virtuous activities spring."

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Wit and Whimsy

Khrushchev said he would bury us. Hmm, it took him eight years to bury Stalin and the guy was already dead.

Question Box

We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 355: "How can a local government agency supported by initiated force — taxes — really promote culture and economic understanding?"

Answer: It is hard to think how such a local agency can really promote culture and understanding of human relations. It is absurd to contend that institutions of this kind are beneficial to mankind.

Why should we blame Denver or Washington for wasting billions and billions of dollars when we are wasting in our own community millions of unnecessary dollars by such things as zoning, museums, libraries and tax-supported schools that cannot educate but only can indoctrinate to make the state supreme.

Morality begins at home. It begins in the minds of men. Our trouble comes from a decay in moral ideas; in short, in not respecting private property.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—What was the earliest novel describing a flight beyond the Earth?

A—Lucian of Samosata's "True History" in 165 A.D.

Q—Why are grain foods called cereals?

Q—What is the earliest use of "America?"

Q—What noted American scientist led an expedition up the Amazon River in 1865, in search of fish?

A—Louis Agassiz.

Q—Why were the hanging Gardens of Babylon built?

A—It is believed that Nebuchadnezzar ordered the garden built to honor his wife, who missed her mountain home.

Q—What was the denomination of the first American coin?

These Days

The Coal Fields

WHEELING, West Va. — In the nineteen forties I used to write a good deal about the coal industry. When the union contract time came up, the show at the Hotel Shoreham in Washington was always a good one. Invariably, the United Mine Workers' boss, John L. Lewis, would stand before the coal operators and point to their hands. "There's blood on those hands," he would intone dramatically.

There seemed to be absolutely no love lost between management and labor as Lewis launched into his lurid but highly effective personalities. Joseph Moody, then the president of the Southern Coal Producers Association was libelled by Lewis as a "churnhead." Ex-Senator Burke of Nebraska, who had preceded Mr. Moody as the Southern Operators' representative, was always good for a Lewis lashing for the simple reason that Nebraska is hardly noted for its coal mines. Other eminent executives were called "liars by the clock." Regardless of the question about "blood on the operators' hands" there was always blood on John L. Lewis's tongue.

Well, times change. For the past few days I have been flying around the coal country with a group under the tutelage of the National Coal Policy Conference. The NCPC, whose members include men from coal management, men from the coal-carrying railroads, representatives of the coal-burning public utilities, and highly placed United Mine Workers officials (John L. Lewis himself was chairman of the conference until his retirement), is an amazing organization in which lion and lamb lie down together in amity. The change in atmosphere over what prevailed 15 and 20 years ago is absolutely amazing to somebody who hadn't paid much attention to what was going on in coal circles in the fifties and sixties.

ENEMIES

How has the change come about? It happened because coal, as a fuel, was suddenly beset by what seemed to be a thousand enemies. The U.S. government built the Big Inch and Little Inch oil pipelines during World War II — and oil conversions became a standard rule of the day in fuel consuming industries. The oil-burning Diesel train caught on, not only in the west but in the coal-rich east. The need for coking coal in steel diminished. The Atomic Energy Commission started subsidizing atomic power. And one fine day John L. Lewis and his old enemies, the operators, decided they must make common cause if either set of participants in an old grudge fight were to live at all.

Lewis, as is well known, supported every move of the operators to mechanize their mines wherever it was possible to do so. All he asked for in exchange was the highest union wage scale in the world. It seemed little enough to grant him in view of the savings that could be effected thru the spread of mechanical cutters and loaders, and pushbutton sorting and grading equipment. Lewis and Joe Moody, who had become president of the NCPC became the best of friends, willing to forget the harsh words of the past.

With labor and management working in tandem, it might be thought that a monopoly system would be the natural — and menacing — result. But this has not happened. The threat of the other fuels — residual oil, fissioning uranium — is always there to prevent the gouging of the consumer. And in addition to this, the producing end of the coal industry has developed its own threat to those old-time coal carriers, the railroads. The cost of coal transportation has fallen dramatically.

PIPELINES

The big threat to the railroads has been the coal slurry pipeline. The pioneer pipeline, built in Ohio, has recently been closed down. What happened is that the railroads decided to meet the competition by developing the "integral" coal train, capable of hauling tremendous tonnages to big electrical utilities with twenty-four hour turnarounds at each end of the loading-unloading cycle.

The very hint that a coal slurry line might be built from West Virginia and western Pennsylvania to carry pulverized coal to the eastern seaboard was enough to push the development of a Baltimore and Ohio unitized coal train capable of transporting up to 8,800 tons at a whack to such customers as Consolidated Edison of New York, the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, and the Philadelphia Electric Company. For loadings of 7,000 tons and up, the B. and O. was able to knock $1.50 per ton off the coal-carrying price. This has enabled big coal producers such as the Valley Camp Coal Company of Wheeling and the Consolidation Coal Company, with mines in West Virginia and Ohio, to cut the cost to the consumer — and still pay John L. Lewis's union men their high wages.

Competition, competition, competition — it's been good for everyone. Everyone, that is, save for the marginal miners in the "dog hole" mines spotted from the anthracite country of Pennsylvania to the Southern Cumberlands. That is another, and not so happy, story.

If this increase should go thru, they are fearful that the economy might suffer even more, and that new businesses would no longer be attracted to Denver.

Denver business leaders, however, are not the only ones to sense the economic stalemate that could stop the city's progress. Here's an article from the October issue of Fortune magazine:

As the trading center of a declining Rocky Mountain agricultural and mining area, Denver badly needed a shot in the arm — and got it with the coming of new people and industry in World War II.

After the war, outside risk capital brought in by such zestful promoters as New York's William Zeckendorf and the Texas Murchisons began giving the conservative city a new shine with the Mile High Center, Hilton Hotel, May-D&F Department Store, and the Denver Club Building. Then, with Martin Marietta Corp.'s giant Titan missile plant in suburban Littleton heading up a growing complex of space-age industries, the Denver area really took off in 1954. Subdivisions sprawled west toward the mountains, southeast into the hilly plains, north and south along the main traffic arteries fronting the Rockies. Speculators plunged, land prices skyrocketed.

In the shabby lower-downtown area, land dropped to $12 a square foot as business moved to the new skyscrapers a few blocks eastward. But in this new center of the city's wealth, square-foot price soared to $35, then to $40, and at times reached $45. Prices of commercial and industrial land roughly tripled. The Mile High industrial-park area started at 25 to 30 cents per square foot, wound up at 75 to 85 cents for interior sites, $1 for good corner locations.

As it normally does, land for shopping centers easily topped the prices of land for factories. On what had been pasture worth perhaps 50 cents a square foot in 1950, the Cherry Creek Shopping Center created sites commanding $6 a square foot by 1960.

But finally, from sheer saturation of demand including an ample reserve of land for future use in the hands of major developers, prices leveled off in 1959-61.

House sales showed a downturn by June 1962 and fell sharply last spring. Apartment vacancies in the area are now estimated at 15 to 17 per cent. Office-building vacancies average about 10 per cent, rising to 40 per cent in older structures. In the swollen suburbs, the main thing going up is taxes.

"It isn't so much that prices in general are down," says a leading Denver realtor, "as that now you can pick up bargains, forced sales." A number of other metropolitan areas, notably in Florida, fall within the stalemate category.

Editor's note: Denver residents are facing a difficult time of it if their tax increase of 8½ mills goes into effect. In Colorado Springs, the total mill levy increase can be as high as 10.08 mills for a total percentage hike of 18.20 per cent. One Denver realtor is saying that money is still to be made there thru "forced sales." How many forced sales will occur in Colorado Springs if the 10.08 mill levy increase goes into effect locally?

Your Freedom Newspaper

Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence

Overcoming Obstacles

There are always at least two ways of looking at life. We can look at conditions as they are; we can examine conditions for their intrinsic qualities and determine how they could be improved.

Neither approach is wrong in itself. It is important that we know what conditions are. It is equally important that we understand sufficiently about present conditions to be able to recommend some way of improving these conditions.

If there is error here, it arises from an assumption, often held by those who fancy themselves to be realists, that to understand existing conditions is to preclude their betterment. This pseudo-realist presumes that he is being practical by simply pointing out existing evil, or existing shortcomings.

This is not realism, it is defeatism.

However, error can also come in from the other direction. An idealist is one who wishes to improve existing conditions. But if his hopes for betterment are no more than hopes; if they rest wholly upon imaginary conditions, then his offerings are of no merit at all.

The practical realist, who is also an idealist, is he who understands the reality with which he must deal; and understanding it sufficiently he knows what can be done to improve existing circumstances.

To know that a problem exists is the first step toward a solution.

To understand the principles of human behavior and the laws of nature relative to the problem is to understand how to accomplish your objective.

Are there any problems confronting us in this world?

Obviously, there are many problems.

Just staying alive is a major problem. To manage to stay alive at all, requires an enormous amount of energy expended on the part of very many people.

But the problem area takes on two aspects. There are problems that arise from the nature of things as they are. Then there are problems which men create for themselves and for each other.

It is clear that the first aspect of the problem area is one that will engage most of us a great deal of the time. There are natural obstacles which stand in the way of accomplishing virtually every objective. Each of these must be overcome.

Suppose a person would like to build a factory to supply some useful tool or product for his customers. There are problems by the score. He must find a good location for the plant: one that is convenient to transportation and workers, but one that does not interfere with residential hopes and aspirations of others.

Then there are the costs involved. A great deal of money must be obtained for investment purposes. Various building designs must be considered and a plan selected. There is the hiring of personnel: the organization of the work force; the bringing of the men and the tools together to accomplish the job.

Each of these steps is fraught with peril. Each individual has his own aims and ambitions in life. To obtain his services, his own aims and ambitions must, to some degree, be in harmony with the general objectives the entrepreneur has in his desire for a factory and a going business.

Then there are other obstacles: the weather, disease, time, power, competition, accidents. . .there are scores of these obstacles. To accomplish anything at all, every one of these obstacles must be overcome.

And once the factory is built, a whole new set of problems is at once on hand — assembly line production, sales, distribution, financing, customer service and satisfaction .... a host of things. And all of these are natural obstacles which must be overcome. There are quite enough of them so that we do not really need to go out to borrow additional problems.

No Notice

It is true that even the worm turns. But if we follow the lead of the worm we should keep in mind that he isn't equipped to make hand signals.

Government-Induced Problems

In addition to the natural obstacles which confront us on every hand as we undertake any major project, we suddenly find ourselves facing a host of new obstacles which do not derive from the nature of things as they are. These new obstacles are man-made.

We suddenly discover that it is not enough to plan our factory to conform to our own best interests in relation to what we expect to produce, we find that the local government insists that before we turn a spade or even give final approval to a plan, we must first obtain a permit from the government. Getting that permit is just the first of a whole mountain of new obstacles which have nothing whatever to do with the nature of things as they are.

Next, in order to have the permit (for which we must deplete our financial reserves, thereby making us less able to accomplish our major task) we are going to have to conform to a host of building regulations. We can build only so high; we must use a certain kind of brick; we must use a certain kind of electrical conduit; we must use a certain kind of tile; we must install a sprinkler system; we must pay wages and fees to all the useless workers who appear on the job who are the only authorized personnel to work with the only authorized materials so that the job can proceed.

Next, we discover that the government does not trust us. Having granted the permit and insisted on the specifications, work proceeds haltingly at best. At each step, work stops while we are forced to wait for an inspector who will come out to make certain that the authorized workers have used only authorized materials in an authorized manner.

Costs have already gone up about 20 per cent above the requirement if we had only to overcome the natural obstacles. But we are not thru. Indeed, we are not. For each moment from here on thru our productive lives we will be harassed and beset by government men who will tell us what to do; how to do it; when to do it; what records to keep; what forms to fill out; and what sums to pay to the government for all of the incursions and invasions against us.

We could go on to examine other activities, other walks of life. We would find the same condition and we would find it on a world-wide basis. Everywhere some men are struggling to overcome the natural obstacles so that we can have a better world. These are the workmen who are improving tools, who are fighting the cold and the heat, the disease and the famine and the drought and the flood. These are they who seek to make the earth more productive, who try to multiply our effectiveness and our satisfactions as human beings.

At the same time we would find a veritable horde of other men who are not engaged in battling the forces of nature so that we can survive. Rather, we would find this horde arrayed against those who so battle. These are the men in government who create obstacles where none exist; who demand conformity, and money; who demand regulation and money; who demand reports and money; who demand money and more money.

To be realistic is to recognize that we have both kinds of problems. To be realistic is to recognize that some of the problems we have to face are totally unnecessary. They are simply artificially induced problems which hamper our total ability to produce; interfere with our ability to enjoy life, and stifle ambition; which in the name of protection place us all in a position of extreme vulnerability.

The natural obstacles we must face which arise from the nature of things as they are must always be overcome. But the unnatural, artificial obstacles which are created thru a streak of perversity in human nature. . .not only can these obstacles be overcome as we face them; we can if we are wise strive to educate others as to the lack of necessity for these problems.

Government - manufactured problems are problems we can do without

WASHINGTON RECEIVING LINE

Strength and Weakness

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

At some time during every discussion concerned with the freedom philosophy at least one person will say, "Okay, now that you have explained this subject to my satisfaction, I will agree with you. I'm sure this will make you happy."

The same person will become disturbed when I say their agreement does not make me happy. The fact I have been able to explain my views in a manner which enabled another person or two persons to fully understand what I had to say does provide me with a sense of satisfaction and here again we find that fine, white line which points the way to the road to freedom.

We may each travel along the same road to freedom. Along that road, each of us will find certain things which appeal to us individually. You may find a blonde mate, mine is a medium blonde. I may find a fish to my liking in the stream and you may prefer carrots and beans and peas.

There was this weakness among many of the ancient philosophers and the weakness has persisted to later times. A man may arrive at certain conclusions as the result of long hours of contemplative reasoning. He looks at the conclusion and finds it good, but he may not be strong enough to be comfortable with his conclusion alone. To find company, he finds other men and points to his conclusions as indisputable and he champions his beliefs with a great deal of vigor and strength and in so doing, he betrays his own weakness, the nagging doubt brought on by the fact that his conclusion is his alone.

Pretending great faith in his conclusion, a man may say, "This woman and I will devote ourselves to this behavior and this is the manner in which all free men and women must behave." He presents his conclusions with insistent strength and in so doing betrays his weakness. He may be absolutely correct in his conclusions concerning the behavior which will be correct for him and for his woman, but at this point, he would be wise to rest his case. When he insists that you and your woman must behave in a similar manner, he also betrays his lack of understanding of the meaning of the philosophy of freedom, since he is attempting to force his will upon my will.

I have a friend who enjoys rattlesnake meat. He finds the flavor to his liking, the meat digestible. As a friend, he passes this information on to me without apology for his taste. As a friend, I receive the information and decide I may try the same fare, one day. But, my friend does not say, "You must try rattlesnake meat now. I will go and catch a snake and kill it and prepare it and cook it for you and you must try it tonight because I am sure you will find it good and agree with me."

Being completely satisfied with his own conclusions concerning the meat of a rattlesnake, my friend has no reason to force his taste in food upon me. My agreement will not make his food more tasty or more digestible or in any way more to his liking.

The bright and shining light of freedom does not blind me. It is not necessary for me to force you to accept my conclusions because I am unsure. I do not require your eyes because mine are blinded. Without equivocation, I recognize the fact that you and I are different and that as each of us makes his individual way along the road to freedom, which is illuminated by the identical bright and shining light for each of us, we will inevitably find our happiness in different items we find on the road and in our own behavior, and I will not force my ideas of happiness upon you, nor will I permit you to force yours upon me; in fact, you will not even attempt to do so, if you believe in your right to live and breathe and find your own individual happiness, in freedom.

And, if the person who attempts to force you to believe as he believes, happens also to be in a high position, you may care to ponder on the words of Aristotle, when he said, "A high position is no guarantee of virtue or intelligence, which are the sources from which virtuous activities spring."

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Khrushchev said he would bury us. Hmm, it took him eight years to bury Stalin and the guy was already dead.

Question Box

We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.

Question No. 355: "How can a local government agency supported by initiated force — taxes — really promote culture and economic understanding?"

Answer: It is hard to think how such a local agency can really promote culture and understanding of human relations. It is absurd to contend that institutions of this kind are beneficial to mankind.

Why should we blame Denver or Washington for wasting billions and billions of dollars when we are wasting in our own community millions of unnecessary dollars by such things as zoning, museums, libraries and tax-supported schools that cannot educate but only can indoctrinate to make the state supreme.

Morality begins at home. It begins in the minds of men. Our trouble comes from a decay in moral ideas; in short, in not respecting private property.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—What was the earliest novel describing a flight beyond the Earth?

A—Lucian of Samosata's "True History" in 165 A.D.

Q—Why are grain foods called cereals?

Q—What is the earliest use of "America?"

Q—What noted American scientist led an expedition up the Amazon River in 1865, in search of fish?

A—Louis Agassiz.

Q—Why were the hanging Gardens of Babylon built?

A—It is believed that Nebuchadnezzar ordered the garden built to honor his wife, who missed her mountain home.

Q—What was the denomination of the first American coin?

These Days

The Coal Fields

WHEELING, West Va. — In the nineteen forties I used to write a good deal about the coal industry.

When the union contract time came up, the show at the Hotel Shoreham in Washington was always a good one. Invariably, the United Mine Workers' boss, John L. Lewis, would stand before the coal operators and point to their hands. "There's blood on those hands," he would intone dramatically.

There seemed to be absolutely no love lost between management and labor as Lewis launched into his lurid but highly effective personalities. Joseph Moody, then the president of the Southern Coal Producers Association was libelled by Lewis as a "churnhead." Ex-Senator Burke of Nebraska, who had preceded Mr. Moody as the Southern Operators' representative, was always good for a Lewis lashing for the simple reason that Nebraska is hardly noted for its coal mines. Other eminent executives were called "liars by the clock." Regardless of the question about "blood on the operators' hands" there was always blood on John L. Lewis's tongue.

Well, times change. For the past few days I have been flying around the coal country with a group under the tutelage of the National Coal Policy Conference. The NCPC, whose members include men from coal management, men from the coal-carrying railroads, representatives of the coal-burning public utilities, and highly placed United Mine Workers officials (John L. Lewis himself was chairman of the conference until his retirement), is an amazing organization in which lion and lamb lie down together in amity. The change in atmosphere over what prevailed 15 and 20 years ago is absolutely amazing to somebody who hadn't paid much attention to what was going on in coal circles in the fifties and sixties.

ENEMIES

How has the change come about? It happened because coal, as a fuel, was suddenly beset by what seemed to be a thousand enemies. The U.S. government built the Big Inch and Little Inch oil pipelines during World War II — and oil conversions became a standard rule of the day in fuel consuming industries. The oil-burning Diesel train caught on, not only in the west but in the coal-rich east. The need for coking coal in steel diminished. The Atomic Energy Commission started subsidizing atomic power. And one fine day John L. Lewis and his old enemies, the operators, decided they must make common cause if either set of participants in an old grudge fight were to live at all.

Lewis, as is well known, supported every move of the operators to mechanize their mines wherever it was possible to do so. All he asked for in exchange was the highest union wage scale in the world. It seemed little enough to grant him in view of the savings that could be effected thru the spread of mechanical cutters and loaders, and pushbutton sorting and grading equipment. Lewis and Joe Moody, who had become president of the NCPC became the best of friends, willing to forget the harsh words of the past.

With labor and management working in tandem, it might be thought that a monopoly system would be the natural — and menacing — result. But this has not happened. The threat of the other fuels — residual oil, fissioning uranium — is always there to prevent the gouging of the consumer. And in addition to this, the producing end of the coal industry has developed its own threat to those old-time coal carriers, the railroads. The cost of coal transportation has fallen dramatically.

PIPELINES

The big threat to the railroads has been the coal slurry pipeline. The pioneer pipeline, built in Ohio, has recently been closed down. What happened is that the railroads decided to meet the competition by developing the "integral" coal train, capable of hauling tremendous tonnages to big electrical utilities with twenty-four hour turnarounds at each end of the loading-unloading cycle.

The very hint that a coal slurry line might be built from West Virginia and western Pennsylvania to carry pulverized coal to the eastern seaboard was enough to push the development of a Baltimore and Ohio unitized coal train capable of transporting up to 8,800 tons at a whack to such customers as Consolidated Edison of New York, the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, and the Philadelphia Electric Company. For loadings of 7,000 tons and up, the B. and O. was able to knock $1.50 per ton off the coal-carrying price. This has enabled big coal producers such as the Valley Camp Coal Company of Wheeling and the Consolidation Coal Company, with mines in West Virginia and Ohio, to cut the cost to the consumer — and still pay John L. Lewis's union men their high wages.

Competition, competition, competition — it's been good for everyone. Everyone, that is, save for the marginal miners in the "dog hole" mines spotted from the anthracite country of Pennsylvania to the Southern Cumberlands. That is another, and not so happy, story.

WHITE ELEPHANTS

To the Editor:

I just read in yesterday's issue an article in which the three dictators who have the gall to take taxpayers' money to buy new high-priced cars to sport around, now want to build two more white elephants.

A few years ago they built a white elephant when the sensible thing to have done was to employ an efficiency expert to rearrange the court house and throw out the restaurant that occupied a lot of space in the court house. Now, instead of building two more new white elephants the thing to do would be to use the court house as it stands and change the names on the doors. These dictators have not yet awakened to the fact that they are only the taxpayer's hired men and not his dictator; they want to rob the taxpayer to finance their throw-away program.

SERIOUS PROBLEM

To the Editor:

The articles in your October 21 edition on taxes (an 18 per cent increase in local taxes, county taxes, etc.) have touched on a very serious problem. I always thought that taxes and other government policies were determined by the people, not a handful of politicians who happen to be in office. But the attitude I gathered from the paper's report, we pay whatever increase in taxes they wish for whatever project they wish, and like it, or lump it, they don't care which. And of course if we (the property owners) don't like it and refuse to pay the hike, they merely seize our property and sell it, whether it's our homes, business or whatever.

How in the world did they ever get the power to do these things? How have they almost reached the point of dictatorship? What laws have given them this power? If my recollection of history is correct, taxes without representation have been the major cause of many revolts and wars, not the least being the Revolutionary War, in which this, the greatest nation in the world, was born.

So let's see a move started to get the government back to the people. Let the people determine what is to be spent, what it will be spent for, and when. Let's see laws and by-laws that will prohibit wholesale slaughter of our rights to vote on things that affect us and our ways.

CRYSTAL GAZING

To the Editor:

In spite of all this talk about easing of tensions, peaceful coexistence, splits, etc., the Reds are ruthlessly marching toward their goal of world-wide domination, largely because of our colossal naiveness.

The following bears repeating. Lenin, architect of the Red global take-over plan (he died in 1924) said: we will negotiate, whittle-away, and wear them down until "America will fall into our hands like an overripe fruit."

Then in 1931, Dmitri Manulski stated at the Lenin School of Political Warfare in Moscow "...Our time will come in 20 or 30 years ...we will be launching the most spectacular peace movement on record. ...There will be electrifying overtures and un-heard of concessions. The capitalist countries, stupid and decadent, will rejoice to cooperate in their own destruction. ...AS SOON AS THEIR GUARD IS DOWN, WE SHALL SMASH THEM WITH OUR CLENCHED FIST."

Stepping up to 1960, we read in the Red publication Political Affairs: "Communism is advancing in its full victory the world over," due to our ability to deceive the West with "peaceful coexistence" measures.

Next, in October 1961 — just two short years ago — at the 22nd Red Party Congress in Moscow, Nikita consolidated his long-range, world - domination plan into 13 ominous steps. Space permits giving but two.

Point No. 1 asks for a total nuclear test ban treaty, without adequate inspection to PARALYZE the U.S. development of nuclear weapons. No. 2 recommends "control posts" on each side of the Iron Curtain that would "prevent surprise attack on the Soviet Union" while deluding "the West into the belief that it was immune to Soviet surprise attack."

With countless documents like the above available, why do our foreign policy "experts" ignore them? Henry J. Taylor, noted columnist, hits the nail on the head when he says: "WHY READ THE CRYSTAL BALL WHEN WE CAN READ THE BOOK?" Why keep speculating on what the Communists will do next? Isn't it plain that they intend to harass and double cross us at every future turn?

Midas turned into gold everything he touched. Our State Department "experts" have turned to Red practically every country they've "touched." (Will Santo Domingo be next?)

With every concession, treaty, etc., with the Reds, our "experts" are gambling away our very strength, security and freedom. They run to the Kremlin with hat-in-hand, each time putting Uncle Sam thru a dangerous game of Russian roulette. One of these day, the "loaded chamber" will get into the right position, and all Nikita will have to do is get out his shovel.

Let's implore our congressmen to find out what's going on in our State Department before

Denver's Economy

From Rocky Mountain News

Many businessmen who are opposed to the massive proposed 8½ mills increase in property taxes cite a certain sluggishness evident in the Denver economy.

If this increase should go thru, they are fearful that the economy might suffer even more, and that new businesses would no longer be attracted to Denver.

Denver business leaders, however, are not the only ones to sense the economic stalemate that could stop the city's progress. Here's an article from the October issue of Fortune magazine:

As the trading center of a declining Rocky Mountain agricultural and mining area, Denver badly needed a shot in the arm — and got it with the coming of new people and industry in World War II.

After the war, outside risk capital brought in by such zestful promoters as New York's William Zeckendorf and the Texas Murchisons began giving the conservative city a new shine with the Mile High Center, Hilton Hotel, May-D&F Department Store, and the Denver Club Building. Then, with Martin Marietta Corp.'s giant Titan missile plant in suburban Littleton heading up a growing complex of space-age industries, the Denver area really took off in 1954. Subdivisions sprawled west toward the mountains, southeast into the hilly plains, north and south along the main traffic arteries fronting the Rockies. Speculators plunged, land prices skyrocketed.

In the shabby lower-downtown area, land dropped to $12 a square foot as business moved to the new skyscrapers a few blocks eastward. But in this new center of the city's wealth, square-foot price soared to $35, then to $40, and at times reached $45. Prices of commercial and industrial land roughly tripled. The Mile High industrial-park area started at 25 to 30 cents per square foot, wound up at 75 to 85 cents for interior sites, $1 for good corner locations.

As it normally does, land for shopping centers easily topped the prices of land for factories. On what had been pasture worth perhaps 50 cents a square foot in 1950, the Cherry Creek Shopping Center created sites commanding $6 a square foot by 1960.

But finally, from sheer saturation of demand including an ample reserve of land for future use in the hands of major developers, prices leveled off in 1959-61.

House sales showed a downturn by June 1962 and fell sharply last spring. Apartment vacancies in the area are now estimated at 15 to 17 per cent. Office-building vacancies average about 10 per cent, rising to 40 per cent in older structures. In the swollen suburbs, the main thing going up is taxes.

"It isn't so much that prices in general are down," says a leading Denver realtor, "as that now you can pick up bargains, forced sales." A number of other metropolitan areas, notably in Florida, fall within the stalemate category.

Editor's note: Denver residents are facing a difficult time of it if their tax increase of 8½ mills goes into effect. In Colorado Springs, the total mill levy increase can be as high as 10.08 mills for a total percentage hike of 18.20 per cent. One Denver realtor is saying that money is still to be made there thru "forced sales." How many forced sales will occur in Colorado Springs if the 10.08 mill levy increase goes into effect locally?

MAN ON MOON?

To the Editor:

The question keeps coming up: will men be able to reach the moon?

Bible teachers say they will not, and prove it by Psalms 115, verse 16: "The heaven even the heavens are the Lord's: but the earth hath He given to the children of men."

God will not tolerate men invading His territory. It will mean a useless waste of millions of dollars, loss of valuable lives, and extremely dangerous, as God has said, he is going to shake the earth — in Luke 21, verses 25 and 26. "There shall be signs in the sun, and in the MOON and in the stars; and upon the earth distress of nations, with perplexity; the sea and the waves roaring; men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things that are coming on the earth: for the powers of heaven shall be shaken."

DRASTIC BILL

To the Editor:

Congratulations to CWO Cecil V. Grove on a most informative letter on Civil Rights in your Open Parliament, October 17. His letters are always well expressed and thought-provoking.

I was preparing a letter on the Civil Rights Act of 1963 when his letter appeared and I would recommend for good reading an analysis by Loyd Wright and John C. Satterfield, past presidents of the American Bar Association, which appeared in "Human Events," October 12.

These gentlemen state that the Civil Rights Act of 1963 is but 10 per cent civil rights. The remaining 90 per cent is an extension of federal executive power created at the expense of individuals, states and municipalities. It is, in fact, they further state, the blueprint for a controlled system of life, more drastic than all such legislation ever passed.

1) Public establishments would be placed under federal jurisdiction, setting aside local rules and all human and property rights involved.

2) Everyone who has dealings with federal education programs would be subject to its force and to federal political manipulation.

3) Local, state and national elections could be controlled by the federal government by extending the powers of the Civil Rights Commission.

4) An employee's rights within the company for which he works could be destroyed.

These and many other provisions destroy everything that we have believed in heretofore to protect us from complete and absolute power of government.

If you do not want such control to apply to you, if you want to preserve liberty under the law for all groups, and not just one certain group, study this bill carefully before taking a stand on its necessity because of racial tension and prejudice.

JUDICIAL PAY

To the Editor:

Public comment on the three months' vacation taken by the judges of the Denver district courts is certainly on the beam. Most men in private business take summer vacations of only two weeks. Many who are self-employed take almost none.

The judges complain of their overcrowded trial dockets. It is no wonder if cases awaiting trial have piled up. With vacations of a month for each judge, one sixth of all court trials would be accounted for.

But now, in spite of their long vacations, they and the bar associations are agitating for a big increase in the already large judicial salaries. And they want a great increase in the number of judges, too.

Few of the judges made anywhere near as much in private law practice as their present salaries amount to. There has never been any shortage of acceptable candidates for judicial office, nor would there be if present salaries were considerably reduced; nor if the number of judges remained the same.

The public should pay no attention to the efforts of lawyers to raise the salaries of judges. Attorneys and bar associations, or the small groups who really run the associations, are always prone to chime in for anything the judges themselves would like to have. They wouldn't "offend the judges" by opposing increases in number of pay. Yet these same people complain of our absurdly high taxes.

Neo-Republicanism

By RUSSELL KIRK

Most of the time, for a generation, Republican politicians have felt themselves to be an insecure minority, lucky if they could succeed in whittling down "liberal" proposals somewhat —let alone defeat Democratic plans altogether, or pass any legislation of their own. Even during the Eisenhower years, for the most part, Republican leaders were content if they managed to resist some Democratic demands, or if they split the difference with the liberals.

But this attitude is giving way to aggressive resolution. The contrast between the brand of Republicanism that commenced in 1933 and the kind rising today may be suggested by the speeches, respectively, of Senator Dirksen and Senator Goldwater when recently, the Senate approved the bomb-testing treaty with Soviet Russia. After initial opposition, Senator Dirksen gave way, uttered a sentimental and almost obsequious oration, and voted for the treaty. He was used to such tactics. But Senator Goldwater fought the treaty to the end. Even tho only a small band of senators stood with him, here he spoke for the real majority of Republican voters, who are profoundly disturbed at the concessions President Kennedy has been making toward the Communist bloc.

"Me too" Republicanism is becoming a thing of yesteryear. This fact, more than his remarriage, accounts for Governor Rockefeller's inability to secure any strong support for the presidential nomination outside his own state: for the mass of Republicans suspect that, if elected, he would follow policies almost indistinguishable from Mr. Kennedy's. Without any regular organization to advance his candidacy, Senator Goldwater seems to be assured of enough Republican delegates, right now, to win the nomination. More significant still, surveys indicate that, were the presidential election held tomorrow, Goldwater would be about equal to Kennedy in strength — attracting far more votes than could any other Republican. Governor Nelson Rockefeller, to the contrary, wouldn't stand a Chinaman's chance of beating President Kennedy. Wanting a winner, those Republicans who initially held reservations about nominating Mr. Goldwater are shifting rapidly toward endorsement of the senator from Arizona.

Already, leading Democrats are behaving as if Mr. Goldwater were the Republican nominee. Expecting the 1964 election to be fought chiefly over foreign policy, Senator Church, President Kennedy himself, and other Democratic spokesmen have begun to represent the Democrats as the party of peace, and Mr. Goldwater as a rash enthusiast who would run the risk of catastrophic war.

Yet this may be a mistaken tactic. To be a champion of "appeasement" is an uneasy position — for Americans remember what came of appeasing Hitler. Senator Goldwater argues that war can be prevented only by bold and consistent foreign policy; he says that the Soviet bloc respect only strength and firmness. Public opinion seems to be shifting toward the Goldwater attitude in this, especially since Russian troops remain in Cuba.

Perhaps Mr. Goldwater's principal charm for the reinvigorated Republicans of the sixties is his forthrightness. In their eyes, Senator Goldwater stands for the policy recommended by a very different sort of person—Danton, the French revolutionary. "Audacity, and again audacity, and always audacity!" cried Danton. At first, Mr. Goldwater seemed audacious in opposing the long-accepted timidity of Republican leadership. Substantially, he has won that fight: now he seems audacious in setting himself against Mr. Kennedy's television and movie-magazine popularity. Yet the American public relishes audacious Westerners.

Lodge Is Being Called Home For Consultation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department aaid today U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge is being called home from South Viet Nam for conferences with President Kennedy.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey said Lodge is scheduled to arrive late this month or in early November but gave no specific date.

Lodge took over as ambassador in Saigon in late August, shortly after the Viet Nam government made a series of surprise raids on Buddhist pagodas and rounded up hundreds of monks and nuns. Later arrests included university and high school students.

The Aug. 21 raids deepened a rift with the United States and led Kennedy to call for a change of policy by President Ngo Dinh Diem in order to restore public support and confidence in his government.

Burglar Has Dark Thoughts About Crime

LUGO, Spain (UPI)—Enrique Castedo Gomez crept quietly into a home here last Wednesday and set about burglarizing it. But while he was upstairs Manuel Trigo Pol and his family came home.

For the next six days, police said today, the hapless Gomez, 56, hid in the attic of the house, waiting for the Trigo Pol family to go away so he could get out.

At night, the police said, Gomez went down to the kitchen to steal food. By day he sat hunched up in the tiny attic and thought dark thoughts about the wages of sin.

Tuesday the house finally fell quiet and Gomez, thinking the family had left, climbed down from his attic. But as he passed the main bedroom the temptation became too great and he delayed a moment to rob it.

While he was scooping up the loot, Trigo Pol, 36, returned, heard a noise upstairs, went to investigate and found Gomez hiding under the bed. He quickly locked the bedroom door and ran to tell police, who picked up the bungling burglar.

Olaus Murie, Noted Naturalist Dies

JACKSON, Wyo. (UPI)— Funeral services will be conducted Friday for Olaus Murie, a well-known naturalist, who died Tuesday. He was 74.

Murie was a past president of the Wilderness Society, an organization interested in conservation of wilderness areas. His love for the outdoors took him to Alaska several times in quest for legislation to make the famed Brooks Mountain range, in the interior of the 49th state, a wilderness area.

Murie came to Jackson in 1927 as a government biologist. After his retirement several years later, he moved to a ranch near Moose, Wyo., to pursue his interest in the outdoors.

Mild and Dry Weather Noted In Most of U.S.

CHICAGO (AP) — Cloudy and rainy weather covered areas in the southern half of the Atlantic states and across northwest sections today but it was fairly mild and dry in most other parts of the nation.

The overcast, wet weather in the Southeast was associated with Hurricane Ginny, the season's seventh tropical storm which is centered some 250 miles east of Daytona Beach, Fla., and moving southwestward. It was expected to hit the Florida east coast tonight. Rains in the Southeast were light.

Stormy weather, with heavy rains and gale-force winds which hit areas along the Oregon coast, moved eastward during the night. Rain fell in scattered sections from northern California to northwest Montana.

Not much relief was indicated immediately in the prolonged severe drought and forest fires in areas from the southern Plains to New England. Dry and mild weather was reported in most areas with unseasonably high temperatures in central sections.

The big game hunting season, scheduled to start Friday in New York State, was not expected to open because of the recent order closing woodland areas because of serious forest fires. State officials reported 25 new fires Tuesday with 94 still burning and a total of 503 since Oct. 1. No rain was in prospect immediately.

In West Virginia 62 new fires in woodland areas were reported. One, within a mile of the statehouse in Charleston, threatened an abandoned sanitarium and several homes. State conservation officials described the forest fires critical through the southern part of the state.

In Arkansas, hunting in 10 eastern counties was banned because of an acute fire threat.

A flow of warm air from the Gulf kept temperatures above seasonal levels during the night northward through the central states to the Great Lakes, with readings in the 60s as far north as Lake Superior. Record high marks for Oct. 22 were reported in Burlington, Iowa, and Springfield, Ill., each 85, and in Bismarck, N.D., with 81.

Scientists claim the solar system was formed about 4.5 billion years ago.

Army statistics show that inductees today are an inch and a quarter taller and 18 pounds heavier than the doughboys of the First World War.

After initial opposition, Senator Dirksen gave way, uttered a sentimental and almost obsequious oration, and voted for the treaty. He was used to such tactics. But Senator Goldwater fought the treaty to the end. Even tho only a small band of senators stood with him, here he spoke for the real majority of Republican voters, who are profoundly disturbed at the concessions President Kennedy has been making toward the Communist bloc.

"Me too" Republicanism is becoming a thing of yesteryear. This fact, more than his remarriage, accounts for Governor Rockefeller's inability to secure any strong support for the presidential nomination outside his own state: for the mass of Republicans suspect that, if elected, he would follow policies almost indistinguishable from Mr. Kennedy's. Without any regular organization to advance his candidacy, Senator Goldwater seems to be assured of enough Republican delegates, right now, to win the nomination. More significant still, surveys indicate that, were the presidential election held tomorrow, Goldwater would be about equal to Kennedy in strength — attracting far more votes than could any other Republican. Governor Nelson Rockefeller, to the contrary, wouldn't stand a Chinaman's chance of beating President Kennedy. Wanting a winner, those Republicans who initially held reservations about nominating Mr. Goldwater are shifting rapidly toward endorsement of the senator from Arizona.

Already, leading Democrats are behaving as if Mr. Goldwater were the Republican nominee. Expecting the 1964 election to be fought chiefly over foreign policy, Senator Church, President Kennedy himself, and other Democratic spokesmen have begun to represent the Democrats as the party of peace, and Mr. Goldwater as a rash enthusiast who would run the risk of catastrophic war.

Yet this may be a mistaken tactic. To be a champion of "appeasement" is an uneasy position — for Americans remember what came of appeasing Hitler. Senator Goldwater argues that war can be prevented only by bold and consistent foreign policy; he says that the Soviet bloc respect only strength and firmness. Public opinion seems to be shifting toward the Goldwater attitude in this, especially since Russian troops remain in Cuba.

Perhaps Mr. Goldwater's principal charm for the reinvigorated Republicans of the sixties is his forthrightness. In their eyes, Senator Goldwater stands for the policy recommended by a very different sort of person—Danton, the French revolutionary. "Audacity, and again audacity, and always audacity!" cried Danton. At first, Mr. Goldwater seemed audacious in opposing the long-accepted timidity of Republican leadership. Substantially, he has won that fight: now he seems audacious in setting himself against Mr. Kennedy's television and movie-magazine popularity. Yet the American public relishes audacious Westerners.

Lodge Is Being Called Home For Consultation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department aaid today U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge is being called home from South Viet Nam for conferences with President Kennedy.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey said Lodge is scheduled to arrive late this month or in early November but gave no specific date.

Lodge took over as ambassador in Saigon in late August, shortly after the Viet Nam government made a series of surprise raids on Buddhist pagodas and rounded up hundreds of monks and nuns. Later arrests included university and high school students.

The Aug. 21 raids deepened a rift with the United States and led Kennedy to call for a change of policy by President Ngo Dinh Diem in order to restore public support and confidence in his government.

Burglar Has Dark Thoughts About Crime

LUGO, Spain (UPI)—Enrique Castedo Gomez crept quietly into a home here last Wednesday and set about burglarizing it. But while he was upstairs Manuel Trigo Pol and his family came home.

For the next six days, police said today, the hapless Gomez, 56, hid in the attic of the house, waiting for the Trigo Pol family to go away so he could get out.

At night, the police said, Gomez went down to the kitchen to steal food. By day he sat hunched up in the tiny attic and thought dark thoughts about the wages of sin.

Tuesday the house finally fell quiet and Gomez, thinking the family had left, climbed down from his attic. But as he passed the main bedroom the temptation became too great and he delayed a moment to rob it.

While he was scooping up the loot, Trigo Pol, 36, returned, heard a noise upstairs, went to investigate and found Gomez hiding under the bed. He quickly locked the bedroom door and ran to tell police, who picked up the bungling burglar.

Olaus Murie, Noted Naturalist Dies

JACKSON, Wyo. (UPI)— Funeral services will be conducted Friday for Olaus Murie, a well-known naturalist, who died Tuesday. He was 74.

Murie was a past president of the Wilderness Society, an organization interested in conservation of wilderness areas. His love for the outdoors took him to Alaska several times in quest for legislation to make the famed Brooks Mountain range, in the interior of the 49th state, a wilderness area.

Murie came to Jackson in 1927 as a government biologist. After his retirement several years later, he moved to a ranch near Moose, Wyo., to pursue his interest in the outdoors.

Mild and Dry Weather Noted In Most of U.S.

CHICAGO (AP) — Cloudy and rainy weather covered areas in the southern half of the Atlantic states and across northwest sections today but it was fairly mild and dry in most other parts of the nation.

The overcast, wet weather in the Southeast was associated with Hurricane Ginny, the season's seventh tropical storm which is centered some 250 miles east of Daytona Beach, Fla., and moving southwestward. It was expected to hit the Florida east coast tonight. Rains in the Southeast were light.

Stormy weather, with heavy rains and gale-force winds which hit areas along the Oregon coast, moved eastward during the night. Rain fell in scattered sections from northern California to northwest Montana.

Not much relief was indicated immediately in the prolonged severe drought and forest fires in areas from the southern Plains to New England. Dry and mild weather was reported in most areas with unseasonably high temperatures in central sections.

The big game hunting season, scheduled to start Friday in New York State, was not expected to open because of the recent order closing woodland areas because of serious forest fires. State officials reported 25 new fires Tuesday with 94 still burning and a total of 503 since Oct. 1. No rain was in prospect immediately.

In West Virginia 62 new fires in woodland areas were reported. One, within a mile of the statehouse in Charleston, threatened an abandoned sanitarium and several homes. State conservation officials described the forest fires critical through the southern part of the state.

In Arkansas, hunting in 10 eastern counties was banned because of an acute fire threat.

A flow of warm air from the Gulf kept temperatures above seasonal levels during the night northward through the central states to the Great Lakes, with readings in the 60s as far north as Lake Superior. Record high marks for Oct. 22 were reported in Burlington, Iowa, and Springfield, Ill., each 85, and in Bismarck, N.D., with 81.

Scientists claim the solar system was formed about 4.5 billion years ago.

Army statistics show that inductees today are an inch and a quarter taller and 18 pounds heavier than the doughboys of the First World War.

Space Station Repair Plans Being Studied

George Hanff, a Lockheed-California Co. scientist, says space station assembly or maintenance will not be practical until major improvements are made in pressure suits for astronauts, vehicle design and tools.

In a study at Lockheed's Burbank plant, Hanff — in a pressurized space suit—performed repairs on a "space vehicle" exterior. He was strapped in a special rig that simulated the free movement of zero-gravity weightlessness.

Hanff said his rig was equipped with a boom, gimbals and swivels to permit almost complete freedom of travel in all directions. He controlled his movements with finger-operated airjets attached to the back of each hand.

The space vehicle itself was a full-scale mock - up of a Lockheed - designed biological satellite.

In his research, Hanff said he found that such tasks as removing and replacing panels or changing power cables took up to five times longer than "on earth."

The pressure suit, he said, restricted freedom of movement—especially for his head and arm and leg joints.

"Air pressure in the gloves made my fingers feel like sausages," Hanff said.

The result, he added, was that the reduction in sensitivity and dexterity prevented handling of some small nuts and bolts—and others only with great difficulty.

Lack of gripping force also complicated work with squeeze type tools, such as pliers.

Foreign Aid Overhaul Is Being Urged

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has advised the administration to overhaul its foreign aid program next year or face the possibility of Congress doing it.

The committee — the program's best friend on Capitol Hill—turned out to be one of its severest critics in a report recommending passage of a $4,202,365,000 foreign aid authorization bill. The Senate starts debate on the bill Monday.

The report revealed that the committee seriously considered —but rejected—an amendment that would have terminated the aid program June 30, 1965, to force sweeping changes in its operations.

"The committee refrained from adopting this amendment in the expectation, which it hopes will not prove unjustified, that the administration will submit a fiscal year 1965 program to Congress which has been revamped in major respects," the report said.

For the fiscal year, starting next July 1, the committee specifically recommended the Agency for International Development curtail its program to eliminate from aid "countries which can take care of themselves." It said "even more selectivity among countries should be introduced."

The report called for prompt and serious consideration of "a greatly-increased utilization of multilateral agencies," such as the World Bank and subsidiaries like the International Development Association.

The report bristled with unexpected criticisms from a committee which recommended restoring $700,290,000 of a $1-billion House cut. The bill was only $327,250,000 shy of what President Kennedy requested.

It said evidence showed the program has been generally successful in strengthening the security and advancing the United States and the free world.

But the committee said it was not impressed with the administration's case for maintaining aid programs, even on a small scale, "in virtually every underdeveloped country in the free world and a in a few developed or relatively developed countries.

Favoritism To Be Ended In Auto Deals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three insurance trade associations agreed today to end what the Justice Department described as a conspiracy to channel damaged autos to favored appraisers and repair shops.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said the proposed consent decree and the civil antitrust suit were filed at the same time in U.S. District court at New York.

Named as defendants were:

The Association of Casualty and Surety Companies, New York, an association of 133 stock insurance companies.

The American Mutual Insurance Alliance, Chicago, an association of 106 mutual insurance companies.

The National Association of Mutual Casualty Companies, Chicago, an association of 26 mutual insurance companies.

Kennedy said the associations worked through a combined national claims committee and regional subcommittees to designate appraisers who would be given the business in auto repair, and the appraisers in turn would decide which repair shops would do the work. He said this plan was in effect in 177 localities throughout the country.

Kennedy said the associations worked through a combined national claims committee and regional subcommittees to designate appraisers who would be given the business in auto repair, and the appraisers in turn would decide which repair shops would do the work. He said this plan was in effect in 177 localities throughout the country.

Heysers Collect $7,500 in Damage Suit

Damages in the amount of $7,530.80 were awarded to Henry and Marian Heyser Wednesday in the District Court suit in which the Heysers had asked over $79,000 in damages from the Hi-Valley Constructors Inc. and George Knox.

Judge William M. Calvert brought judgement against Hi-Valley, and dismissed the plaintiff's case against George Knox.

The Heysers, who live at 8 Pourtales Rd., had charged that they entered into a contract with Hi-Valley for the construction of a home and that the construction company had failed to build the home in a workmanlike manner.

In charges filed against Knox, the Heysers had claimed he falsely represented himself as an architect.

Judge Calvert dismissed the case against Knox on the grounds that he was not acting on his own but on behalf of Hi-Valley.

The judge dismissed a counter claim by Hi-Valley asking a total of $2,257.72 from the Heysers.

The plaintiffs had asked $45,000 from Knox and $34,806.80 from Hi-Valley.

Springs Men To Take Part In Denver Panel

Four Colorado Springs men, active in the employment and education of the handicapped, will take part in a panel discussion Friday in Denver at the annual convention of the Colorado Teachers' Association. Subject of the panel is "Employment of the Handicapped."

Participating in the discussion will be Everett Scott of the Colorado Department of Vocational Rehabilitation, Russ Eacker of the special education department of School District 11 who will be moderator; Kennetho Olson, executive director of Goodwill Industries, and Al Moran, State Employment Department.

The panel will discuss the cooperation of various agencies in a program that is in force in Colorado Springs. It prepares special education students for employment after graduation.

In this joint program are the special education department of school district 11; the state rehabilitation department, which provides counseling and financial assistance; Goodwill Industries which provides work evaluation and adjustment, and the state employment group which affords testing and placement.

Citizens Can Apprehend Unsafe Driver, Judge Says

Private citizens have the same right as police officers to apprehend any person they believe is endangering the safety of others.

This fact was brought out Wednesday in a hearing in Municipal Court.

Karen Wandschneider, 23, 306 Canon Ave., Manitou Springs, was in court on charges of reckless and careless driving on a civilian complaint by Linda Holton, 8 Anita Rd.

Miss Holton testified that while driving east on Manitou Boulevard Oct. 13, Miss Wanschneider passed her car in the right lane, went onto a shoulder, came back on, tried to tie on a headscarf, tried to light a cigaret, kept weaving in and out of traffic, stopping suddenly behind cars, screeching her brakes and honking her horn.

Miss Holton, whose sister was with her, said they thought it might be an emergency and began following Miss Wandschneider.

They followed her into an alley on Boulder, she said, where the woman's car struck a stop sign. Miss Holton said the woman finally stopped in an alley back of a building which she believed to be "Jerry's Bar."

She estimated Miss Wandschneider's speed in some places to between 45 and 50 miles an hour. She said she was too busy watching Miss Wandschnider to check her own speedometer but thought she was driving at a safe speed as she followed the normal flow of traffic.

Miss Wandschneider said she couldn't see what justification Miss Holton had watching her and not watching her own speedometer.

Judge Allan Asher termed Miss Holton's and her sister's motives "of the best" and reminded Miss Wandschneider her conduct of driving, not having been denied, showed a complete disregard for the safety of others.

He pointed out that citizens have the same rights as officers to apprehend careless drivers and found her guilty of the reckless charge.

A $45 fine was levied and Miss Wandschneider was warned that her license would be revoked if she appeared again in court on similar charges.

Reservations Needed for Day At State Hospital

Reservations to attend "Operation Friendship 1964" at the Colorado State Hospital in Pueblo should be made by Monday at the El Paso County Association for Mental Health.

Mrs. Lorna Hinds, executive director, said chartered buses will leave the association office at 509½ N. Tejon St. at 10 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 2, returning about 4 p.m. The office number for reservations is 633-5306.

Patients and staff at the hospital have planned a full day of activities, including a luncheon in the patients' cafeteria and a demonstration of treatment methods. A tour of geographical divisions will also be made.

Car-Ambulance Collision Injures Two Men

Two men received injuries Wednesday morning when a car collided with an ambulance at Kiowa and Weber Streets, police reported.

The driver of the ambulance, Lynn Orville Price, 23, of 422 W. Bijou St., was treated at St. Francis Hospital and released after he complained of an arm injury.

Young, of 729 N. Weber St., was ticketed for taking the right of way from an emergency vehicle, police said.

The ambulance, owned by the E and E Ambulance Co., was east bound on Kiowa with the red light flashing and the siren on when it was hit on the side by the south bound Young car, according to police.

McShane Finds Woman Guilty of Reckless Driving

Catarino Oliver Tapia, 28, of 316 W. Cameron Ave., was fined $25 and court costs of $6 by Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane Wednesday for reckless driving on Pine Loop Road at the U. S. Air Force Academy.

Capt. Cecilia A. Kreminsky, USAF, cited Tapia Oct. 13.

William W. Geasey, 20, Ft. Carson, was fined $15 and $4 costs for speeding 70-miles per hour in a 60-m. p. h. posted zone about four miles south of Colorado Springs Sunday by Judge McShane.

State Patrolman P. H. Cornell was the ticketing officer.

Judge McShane also fined George Easter, 40, 556 E. Costilla St., $10 and $4 costs for improper starting from a parked position on E. Street, Ivywild.

Easter was cited on Oct. 17 by Patrolman Gordon W. Baumgardner.

Four cases of careless driving came before Judge McShane Wednesday.

The offense occurred Oct. 1 on U. S. Highway 85-87 in the vicinity of the Academy.

Patrolman Pete Thiel was the ticketing officer.

The three other persons charged with careless driving were each fined $10 and $4 costs. They were:

Kenneth L. Garrett, 22, 1053 Montrose St., who was cited Tuesday on Circle Drive by Patrolman C. W. Hubbard.

Also on Bennett Avenue Oct. 17, Patrolman Hubbard cited Virgil C. Roberds Jr., 1102 Bennett Ave.

Judge McShane found two other persons guilty of traffic violations and assessed the fines at $6 and $4 costs each. They were:

Little Girl Witness Shows Composure in City Court

Shonna Watson, 9, 2215 E. San Miguel St., would have made many of her elders envious of the composure she displayed Wednesday on the stand at Municipal Court.

The child's father Harold Watson was the complaining witness on a breach of peace against Lige Cox, 61, 2000 E. Uintah St., represented in court by attorney Fillmore Gibson.

Under gentle questioning by Deputy City Attorney Bob Isaac, Shonna testified that she and several other children were coming home from school Oct. 2 and paused in front of a house at 1121 Swope Ave.

Shonna said she stopped her bike in the gutter and was resting her foot on the curb when Cox yelled from his yard for them to stay off the grass.

She testified Cox said "if I didn't have sense, he'd make me nave some."

"Were you frightened?" Isaac asked and Shonna said she was "in a way."

Gibson asked the child if she had seen a sign in front of the Swope Avenue house reading "Keep Off the Grass." She said she had but maintained she was in the gutter, not on the grass.

When Gibson asked if a white-haired girl was with her and had run onto the grass, Shonna said this was true. Gibson then asked if she knew Cox was the owner of the house and Shonna said she did not.

The child began to cry quietly and was dismissed from the witness stand by Judge Allan Asher as Gibson apologized.

Gibson asked for a dismissal on grounds that an owner has the right to protect his property and order anyone to stay off his grass.

Isaac reminded the court that Cox had threatened the children and said he thought it "important to protect our children from older persons and adults."

Judge Asher labeled Cox's conduct as "not gentlemanly." "You should consider the children's age," he told Cox. "You scared the children and I think you went perhaps a little far."

Speed Record Holders to Visit Cadet Squadron

Approximately 50 members of the 305th Bomb Wing, holders of a brand new Tokyo to London speed record, will visit the 20th Cadet Squadron today thru Sunday.

The 305th sponsors the 20th under the Air Force Academy's cadet squadron sponsorship program.

A three-man crew of a 305th B-58 Hustler smashed the previous Tokyo to London record by roaring the 8,028 miles in an elapsed time of just eight hours, 35 minutes.

Ten officers from the Bomb Wing will really "live the cadet life" during their brief stay. The men will be lodged with hosting cadets in Vandenberg Hall and will go to meals, classes, and physical education courses with their hosts.

The officers will be briefed on the Academy by Cadets First Class Fred Olmsted and Herb Bevelhymer.

All the visiting officers will also be guests at social functions Friday and Saturday night.

Thru the cadet unit sponsorship program, operational Air Force organizations have the opportunity to associate closely with cadet squadrons.

A two-way street for information is provided allowing enlisted men and officers in the sponsoring units to learn more about the Academy and permitting cadets to get the low down on life in a typical Air Force unit.

C&E Conference Adjourns Today

The annual Air Defense Command Communications and Electronics conference heads into its third and final day today continuing a series of lectures and demonstrations by the nations top military and civilian C and E experts.

Since the welcome address by Lt. Gen. Herbert B. Thatcher, ADC Commander, the conferees have been briefed on more than 20 facets of our Communications and Electronics system.

Several interesting demonstrations have been presented, most notable being the Laser demonstration presented yesterday by Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph.

6,000 Scouts Expected at AFA Game Here

Saturday has been officially designated as Colorado Scout Day at the Academy and scouters in all sizes, shapes and shades of uniforms will be present to cheer the Falcons on as they seek their fourth win of the season against the powerful B.C. squad.

State scout leaders expect a bumper crop of approximately 6,000 boys to head for the Academy from all parts of Colorado.

Denver scouts will lead the parade with some 3,000 expected from the capitol city. Pueblo will send 1,000 scouts and Colorado Springs and Greeley approximately 500 each with the remainder coming in smaller groups from other areas.

Saturday's game marks the second Scout Day at the Academy and officials hope it will become a permanent affair. The interest scouts of all ages hold in the Academy is reflected in the fact that nearly 5,700 scouts made official visits between March 9 and August 31 of this year. Hundreds of others were here on unofficial visits with family, friends, etc.

Love Proclaims Practical Nurse Week

Gov. John A. Love has issued a proclamation naming Oct. 27-Nov. 3 Practical Nurse Week in the State of Colorado.

The governor calls upon the citizens of Colorado to give recognition to the licensed practical nurses who are members of the Practical Nurse Association of Colorado during this week for their contributions to nursing service in meeting our health needs.

The El Paso Division of the association will hold a meeting Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the Albany Hotel in Denver.

Guilty Charge Brought in Child Assault

Ervin Leroy Knott, 22, of Ft. Carson, was found guilty Wednesday by Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane of assault and battery on his minor son, Marcel L. Knott.

According to the charge, Knott beat the boy about the head with his hand. Police said that the child was now in the temporary care of the El Paso County Welfare Department, Child Welfare Division.

Judge McShane sentenced Knott to 90 days in the county jail and assessed court costs at $11.80.

Public Works Men To Hear Report On Homestake

Three Colorado Springs city officials will discuss the Homestake water project at 2 p.m. Friday at the Palmer House during a day-long meeting of the Colorado Chapter of the American Public Works Association.

The officials will be City Manager John M. Biery, City Attorney Frederick T. Henry and Fred Wiley, chief engineer for the Department of Public Utilities.

Biery said the talk would be illustrated with various slides and photographs.

Colorado Springs and the City of Aurora got construction under way earlier this year on the mammoth water diversion project. An access road and a tunnel more than five miles long are now being constructed.

The first water from the long-range program should reach the two cities in 1966.

Qualified speakers will discuss other topics of interest to public works directors at the Friday meeting. More than 40 public works officials from Colorado and some surrounding states will attend.

Denver Man Guilty of Bad Check Charges

Bobby Moates, 28, of 1260 Custer St., Denver, was found guilty Wednesday by Judge James F. Quine Jr. of passing four bad checks for a total of $46.25.

According to the charges, on April 3, Moates gave a bad check to the Park Cafe, 110 E. Cucharras St., in the amount of $10.

On April 4, he gave a bad check to Safeway Stores, Inc., 1200 S. Tejon St., in the amount of $10; and another in the amount of $5 to Al De Mark, Inc., 402 S. Tejon St.

On April 6, Safeway Stores was again the victim thru a bad check in the amount of $21.25.

Judge Quine gave Moates a 60-day suspended sentence provided restitution was made and court cost of $42.25 were paid.

In another bad check charge, Richard A. Demers, 22, 712 S. Nevada Ave., was found guilty by Judge Quine of giving a bad check Aug. 29, to Tony De Mark, 3015 N. Nevada Ave., in the amount of $20.

Demers was given probation for one year provided he made restitution within six months and paid court costs of $7.

State Recreation Society Elects Don Kupfer

Don Kupfer, activities supervisor for the City Park and Recreation Department, is the president-elect of the Colorado Recreation Society.

He was elected to the post at the recent annual conference of the Society held at Estes Park. Kupfer will serve as president in 1965, altho he will take over in the fall of 1964.

President for the next year is also from Colorado Springs, Miss Marjorie Miller, who is recreation director at the Air Defense Command.

Kupfer joined the City Park and Recreation Department two years ago, following his retirement from the Air Force. The former AF officer has been active in the Colorado Recreation Society since 1955.

Two other officials of the city Park and Recreation Department are past presidents of the Society. They are Stuart Richter, director of the department, and Moe Rollert, recreation director.

Christmas Tree Licenses Available

City Clerk-Treasurer Robert E. Parker reminded today that licenses to sell Christmas trees can now be obtained in his office at City Hall.

The reminder was made at this early date because Nov. 20 is the last day that the city clerk's office will accept applications for the licenses.

These licenses cost $25. Last year 19 of them were sold.

Parker said that Christmas trees sold within the city limits have to be dispensed on property that is properly zoned for this type of business.

Citizens Can Apprehend Unsafe Driver, Judge Says

Private citizens have the same right as police officers to apprehend any person they believe is endangering the safety of others.

This fact was brought out Wednesday in a hearing in Municipal Court.

Karen Wandschneider, 23, 306 Canon Ave., Manitou Springs, was in court on charges of reckless and careless driving on a civilian complaint by Linda Holton, 8 Anita Rd.

Miss Holton testified that while driving east on Manitou Boulevard Oct. 13, Miss Wanschneider passed her car in the right lane, went onto a shoulder, came back on, tried to tie on a headscarf, tried to light a cigaret, kept weaving in and out of traffic, stopping suddenly behind cars, screeching her brakes and honking her horn.

Miss Holton, whose sister was with her, said they thought it might be an emergency and began following Miss Wandschneider.

They followed her into an alley on Boulder, she said, where the woman's car struck a stop sign. Miss Holton said the woman finally stopped in an alley back of a building which she believed to be "Jerry's Bar."

She estimated Miss Wandschneider's speed in some places to between 45 and 50 miles an hour. She said she was too busy watching Miss Wandschneider to check her own speedometer but thought she was driving at a safe speed as she followed the normal flow of traffic.

Miss Wandschneider said she couldn't see what justification Miss Holton had watching her and not watching her own speedometer.

Judge Allan Asher termed Miss Holton's and her sister's motives "of the best" and reminded Miss Wandschneider her conduct of driving, not having been denied, showed a complete disregard for the safety of others.

He pointed out that citizens have the same rights as officers to apprehend careless drivers and found her guilty of the reckless charge.

A $45 fine was levied and Miss Wandschneider was warned that her license would be revoked if she appeared again in court on similar charges.

Kimble Saunders, 17, 1807 N. Nevada Ave., was found guilty of a muffler violation and fined $10. Charles Gabe, 31, Denver, pleaded guiltly to a drunk charge and received a $50 fine which was suspended on condition he return to his home.

Charges of riotous conduct and breach of peace were dismissed against Morris Wilkes, 22, 723 E. Moreno St., on the failure of the complaining witness to appear in court.

Bruce McLaughlin, 24, 1 Pine Rd., Broadmoor, had a $40 bond ordered forfeited when he failed to appear in court on a speeding charge.

Warrants for the arrests of three men who failed to appear in court Monday were ordered cancelled by Judge Asher, who said they had been issued in error. The men were John Toomb 22, Fountain; Donald Tucker, 19, 2505 E. Highway 24, and Glen Work, 41, 914 Westmoor Dr., all charged with traffic violations.

William W. Geasey, 20, Ft. Carson, was fined $15 and $4 costs for speeding 70-miles per hour in a 60-m. p. h. posted zone about four miles south of Colorado Springs Sunday by Judge McShane.

State Patrolman P. H. Cornell was the ticketing officer.

Judge McShane also fined George Easter, 40, 556 E. Costilla St., $10 and $4 costs for improper starting from a parked position on E. Street, Ivywild.

Easter was cited on Oct. 17 by Patrolman Gordon W. Baumgardner.

Four cases of careless driving came before Judge McShane Wednesday.

The offense occurred Oct. 1 on U. S. Highway 85-87 in the vicinity of the Academy.

Patrolman Pete Thiel was the ticketing officer.

The three other persons charged with careless driving were each fined $10 and $4 costs. They were:

Kenneth L. Garrett, 22, 1053 Montrose St., who was cited Tuesday on Circle Drive by Patrolman C. W. Hubbard.

Also on Bennett Avenue Oct. 17, Patrolman Hubbard cited Virgil C. Roberds Jr., 1102 Bennett Ave.

Judge McShane found two other persons guilty of traffic violations and assessed the fines at $6 and $4 costs each. They were:

Shonna Watson, 9, 2215 E. San Miguel St., would have made many of her elders envious of the composure she displayed Wednesday on the stand at Municipal Court.

The child's father Harold Watson was the complaining witness on a breach of peace against Lige Cox, 61, 2000 E. Uintah St., represented in court by attorney Fillmore Gibson.

Under gentle questioning by Deputy City Attorney Bob Isaac, Shonna testified that she and several other children were coming home from school Oct. 2 and paused in front of a house at 1121 Swope Ave.

Shonna said she stopped her bike in the gutter and was resting her foot on the curb when Cox yelled from his yard for them to stay off the grass.

She testified Cox said "if I didn't have sense, he'd make me have some."

"Were you frightened?" Isaac asked and Shonna said she was "in a way."

Gibson asked the child if she had seen a sign in front of the Swope Avenue house reading "Keep Off the Grass." She said she had but maintained she was in the gutter, not on the grass.

When Gibson asked if a white-haired girl was with her and had run onto the grass, Shonna said this was true. Gibson then asked if she knew Cox was the owner of the house and Shonna said she did not.

The child began to cry quietly and was dismissed from the witness stand by Judge Allan Asher as Gibson apologized.

Gibson asked for a dismissal on grounds that an owner has the right to protect his property and order anyone to stay off his grass.

Isaac reminded the court that Cox had threatened the children and said he thought it "important to protect our children from older persons and adults."

Judge Asher labeled Cox's conduct as "not gentlemanly." "You should consider the children's age," he told Cox. "You scared the children and I think you went perhaps a little far."

Speed Record Holders to Visit Cadet Squadron

Approximately 50 members of the 305th Bomb Wing, holders of a brand new Tokyo to London speed record, will visit the 20th Cadet Squadron today thru Sunday.

The 305th sponsors the 20th under the Air Force Academy's cadet squadron sponsorship program.

A three-man crew of a 305th B-58 Hustler smashed the previous Tokyo to London record by roaring the 8,028 miles in an elapsed time of just eight hours, 35 minutes.

Ten officers from the Bomb Wing will really "live the cadet life" during their brief stay. The men will be lodged with hosting cadets in Vandenberg Hall and will go to meals, classes, and physical education courses with their hosts.

The officers will be briefed on the Academy by Cadets First Class Fred Olmsted and Herb Bevelhymer.

All the visiting officers will also be guests at social functions Friday and Saturday night.

Thru the cadet unit sponsorship program, operational Air Force organizations have the opportunity to associate closely with cadet squadrons.

A two-way street for information is provided allowing enlisted men and officers in the sponsoring units to learn more about the Academy and permitting cadets to get the low down on life in a typical Air Force unit.

C&E Conference Adjourns Today

The annual Air Defense Command Communications and Electronics conference heads into its third and final day today continuing a series of lectures and demonstrations by the nations top military and civilian C and E experts.

Since the welcome address by Lt. Gen. Herbert B. Thatcher, ADC Commander, the conferees have been briefed on more than 20 facets of our Communications and Electronics system.

Several interesting demonstrations have been presented, most notable being the Laser demonstration presented yesterday by Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph.

6,000 Scouts Expected at AFA Game Here

Saturday has been officially designated as Colorado Scout Day at the Academy and scouters in all sizes, shapes and shades of uniforms will be present to cheer the Falcons on as they seek their fourth win of the season against the powerful B.C. squad.

State scout leaders expect a bumper crop of approximately 6,000 boys to head for the Academy from all parts of Colorado.

Denver scouts will lead the parade with some 3,000 expected from the capitol city. Pueblo will send 1,000 scouts and Colorado Springs and Greeley approximately 500 each with the remainder coming in smaller groups from other areas.

Saturday's game marks the second Scout Day at the Academy and officials hope it will become a permanent affair. The interest scouts of all ages hold in the Academy is reflected in the fact that nearly 5,700 scouts made official visits between March 9 and August 31 of this year. Hundreds of others were here on unofficial visits with family, friends, etc.

Love Proclaims Practical Nurse Week

Gov. John A. Love has issued a proclamation naming Oct. 27-Nov. 3 Practical Nurse Week in the State of Colorado.

The governor calls upon the citizens of Colorado to give recognition to the licensed practical nurses who are members of the Practical Nurse Association of Colorado during this week for their contributions to nursing service in meeting our health needs.

The El Paso Division of the association will hold a meeting Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the Albany Hotel in Denver.

Guilty Charge Brought in Child Assault

Ervin Leroy Knott, 22, of Ft. Carson, was found guilty Wednesday by Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane of assault and battery on his minor son, Marcel L. Knott.

According to the charge, Knott beat the boy about the head with his hand. Police said that the child was now in the temporary care of the El Paso County Welfare Department, Child Welfare Division.

Judge McShane sentenced Knott to 90 days in the county jail and assessed court costs at $11.80.

Public Works Men To Hear Report On Homestake

Three Colorado Springs city officials will discuss the Homestake water project at 2 p.m. Friday at the Palmer House during a day-long meeting of the Colorado Chapter of the American Public Works Association.

The officials will be City Manager John M. Biery, City Attorney Frederick T. Henry and Fred Wiley, chief engineer for the Department of Public Utilities.

Biery said the talk would be illustrated with various slides and photographs.

Colorado Springs and the City of Aurora got construction under way earlier this year on the mammoth water diversion project. An access road and a tunnel more than five miles long are now being constructed.

The first water from the long-range program should reach the two cities in 1966.

Qualified speakers will discuss other topics of interest to public works directors at the Friday meeting. More than 40 public works officials from Colorado and some surrounding states will attend.

Denver Man Guilty of Bad Check Charges

Bobby Moates, 28, of 1260 Custer St., Denver, was found guilty Wednesday by Judge James F. Quine Jr. of passing four bad checks for a total of $46.25.

According to the charges, on April 3, Moates gave a bad check to the Park Cafe, 110 E. Cucharras St., in the amount of $10.

On April 4, he gave a bad check to Safeway Stores, Inc., 1200 S. Tejon St., in the amount of $10; and another in the amount of $5 to Al De Mark, Inc., 402 S. Tejon St.

On April 6, Safeway Stores was again the victim thru a bad check in the amount of $21.25.

Judge Quine gave Moates a 60-day suspended sentence provided restitution was made and court cost of $42.25 were paid.

In another bad check charge, Richard A. Demers, 22, 712 S. Nevada Ave., was found guilty by Judge Quine of giving a bad check Aug. 29, to Tony De Mark, 3015 N. Nevada Ave., in the amount of $20.

Demers was given probation for one year provided he made restitution within six months and paid court costs of $7.

State Recreation Society Elects Don Kupfer

Don Kupfer, activities supervisor for the City Park and Recreation Department, is the president-elect of the Colorado Recreation Society.

He was elected to the post at the recent annual conference of the Society held at Estes Park. Kupfer will serve as president in 1965, altho he will take over in the fall of 1964.

President for the next year is also from Colorado Springs, Miss Marjorie Miller, who is recreation director at the Air Defense Command.

Kupfer joined the City Park and Recreation Department two years ago, following his retirement from the Air Force. The former AF officer has been active in the Colorado Recreation Society since 1955.

Two other officials of the city Park and Recreation Department are past presidents of the Society. They are Stuart Richter, director of the department, and Moe Rollert, recreation director.

Christmas Tree Licenses Available

The reminder was made at this early date because Nov. 20 is the last day that the city clerk's office will accept applications for the licenses.

These licenses cost $25. Last year 19 of them were sold.

Parker said that Christmas trees sold within the city limits have to be dispensed on property that is properly zoned for this type of business.

Heysers Collect $7,500 in Damage Suit

Damages in the amount of $7,530.80 were awarded to Henry and Marian Heyser Wednesday in the District Court suit in which the Heysers had asked over $79,000 in damages from the Hi-Valley Constructors Inc. and George Knox.

Judge William M. Calvert brought judgement against Hi-Valley, and dismissed the plaintiff's case against George Knox.

The Heysers, who live at 8 Pourtales Rd., had charged that they entered into a contract with Hi-Valley for the construction of a home and that the construction company had failed to build the home in a workmanlike manner.

In charges filed against Knox, the Heysers had claimed he falsely represented himself as an architect.

Judge Calvert dismissed the case against Knox on the grounds that he was not acting on his own but on behalf of Hi-Valley.

The judge dismissed a counter claim by Hi-Valley asking a total of $2,257.72 from the Heysers.

The plaintiffs had asked $45,000 from Knox and $34,806.80 from Hi-Valley.

Little Girl Witness Shows Composure in City Court

Shonna Watson, 9, 2215 E. San Miguel St., would have made many of her elders envious of the composure she displayed Wednesday on the stand at Municipal Court.

The child's father Harold Watson was the complaining witness on a breach of peace against Lige Cox, 61, 2000 E. Uintah St., represented in court by attorney Fillmore Gibson

Under gentle questioning by Deputy City Attorney Bob Isaac, Shonna testified that she and several other children were coming home from school Oct. 2 and paused in front of a house at 1121 Swope Ave.

Shonna said she stopped her bike in the gutter and was resting her foot on the curb when Cox yelled from his yard for them to stay off the grass.

She testified Cox said "if I didn't have sense, he'd make me have some."

"Were you frightened?" Isaac asked and Shonna said she was "in a way."

Gibson asked the child if she had seen a sign in front of the Swope Avenue house reading "Keep Off the Grass." She said she had but maintained she was in the gutter, not on the grass.

When Gibson asked if a white-haired girl was with her and had run onto the grass, Shonna said this was true. Gibson then asked if she knew Cox was the owner of the house and Shonna said she did not.

The child began to cry quietly and was dismissed from the witness stand by Judge Allan Asher as Gibson apologized.

Gibson asked for a dismissal on grounds that an owner has the right to protect his property and order anyone to stay off his grass.

Isaac reminded the court that Cox had threatened the children and said he thought it "important to protect our children from older persons and adults."

Judge Asher labeled Cox's conduct as "not gentlemanly." "You should consider the children's age," he told Cox. "You scared the children and I think you went perhaps a little far."

Speed Record Holders to Visit Cadet Squadron

Approximately 50 members of the 305th Bomb Wing, holders of a brand new Tokyo to London speed record, will visit the 20th Cadet Squadron today thru Sunday.

The 305th sponsors the 20th under the Air Force Academy's cadet squadron sponsorship program.

A three-man crew of a 305th B-58 Hustler smashed the previous Tokyo to London record by roaring the 8,028 miles in an elapsed time of just eight hours, 35 minutes.

Ten officers from the Bomb Wing will really "live the cadet 'ife" during their brief stay. The men will be lodged with hosting cadets in Vandenberg Hall and will go to meals, classes, and physical education courses with their hosts.

The officers will be briefed on the Academy by Cadets First Class Fred Olmsted and Herb Bevelhymer.

All the visiting officers will also be guests at social functions Friday and Saturday night.

Thru the cadet unit sponsorship program, operational Air Force organizations have the opportunity to associate closely with cadet squadrons.

A two-way street for information is provided allowing enlisted men and officers in the sponsoring units to learn more about the Academy and permitting cadets to get the low down on life in a typical Air Force unit.

C&E Conference Adjourns Today

The annual Air Defense Command Communications and Electronics conference heads into its third and final day today continuing a series of lectures and demonstrations by the nations top military and civilian C and E experts.

Since the welcome address by Lt. Gen. Herbert B. Thatcher, ADC Commander, the conferees have been briefed on more than 20 facets of our Communications and Electronics system.

Several interesting demonstrations have been presented, most notable being the Laser demonstration presented yesterday by Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph.

6,000 Scouts Expected at AFA Game Here

Saturday has been officially designated as Colorado Scout Day at the Academy and scouters in all sizes, shapes and shades of uniforms will be present to cheer the Falcons on as they seek their fourth win of the season against the powerful B.C. squad.

State scout leaders expect a bumper crop of approximately 6,000 boys to head for the Academy from all parts of Colorado.

Denver scouts will lead the parade with some 3,000 expected from the capitol city. Pueblo will send 1,000 scouts and Colorado Springs and Greeley approximately 500 each with the remainder coming in smaller groups from other areas.

Saturday's game marks the second Scout Day at the Academy and officials hope it will become a permanent affair. The interest scouts of all ages hold in the Academy is reflected in the fact that nearly 5,700 scouts made official visits between March 9 and August 31 of this year. Hundreds of others were here on unofficial visits with family, friends, etc.

Love Proclaims Practical Nurse Week

Gov. John A. Love has issued a proclamation naming Oct. 27-Nov. 3 Practical Nurse Week in the State of Colorado.

The governor calls upon the citizens of Colorado to give recognition to the licensed practical nurses who are members of the Practical Nurse Association of Colorado during this week for their contributions to nursing service in meeting our health needs.

The El Paso Division of the association will hold a meeting Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the Albany Hotel in Denver.

Guilty Charge Brought in Child Assault

Ervin Leroy Knott, 22, of Ft. Carson, was found guilty Wednesday by Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane of assault and battery on his minor son, Marcel L. Knott.

According to the charge, Knott beat the boy about the head with his hand. Police said that the child was now in the temporary care of the El Paso County Welfare Department, Child Welfare Division.

Judge McShane sentenced Knott to 90 days in the county jail and assessed court costs at $11.80.

Public Works Men To Hear Report On Homestake

Three Colorado Springs city officials will discuss the Homestake water project at 2 p.m. Friday at the Palmer House during a day-long meeting of the Colorado Chapter of the American Public Works Association.

The officials will be City Manager John M. Biery, City Attorney Frederick T. Henry and Fred Wiley, chief engineer for the Department of Public Utilities.

Biery said the talk would be illustrated with various slides and photographs.

Colorado Springs and the City of Aurora got construction under way earlier this year on the mammoth water diversion project. An access road and a tunnel more than five miles long are now being constructed.

The first water from the long-range program should reach the two cities in 1966.

Qualified speakers will discuss other topics of interest to public works directors at the Friday meeting. More than 40 public works officials from Colorado and some surrounding states will attend.

Denver Man Guilty of Bad Check Charges

Bobby Moates, 28, of 1260 Custer St., Denver, was found guilty Wednesday by Judge James F. Quine Jr of passing four bad checks for a total of $46.25.

According to the charges, on April 3, Moates gave a bad check to the Park Cafe, 110 E. Cucharras St., in the amount of $10.

On April 4, he gave a bad check to Safeway Stores, Inc., 1200 S. Tejon St., in the amount of $10; and another in the amount of $5 to Al De Mark, Inc., 402 S. Tejon St.

On April 6, Safeway Stores was again the victim thru a bad check in the amount of $21.25.

Judge Quine gave Moates a 60-day suspended sentence provided restitution was made and court cost of $42.25 were paid.

In another bad check charge, Richard A. Demers, 22, 712 S. Nevada Ave., was found guilty by Judge Quine of giving a bad check Aug. 29, to Tony De Mark, 3015 N. Nevada Ave., in the amount of $20.

Demers was given probation for one year provided he made restitution within six months and paid court costs of $7.

State Recreation Society Elects Don Kupfer

Don Kupfer, activities supervisor for the City Park and Recreation Department, is the president-elect of the Colorado Recreation Society.

He was elected to the post at the recent annual conference of the Society held at Estes Park. Kupfer will serve as president in 1965, altho he will take over in the fall of 1964.

President for the next year is also from Colorado Springs, Miss Marjorie Miller, who is recreation director at the Air Defense Command.

Kupfer joined the City Park and Recreation Department two years ago, following his retirement from the Air Force. The former AF officer has been active in the Colorado Recreation Society since 1955.

Two other officials of the city Park and Recreation Department are past presidents of the Society. They are Stuart Richter, director of the department, and Moe Rollert, recreation director.

Christmas Tree Licenses Available

The reminder was made at this early date because Nov. 20 is the last day that the city clerk's office will accept applications for the licenses.

These licenses cost $25. Last year 19 of them were sold.

Parker said that Christmas trees sold within the city limits have to be dispensed on property that is property zoned for this type of business.

Looking At Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1963, By the Chicago Tribune

Hollywood—Bob Hope's timing was never better than when he signed Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale, and Tommy Davis to sing and dance on his next TV special—before the world series began. Their agent has been screaming unfair ever since they became world champions, but Hope remained firm. "Sure, I got 'em at a good price, but I'd have to pay them the same if they'd dropped four games."

In the midst of rehearsals, Hope tossed a luncheon for the fellows, and the Yanks came in for some roasting. Somebody asked whatever happened to them. "They're still on Ellis Island," said Bob. "Can't get back onto New York City. No, seriously, they're in spring training." Hope said after working with these Dodger heroes, he had great respect for Milton Berle. "But I get nervous when Drysdale wets his finger when he turns the pages of the script. There's a new Don Drysdale doll. You wind it up and it spits at you."

Sandy Koufax said, "I want to thank Hope for giving us a chance to get out of show business." Tommy Davis is the best dancer, and the fellows will make their entrance in top hat and tails.

Julie Andrews and husband bought their first home near Wimbledon. Julie will be here soon for "The Americanization of Emily" with Jim Garner. She'll stop in New York long enough to listen to the score of Herman Levin's new musical "Cat and Mouse."

Susan Oliver, a blonde with a big future, was offered a leading role in a musical version of "Golden Boy" which goes on Broadway this spring with Sammy Davis Jr. Those "Bye Bye Birdie" composers did the score, and Peter Coe directs. Susan's making "Looking for Love" at M-G-M. Says when she has a problem, she always goes to the boss, Bob Weitman: "People at the top seem to have more time."

Connie Frances got flowers from everybody but her boy friend when she started "Love" at Metro. He sent her a 150-pound reducing machine. Don't know whether he was kidding or sneaking in a commercial—he works for Vic Tanney on Long Island

Jim Hutton, after working with both these girls, hops to the Valley to be Sandra Dee's leading man in "Richest Girl in Town."

Paula Prentiss says she's not deserting us for New York: "But I've got to live with my husband. However, when anybody wants me for a picture, I'll be right out." Her husband will be here for eight weeks in "Tchin-Tchin" and she'll come along. She's playing herself in the Connie Frances picture. I asked how she liked working with Peter Sellers in "Henry Orient." "You know," said Paula, "he's a lot like the character he played in 'Lolita' —sort of sinister."

Jim Backus wrote from London: "I'm filming a thing called 'Espionage,' playing an American ambassador, what else. Henny is doing a BBC panel plus interview shows and rapidly becoming the Arlene Francis of England. The Savoy lobby is like your living room. Saw Joan Bennett and Fred Clark—they're in 'Never Too Late.' Mrs. Danny Kaye has a beautiful suite here. Eve Arden and husband Brooks West remain another year. Frank Ross and wife stopped off en route to Rome."

Bob Fuller sent me an exquisite Japanese doll in a glass case with this note: "In '62 I made a P. A. tour of Japan and the Japanese showered me with gifts. It cost $500 to have them crated and get thru customs. The crate had been in storage until we moved into our new home. We opened it and it was incredible. Beautiful brocaded dolls, samurai swords, water colors, etchings, happy coats, over a million tiny folded paper happy cranes, transistor radios, cameras, hand-carved bows and arrows. It was such fun, Patti and I wanted you to share it with us."

Hollywood—Bob Hope's timing was never better than when he signed Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale, and Tommy Davis to sing and dance on his next TV special—before the world series began. Their agent has been screaming unfair ever since they became world champions, but Hope remained firm. "Sure, I got 'em at a good price, but I'd have to pay them the same if they'd dropped four games."

In the midst of rehearsals, Hope tossed a luncheon for the fellows, and the Yanks came in for some roasting. Somebody asked whatever happened to them. "They're still on Ellis Island," said Bob. "Can't get back onto New York City. No, seriously, they're in spring training." Hope said after working with these Dodger heroes, he had great respect for Milton Berle. "But I get nervous when Drysdale wets his finger when he turns the pages of the script. There's a new Don Drysdale doll. You wind it up and it spits at you."

Sandy Koufax said, "I want to thank Hope for giving us a chance to get out of show business." Tommy Davis is the best dancer, and the fellows will make their entrance in top hat and tails.

Julie Andrews and husband bought their first home near Wimbledon. Julie will be here soon for "The Americanization of Emily" with Jim Garner. She'll stop in New York long enough to listen to the score of Herman Levin's new musical "Cat and Mouse."

Susan Oliver, a blonde with a big future, was offered a leading role in a musical version of "Golden Boy" which goes on Broadway this spring with Sammy Davis Jr. Those "Bye Bye Birdie" composers did the score, and Peter Coe directs. Susan's making "Looking for Love" at M-G-M. Says when she has a problem, she always goes to the boss, Bob Weitman: "People at the top seem to have more time."

Connie Frances got flowers from everybody but her boy friend when she started "Love" at Metro. He sent her a 150-pound reducing machine. Don't know whether he was kidding or sneaking in a commercial—he works for Vic Tanney on Long Island

Jim Hutton, after working with both these girls, hops to the Valley to be Sandra Dee's leading man in "Richest Girl in Town."

Paula Prentiss says she's not deserting us for New York: "But I've got to live with my husband. However, when anybody wants me for a picture, I'll be right out." Her husband will be here for eight weeks in "Tchin-Tchin" and she'll come along. She's playing herself in the Connie Frances picture. I asked how she liked working with Peter Sellers in "Henry Orient." "You know," said Paula, "he's a lot like the character he played in 'Lolita'—sort of sinister."

Jim Backus wrote from London: "I'm filming a thing called 'Espionage,' playing an American ambassador, what else. Henny is doing a BBC panel plus interview shows and rapidly becoming the Arlene Francis of England. The Savoy lobby is like your living room. Saw Joan Bennett and Fred Clark—they're in 'Never Too Late.' Mrs. Danny Kaye has a beautiful suite here. Eve Arden and husband Brooks West remain another year. Frank Ross and wife stopped off en route to Rome."

Bob Fuller sent me an exquisite Japanese doll in a glass case with this note: "In '62 I made a P. A. tour of Japan and the Japanese showered me with gifts. It cost $800 to have them crated and get thru customs. The crate had been in storage until we moved into our new home. We opened it and it was incredible. Beautiful brocaded dolls, samurai swords, water colors, etchings, happy coats, over a million tiny folded paper happy cranes, transistor radios, cameras, hand-carved bows and arrows. It was such fun; Patti and I wanted you to share it with us."

Barry Reported Top Choice For Primaries

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Highly placed Republicans now class Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona as the favorite to win crucial presidential primary contests in New Hampshire and California.

In both states, Goldwater is expected to collide with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. The New Hampshire primary March 10 is the nation's first. California will close out the presidential primary season June 2, six weeks before the GOP National Convention.

New Hampshire is regarded as a critical test for Rockefeller, who needs to make a good showing there to stay alive as a candidate for the presidential nomination.

But while Goldwater is rated the favorite, uncommitted Republicans believe that the small state is territory well adapted to the intensive campaign the New Yorker is expected to conduct.

Although neither Goldwater nor Rockefeller is an announced candidate, both are viewed as active contenders for the nomination. An early announcement is expected from Rockefeller. Goldwater presumably passed the point of no return when he set up a committee headed by former Sen. William F. Knowland to advise him whether to enter the California primary. An adverse recommendation is deemed inconceivable.

Other Republican wheels have enlisted in the Rockefeller campaign, but none has the stature of Knowland, former Republican leader of the U.S. Senate.

GOP analysts now visualize a convention needing more than two ballots to nominate a presidential candidate. But they also concede that Goldwater could win on the first ballot after a string of primary victories comparable to those won by President Kennedy in 1960.

Favorite son movements are developing for such Republican leaders as Govs. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, George Romney of Michigan and James A. Rhodes of Ohio, and Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin.

If no active candidate has a commanding lead by convention time, these favorite son delegations could deadlock the convention and create a demand for a compromise candidate.

Richard M. Nixon, the 1960 nominee, is regarded as an available but inactive possibility in case of a stalemate. He could be thrust into the Oregon primary May 18 against his will if the Oregon secretary of state feels Nixon is "recognized in national news media" as a candidate for the nomination.

16,500 Yank Troops Said In Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Authoritative sources said today that 16,500 U.S. air and ground troops are now in South Viet Nam to aid the struggle against the Communist Viet Cong.

The estimate was 1,500 men higher than the highest previous assessment to come from informed government sources. It also was above the highest unofficial estimate which had placed the force at possibly 16,000 men.

Sources cautioned, however, against any conclusion that additional troops have been committed since Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, toured South Viet Nam last month.

Instead, they said, the higher figure was an attempt to "straighten out the arithmetic" in preparation for the scheduled reduction of U.S. troop strength there starting about the first of the year.

McNamara and Taylor reported to President Kennedy on their return Oct. 2 that "by the end of the year the U.S. program for training Vietnamese should have progressed to a point where 1,000 U.S. military personnel can be withdrawn."

They said the bulk of the force should be out of Viet Nam by the end of 1965.

As to whether the reduction would be carried out if the Diem government suffers a series of military reverses between now and Jan. 1, informed officials were uncertain. There was general agreement that this would call for a new decision by the President.

AFA Cadet Offense Worries Ben Martin

While most of the pre-game talk about this Saturday's initial meeting of the Air Force Academy and Boston College centers around whether the Falcons will be able to stop the passing of BC's great Jack Concannon, Academy Coach Ben Martin is fretting over another part of the game.

Martin conceeds that his Falcons could do little to stop the bullet tosses of Maryland's Dick Shiner last week at College Park, where the AFA was upset on the last play of the contest, 21-14. And another afternoon with the air filled with footballs is in store this weekend when Concannon, last year's fifth ranker passer nationally, invades Falcon Stadium.

* * *

"What lost the game at Maryland," Martin told the Falcon Sports Clubbers this week, "was our inability to make our offense move in the second half."

Martin said that while the AFA had the ball only 19 times on offense in the second half against the Terps, Maryland was running no less than 50 plays from scrimmage. "And that's a whole bunch," the silver-tongued pilot said.

"We were able to do just what was planned in the first half," Martin continued. "But we weren't able to keep hold of the ball in the second half. When a team's able to run that many plays against you they're bound to score a few. Our trouble was that we weren't able to keep the ball away from them."

* * *

Boston College is expected to key its defense on quarterback Terry Isaacon, the same way that all teams (and especially Maryland) have done this season. Last week the Terps played their ends wide to stop Isaacson's option runs and at least in the first half the Falcons were able to take advantage of this with a counter-attack down the middle where there was room to run.

However, key penalties and a few missed assignments in the second half stopped this strategy. The result was Shiner hitting on 14 of 18 passing attempts in a sensational comeback and the fourth upset of the AFA's season (two were won by the Cadets).

"They had four of five exceptional catches in those plays —the kind that we don't expect our recievers to make more than one out of 10 times," Martin said. "It was a fine game on Maryland's part . . . but we don't intend on it happening again."

Boston College, however, comes in with a more balanced attack than some might think, according to advance publicist Eddie Miller, who was also at the Falcon Club meeting to spread the gospel about his Eagles.

"Concannon (6-3 and 200 pounds) is one of the country's finest passers," Miller said. "He throws a great short pass and an ever better long one. In fact, last year we scored on the first play from scrimmage in three games."

But the BC drum-beater claims that Concannon is nearly as good as a runner as he is a passer. He's one of the fastest men on the Boston College team and doesn't hesitate to call his own number if the situation presents itself.

"Actually, Concannon came to our school primarily as a runner," Miller pointed out. "In high school he played halfback as another BC player (end Jim Whalen) was their No. 1 quarterback. But he did throw some from halfback."

Kickoff is planned for 1:30 p. m. and a crowd of around 30,000 is expected.

MAKES EAGLES FLY — Quarterback Jack Concannon, 6-3, 200-pound senior, is the guy who makes Boston College go. The lanky native of Dorchester, Mass., was fifth in the nation last year in total offense and so far this season he had led the Eagles to three victories in four games. He is one of the country's top passers ,having completed 35 of 80 attempts for 579 yards and five touchdowns. Last year he paced the nation in TD passes with 15.

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Cheyenne Mountain's Indians brought an end to the Pikes Peak League race Wednesday afternoon exactly as they had started it less than two months ago — in a wave of destruction.

Eldon Helm's swift - striking Redmen, deprived of the crown since 1958, brought an end to the 1963 chase with stunning finality before a crowd of 2,500 at their home field and the title-clinching rites were performed as they should be. The victim was defending champ, Air Force Academy High, and the crown changed hands by a decisive 41-13 margin.

Actually, Cheyenne has one final league duty to undertake, a contest with well-regarded Florence. But the outcome of that one will have no bearing on the championship and, using the Indians' performance to date as a guide, the Huskies would appear ill-equiped to match prowess with the Tribe.

Helm's team, probably the most prolific scoring mechanism to haunt local football fields in at least recent history, carried an average of 55 points per game into the decisive tussle with the well-drilled Kadets. The turning point, if there was one Wednesday, came no later than the first play from scrimmage when the Indians turned a possible costly miscue into a touchdown that sent them winging toward their seventh straight triumph.

It was fairly apparent that an upset of Cheyenne would entail driving a wrench into the Indians' free-wheeling offense — and quickly. Instead, the Kadets were shattered by a startling reversal of any such plans. Greg Cramblit, Cheyenne's brilliant fullback, slammed thru the line on the first play from scrimmage and covered some 20 yards of turf before a jarring tackle dislodged the ball at his own 45. As the pigsking bounded forward, the Indians' Al Kemper steamed past, scooped it up and strided to the end zone to register a touchdown some 20 seconds into the first period.

Altho there was some give-and-take by the two lines the remainder of that quarter, Bill Mondt's Kadets never really recovered from that early blow. The Indians then settled the question with two quick scores in the second period, one on an extremely alert play by the defensive unit, and had hung up a 34-0 margin before the startled Kadets eventually broke thru in the last quarter.

Standouts for Cheyenne were plentiful but most noticeable were Cramblit, backfield mates Gary Graham and Chuck McGee, and end Joe Folk. Cramblit, a powerful runner with desire sewed into his shoulder pads, gained 108 yards in 18 carries and had the Kadet defense looking over its shoulder even when he was used merely as a decoy.

Graham directed the club with finesse, faking exceptionally well in key situations and McGee came thru on the receiving end of two big pass plays. Folk, a rover of fine skill at defensive end, batted down a pair of passes while making life generally miserable for Academy quarterbacks and also grabbed a pair of aerials good for some 36 yards.

For the Kadets, reserve quarterback Mike Owens came on to complete four of nine passes, two for touchdown. Halfback Rob Stockhouse used his excellent speed well altho it was summoned infrequently and fullback Roger Karolick gave the Cheyenne line some of its more notable bruises of the season. On numerous occasions the Academy line battled toe-to-toe with the Indians, only to have the "big play" overshadow its efforts.

Following that opening touchdown, the Indians had one drive fizzle when Lance Jensen came up with an end zone interception but late in the first period the Indians took over at their own 30 and blasted to a second score in eight plays. Swiftie Bob Richardson traveled the final 30 yards around end after Graham had shifted the defense with a slick fake into the line and pitched out.

The real crusher came just a bit later — after the Kadets had driven from their own 5 to the Cheyenne 32. In a sudden charge, the Indians surrounded the Academy High quarterback and Rick Stowell clasped onto a pass that had traveled approximately two yards and returned it to the end zone. Graham, who booted five of six extra points, kicked this one thru to make the score 20-0 at halftime.

Cramblit, with a crashing run up the middle, scored from 40 yards out early in the third period and McGee took a fourth down pass from two yards out later in the quarter to add the frosting.

Owens then came on to set up one T.D. with a 24 yard pass to Culver and later combined with Culver and Stockhouse on a 25 yard scoring play off the "flea-flicker." McGee got the Indians' last tally with less than a minute left when he grabbed a halfback pass from Richardson, shook off a tackler at the sideline, and sped back across the middle on a 40 yard scoring play.

Florence Retains Runnerup Position in PPL Standings

While the current Pikes Peak League pace setters from Cheyenne Mountain polished off last year's champion, Air Academy High, and moved into the PPL championship Wednesday afternoon, three other loop encounters filled this week's card.

In other games Wednesday night, the league's most disappointing squad from Widefield fell to Florence, 13-7; Fountain avoided the cellar this season with a 20-6 victory over winless Leadville; and Salida dumped Manitou Springs, 33-0. The pesky Panthers of Harrison whacked Rocky Ford, 26-0, in non-league play to round out Wednesday's slate.

Once again the Gladiators encountered difficulties hanging onto the ball as Frank Stancato's Widefield crew fumbled eight times, losing control of the ball on three occasions. The Huskies' forward drive was spearheaded by their hard-charing fullback Dick Shadwell as the 175-pound junior initiated Florence's scoring in the opening quarter. Shadwell rammed through the Gladiator forward wall from two yards out to launch the 13-point first period. Teammate Virgil Lawson followed for the final Husky TD on a one-yard plunge with Shadwell making good the conversion.

Terry MacKey's Panthers accumulated 420 yards rushing to pound an impressive triumph over Rocky Ford. The latter team has tied last year's state AA finalists, LaJunta.

Halfback Lonnie Mayo led the Harrison crew over the hefty Rocky Ford aggregation as the 155-pound senior scored all four TDs and picked up the Panthers' two conversions for a total 25 points.

The Harrison mentor lauded his Panthers for their best performance this year as the Harrison crew stifled Rocky Ford's scoring and limited the Southern League team to 128 total yards. Mayo scored on runs of 12, 68, 5, and 60 yards.

Joe Keegan's determined Trojans finally cashed in a PPL win after seven straight defeats when Fountain smashed the loop's newest member, Leadville. Scott McCabe scored two touchdowns for the Trojans as Keegan's youthful team notched 17 first downs compared to the visiting team's 12. McCabe scored from 12 yards out to put the Trojans on the scoreboard after Art Vincent of Leadville put the Panthers ahead 6-0 at halftime.

Fred Ramero tallied the second Trojan score on a one-yard plunge ,and McCabe waltzed 20 yards for the final Fountain TD. Mel Barnett and David Arellano each accounted for the PAT conversions.

Salida's big fullback, Ed Ehmke, was the leading factor as Matt Savoren's beefy Salida team pounded the Mustangs. Ehmke tallied three touchdowns and one conversion to lead the onslaught.

Pinch-Hit Predictions

Luckily, the smoke puffing out the chimney of the G-T building Monday morning didn't set off a four-alarm fire call. There was no help needed by the fire department, busy themselves checking misses on last week's football guess cards, but instead it was an SOS for aid in making the upcoming selections.

The smoke signals were used only so that not too much attention would be drawn to our distress. But in true Indian tradition, the old redskin that guards the gateway to Ute pass on the western end of Manitou Springs answered the call.

Now a lot of people may not believe this leftover from an ancient cigar store can lend much verbal aid. He seldom speaks to strangers, and in fact, about the only words you can squeeze from this weather-bitten character concerns his prejudice over the football games in the area.

However, ole Ute has always been inclined toward upsets. And the way this season's progressing, it was decided his opinions may not be far wrong. The only thing that made me hesitate in consulting this veteran of such battles as the Big Blow in the Cave of the Winds and the duel of water pistols at Cascade was that last week he picked his beloved Mustangs of Manitou to upset Cheyenne Mt. High. The result: Cheyenne 74, Manitou 6.

Nonetheless, why not give ole Ute a chance. So here's what the wooden-headed expert has to say for this weekend.

REGIONAL

AFA 29, BOSTON COLL. 13—Ug! Paleface from east findum Falcons on warpath after ambush on Potomac. (Ute thinks this is his first upset of the weekend. The reasoning is that Air Force is officially favored, so should lose in this year's tradition—but the upset comes when the Cadets upset the upset, for a change.)

WESTERN 21, CC 13—Tiger haveum own upset last week, Chief Ute says. But he warned that the high flying Western State could be due for a surprise.

A-STATE 15, CSC 7—Well, what did you expect. He could not go against his own blood in the Indians from Alamosa.

BIG EIGHT

NEBRASKA 21, CU 20—Chief just gives the scores . . . he doesn't explain how the Buffs are going to score three times against the hefty Huskers.

MISSOURI 31, IOWA ST. 21—Not even a hint of surprise here.

OKLAHOMA 45, K-STATE 7—There was something mentioned about Jim Grisham (OU fullback) being part Indian just off reservation.

EAST

ARMY 16, WASH. ST. 8—Chief Ute still has a grudge against Pony Soldiers, but Gen. Custer isn't quartergacking this operation.

PITT 25, NAVY 21—Undefeated teams are as scarse as Republicans on a Kennedy touch football team. But the Panthers stay that way despite Roger Staubach.

DARTMOUTN 21, HARVARD 18—What else! The Indians win again.

MIDWEST

WISCONSIN 14, OHIO ST. 7—Buckeyes still dazed after massacre by USC last week.

PURDUE 24, IOWA 12—Them Hawkeyes ain't what they used to be.

N'WESTERN 8, MICH. ST. 7—Chief sez Tommy-hawk Myers will throw for extra points to make the difference.

SOUTH

'BAMA 17, HOUSTON 8—Bear Bryant's boys in for a scare before it's over.

LSU 3, FLORIDA 2—Another of those high-scoring southern thrillers.

GEORGIA TECH 35, TULANE 10—And the pioneers thought Geronimo was mean.

SOUTHWEST

RICE 21, TEXAS 10—Chief Ute claims Longhorns have never been able to run thru Rice paddies. Besides, some wise old Owl gave him the word for the upset of the week.

SMU 38, TEXAS TECH 22—Mustangs run-um all over stadium, according to our informant.

FAR WEST

CALIFORNIA 23, USC 12—Our block-headed friend must have dug pretty deep to pull this one out—but that's what he said.

STANFORD 21, NOTRE DAME 8—Yep, you guessed it. It's those Indians again...altho the Chief says it's no upset.

ILLINOIS 25, UCLA 16—The Friday night feature, and our friend was fogged up with peace pipe smoke so we had no chance to ask how this one was figured.

Just remember when the real scores come in on Saturday, don't blame us. . . they're all from Chief Ute.

Don Busse Takes Lead For Harness Honors

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don Busse of Kingston, Ill., has taken the lead in the race for national harness driving honors.

Cramblit, with a crashing run up the middle, scored from 40 yards out early in the third period and McGee took a fourth down pass from two yards out later in the quarter to add the frosting.

Owens then came on to set up one T.D. with a 24 yard pass to Culver and later combined with Culver and Stockhouse on a 25 yard scoring play off the "flea-flicker." McGee got the Indians' last tally with less than a minute left when he grabbed a halfback pass from Richardson, shook off a tackler at the sideline, and sped back across the middle on a 40 yard scoring play.

Florence Retains Runnerup Position in PPL Standings

While the current Pikes Peak League pace setters from Cheyenne Mountain polished off last year's champion, Air Academy High, and moved into the PPL championship Wednesday afternoon, three other loop encounters filled this week's card.

In other games Wednesday night, the league's most disappointing squad from Widefield fell to Florence, 13-7; Fountain avoided the cellar this season with a 20-6 victory over winless Leadville; and Salida dumped Manitou Springs, 33-0. The pesky Panthers of Harrison whacked Rocky Ford, 26-0, in non-league play to round out Wednesday's slate.

Once again the Gladiators encountered difficulties hanging onto the ball as Frank Stancato's Widefield crew fumbled eight times, losing control of the ball on three occasions. The Huskies' forward drive was spearheaded by their hard-charing fullback Dick Shadwell as the 175-pound junior initiated Florence's scoring in the opening quarter. Shadwell rammed through the Gladiator forward wall from two yards out to launch the 13-point first period. Teammate Virgil Lawson followed for the final Husky TD on a one-yard plunge with Shadwell making good the conversion.

Terry MacKey's Panthers accumulated 420 yards rushing to pound an impressive triumph over Rocky Ford. The latter team has tied last year's state AA finalists, LaJunta.

Halfback Lonnie Mayo led the Harrison crew over the hefty Rocky Ford aggregation as the 155-pound senior scored all four TDs and picked up the Panthers' two conversions for a total 25 points.

The Harrison mentor lauded his Panthers for their best performance this year as the Harrison crew stifled Rocky Ford's scoring and limited the Southern League team to 128 total yards. Mayo scored on runs of 12, 68, 5, and 60 yards.

Joe Keegan's determined Trojans finally cashed in a PPL win after seven straight defeats when Fountain smashed the loop's newest member, Leadville. Scott McCabe scored two touchdowns for the Trojans as Keegan's youthful team notched 17 first downs compared to the visiting team's 12. McCabe scored from 12 yards out to put the Trojans on the scoreboard after Art Vincent of Leadville put the Panthers ahead 6-0 at halftime.

Fred Ramero tallied the second Trojan score on a one-yard plunge and McCabe waltzed 20 yards for the final Fountain TD. Mel Barnett and David Arellano each accounted for the PAT conversions.

Salida's big fullback, Ed Ehmke, was the leading factor as Matt Savoren's beefy Salida team pounded the Mustangs. Ehmke tallied three touchdowns and one conversion to lead the onslaught.

Pinch-Hit Predictions

Luckily, the smoke puffing out the chimney of the G-T building Monday morning didn't set off a four-alarm fire call. There was no help needed by the fire department, busy themselves checking misses on last week's football guess cards, but instead it was an SOS for aid in making the upcoming selections.

The smoke signals were used only so that not too much attention would be drawn to our distress. But in true Indian tradition, the old redskin that guards the gateway to Ute pass on the western end of Manitou Springs answered the call.

Now a lot of people may not believe this leftover from an ancient cigar store can lend much verbal aid. He seldom speaks to strangers, and in fact, about the only words you can squeeze from this weather-bitten character concerns his prejudice over the football games in the area.

However, ole Ute has always been inclined toward upsets. And the way this season's progressing, it was decided his opinions may not be far wrong. The only thing that made me hesitate in consulting this veteran of such battles as the Big Blow in the Cave of the Winds and the duel of water pistols at Cascade was that last week he picked his beloved Mustangs of Manitou to upset Cheyenne Mt. High. The result: Cheyenne 74, Manitou 6.

Nonetheless, why not give ole Ute a chance. So here's what the wooden-headed expert has to say for this weekend.

REGIONAL

AFA 29, BOSTON COLL. 13—Ug! Paleface from east findum Falcons on warpath after ambush on Potomac. (Ute thinks this is his first upset of the weekend. The reasoning is that Air Force is officially favored, so should lose in this year's tradition—but the upset comes when the Cadets upset the upset, for a change.)

WESTERN 21, CC 13—Tiger haveum own upset last week, Chief Ute says. But he warned that the high flying Western State could be due for a surprise.

A-STATE 15, CSC 7—Well, what did you expect. He could not go against his own blood in the Indians from Alamosa.

BIG EIGHT

NEBRASKA 21, CU 20—Chief just gives the scores . . . he doesn't explain how the Buffs are going to score three times against the hefty Huskers.

MISSOURI 31, IOWA ST. 21—Not even a hint of surprise here.

OKLAHOMA 45, K-STATE 7—There was something mentioned about Jim Grisham (OU fullback) being part Indian just off reservation.

EAST

ARMY 16, WASH. ST. 8—Chief Ute still has a grudge against Pony Soldiers, but Gen. Custer isn't quartergacking this operation.

PITT 25, NAVY 21—Undefeated teams are as scarse as Republicans on a Kennedy touch football team. But the Panthers stay that way despite Roger Staubach.

DARTMOUTN 21, HARVARD 18—What else! The Indians win again.

MIDWEST

WISCONSIN 14, OHIO ST. 7—Buckeyes still dazed after massacre by USC last week.

PURDUE 24, IOWA 12—Them Hawkeyes ain't what they used to be.

N'WESTERN 8, MICH. ST. 7—Chief sez Tommy-hawk Myers will throw for extra points to make the difference.

SOUTH

'BAMA 17, HOUSTON 8—Bear Bryant's boys in for a scare before it's over.

LSU 3, FLORIDA 2—Another of those high-scoring southern thrillers.

GEORGIA TECH 35, TULANE 10—And the pioneers thought Geronimo was mean.

SOUTHWEST

RICE 21, TEXAS 10—Chief Ute claims Longhorns have never been able to run thru Rice paddies. Besides, some wise old Owl gave him the word for the upset of the week.

SMU 38, TEXAS TECH 22—Mustangs run-um all over stadium, according to our informant.

FAR WEST

CALIFORNIA 23, USC 12—Our block-headed friend must have dug pretty deep to pull this one out—but that's what he said.

STANFORD 21, NOTRE DAME 8—Yep, you guessed it. It's those Indians again...alth the Chief says it's no upse

ILLINOIS 25, UCLA 16—Th Friday night feature, and ou friend was fogged up with peac pipe smoke so we had no chanc to ask how this one was figure

Just remember when the re scores come in on Saturda don't blame us. . . they're a from Chief Ute.

AFA Cadet Offense Worries Ben Martin

While most of the pre-game talk about this Saturday's initial meeting of the Air Force Academy and Boston College centers around whether the Falcons will be able to stop the passing of BC's great Jack Concannon, Academy Coach Ben Martin is fretting over another part of the game.

Martin conceeds that his Falcons could do little to stop the bullet tosses of Maryland's Dick Shiner last week at College Park, where the AFA was upset on the last play of the contest, 21-14. And another afternoon with the air filled with footballs is in store this weekend when Concannon, last year's fifth ranker passer nationally, invades Falcon Stadium.

* * *

MAKES EAGLES FLY — Quarterback Jack Concannon, 6-3, 200-pound senior, is the guy who makes Boston College go. The lanky native of Dorchester, Mass., was fifth in the nation last year in total offense and so far this season he had led the Eagles to three victories in four games. He is one of the country's top passers having completed 35 of 80 attempts for 579 yards and five touchdowns. Last year he paced the nation in TD passes with 15.

"What lost the game at Maryland," Martin told the Falcon Sports Clubbers this week, "was our inability to make our offense move in the second half."

Martin said that while the AFA had the ball only 19 times on offense in the second half against the Terps, Maryland was running no less than 50 plays from scrimmage. "And that's a whole bunch," the silver-tongued pilot said.

"We were able to do just what was planned in the first half," Martin continued. "But we weren't able to keep hold of the ball in the second half. When a team's able to run that many plays against you they're bound to score a few. Our trouble was that we weren't able to keep the ball away from them."

* * *

Boston College is expected to key its defense on quarterback Terry Isaacon, the same way that all teams (and especially Maryland) have done this season. Last week the Terps played their ends wide to stop Isaacson's option runs and at least in the first half the Falcons were able to take advantage of this with a counter-attack down the middle where there was room to run.

However, key penalties and a few missed assignments in the second half stopped this strategy. The result was Shiner hitting on 14 of 18 passing attempts in a sensational comeback and the fourth upset of the AFA's season (two were won by the Cadets).

"They had four of five exceptional catches in those plays —the kind that we don't expect our recievers to make more than one out of 10 times," Martin said. "It was a fine game on Maryland's part . . . but we don't intend on it happening again."

Boston College, however, comes in with a more balanced attack than some might think, according to advance publicist Eddie Miller, who was also at the Falcon Club meeting to spread the gospel about his Eagles.

"Concannon (6-3 and 200 pounds) is one of the country's finest passers," Miller said. "He throws a great short pass and an ever better long one. In fact, last year we scored on the first play from scrimmage in three games."

But the BC drum-beater claims that Concannon is nearly as good as a runner as he is a passer. He's one of the fastest men on the Boston College team and doesn't hesitate to call his own number if the situation presents itself.

"Actually, Concannon came to our school primarily as a runner," Miller pointed out. "In high school he played halfback as another BC player (end Jim Whalen) was their No. 1 quarterback. But he did throw some from halfback."

Kickoff is planned for 1:30 p. m. and a crowd of around 30,000 is expected.

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Cheyenne Mountain's Indians brought an end to the Pikes Peak League race Wednesday afternoon exactly as they had started it less than two months ago — in a wave of destruction.

Eldon Helm's swift - striking Redmen, deprived of the crown since 1958, brought an end to the 1963 chase with stunning finality before a crowd of 2,500 at their home field and the title-clinching rites were performed as they should be. The victim was defending champ, Air Force Academy High, and the crown changed hands by a decisive 41-13 margin.

Actually, Cheyenne has one final league duty to undertake, a contest with well-regarded Florence. But the outcome of that one will have no bearing on the championship and, using the Indians' performance to date as a guide, the Huskies would appear ill-equiped to match prowess with the Tribe.

Helm's team, probably the most prolific scoring mechanism to haunt local football fields in at least recent history, carried an average of 55 points per game into the decisive tussle with the well-drilled Kadets. The turning point, if there was one Wednesday, came no later than the first play from scrimmage when the Indians turned a possible costly miscue into a touchdown that sent them winging toward their seventh straight triumph.

It was fairly apparent that an upset of Cheyenne would entail driving a wrench into the Indians' free-wheeling offense — and quickly. Instead, the Kadets were shattered by a startling reversal of any such plans. Greg Cramblit, Cheyenne's brilliant fullback, slammed thru the line on the first play from scrimmage and covered some 20 yards of turf before a jarring tackle dislodged the ball at his own 45. As the pigskin bounded forward, the Indians' Al Kemper steamed past, scooped it up and strided to the end zone to register a touchdown some 20 seconds into the first period.

Altho there was some give-and-take by the two lines the remainder of that quarter, Bill Mondt's Kadets never really recovered from that early blow. The Indians then settled the question with two quick scores in the second period, one on an extremely alert play by the defensive unit, and had hung up a 34-0 margin before the startled Kadets eventually broke thru in the last quarter.

Standouts for Cheyenne were plentiful but most noticeable were Cramblit, backfield mates Gary Graham and Chuck McGee, and end Joe Folk. Cramblit, a powerful runner with desire sewed into his shoulder pads, gained 108 yards in 18 carries and had the Kadet defense looking over its shoulder even when he was used merely as a decoy.

Graham directed the club with finesse, faking exceptionally well in key situations and McGee came thru on the receiving end of two big pass plays. Folk, a rover of fine skill at defensive end, batted down a pair of passes while making life generally miserable for Academy quarterbacks and also grabbed a pair of aerials good for some 36 yards.

For the Kadets, reserve quarterback Mike Owens came on to complete four of nine passes, two for touchdown. Halfback Rob Stockhouse used his excellent speed well altho it was summoned infrequently and fullback Roger Karolick gave the Cheyenne line some of its more notable bruises of the season. On numerous occasions the Academy line battled toe-to-toe with the Indians, only to have the "big play" overshadow its efforts.

Following that opening touchdown, the Indians had one drive fizzle when Lance Jensen came up with an end zone interception but late in the first period the Indians took over at their own 30 and blasted to a second score in eight plays. Swiftie Bob Richardson traveled the final 30 yards around end after Graham had shifted the defense with a slick fake into the line and pitched out.

The real crusher came just a bit later — after the Kadets had driven from their own 5 to the Cheyenne 32. In a sudden charge, the Indians surrounded the Academy High quarterback and Rick Stowell clasped onto a pass that had traveled approximately two yards and returned it to the end zone. Graham, who booted five of six extra points, kicked this one thru to make the score 20-0 at halftime.

Cramblit, with a crashing run up the middle, scored from 40 yards out early in the third period and McGee took a fourth down pass from two yards out later in the quarter to add the frosting.

Owens then came on to set up one T.D. with a 24 yard pass to Culver and later combined with Culver and Stockhouse on a 25 yard scoring play off the "flea-flicker." McGee got the Indians' last tally with less than a minute left when he grabbed a halfback pass from Richardson, shook off a tackler at the sideline, and sped back across the middle on a 40 yard scoring play.

In the other games Wednesday, Fountain avoided the cellar this season with a 20-6 victory over winless Leadville; and Salida dumped Manitou Springs, 33-0. The pesky Panthers of Harrison whacked Rocky Ford, 26-0, in non-league play to round out Wednesday's slate.

Once again the Gladiators encountered difficulties hanging onto the ball as Frank Stancato's Widefield crew fumbled eight times, losing control of the ball on three occasions. The Huskies' forward drive was spearheaded by their hard-charging fullback Dick Shadwell as the 175-pound junior initiated Florence's scoring in the opening quarter. Shadwell rammed through the Gladiator forward wall from two yards out to launch the 13-point first period.

Terry MacKey's Panthers accumulated 420 yards rushing to pound an impressive triumph over Rocky Ford. The latter team has tied last year's state AA finalists, LaJunta.

Halfback Lonnie Mayo led the Harrison crew over the hefty Rocky Ford aggregation as the 155-pound senior scored all four TDs and picked up the Panthers' two conversions for a total 25 points.

The Harrison mentor lauded his Panthers for their best performance this year as the Harrison crew stifled Rocky Ford's scoring and limited the Southern League team to 128 total yards. Mayo scored on runs of 12, 68, 5, and 60 yards.

Joe Keegan's determined Trojans finally cashed in a PPL win after seven straight defeats when Fountain smashed the loop's newest member, Leadville. Scott McCabe scored two touchdowns for the Trojans as Keegan's youthful team notched 17 first downs compared to the visiting team's 12. McCabe scored from 12 yards out to put the Trojans on the scoreboard after Art Vincent of Leadville put the Panthers ahead 6-0 at halftime.

Fred Ramero tallied the second Trojan score on a one-yard plunge and McCabe waltzed 20 yards for the final Fountain TD. Mel Barnett and David Arellano each accounted for the PAT conversions.

Salida's big fullback, Ed Ehmke, was the leading factor as Matt Savoren's beefy Salida team pounded the Mustangs. Ehmke tallied three touchdowns and one conversion to lead the onslaught.

Pinch-Hit Predictions

Luckily, the smoke puffing out the chimney of the G-T building Monday morning didn't set off a four-alarm fire call. There was no help needed by the fire department, busy themselves checking misses on last week's football guess cards, but instead it was an SOS for aid in making the upcoming selections.

The smoke signals were used only so that not too much attention would be drawn to our distress. But in true Indian tradition, the old redskin that guards the gateway to Ute pass on the western end of Manitou Springs answered the call.

Now a lot of people may not believe this leftover from an ancient cigar store can lend much verbal aid. He seldom speaks to strangers, and in fact, about the only words you can squeeze from this weather-bitten character concerns his prejudice over the football games in the area.

However, ole Ute has always been inclined toward upsets. And the way this season's progressing, it was decided his opinions may not be far wrong. The only thing that made me hesitate in consulting this veteran of such battles as the Big Blow in the Cave of the Winds and the duel of water pistols at Cascade was that last week he picked his beloved Mustangs of Manitou to upset Cheyenne Mt. High. The result: Cheyenne 74, Manitou 6.

Nonetheless, why not give ole Ute a chance. So here's what the wooden-headed expert has to say for this weekend.

REGIONAL

AFA 29, BOSTON COLL. 13—Ug! Paleface from east findum Falcons on warpath after ambush on Potomac. (Ute thinks this is his first upset of the weekend. The reasoning is that Air Force is officially favored, so should lose in this year's tradition—but the upset comes when the Cadets upset the upset, for a change.)

WESTERN 21, CC 13—Tiger haveum own upset last week, Chief Ute says. But he warned that the high flying Western State could be due for a surprise.

A-STATE 15, CSC 7—Well, what did you expect. He could not go against his own blood in the Indians from Alamosa.

BIG EIGHT

NEBRASKA 21, CU 20—Chief just gives the scores . . . he doesn't explain how the Buffs are going to score three times against the hefty Huskers.

MISSOURI 31, IOWA ST. 21—Not even a hint of surprise here.

OKLAHOMA 45, K-STATE 7—There was something mentioned about Jim Grisham (OU fullback) being part Indian just off reservation.

EAST

ARMY 16, WASH. ST. 8—Chief Ute still has a grudge against Pony Soldiers, but Gen. Custer isn't quartergacking this operation.

PITT 25, NAVY 21—Undefeated teams are as scarse as Republicans on a Kennedy touch football team. But the Panthers stay that way despite Roger Staubach.

DARTMOUTN 21, HARVARD 18—What else! The Indians win again.

MIDWEST

WISCONSIN 14, OHIO ST. 7—Buckeyes still dazed after massacre by USC last week.

PURDUE 24, IOWA 12—Them Hawkeyes ain't what they used to be.

N'WESTERN 8, MICH. ST. 7—Chief sez Tommy-hawk Myers will throw for extra points to make the difference.

SOUTH

'BAMA 17, HOUSTON 8—Bear Bryant's boys in for a scare before it's over.

LSU 3, FLORIDA 2—Another of those high-scoring southern thrillers.

GEORGIA TECH 35, TULANE 10—And the pioneers thought Geronimo was mean.

SOUTHWEST

RICE 21, TEXAS 10—Chief Ute claims Longhorns have never been able to run thru Rice paddies. Besides, some wise old Owl gave him the word for the upset of the week.

SMU 38, TEXAS TECH 22—Mustangs run-um all over stadium, according to our informant.

FAR WEST

CALIFORNIA 23, USC 12—Our block-headed friend must have dug pretty deep to pull this one out—but that's what he said.

STANFORD 21, NOTRE DAME 8—Yep, you guessed it. It's those Indians again...altho the Chief says it's no upset.

ILLINOIS 25, UCLA 16—The Friday night feature, and our friend was fogged up with peace pipe smoke so we had no chance to ask how this one was figured.

Just remember when the real scores come in on Saturday, don't blame us. . . they're all from Chief Ute.

Tigers Meet Unbeaten Foe In Mountaineers This Week

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Jerry Carle's Colorado College Tigers, who enjoyed the rare sensation of knocking off an unbeaten team last weekend, would like to imagine that such an experience can be habit-forming.

There's good reason for that line of thinking. For, after sending Concordia's Bulldogs slinking back to Nebraska with their first defeat in six games this season, the Tigers find themselves in a position to test their upset-muscles on an even more impressive foe.

Saturday Carle tosses his club back into the Rocky Mountain Conference scramble — and against the team that has been doing most of the scrambling. Western State College hosts CC at Gunnison and the Mountaineers need only a victory over the Colorado Springs team to assure themselves of at least a tie for the 1963 title.

The Tigers, who came up with their best effort of the season against Concordia, thus find themselves with a strange reward. Carle terms Western State as "certainly the best team we've met yet and probably the best we'll play all season." Considering that CC shows just a 3-3 record to date, the outlook isn't too encouraging for improving on that at Gunnison.

Western State, under Coach Kay Dalton, has been steadily improving its football program over the past few seasons as the Tigers discovered while absorbing a 34-0 clobbering a year ago. This fall the Mountaineers have really arrived. They have raced past five straight opponents in impressive fashion and at this point would appear to have an excellent chance of going unbeaten.

The latest casulty on the WSC schedule was well-regarded New Mexico Western which Dalton's steamroller flattened 35-0. Earlier, New Mexico Highlands and Fort Hayes, Kan. had been trampled.

In league action, according to comparitive scores, Western should just about have the title in its pocket. The Mountaineers whipped defending champion Adams State for the biggest step two weeks ago. Earlier they had beaten Colorado State College and the Bears, in turn, have decisively defeated both CC and Mines.

Personal-wise, Western State is definitely out of the reach of the Tigers. The Mountaineers' roster is just about twice as long as CC's and it's loaded with size and talent. Dalton is deep at every position and hits an opponent with an attack that moves fluently on the ground or overhead. The backfield features the breakaway work of Clyde Wilson, former Pueblo South star.

The Tigers will move into the game in reasonable physical shape — somethmg that has not generally been true the past few weekends. Missing, and probably out for the season, is linebacker Roger Williams who was injured in the CSC game two weeks ago. Freshman quarterback Warner Reeser, who went down in the same contest with an arm injury, is still on the doubtful list. Elsewhere slotback Cy Dyer and lineman Glenn Clifford are nursing bruises but should see action.

The CC staff and followers were highly pleased over the team's outstanding effort against Concordia. Carle praised the entire squad, not singling out any individual, and called the goal line stands in the first half the turning point. The Tigers turned back Bulldog marches on three occasions within the CC 10 during the first two periods and once halted the visitors on a fourth down play inside the one.

Fullback Steve "Sudden Death" Sabol continues to lead the Tigers in rushing after the Concordia game. He has totaled 300 yards in 68 carries. Welch, who had an excellent day against the Bulldogs with 11 completions in 22 attempts, overall has hit on 27 tosses for 194 yards and three touchdowns. End Lee Muller, perhaps the outstanding single player on the team, has caught 20 passes for 222 yards and two T.D.s. Mike Mestek leads the scoring with 42 points on seven touchdowns.

Boulder Whips Collins To Take Northern Lead

From all appearances, the South Central League this fall will revert to its former policy of being the last of the state's AAA conferences to report in with a champion.

The firing has been all but over in the Denver, Jefferson County, and Adams - Arapahoe leagues for the past two weeks and Wednesday night the Northern League dissolved a first place tie as Boulder upset previously unbeaten Fort Collins, 33-14.

With only two games remaining on the schedule that moves the Panthers into a commanding position in the upstate circuit. Only Aurora Central and Fort Collins, both 6-1, retain a chance of overhauling Boulder.

East Denver, meanwhile, remains in command in the Denver loop. The Angels still have not clinched the crown and probably will not do so until they meet Washington the final week. The Patriots are just a half-game back but don't appear sufficiently muscular to handle the defending state champions.

In the Denver suburban circuits, defending champs are having an easy life. Lakewood disposed of its prime threat two weeks ago by whipping Arvada and the Tigers are a shoo-in for the Jefferson County flag. Cherry Creek, meanwhile, has a hammer-lock of the Adams-Arapahoe title.

That leaves the South Central where the air could either be cleared somewhat this weekend or, on the other hand, further congestion could set in. Locally, Palmer and Wasson tangle in that traditional bone-jarring rivalry and for the second straight season the significance is great. Wasson, tied with Centennial for the lead, could all but eliminate the Terrors with a victory. Palmer, however, could possibly pull back into a tie for the lead with a win.

The same evening Centennial will be battling traditional rival Central in Pueblo and that game will carry the same toss-up tag as the one in the Springs. Should both Wasson and Centennial win, it will eliminate Central and Palmer from further contention and set up the Nov. 2 meeting between the two as decisive. However, if the Terrors and Wildcats win it would create a three way tie for the lead with Central only a half-game back.

The state playoffs are scheduled to get underway Nov. 16 with a quarter-final round game between the Jefferson County winner and Adams-Arapahoe champ. This contest will undoubtedly match Lakewood and Cherry Creek for the second straight year. Nov. 23 the winner of that first game will host the Northern League champion in one semi-final clash and in the other the Denver League winner will travel to play the SCL champion. The finals are scheduled for Nov. 30.

South Central teams slipped in the weekly Denver Post poll this week. Wasson, previously fourth, yielded fifth place to Boulder and Centennial fell to seventh. Palmer remained eighth and Central is lodged in 14th. East Denver continued to lead by a substantial margin. Fort Collins is ranked second for the poll was released prior to the games of Wednesday night.

Cleveland's Choice Misses On Run at Season's Record

Cleveland's Choice came in for the win in the eighth race at the Rocky Mountain Kennel Club Wednesday night, but with a time of 32.53 or 63-100ths of a second short of the time record that he set for the Peak Course in September.

A favorite of the crowd, he only paid $4.20, $3.80 and $3.40 as he won over Blotched and Rushaway Dan.

High pay-off for the evening went to Velvet Band in the fourth race with $58, $17.20 and $10.20 as she won over Party Hostess at $10.60 and $5.60, with the 6-8 quiniela combination taking a jump to $161.60.

For the daily double it was a 1-3 at $34.80 for 333 winners. This was the fifth time that the 1-3 combination had paid off this season.

In the ninth, Ernest Shamrock, winner of the 963 RMKC Inaugural, finished second as Fair Haired Boy took the win. Dutex won the show, while Ortega Road came in for the fourth position.

Tonight's 10 race card sees Inky Black, Go Sherry, Just Fax and John Kay joining Traveler Joe, Perfect Chief, Joe Cornell and Westy Royal in the hot-box competition.

RMKC's 1963 season is chedduled to close a week from Friday night with the running of the 1963 AuRevoir Classic. Saturday sees the running of the 1963 Derby Elimination races with the 15th Annual RMKC Derby being run on Tuesday, Oct. 29.

Hershey Moves Close to Reds

By United Press International

The Hershey Bears are making their presence felt early in the Eastern Division of the American Hockey League.

The Bears moved to within one point of pace-setting Providence by turning back the Rochester Americans, 5-4, in Wednesday night's only game.

Goals by Charlie Hamilton, Danny Poliziani and Howie Yanosik gave Hershey a 3-0 lead in the opening period. The Americans then rallied to reduce their deficit to 4-3 in the third period before Roger De Jordy banged in the winner for the Bears.

Pioneer Baseball Is Dead

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—The Class A Pioneer League died suddenly Wednesday. It was 25.

But many of the baseball league's patrons and supporters refuse to schedule funeral services in hopes it will be born anew.

Death was attributed to a long financial illness.

"The Pioneer League was advised Wednesday by the National Association office that sufficient working agreements will not be available for the operation of the league in 1964.

"The league will determine the near future whether to disband or suspend operation for a period of one year with the possibility reactivating for a 1965 operation."

"This is our obituary, Engberg added.

He pinpointed the cause of death saying it was a product of high bonuses.

"The major league clubs are spending as much as they ever did, but in recent years it went to bonuses," said Engberg. "They don't have the players to man the minor leagues."

All but one of the six Pioneer League teams suffered from dwindling attendance. And the league lost three major league working agreements this fall—at Boise, Idaho which quit; Pocatello, Idaho, and Billings, Mont.

Engberg said the other teams, Idaho Falls and Twin Falls, Idaho, and Great Falls, Mont., were in fair financial shape.

But Engberg said a flicker of hope that the league will be reborn remains.

"The farm directors stated they hoped we could retain our identity and be ready to operate in 1965," he said.

Nebraska Biggest Squad On Colorado's Schedule

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) —Colorado's Buffaloes can expect the biggest, toughest players they've met all season when they take the field at Lincoln Saturday against Nebraska in a Big Eight football game.

Coach Eddie Crowder gave the Buffs the word at Wednesday's practice.

"Nebraska will be stronger and bigger physically by far than any team we've faced," Crowder said. He told the players: "You'll have to quit making mistakes like you did last week if you hope to stay even with Nebraska."

Although he credited the Buffs with hitting hard against Iowa State, mental lapses cost them victory, Crowder said. These included fumbles, a blocked quick kick and missed defensive assignments.

Left halfback Tim Hogan, sidelined with a dislocated shoulder in the Kansas State game, began full scale workouts again Wednesday. He was No. 2 behind starter Bill Symons until the injury.

Coach Bob Devaney of Nebraska had some bad news for the Buffaloes with his announcement at Lincoln Wednesday that No. 1 quarterback Dennis Claridge would start for Nebraska.

Berra Named Manager After 17 Years Playing

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Yogi Berra was named manager of the New York Yankees today, confirming reports that had been widespread since Ralph Houk was promoted to general manager two days ago.

Appointment of the 38-year-old former catcher was announced at a largescale press conference. It had been common knowledge that Berra was the choice from the minute Houk was promoted on Tuesday after leading the Yankees to three American League pennants and two World Series championships in his three years as manager.

Berra, one of the most popular players in baseball and the top home run hitting catcher in major league history, takes over the managerial spot after a 17-year career with the Yankees.

This past season, Berra served his first year as coach, and also was a part-time player. His estimated salary for 1963 was $45,000.

A native of St. Louis, he now lives with his wife, Carmen, and three sons in Montclair, N. J.

That Berra was considered managerial timber came as a surprise to some but not to knowledgeable baseball people who respect Yogi's keen analytical mind, native intelligence and ability to get along with people.

Berra's imminent graduation from player-coaching ranks to the managership comes as no surprise to Casey Stengel, who led the Yankees to 10 pennants in 12 years before giving way to Houk in 1961.

"They did some surprising things while I was there," said the skipper of the New York Mets, "but this move doesn't surprise me at all.

"There's nothing wrong with Berra. He's been a catcher for many years, calling the pitches and studying the batters. I found him to be a good man behind the plate. He had to be or he wouldn't have been in all those Series and on those championship teams.

Preacher Is Slowed By Injury

By AB J. PERILMAN
Sports Editor,
Las Cruces Sun-News

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP)—James (Preacher) Pilot is a two time national collegiate rushing champion who is having a tough time cracking the New Mexico State University starting line-up.

It's not because the Aggies have a wealth of experienced runners.

The Preacher pulled a hamstring muscle 10 days before the season started and now that he's recovered, he doesn't have the same quick start he used to have.

But when the Aggies are on defense, the 205-pound Pilot trots out to a corner back position and that's when the professional scouts dust off the binoculars.

Coach Waren Woodson says that Pilot's defensive play has long been overshadowed by his more publicized offensive play.

"In the Texas Western game we studied the film carefully and Pilot didn't make a single mistake on defense," Woodson said. Pilot only gained 33 yards that night as the Aggies lost 14-13.

It has been like that all season, however, as last year's leading rusher and No. 2 scorer in the nation has been almost ineffective with the football in his hands.

Pilot has gained just 389 yards in 65 carries which is barely one-third of his season average the past two years.

Pilot, who has been drafted as a future by the San Francisco 49ers and the Kansas City Chiefs has scored just once this year. Unless something breaks loose soon Pilot won't be able to get the 77 points he needs to break Glenn Davis' three-year scoring record and 306 points.

The Kingsville, Tex., lad needs just 642 more yards and he can better the three-year rushing record held by Ollie Matson of San Francisco. But even that is beginning to appear out of sight now.

How's the Preacher fell about it?

"I'm sure that one of these days real soon everything will be okay, and I'll be running at full speed."

The Los Angeles Dodgers scored first and went on to win in all four games of the 1963 World Series.

Ft. Carson Grid Loop In Action

After this weekend's slate of Ft. Carson Football League action, all five spots in the league will be occupied, barring any ties.

Saturday at 7 p.m. the Division Artillery Red Raiders and 1st Brigade Trojans will fight it out for second place while Sunday at 1:30 p.m., both the Support Command Gladiators and 3rd Brigade Chiefs will seek to avoid the cellar.

Raider Coach James Boyle feels that the Trojans will be his second toughest opponent behind the undefeated Special Troops Outlaws. "Both teams will be out to stay alive in the race for the league title, and it should be a hard fought contest. We won't hold anything back for this one," he said.

"Our team should be in the best physical shape for any game this year," Trojan Coach Joe Karkoska mentioned. "We have had a week's rest and most of our injuries should be healed. Tme previous week, we were able to clear the bench and see everyone under actual game conditions."

"Defensive improvement is the key to Gladiator hopes," according to Coach Henry Koga.

"We moved the ball well against the Raiders, especially on the ground," he said. "However, we still gave up four touchdowns, and need to tighten up our defense."

"Someday, we're going to combine a stiff defense with a good offense," Chief Coach Bill Belcher said. "I hope that Sunday is the day.

Tigers Meet Unbeaten Foe In Mountaineers This Week

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Jerry Carle's Colorado College Tigers, who enjoyed the rare sensation of knocking off an unbeaten team last weekend, would like to imagine that such an experience can be habit-forming.

There's good reason for that line of thinking. For, after sending Concordia's Bulldogs slinking back to Nebraska with their first defeat in six games this season, the Tigers find themselves in a position to test their upset-muscles on an even more impressive foe.

Saturday Carle tosses his club back into the Rocky Mountain Conference scramble — and against the team that has been doing most of the scrambling. Western State College hosts CC at Gunnison and the Mountaineers need only a victory over the Colorado Springs team to assure themselves of at least a tie for the 1963 title.

The Tigers, who came up with their best effort of the season against Concordia, thus find themselves with a strange reward. Carle terms Western State as "certainly the best team we've met yet and probably the best we'll play all season." Considering that CC shows just a 3-3 record to date, the outlook isn't too encouraging for improving on that at Gunnison.

Western State, under Coach Kay Dalton, has been steadily improving its football program over the past few seasons as the Tigers discovered while absorbing a 34-0 clobbering a year ago. This fall the Mountaineers have really arrived. They have raced past five straight opponents in impressive fashion and at this point would appear to have an excellent chance of going unbeaten.

The latest casulty on the WSC schedule was well-regarded New Mexico Western which Dalton's steamroller flattened 35-0. Earlier, New Mexico, Highlands and Fort Hayes, Kan. had been trampled.

In league action, according to comparitive scores, Western should just about have the title in its pocket. The Mountaineers whipped defending champion Adams State for the biggest step two weeks ago. Earlier they had beaten Colorado State College and the Bears, in turn, have decisively defeated both CC and Mines, the two league opponents remaining for WSC.

Personal-wise, Western State is definitely out of the reach of the Tigers. The Mountaineers' roster is just about twice as long as CC's and it's loaded with size and talent. Dalton is deep at every position and hits an opponent with an attack that moves fluently on the ground or overhead. The backfield features the breakaway work of Clyde Wilson, former Pueblo South star.

The Tigers will move into the game in reasonable physical shape — something that has not generally been true the past few weekends. Missing, and probably out for the season, is linebacker Roger Williams who was injured in the CSC game two weeks ago. Freshman quarterback Warner Reeser, who went down in the same contest with an arm injury, is still on the doubtful list. Elsewhere slotback Cy Dyer and lineman Glenn Clifford are nursing bruises but should see action.

The CC staff and followers were highly pleased over the team's outstanding effort against Concordia. Carle praised the entire squad, not singling out any individual, and called the goal line stands in the first half the turning point. The Tigers turned back Bulldog marches on three occasions within the CC 10 during the first two periods and once halted the visitors on a fourth down play inside the one.

Fullback Steve "Sudden Death" Sabol continues to lead the Tigers in rushing after the Concordia game. He has totaled 300 yards in 68 carries. Welch, who had an excellent day against the Bulldogs with 11 completions in 22 attempts, overall has hit on 27 tosses for 194 yards and three touchdowns. End Lee Muller, perhaps the outstanding single player on the team, has caught 20 passes for 222 yards and two T.D.s. Mike Mestek leads the scoring with 42 points on seven touchdowns.

Boulder Whips Collins To Take Northern Lead

From all appearances, the South Central League this fall will revert to its former policy of being the last of the state's AAA conferences to report in with a champion.

The firing has been all but over in the Denver, Jefferson County, and Adams - Arapahoe leagues for the past two weeks and Wednesday night the Northern League dissolved a first place tie as Boulder upset previously unbeaten Fort Collins, 33-14.

With only two games remaining on the schedule that moves the Panthers into a commanding position in the upstate circuit. Only Aurora Central and Fort Collins, both 6-1, retain a chance of overhauling Boulder.

East Denver, meanwhile, remains in command in the Denver loop. The Angels still have not clinched the crown and probably will not do so until they meet Washington the final week. The Patriots are just a half-game back but don't appear sufficiently muscular to handle the defending state champions.

In the Denver suburban circuits, defending champs are having an easy life. Lakewood disposed of its prime threat two weeks ago by whipping Arvada and the Tigers are a shoo-in for the Jefferson County flag. Cherry Creek, meanwhile, has a hammer-lock of the Adams-Arapahoe title.

That leaves the South Central where the air could either be cleared somewhat this weekend or, on the other hand, further congestion could set in. Locally, Palmer and Wasson tangle in that traditional bone-jarring rivalry and for the second straight season the significance is great. Wasson, tied with Centennial for the lead, could all but eliminate the Terrors with a victory. Palmer, however, could possibly pull back into a tie for the lead with a win.

The same evening Centennial will be battling traditional rival Central in Pueblo and that game will carry the same toss-up tag as the one in the Springs. Should both Wasson and Centennial win, it will eliminate Central and Palmer from further contention and set up the Nov. 2 meeting between the two as decisive. However, if the Terrors and Wildcats win it would create a three way tie for the lead with Central only a half-game back.

The state playoffs are scheduled to get underway Nov. 16 with a quarter-final round game between the Jefferson County winner and Adams-Arapahoe champ. This contest will undoubtedly match Lakewood and Cherry Creek for the second straight year. Nov. 23 the winner of that first game will host the Northern League champion in one semi-final clash and in the other the Denver League winner will travel to play the SCL champion. The finals are scheduled for Nov. 30.

South Central teams slipped in the weekly Denver Post poll this week. Wasson, previously fourth, yielded fifth place to Boulder and Centennial fell to seventh. Palmer remained eighth and Central is lodged in 14th. East Denver continued to lead by a substantial margin. Fort Collins is ranked second for the poll was released prior to the games of Wednesday night.

Cleveland's Choice Misses On Run at Season's Record

Cleveland's Choice came in for the win in the eighth race at the Rocky Mountain Kennel Club Wednesday night, but with a time of 32.53 or 63-100ths of a second short of the time record that he set for the Peak Course in September.

A favorite of the crowd, he only paid $4.20, $3.80 and $3.40 as he won over Blotched and Rushaway Dan.

High pay-off for the evening went to Velvet Band in the fourth race with $58, $17.20 and $10.20 as she won over Party Hostess at $10.60 and $5.60, with the 6-8 quiniela combination taking a jump to $161.60.

For the daily double it was a 1-3 at $34.80 for 333 winners. This was the fifth time that the 1-3 combination had paid off this season.

In the ninth, Ernest Shamrock, winner of the 963 RMKC Inaugural, finished second as Fair Haired Boy took the win. Dutex won the show, while Ortega Road came in for the fourth position.

Tonight's 10 race card sees Inky Black, Go Sherry, Just Fax and John Kay joining Traveler Joe, Perfect Chief, Joe Cornell and Westy Royal in the hot-box competition.

RMKC's 1963 season is cheduled to close a week from Friday night with the running of the 1963 AuRevoir Classic. Saturday sees the running of the 1963 Derby Elimination races with the 15th Annual RMKC Derby being run on Tuesday, Oct. 29.

Mantle 'Doing Fine'; Leaves Hospital Soon

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle, the New York Yankees' $100,00-a-year center fielder, says he is "doing fine" and expects to leave the hospital this weekend.

Nebraska Biggest Squad On Colorado's Schedule

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) —Colorado's Buffaloes can expect the biggest, toughest players they've met all season when they take the field at Lincoln Saturday against Nebraska in a Big Eight football game.

Coach Eddie Crowder gave the Buffs the word at Wednesday's practice.

"Nebraska will be stronger and bigger physically by far than any team we've faced," Crowder said. He told the players: "You'll have to quit making mistakes like you did last week if you hope to stay even with Nebraska."

Although he credited the Buffs with hitting hard against Iowa State, mental lapses cost them victory, Crowder said. These included fumbles, a blocked quick kick and missed defensive assignments.

Left halfback Tim Hogan, sidelined with a dislocated shoulder in the Kansas State game, began full scale workouts again Wednesday. He was No. 2 behind starter Bill Symons until the injury.

Coach Bob Devaney of Nebraska had some bad news for the Buffaloes with his announcement at Lincoln Wednesday that No. 1 quarterback Dennis Claridge would start for Nebraska.

Hershey Moves Close to Reds

By United Press International

The Hershey Bears are making their presence felt early in the Eastern Division of the American Hockey League.

The Bears moved to within one point of pace-setting Providence by turning back the Rochester Americans, 5-4, in Wednesday night's only game.

Goals by Charlie Hamilton, Danny Poliziani and Howie Yanosik gave Hershey a 3-0 lead in the opening period. The Americans then rallied to reduce their deficit to 4-3 in the third period before Roger De Jordy banged in the winner for the Bears.

Pioneer Baseball Is Dead

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—The Class A Pioneer League died suddenly Wednesday. It was 25.

But many of the baseball league's patrons and supporters refuse to schedule funeral services in hopes it will be born anew.

Death was attributed to a long financial illness.

"The Pioneer League was advised Wednesday by the National Association office that sufficient working agreements will not be available for the operation of the league in 1964.

"The league will determine the near future whether to disband or suspend operation for a period of one year with the possibility reactivating for a 1965 operation."

"This is our obituary, Engberg added.

He pinpointed the cause of death saying it was a product of high bonuses.

"The major league clubs are spending as much as they ever did, but in recent years it went to bonuses," said Engberg. "They don't the players to man the minor leagues."

All but one of the six Pioneer League teams suffered from dwindling attendance. And the league lost three major league working agreements this fall—at Boise, Idaho which quit; Pocatello, Idaho, and Billings, Mont.

Engberg said the other teams, Idaho Falls and Twin Falls, Idaho, and Great Falls, Mont., were in fair financial shape.

But Engberg said a flicker of hope that the league will be reborn remains.

"The farm directors stated they hoped we could retain our identity and be ready to operate in 1965," he said.

Berra Named Manager After 17 Years Playing

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Yogi Berra was named manager of the New York Yankees today, confirming reports that had been widespread since Ralph Houk was promoted to general manager two days ago.

Appointment of the 38-year-old former catcher was announced at a largescale press conference. It had been common knowledge that Berra was the choice from the minute Houk was promoted on Tuesday after leading the Yankes to three American League pennants and two World Series championships in his three years as manager.

Berra, one of the most popular players in baseball and the top home run hitting catcher in major league history, takes over the managerial spot after a 17-year career with the Yankees.

This past season, Berra served his first year as coach, and also was a part-time player. His estimated salary for 1963 was $45,000.

A native of St. Louis, he now lives with his wife, Carmen, and three sons in Montclair, N. J.

That Berra was considered managerial timber came as a surprise to some but not to knowledgeable baseball people who respect Yogi's keen analytical mind, native intelligence and ability to get along with people.

Berra's imminent graduation from player-coaching ranks to the managership comes as no surprise to Casey Stengel, who led the Yankees to 10 pennants in 12 years before giving way to Houk in 1961.

"They did some surprising things while I was there," said the skipper of the New York Mets, "but this move doesn't surprise me at all.

"There's nothing wrong with Berra. He's been a catcher for many years, calling the pitches and studying the batters. I found him to be a good man behind the plate. He had to be or he wouldn't have been in all those Series and on those championship teams.

Preacher Is Slowed By Injury

By AB J. PERILMAN
Sports Editor,
Las Cruces Sun-News

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP)—James (Preacher) Pilot is a two time national collegiate rushing champion who is having a tough time cracking the New Mexico State University starting line-up.

It's not because the Aggies have a wealth of experienced runners.

The Preacher pulled a hamstring muscle 10 days before the season started and now that he's recovered, he doesn't have the same quick start he used to have.

But when the Aggies are on defense, the 205-pound Pilot trots out to a corner back position and that's when the professional scouts dust off the binoculars.

Coach Waren Woodson says that Pilot's defensive play has long been overshadowed by his more publicized offensive play.

"In the Texas Western game we studied the film carefully and Pilot didn't make a single mistake on defense," Woodson said. Pilot only gained 33 yards that night as the Aggies lost 14-13.

It has been like that all season, however, as last year's leading rusher and No. 2 scorer in the nation has been almost ineffective with the football in his hands.

Pilot has gained just 389 yards in 65 carries which is barely one-third of his season average the past two years.

Pilot, who has been drafted as a future by the San Francisco 49ers and the Kansas City Chiefs has scored just once this year. Unless something breaks loose soon Pilot won't be able to get the 77 points he needs to break Glenn Davis' three-year scoring record and 306 points.

The Kingsville, Tex., lad needs just 642 more yards and he can better the three-year rushing record held by Ollie Matson of San Francisco. But even that is beginning to appear out of sight now.

How's the Preacher fell about it?

"I'm sure that one of these days real soon everything will be okay, and I'll be running at full speed."

The Los Angeles Dodgers scored first and went on to win in all four games of the 1963 World Series.

Ft. Carson Grid Loop In Action

After this weekend's slate of Ft. Carson Football League action, all five spots in the league will be occupied, barring any ties.

Saturday at 7 p.m. the Division Artillery Red Raiders and 1st Brigade Trojans will fight it out for second place while Sunday at 1:30 p.m., both the Support Command Gladiators and 3rd Brigade Chiefs will seek to avoid the cellar.

Raider Coach James Boyle feels that the Trojans will be his second toughest opponent behind the undefeated Special Troops Outlaws. "Both teams will be out to stay alive in the race for the league title, and it should be a hard fought contest. We won't hold anything back for this one," he said.

"Our team should be in the best physical shape for any game this year," Trojan Coach Joe Karkoska mentioned. "We have had a week's rest and most of our injuries should be healed. Tme previous week, we were able to clear the bench and see everyone under actual game conditions."

"Defensive improvement is the key to Gladiator hopes," according to Coach Henry Koga.

"We moved the ball well against the Raiders, especially on the ground," he said. "However, we still gave up four touchdowns, and need to tighten up our defense."

"Someday, we're going to combine a stiff defense with a good offense," Chief Coach Bill Beicher said. "I hope that Sunday is the day.

Tigers Meet Unbeaten Foe In Mountaineers This Week

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Jerry Carle's Colorado College Tigers, who enjoyed the rare sensation of knocking off an unbeaten team last weekend, would like to imagine that such an experience can be habit-forming.

There's good reason for that line of thinking. For, after sending Concordia's Bulldogs slinking back to Nebraska with their first defeat in six games this season, the Tigers find themselves in a position to test their upset-muscles on an even more impressive foe.

Saturday Carle tosses his club back into the Rocky Mountain Conference scramble — and against the team that has been doing most of the scrambling. Western State College hosts CC at Gunnison and the Mountaineers need only a victory over the Colorado Springs team to assure themselves of at least a tie for the 1963 title.

The Tigers, who came up with their best effort of the season against Concordia, thus find themselves with a strange reward. Carle terms Western State as "certainly the best team we've met yet and probably the best we'll play all season." Considering that CC shows just a 3-3 record to date, the outlook isn't too encouraging for improving on that at Gunnison.

Western State, under Coach Kay Dalton, has been steadily improving its football program over the past few seasons as the Tigers discovered while absorbing a 34-0 clobbering a year ago. This fall the Mountaineers have really arrived. They have raced past five straight opponents in impressive fashion and at this point would appear to have an excellent chance of going unbeaten.

The latest casulty on the WSC schedule was well-regarded New Mexico Western which Dalton's steamroller flattened 35-0. Earlier, New Mexico Highlands and Fort Hayes, Kan. had been trampled.

In league action, according to comparitive scores, Western should just about have the title in its pocket. The Mountaineers whipped defending champion Adams State for the biggest step two weeks ago. Earlier they had beaten Colorado State College and the Bears, in turn, have decisively defeated both CC and Mines.

Personal-wise, Western State is definitely out of the reach of the two league opponents remaining for WSC.

The Tigers, The Mountaineers' roster is just about twice as long as CC's and it's loaded with size and talent. Dalton is deep at every position and hits an opponent with an attack that moves fluently on the ground or overhead. The backfield features the breakaway work of Clyde Wilson, former Pueblo South star.

The Tigers will move into the game in reasonable physical shape — something that has not generally been true the past few weekends. Missing, and probably out for the season, is linebacker Roger Williams who was injured in the CSC game two weeks ago. Freshman quarterback Warner Reeser, who went down in the same contest with an arm injury, is still on the doubtful list. Elsewhere slotback Cy Dyer and lineman Glenn Clifford are nursing bruises but should see action.

The CC staff and followers were highly pleased over the team's outstanding effort against Concordia. Carle praised the entire squad, not singling out any individual, and called the goal line stands in the first half the turning point. The Tigers turned back Bulldog marches on three occasions within the CC 10 during the first two periods and once halted the visitors on a fourth down play inside the one.

Fullback Steve "Sudden Death" Sabol continues to lead the Tigers in rushing after the Concordia game. He has totaled 300 yards in 68 carries. Welch, who had an excellent day against the Bulldogs with 11 completions in 22 attempts, overall has hit on 27 tosses for 194 yards and three touchdowns. End Lee Muller, perhaps the outstanding single player on the team, has caught 20 passes for 222 yards and two T.D.s. Mike Mestek leads the scoring with 42 points on seven touchdowns.

Boulder Whips Collins To Take Northern Lead

From all appearances, the South Central League this fall will revert to its former policy of being the last of the state's AAA conferences to report in with a champion.

The firing has been all but over in the Denver, Jefferson County, and Adams - Arapahoe leagues for the past two weeks and Wednesday night the Northern League dissolved a first place tie as Boulder upset previously unbeaten Fort Collins, 33-14.

With only two games remaining on the schedule that moves the Panthers into a commanding position in the upstate circuit. Only Aurora Central and Fort Collins, both 6-1, retain a chance of overhauling Boulder.

East Denver, meanwhile, remains in command in the Denver loop. The Angels still have not clinched the crown and probably will not do so until they meet Washington the final week. The Patriots are just a half-game back but don't appear sufficiently muscular to handle the defending state champions.

In the Denver suburban circuits, defending champs are having an easy life. Lakewood disposed of its prime threat two weeks ago by whipping Arvada and the Tigers are a shoo-in for the Jefferson County flag. Cherry Creek, meanwhile, has a hammer-lock of the Adams-Arapahoe title.

That leaves the South Central where the air could either be cleared somewhat this weekend or, on the other hand, further congestion could set in. Locally, Palmer and Wasson tangle in that traditional bone-jarring rivalry and for the second straight season the significance is great. Wasson, tied with Centennial for the lead, could all but eliminate the Terrors with a victory. Palmer, however, could possibly pull back into a tie for the lead with a win.

The same evening Centennial will be battling traditional rival Central in Pueblo and that game will carry the same toss-up tag as the one in the Springs. Should both Wasson and Centennial win, it will eliminate Central and Palmer from further contention and set up the Nov. 2 meeting between the two as decisive. However, if the Terrors and Wildcats win it would create a three way tie for the lead with Central only a half-game back.

The state playoffs are scheduled to get underway Nov. 16 with a quarter-final round game between the Jefferson County winner and Adams-Arapahoe champ. This contest will undoubtedly match Lakewood and Cherry Creek for the second straight year. Nov. 23 the winner of that first game will host the Northern League champion in one semi-final clash and in the other the Denver League winner will travel to play the SCL champion. The finals are scheduled for Nov. 30.

South Central teams slipped in the weekly Denver Post poll this week. Wasson, previously fourth, yielded fifth place to Boulder and Centennial fell to seventh. Palmer remained eighth and Central is lodged in 14th. East Denver continued to lead by a substantial margin. Fort Collins is ranked second for the poll was released prior to the games of Wednesday night.

Cleveland's Choice Misses On Run at Season's Record

Cleveland's Choice came in for the win in the eighth race at the Rocky Mountain Kennel Club Wednesday night, but with a time of 32.53 or 63-100ths of a second short of the time record that he set for the Peak Course in September.

A favorite of the crowd, he only paid $4.20, $3.80 and $3.40 as he won over Blotched and Rushaway Dan.

High pay-off for the evening went to Velvet Band in the fourth race with $58, $17.20 and $10.20 as she won over Party Hostess at $10.60 and $5.60, with the 6-8 quiniela combination taking a jump to $161.60.

For the daily double it was a 1-3 at $34.80 for 333 winners. This was the fifth time that the 1-3 combination had paid off this season.

In the ninth, Ernest Shamrock, winner of the 963 RMKC Inaugural, finished second as Fair Haired Boy took the win. Dutex won the show, while Ortega Road came in for the fourth position.

Tonight's 10 race card sees Inky Black, Go Sherry, Just Fax and John Kay joining Traveler Joe, Perfect Chief, Joe Cornell and Westy Royal in the hot-box competition.

RMKC's 1963 season is cheduled to close a week from Friday night with the running of the 1963 AuRevoir Classic. Saturday sees the running of the 1963 Derby Elimination races with the 15th Annual RMKC Derby being run on Tuesday, Oct. 29.

Mantle 'Doing Fine'; Leaves Hospital Soon

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle, the New York Yankees' $100,00-a-year center fielder, says he is "doing fine" and expects to leave the hospital this weekend.

Nebraska Biggest Squad On Colorado's Schedule

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) —Colorado's Buffaloes can expect the biggest, toughest players they've met all season when they take the field at Lincoln Saturday against Nebraska in a Big Eight football game.

Coach Eddie Crowder gave the Buffs the word at Wednesday's practice.

"Nebraska will be stronger and bigger physically by far than any team we've faced," Crowder said. He told the players: "You'll have to quit making mistakes like you did last week if you hope to stay even with Nebraska."

Although he credited the Buffs with hitting hard against Iowa State, mental lapses cost them victory, Crowder said. These included fumbles, a blocked quick kick and missed defensive assignments.

Left halfback Tim Hogan, sidelined with a dislocated shoulder in the Kansas State game, began full scale workouts again Wednesday. He was No. 2 behind starter Bill Symons until the injury.

Coach Bob Devaney of Nebraska had some bad news for the Buffaloes with his announcement at Lincoln Wednesday that No. 1 quarterback Dennis Claridge would start for Nebraska.

Hershey Moves Close to Reds

By United Press International

The Hershey Bears are making their presence felt early in the Eastern Division of the American Hockey League.

The Bears moved to within one point of pace-setting Providence by turning back the Rochester Americans, 5-4, in Wednesday night's only game.

Goals by Charlie Hamilton, Danny Poliziani and Howie Yanosik gave Hershey a 3-0 lead in the opening period. The Americans then rallied to reduce their deficit to 4-3 in the third period before Roger De Jordy banged in the winner for the Bears.

Pioneer Baseball Is Dead

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—The Class A Pioneer League died suddenly Wednesday. It was 25.

But many of the baseball league's patrons and supporters refuse to schedule funeral services in hopes it will be born anew.

Death was attributed to a long financial illness.

"The Pioneer League was advised Wednesday by the National Association office that sufficient working agreements will not be available for the operation of the league in 1964.

"The league will determine the near future whether to disband or suspend operation for a period of one year with the possibility reactivating for a 1965 operation."

"This is our obituary, Engberg added.

He pinpointed the cause of death saying it was a product of high bonuses.

"The major league clubs are spending as much as they ever did, but in recent years it went to bonuses," said Engberg. "They don't have the players to man the minor leagues."

All but one of the six Pioneer League teams suffered from dwindling attendance. And the league lost three major league working agreements this fall—at Boise, Idaho which quit; Pocatello, Idaho, and Billings, Mont.

Engberg said the other teams, Idaho Falls and Twin Falls, Idaho, and Great Falls, Mont., were in fair financial shape.

But Engberg said a flicker of hope that the league will be reborn remains.

"The farm directors stated they hoped we could retain our identity and be ready to operate in 1965," he said.

Berra Named Manager After 17 Years Playing

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Yogi Berra was named manager of the New York Yankees today, confirming reports that had been widespread since Ralph Houk was promoted to general manager two days ago.

Appointment of the 38-year-old former catcher was announced at a largescale press conference. It had been common knowledge that Berra was the choice from the minute Houk was promoted on Tuesday after leading the Yankees to three American League pennants and two World Series championships in his three years as manager.

Berra, one of the most popular players in baseball and the top home run hitting catcher in major league history, takes over the managerial spot after a 17-year career with the Yankees.

This past season, Berra served his first year as coach, and also was a part-time player. His estimated salary for 1963 was $45,000.

A native of St. Louis, he now lives with his wife, Carmen, and three sons in Montclair, N. J.

That Berra was considered managerial timber came as a surprise to some but not to knowledgeable baseball people who respect Yogi's keen analytical mind, native intelligence and ability to get along with people.

Berra's imminent graduation from player-coaching ranks to the managership comes as no surprise to Casey Stengel, who led the Yankees to 10 pennants in 12 years before giving way to Houk in 1961.

"They did some surprising things while I was there," said the skipper of the New York Mets, "but this move doesn't surprise me at all.

"There's nothing wrong with Berra. He's been a catcher for many years, calling the pitches and studying the batters. I found him to be a good man behind the plate. He had to be or he wouldn't have been in all those Series and on those championship teams.

Preacher Is Slowed By Injury

By AB J. PERILMAN
Sports Editor,
Las Cruces Sun-News

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP)—James (Preacher) Pilot is a two time national collegiate rushing champion who is having a tough time cracking the New Mexico State University starting line-up.

It's not because the Aggies have a wealth of experienced runners.

The Preacher pulled a hamstring muscle 10 days before the season started and now that he's recovered, he doesn't have the same quick start he used to have.

But when the Aggies are on defense, the 205-pound Pilot trots out to a corner back position and that's when the professional scouts dust off the binoculars.

Coach Waren Woodson says that Pilot's defensive play has long been overshadowed by his more publicized offensive play.

"In the Texas Western game we studied the film carefully and Pilot didn't make a single mistake on defense," Woodson said. Pilot only gained 33 yards that night as the Aggies lost 14-13.

It has been like that all season, however, as last year's leading rusher and No. 2 scorer in the nation has been almost ineffective with the football in his hands.

Pilot has gained just 389 yards in 65 carries which is barely one-third of his season average the past two years.

Pilot, who has been drafted as a future by the San Francisco 49ers and the Kansas City Chiefs has scored just once this year. Unless something breaks loose soon Pilot won't be able to get the 77 points he needs to break Glenn Davis' three-year scoring record and 306 points.

The Kingsville, Tex., lad needs just 642 more yards and he can better the three-year rushing record held by Ollie Matson of San Francisco. But even that is beginning to appear out of sight now.

How's the Preacher fell about it?

"I'm sure that one of these days real soon everything will be okay, and I'll be running at full speed."

The Los Angeles Dodgers scored first and went on to win in all four games of the 1963 World Series.

Ft. Carson Grid Loop In Action

After this weekend's slate of Ft. Carson Football League action, all five spots in the league will be occupied, barring any ties.

Saturday at 7 p.m. the Division Artillery Red Raiders and 1st Brigade Trojans will fight it out for second place while Sunday at 1:30 p.m., both the Support Command Gladiators and 3rd Brigade Chiefs will seek to avoid the cellar.

Raider Coach James Boyle feels that the Trojans will be his second toughest opponent behind the undefeated Special Troops Outlaws. "Both teams will be out to stay alive in the race for the league title, and it should be a hard fought contest. We won't hold anything back for this one," he said.

"Our team should be in the best physical shape for any game this year," Trojan Coach Joe Karkoska mentioned. "We have had a week's rest and most of our injuries should be healed. The previous week, we were able to clear the bench and see everyone under actual game conditions."

"Defensive improvement is the key to Gladiator hopes," according to Coach Henry Koga.

"We moved the ball well against the Raiders, especially on the ground," he said. "However, we still gave up four touchdowns, and need to tighten up our defense."

"Someday, we're going to combine a stiff defense with a good offense," Chief Coach Bill Beicher said. "I hope that Sunday is the day.

Florissant News

By MRS. BEN GARVER

The newly constructed telephone building at Lake George is nearly complete. Crews are preparing the REA posts for lines into ranches, with both party and private lines being available. A few of the local men have been working on the exchange building which will house the dial system.

The senior play at the Woodland Park gym attracted a large crowd from here, who report it was hilarious and well performed. Two local students, Karel Swisher and Bob Ballard, had parts.

Mrs. Alice Jeffryes, her mother, Mrs. Hagerty, and her son, Mike, had an interesting trip to Tennessee, and a good visit with Mrs. Jeffryes' daughters and familes, the former Ruth and Zoe Jeffryes.

Mrs. Dorothy Erb is home after what she enthusiastically describes as a fabulous trip to Hawaii, attending the national postmasters meeting. They drove to California and were joined by a large contingent of Colorado postmasters who toured the island. Mrs. Mamie Young of Jefferson also attended the national convention.

Alexander Kirk, who owned extensive ranch property and lived at Florissant at Crystal Peak Ranch, died in Texas, after a long illness from a heart ailment.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Sumner and Tom Gilley visited Jim Sumner at Salina, Kan., where he attends military school, after locating the three younger Gilley boys at Fremont, Neb. Jim has already received a promotion, and is also squadron leader for his class.

Mrs. Jack Swisher was here to attend the senior play, but has returned to Fort Worth, Tex., where the lower altitude has benefited her health.

Mrs. Albert Douglas has been confined to her home, after breaking her arm in a fall.

The Dean Butlers and Ira Morelands attended the cattle sale in Limon, and report lowered calf prices, and a heavy run of cattle. A large number of South Park and Hartsel cattle were sold.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Dickson are the proud parents of their first child, a son, born in Denver Oct. 16 and weighing 6 lbs. 5 oz. Mrs. Dickson is the former Bette Fallis. Grandparents are the Ken Fallises of Florissant and the Everett Dicksons of Woodland Park.

The annual elections of officers was held by the Help U Club, Oct. 17, with Mrs. Helen Wright hostess, at the Wilbur Lewis home, which was festively decorated in Halloween motif. "The Thing" was won by Mrs. Wilbur Lewis. Birthday greetings were offered to Stevie Butler and Mrs. Dan Miller. It was announced sufficient points had been received to purchase a lovely gift for a lucky winner. The Help U Club has only one benefit annually, the family Thanksgiving dinner, and this year, two gifts are to be given. County Council will be held Oct. 24 at the Divide Hall, at 10:30 a.m. New officers are Mrs. William Manuel, president; Mrs. Luke Madole, vice president; Mrs. Wilbur Lewis, secretary, and Mrs. Art Warling, treasurer. The next regular meeting will be a pot luck at the home of Mrs. William Manuel, Nov. 7.

The drouth here has been somewhat eased by heavy to moderate rains which fell over the weekend. It should ease the fire danger and benefit hunters. Several groups from here have left for the western slope for elk hunting.

Recent weekend visitors at the Ira Moreland ranch were Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Moreland of Colorado Springs. The Dooley Deckers of Colorado Springs spent a couple of days at their Lake George ranch and entertained at a birthday dinner honoring their daughter, Mrs. Larry Lindgren.

Barbara Warling had the misfortune to break her shoulder, when her horse fell with her. She is improving rapidly, tho the injury has been a painful one.

Spending a week visiting the Roy Caylors recently were Mrs. Caylor's sister, Mrs. Dorothy Dorrity and daughter, and her father, E. J. Welsh, of Ft. Lupton.

Recent guests at the Ben Garver home were Harry Garver and John Warner and Bert Timmons of Burns.

Mrs. Forest Stacy is presently visiting her daughter and family, the George Phillips near Denver, and her son and family, the Von Forrells of Denver.

Syrian Spy Net Found in Israel

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — A Syrian spy net has been discovered inside Israel following the arrest 10 days ago of three armed Arab infiltrators close to the northern border, a police spokesman said today.

He said investigation showed that the three infiltrators had been sent by Syrian intelligence authorities and that more Arabs had been detained in the Acre area in northern Israel since then.

PLANTS VS. ANIMALS

A major distinction between plants and animals is that plants manufacture their own food. This process is directly associated with the presence in the plant cells of chlorophyll, a vital green pigment.

Extremists Are Denounced by Rockefeller

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says "the forward road" is America's path to progress and it doesn't detour through "extreme philosophies."

In a speech at Salt Lake City Tuesday night, the New York governor said President Kennedy and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona are at the political extremes; Kennedy because he "favors an "all-powerful federal government dominating our lives," and Goldwater because he is "committed to withdraw from free world leadership and roll back the clock on social gains and human progress."

"I have always tried to follow that forward road," Rockefeller said earlier at a news conference.

Rockefeller and Goldwater are the chief contenders for the Republican nomination to run against Kennedy in next year's presidential election, although neither man has formally announced as a candidate.

In his speech to a crowd of 1,300 at the University of Utah, Rockefeller said "America is at the crossroads."

"The big question is: which way shall we go?

"We should find the solution to our problems through actions true to our heritage—actions based upon our fundamental principles, not political expediency.

"The forward road takes courage and faith in our fundamental American beliefs—the federal-state system of shared sovereignty, government closest to the people, fiscal integrity, equal opportunity and the dignity and worth of free men."

Rockefeller, who is making a three-city swing through the West, flew to San Francisco Tuesday night. He holds a news conference before speaking to the League of California Cities convention. Next stop is Los Angeles, then back to New York.

The governor and his second wife, Happy, were greeted here by Republican state officials, about 150 youthful supporters and five or six sign-waving Goldwater enthusiasts.

The young Goldwater people heckled Rockefeller and his wife from the moment the couple stepped off the jet.

"Oh-oh," said Rocky to Happy when he spotted a Goldwater fan. "There's another one."

But Rockefeller kept smiling and shaking hands as he, his wife and a cordon of police officers led a stampede from the plane to a waiting limousine.

The Rockefeller sign carriers and the outnumbered Goldwater contingent tossed a few mild insults at each other and Goldwater people passed out leaflets.

Also on hand were about 50 San Francisco high school students who wanted to ask Rockefeller questions as part of a youth and politics program. They never got their chance.

Neither did adult newsmen who wanted to ask about an article in the Sign, a "Catholic national magazine, that suggested he withdraw as a potential white house contender because of his divorce and remarriage.

Rockefeller married Margaretta Fitler Murphy last May 4 about 14 months after he and Mary Todhunter Clark Rockefeller were divorced in Reno.

TWO-IN-ONE

Physicaty, Berin is one city, but it leads a strange double life with two police forces, two fire departments, two postal and telephone systems, two kinds of currency and two types of automobile license plates. East and West Berlin schools, courts, press and radio are dissimilar, but part of the water supply is held in common and the two sections of the city use the same elevated railroad system.

New from Sara Lee: bread so good it's in a special place in the store-the freezer

Why there?
Because that's the only place in the store bread this good can be.
Consider Sara Lee Milk • Butter 'n Egg Bread. Sara Lee bakes it with fresh milk, fresh eggs, and only fresh Grade AA butter. Freezing guards these good things naturally, without any preservatives.

That's why Sara Lee freezes every loaf they bake. To keep the bread as fresh as the moment it came out of the oven. And that's why it tastes so fresh when you serve it.
Try all three kinds: Sara Lee Cracked Wheat Bread. Sara Lee Milk-Butter 'n Egg Bread. Sara Lee Raisin Bread.

Now in your grocer's freezer—ready to take home and put in your bread box.

The Rockefeller sign carriers and the outnumbered Goldwater contingent tossed a few mild insults at each other and Goldwater people passed out leaflets.

Also on hand were about 50 San Francisco high school students who wanted to ask Rockefeller questions as part of a youth and politics program. They never got their chance.

Neither did adult newsmen who wanted to ask about an article in the Sign, a "Catholic national magazine, that suggested he withdraw as a potential white house contender because of his divorce and remarriage.

Rockefeller married Margaretta Fitler Murphy last May 4 about 14 months after he and Mary Todhunter Clark Rockefeller were divorced in Reno.

Syrian Spy Net Found in Israel

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — A Syrian spy net has been discovered inside Israel following the arrest 10 days ago of three armed Arab infiltrators close to the northern border, a police spokesman said today.

He said investigation showed that the three infiltrators had been sent by Syrian intelligence authorities and that more Arabs had been detained in the Acre area in northern Israel since then.

PLANTS VS. ANIMALS

A major distinction between plants and animals is that plants manufacture their own food. This process is directly associated with the presence in the plant cells of chlorophyll, a vital green pigment.

Extremists Are Denounced by Rockefeller

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says "the forward road" is America's path to progress and it doesn't detour through "extreme philosophies."

In a speech at Salt Lake City Tuesday night, the New York governor said President Kennedy and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona are at the political extremes; Kennedy because he "favors an "all-powerful federal government dominating our lives," and Goldwater because he is "committed to withdraw from free world leadership and roll back the clock on social gains and human progress."

"I have always tried to follow that forward road," Rockefeller said earlier at a news conference.

Rockefeller and Goldwater are the chief contenders for the Republican nomination to run against Kennedy in next year's presidential election, although neither man has formally announced as a candidate.

In his speech to a crowd of 1,300 at the University of Utah, Rockefeller said "America is at the crossroads."

"The big question is: which way shall we go?

"We should find the solution to our problems through actions true to our heritage—actions based upon our fundamental principles, not political expediency.

"The forward road takes courage and faith in our fundamental American beliefs—the federal-state system of shared sovereignty, government closest to the people, fiscal integrity, equal opportunity and the dignity and worth of free men."

Rockefeller, who is making a three-city swing through the West, flew to San Francisco Tuesday night. He holds a news conference before speaking to the League of California Cities convention. Next stop is Los Angeles, then back to New York.

The governor and his second wife, Happy, were greeted here by Republican state officials, about 150 youthful supporters and five or six sign-waving Goldwater enthusiasts.

"Oh-oh," said Rocky to Happy when he spotted a Goldwater fan. "There's another one."

But Rockefeller kept smiling and shaking hands as he, his wife and a cordon of police officers led a stampede from the plane to a waiting limousine.

The Rockefeller sign carriers and the outnumbered Goldwater contingent tossed a few mild insults at each other and Goldwater people passed out leaflets.

Also on hand were about 50 San Francisco high school students who wanted to ask Rockefeller questions as part of a youtn and politics program. They never got their chance.

Neither did adult newsmen who wanted to ask about an article in the Sign, a "Catholic national magazine, that suggested he withdraw as a potential white house contender because of his divorce and remarriage.

Rockefeller married Margaretta Fitler Murphy last May 4 about 14 months after he and Mary Todhunter Clark Rockefeller were divorced in Reno.

USED GI BILL

CHICAGO (AP) — A total of 7,800,000 World War II veterans, more than half the total of 15 million who served, received education and training under the GI Bill.

The Veterans Administration says it also made grants totaling $69.2 million to provide special housing for paraplegics.

The VA says that veterans have proved to be extraordinarily fine credit risks in loans for homes, launching business and rehabilitation.

Middle Road Marriage Lasts for 50 Years

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A marriage which started in the middle of an Arkansas road has passed the 50-year mark.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Wise said their wedding was performed in the street "because we wanted to keep the marriage a secret." Wise, recalling the ceremony Sept. 13, 1913, near Mountain Home, Ark., said, "After the Sunday service we stopped the minister as he was walking down the road. We had our witnesses and he opened his Bible and tied the knot right there."

Cut off the flaps of unsealed envelopes that you receive through the mail. They make fine labels for many things.

INTERDENOMINATIONAL PROJECT

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Seven Protestants denominations have formed a joint clearing house for helping each other find personnel to staff their colleges. The cooperative plan was developed under auspices of the Council of Protestant Colleges and Universities.

Cascade News

By CAROLYN McADAMS — MU 7-9065

Cub Scouts Pack 33 of Ute Pass has divided into three Dens and will hold regular meetings every week. On Monday afternoons, right after school, Den No. 3 meets in the Cascade Fire House, under the guidance of Mrs. Sharaon Ernst and Mrs. Polly Bartley, co-den mothers. There are 5 members in this Den.

Den No. 2, meets on Wednesday after school in the "Rumpus Room" at the home of Mrs. Faye Schumacher, below the Hills Motel on Highway 24. Mrs. Francine Nelson is co-den mother. Enrolled are the following six boys: Kent Nelson, Stephen Schumacher, Steve Townsend, Fred Nittman, Denner, Randy Hey, assistant denner, and Johnny Pole. The den chief is David Hey. Accompanied by their den mothers, 100 per cent attendance was at their first meeting. Scientific experiments were conducted, one called "Bottle Imp" using a bottle of water, a test tube and a balloon. Another used a candle, soup bowl and a milk bottle.

Den No. 1 meets on Tuesday evenings after school at the home of Mrs. Joyce Woolston, with Mrs. Ann Rasner co-den mother. The eight members were met in front of the Public Library in Manitou Springs by the den mothers for their meeting last week and were taken to the Manitou Springs Fire Department for a tour. One of the fireman on duty told the cubs that the Manitou Springs Volunteer Fire Department was the oldest volunteer unit operating in the state and was organized in the late 1880's. A demonstration was given of the hose nozzle and water pressure among other interesting things, and each was treated with a bottle of coke. Albert Rasner and Steven Woolston, both age three, went along as Mascots.

The regular meeting of the Ute Pass Home Demonstration Club, was held Thursday, Oct. 18, at the Hitchin Post in Green Mountain Falls, with Mrs. Phyllis Giles, president, and other newly elected officers in charge for the first time. Mrs. Phyllis McConnell was hostess for the coffee brunch, at 10 a.m. Others present were Barbara Gofford, Eunice Matthes, Louise Weiman, Carol White, June Pickett, Jenny Wyatt, and Ida Singmaster, a guest. Mrs. Louise Weiman conducted a class on making Christman decorations from inflated ballons covered with starch and novelty items. The next regular meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Jenny Wyatt, Nov. 21. Work meetings will begin Oct. 31, making Christmas gifts and items, with members and guests coming for an all day gathering at the home of Mrs. Phyllis Giles. Each is to bring a sack lunch. New members are welcome.

Mrs. Pat Heltemes was hostess at her home Oct. 12 for the monthly meeting of the Delta Kappa Gamma, honorary teachers sorority with an afternoon dessert. Twenty-seven members were present. A musical program was given by the "Teen Age Combo", a quartet of boys from Wasson High School.

Ed Heltemes, serving on the planning committee for the 1964 Glidden tour, to be held in Colorado Springs, attended a meeting of the committee in Denver, Saturday, held at the Arthur Rippey Museum. The regular meeting of the Pikes Peak Chapter, Veteran Motor Car Club, was held Friday, Oct. 18, in the Interstate Gas Company conference room in the Plaza Building, with 30 present, including Mr. and Mrs. Ed Heltemes. The date set for the annual Christmas dinner party is Saturday, Dec. 7, to be held at Valley-Hi Country Club.

Airman Scott E. Nelson of the USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Nelson, left Cascade Oct. 14, from a fifteen day leave, visiting his parents. Airman MATS (Military Air Transfer Service) at Moffet Field, Calif., and will have a years assignment on Adak Island, one of the farthermost Aleutian Islands in the Pacific Ocean. During his twenty months of service young Scott has visited all the countries in the world except Australia and Alaska.

Mrs. Mary Mayfield's name was omitted last week from the Ute Early Birds Bowling team playing at Ute Lanes Wednesday mornings at 9:15. Others on the team are Carla Foresyth, Lucia Church, Louise Weiman, Grace Wilson and Helen Quinn.

Carla Foresyth, junior conselor at the Trail Bowl, will start league bowling with boys and have enrolled and been practicing the last few weeks. Teams will be formed Saturday morning, Oct. 26. Helen Quinn is a junior counselor also and Sally McDermed league consultant. The first "Traveling Team" of senior high students played Saturday afternoon, Oct. 19, at the Bowl-Mor Lanes. On the team were Tom Foushee, Lee Covey, Jerry Hagen, Anna Kleinschmidt and Twila Griffin, all from Woodland Park.

Lettuce May Be Ready Soon For Machines

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) — Science's next gift to the farmer may be a machine that goes through a lettuce field and picks only the heads that are ready for market.

Agricultural engineers at the University of California branch in Davis already have made an experimental model of the machine, and it looks like a success.

Using both mechanical and electronic equipment, the machine goes down the rows in a lettuce field and "feels" each head of lettuce. If a head is big enough and firm enough, the machine cuts it off. If a head is not ready, the machine passes on to the next one.

The harvester has undergone a successful field trial. It was built for only one row at a time, but a commercial machine could cover four rows while moving through a field at a mile an hour.

The developers were Roger Garrett of the Department of Agricultural Engineering, Mike B. Zahara of the Vegetable Crops Department and Richard Griffin, an agricultural extension engineer.

SOFA SO GOOD

ROSWELL, N. M. (AP) — Michael Mack Keller, 15, can find the softest places to land.

He was thrown from his motor scooter one afternoon and after turning a somersault, he landed squarely on a soft divan being transported on the bed of a truck.

But even with his good luck, Michael suffered a broken knee, believed to have been injured when he hit the handlebars during the flip.

DESSERTS Remember Holly Sugar

Sweet treat recipes by Adele Holly, Director, Holly Sugar Kitchens

Holly Sugar ... ADDS THE "PLUS" OF WORLD'S FINEST QUALITY IN SUGAR

BUTTERSCOTCH WAFERS

1 Regular Pkg. Butterscotch Pudding
2 Cups Quick-Cook Rolled Oats
½ Cup Chopped Pecans
¾ Cup Soft Butter
½ Cup HOLLY Sugar
1 Tsp. Vanilla Extract
1 4 Tsp. Lemon Extract

Preheat oven to almost 375°. Blend together all the ingredients (with fingers is the quickest and easiest) and then shape into balls size of small walnuts. Place about 2½ inches apart on ungreased cookie sheet and flatten slightly with fork. Bake 12-15 minutes, or until done, remove from oven and cool on baking sheet before removing. Makes 3 dozen.

USED GI BILL

CHICAGO (AP) — A total of 7,800,000 World War II veterans, more than half the total of 15 million who served, received education and training under the GI Bill.

The Veterans Administration says it also made grants totaling $69.2 million to provide special housing for paraplegics.

The VA says that veterans have proved to be extraordinarily fine credit risks in loans for homes, launching business and rehabilitation.

Middle Road Marriage Lasts for 50 Years

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A marriage which started in the middle of an Arkansas road has passed the 50-year mark.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Wise said their wedding was performed in the street "because we wanted to keep the marriage a secret." Wise, recalling the ceremony Sept. 13, 1913, near Mountain Home, Ark., said, "After the Sunday service we stopped the minister as he was walking down the road. We had our witnesses and he opened his Bible and tied the knot right there."

Cut off the flaps of unsealed envelopes that you receive through the mail. They make fine labels for many things.

INTERDENOMINATIONAL PROJECT

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Seven Protestants denominations have formed a joint clearing house for helping each other find personnel to staff their colleges. The cooperative plan was developed under auspices of the Council of Protestant Colleges and Universities.

Holly Sugar ... ADDS THE "PLUS" OF WORLD'S FINEST QUALITY IN SUGAR

BUTTERSCOTCH WAFERS

1 Regular Pkg. Butterscotch Pudding
2 Cups Quick-Cook Rolled Oats
½ Cup Chopped Pecans
¾ Cup Soft Butter
½ Cup HOLLY Sugar
1 Tsp. Vanilla Extract
1 4 Tsp. Lemon Extract

Preheat oven to almost 375°. Blend together all the ingredients (with fingers is the quickest and easiest) and then shape into balls size of small walnuts. Place about 2½ inches apart on ungreased cookie sheet and flatten slightly with fork. Bake 12-15 minutes, or until done, remove from oven and cool on baking sheet before removing. Makes 3 dozen.

Cascade News

By CAROLYN McADAMS — MU 7-9065

Cub Scouts Pack 33 of Ute Pass has divided into three Dens and will hold regular meetings every week. On Monday afternoons, right after school, Den No. 3 meets in the Cascade Fire House, under the guidance of Mrs. Sharaon Ernst and Mrs. Polly Bartley, co-den mothers. There are 5 members in this Den.

Den No. 2, meets on Wednesday after school in the "Rumpus Room" at the home of Mrs. Faye Schumacher, below the Hills Motel on Highway 24. Mrs. Francine Nelson is co-den mother. Enrolled are the following six boys: Kent Nelson, Stephen Schumacher, Steve Townsend, Fred Nittman, Denner, Randy Hey, assistant denner, and Johnny Pole. The den chief is David Hey. Accompanied by their den mothers, 100 per cent attendance was at their first meeting. Scientific experiments were conducted, one called "Bottle Imp" using a bottle of water, a test tube and a balloon. Another used a candle, soup bowl and a milk bottle.

Den No. 1 meets on Tuesday evenings after school at the home of Mrs. Joyce Woolston, with Mrs. Ann Rasner co-den mother. The eight members were met in front of the Public Library in Manitou Springs by the den mothers for their meeting last week and were taken to the Manitou Springs Fire Department for a tour. One of the fireman on duty told the cubs that the Manitou Springs Volunteer Fire Department was the oldest volunteer unit operating in the state and was organized in the late 1880's. A demonstration was given of the hose nozzle and water pressure among other interesting things, and each was treated with a bottle of coke. Albert Rasner and Steven Woolston, both age three, went along as Mascots.

The regular meeting of the Ute Pass Home Demonstration Club, was held Thursday, Oct. 18, at the Hitchin Post in Green Mountain Falls, with Mrs. Phyllis Giles, president, and other newly elected officers in charge for the first time. Mrs. Phyllis McConnell was hostess for the coffee brunch, at 10 a.m. Others present were Barbara Gofford, Eunice Matthes, Louise Weiman, Carol White, June Pickett, Jenny Wyatt, and Ida Singmaster, a guest. Mrs. Louise Weiman conducted a class on making Christman decorations from inflated ballons covered with starch and novelty items. The next regular meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Jenny Wyatt, Nov. 21. Work meetings will begin Oct. 31, making Christmas gifts and items, with members and guests coming for an all day gathering at the home of Mrs. Phyllis Giles. Each is to bring a sack lunch. New members are welcome.

Mrs. Pat Heltemes was hostess at her home Oct. 12 for the monthly meeting of the Delta Kappa Gamma, honorary teachers sorority with an afternoon dessert. Twenty-seven members were present. A musical program was given by the "Teen Age Combo", a quartet of boys from Wasson High School.

Ed Heltemes, serving on the planning committee for the 1964 Glidden tour, to be held in Colorado Springs, attended a meeting of the committee in Denver, Saturday, held at the Arthur Rippey Museum. The regular meeting of the Pikes Peak Chapter, Veteran Motor Car Club, was held Friday, Oct. 18, in the Interstate Gas Company conference room in the Plaza Building, with 30 present, including Mr. and Mrs. Ed Heltemes. The date set for the annual Christmas dinner party is Saturday, Dec. 7, to be held at Valley-Hi Country Club.

Airman Scott E. Nelson of the USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Nelson, left Cascade Oct. 14, from a fifteen day leave, visiting his parents. Airman MATS (Military Air Transfer Service) at Moffet Field, Calif., and will have a years assignment on Adak Island, one of the farthermost Aleutian Islands in the Pacific Ocean. During his twenty months of service young Scott has visited all the countries in the world except Australia and Alaska.

Mrs. Mary Mayfield's name was omitted last week from the Ute Early Birds Bowling team playing at Ute Lanes Wednesday mornings at 9:15. Others on the team are Carla Foresyth, Lucia Church, Louise Weiman, Grace Wilson and Helen Quinn.

Carla Foresyth, junior conselor at the Trail Bowl, will start league bowling with boys and have enrolled and been practicing the last few weeks. Teams will be formed Saturday morning, Oct. 26. Helen Quinn is a junior counselor also and Sally McDermed league consultant. The first "Traveling Team" of senior high students played Saturday afternoon, Oct. 19, at the Bowl-Mor Lanes. On the team were Tom Foushee, Lee Covey, Jerry Hagen, Anna Kleinschmidt and Twila Griffin, all from Woodland Park.

Lettuce May Be Ready Soon For Machines

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) — Science's next gift to the farmer may be a machine that goes through a lettuce field and picks only the heads that are ready for market.

Agricultural engineers at the University of California branch in Davis already have made an experimental model of the machine, and it looks like a success.

Using both mechanical and electronic equipment, the machine goes down the rows in a lettuce field and "feels" each head of lettuce. If a head is big enough and firm enough, the machine cuts it off. If a head is not ready, the machine passes on to the next one.

The harvester has undergone a successful field trial. It was built for only one row at a time, but a commercial machine could cover four rows while moving through a field at a mile an hour.

The developers were Roger Garrett of the Department of Agricultural Engineering, Mike B. Zahara of the Vegetable Crops Department and Richard Griffin, an agricultural extension engineer.

SOFA SO GOOD

ROSWELL, N. M. (AP) — Michael Mack Keller, 15, can find the softest places to land.

He was thrown from his motor scooter one afternoon and after turning a somersault, he landed squarely on a soft divan being transported on the bed of a truck.

But even with his good luck, Michael suffered a broken knee, believed to have been injured when he hit the handlebars during the flip.

Italy Reported At Political Crossroads

By PIETRO DE GARZAROLLI

ROME (AP)—Italy is at a political crossroads.

A socialist party congress opening Friday may have a crucial bearing on the kind of government that will rule this NATO-aligned country in coming years.

Premier Giovanni Leone's government, formed as a stopgap Cabinet, is expected to resign early in November.

Few party congresses in recent Italian history have cast so great a shadow over Italian politics.

The issue is whether the 550 delegates will follow Pietro Nenni in his effort to guide the party into political alliance with Christian Democrats, long the dominant party.

A powerful pro - Communist faction in the Socialist party is trying to block Nenni, or at least force him to pose conditions that might give the Christian Democrats second thoughts about working with the Socialists.

Nenni, for years secretary-general of the Socialist party, ran up against a revolt last June which blocked efforts to force a new left-leaning coalition government with Aldo Moro as premier.

Moro was to have replaced Amintore Fanfani, who had also had Socialist backing in Italy's first "opening to the left" government. Big Communist gains and Christian Democrat losses in the April elections ended Fanfani's hopes of staying in power.

When Moro failed, Italy was left in political turmoil. Leone agreed to become premier to get necessary budgets through Parliament and to handle routine affairs pending the Socialist congress.

Nenni wants that congress to give him a green light to deal once again with Moro. He also wants the assembly to demonstrate clearly that the Socialists have turned their back on communism.

If Nenni gets what he wants, Moro is expected to form a new center - left government backed by the Socialists in Parliament. It would be a government with about 60 per cent of the seats in Parliament.

If this fails, new elections may be held immediately unless Christian Deocrat leaders do a complete about - face and try a center-right coalition government.

The Socialists were allies of Communists for years. Nenni began steering his party away from the Reds when Soviet troops crushed the 1956 Hungarian uprising.

Nenni and his supporters became known as the "autonomists" because they argued the Socialists should go it alone, without further ties with the Communists. The pro-Communist Socialist faction became known as the "carrista," from the Italian words "carri armati," or armed cars—a reference to the Soveit forces used in Budapest.

Although Nenni's autonomists have had a majority in the Socialist party, its members have continued to work with Communists in labor unions and in local governments.

"I brought the boss home to dinner, honey. Is there enough left from my paycheck to buy a bit of food?"

OF STAN THE MAN

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A Philadelphia man had to pay only half his speeding fine because he, the arresting officer and the judge were Stan Musial fans.

Joseph M. Boyle, 44, drove to St. Louis from Philadelphia to see the famous Cardinal baseball star play his last game. On his way home, Boyle was arrested for exceeding the speed limit by eight miles per hour at Litchfield, Ill.

Boyle told Illinois state patrolman Leland Storm and Magistrate Henry Cress why he was in the area. Storm said he too was a Musial fan and Boyle should get a break. Judge Cress agreed and cut the fine in half, 50 cents for each mile over the limit rather than the customary dollar.

Then the judge asked Boyle to tell him about the game and ceremonies honoring Musical.

Italy Reported At Political Crossroads

By PIETRO DE GARZAROLLI

ROME (AP)—Italy is at a political crossroads.

A socialist party congress opening Friday may have a crucial bearing on the kind of government that will rule this NATO-aligned country in coming years.

Premier Giovanni Leone's government, formed as a stopgap Cabinet, is expected to resign early in November.

Few party congresses in recent Italian history have cast so great a shadow over Italian politics.

The issue is whether the 550 delegates will follow Pietro Nenni in his effort to guide the party into political alliance with Christian Democrats, long the dominant party.

A powerful pro - Communist faction in the Socialist party is trying to block Nenni, or at least force him to pose conditions that might give the Christian Democrats second thoughts about working with the Socialists.

Nenni, for years secretary-general of the Socialist party, ran up against a revolt last June which blocked efforts to force a new left-leaning coalition government with Aldo Moro as premier.

Moro was to have replaced Amintore Fanfani, who had also had Socialist backing in Italy's first "opening to the left" government. Big Communist gains and Christian Democrat losses in the April elections ended Fanfani's hopes of staying in power.

When Moro failed, Italy was left in political turmoil. Leone agreed to become premier to get necessary budgets through Parliament and to handle routine affairs pending the Socialist congress.

Nenni wants that congress to give him a green light to deal once again with Moro. He also wants the assembly to demonstrate clearly that the Socialists have turned their back on communism.

If Nenni gets what he wants, Moro is expected to form a new center - left government backed by the Socialists in Parliament. It would be a government with about 60 per cent of the seats in Parliament.

The Socialists were allies of Communists for years. Nenni began steering his party away from the Reds when Soviet troops crushed the 1956 Hungarian uprising.

Nenni and his supporters became known as the "autonomists" because they argued the Socialists should go it alone, without further ties with the Communists. The pro-Communist Socialist faction became known as the "carrista," from the Italian words "carri armati," or armed cars—a reference to the Soveit forces used in Budapest.

Although Nenni's autonomists have had a majority in the Socialist party, its members have continued to work with Communists in labor unions and in local governments.

OF STAN THE MAN

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A Philadelphia man had to pay only half his speeding fine because he, the arresting officer and the judge were Stan Musial fans.

Joseph M. Boyle, 44, drove to St. Louis from Philadelphia to see the famous Cardinal baseball star play his last game. On his way home, Boyle was arrested for exceeding the speed limit by eight miles per hour at Litchfield, Ill.

Boyle told Illinois state patrolman Leland Storm and Magistrate Henry Cress why he was in the area. Storm said he too was a Musial fan and Boyle should get a break. Judge Cress agreed and cut the fine in half, 50 cents for each mile over the limit rather than the customary dollar.

Then the judge asked Boyle to tell him about the game and ceremonies honoring Musical.

Kennedys Shown By Cameras in News Report

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Crisis: Behind a Presidential Commitment" a special ABC news program Monday night, was truly an unusual piece of broadcasting enterprise.

The most remarkable aspect was that producer Robert Drew managed to have his cameras and sound equipment with the principals during the critical moments in the turbulent days last June when the Kennedy administration was preparing for a showdown on the admission of two Negro students to the University of Alabama.

The cameras covered not only the President of the United States and the attorney general and his top aides, but Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and the two students as well.

Fascinating and enlightening were the intimate scenes showing Robert Kennedy in his shirt sleeves and prowling his office nervously planning Justice Department moves. There were scenes of a council meeting in President Kennedy's office with a worried and tired-looking young man in a rocking chair doing more listening than talking—until he made his decision.

Frequently to protect privacy, the sound portions of conversations and telephone calls were omitted. But most of the time the Kennedy brothers went about their work completely oblivous to the cameras.

Gov. Wallace used his moments with the candid camera to emphasize first his position and later his bitterness over federal intervention to enforce a court order.

The ABC cameras covered many aspects of the far-flung story. They showed a briefing session near the university during which the Negro students were advised what to wear and how to act. Cameras were even in the automobile of Deputy Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach as he reported by telephone to his chief. They were with the attorney general as he received the call, with relief that was most obvious.

It was a great broadcast. It may very well start anew a lot of arguments about the way the affair was handled by all concerned.

Now that some scattered, preliminary returns are in from the viewers, television networks are turning their attention to salvage operations for shows that are in trouble.

Television trouble does not necessarily mean that the show is bad. The worst sort comes when a competing show, for some reason or other, is particularly attractive.

In those cases, the jacking-up procedure falls on the publicity and exploitation departments. Stars and supporting players are sent out on exhausting public appearance trips to talk up their programs through endless interviews and guest shots on local radio and television shows.

In other cases, there are closed circuit television news conferences, which put workbound stars before cameras in Hollywood, fielding questions telephoned in from reporters all over the country.

In cases where the show itself seems to be failing, emergency repairs are attempted. "The Travels of Jaimie McPheeters," for instance, just added a new character, Charles Bronson, who has a reputation for helping ailing shows.

Last season, he was pulled into the cast of "Empire" late in the season—too late, however, to save the show. "The Judy Garland Show," however, holds the season's repair record.

Jerry Lewis, who thought he could swing a weekly two-hour with a few musicians, a singer or two and his own fabulous personality, now is adding generous doses of guest stars.

KEY TO A FAD—Key tags with favorite photos pasted on them become decorative mementos for teeners. Application of clear nail polish protects the photographs.

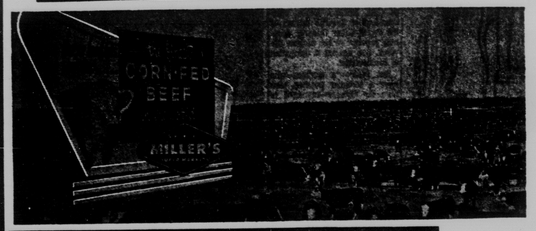
MILLER'S BEEF ROUND-UP SALE



OUR COLORADO CORN-FED BEEF STORY

Since 1952 Miller's expert beef buyers have traveled the great State of Colorado selecting and buying the finest quality cattle. These cattle are then transported to our huge feeding lots in Brighton, Colorado where they are fed a special formula of cracked corn for 150 to 200 days. Only after they have reached the peak of perfection are they processed, government graded, properly aged and delivered to Miller's Super Markets.

Be sure — Be safe — All beef sold at Miller's is stamped "U.S.D.A. Choice." Don't be misled by so-called grade "AA" "A" and other trade names, because the only impartial grading of meat for quality is that done by graders licensed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Evening News Battle Seen On Television

In many cities around the country, the shows are seen at the same time. In the New York area, Cronkite comes on a half hour ahead of Huntley-Brinkley. In our house, the choice depends entirely on the hour when dinner is served.

Both programs have approximately the same size audiences, with perhaps a slight edge for NBC. News program audiences are nowhere near the size of popular entertainment shows like "Beverly Hillbillies" and "Bonanza" but news shows are vital to the networks because they give prestige and status.

Each show covers in abbreviated form the headline news of the day. Tuesday night each program opened with stories about the plane attack on the U.S.-bound freighter. Each had resumes of the day's civil rights developments. Each touched on Tito's U.N. visit, the British jet crash, the transatlantic troop airlift.

NBC had some shots of President Kennedy making speeches. CBS found time for a filmed feature about a salvage operation on a Civil War gunboat.

Obviously one's choice of program when they are broadcast simultaneously must be a preference for the style of those who read the news. Some like Chet Huntley's sober, incisive way with a short sentence or David Brinkley's dry manner and occasional flash of wit. Others prefer Walter Cronkite's business-like, no-nonsense approach.

My own choice is dictated by a preference for rare roast beef and well-done lamb and I find all news shows less satisfying than 30 minutes spent with my evening newspaper. But maybe I'm prejudiced.

ABC has purchased the television rights from the publishing company that owns them and it will be able to show films of the Fisher quintuplets on a Nov. 17 news show.

If the programs already announced for next season really make the air, it will mean that every show currently in sight will disappear, and someone will have to organize a fourth network to accommodate the over-flow.

Recommended tonight: "CBS Reports," 7:30-8:30 (EDT) — "The Great American Funeral," based on Jessica Mitford's controversial new book.

LAUNDERED THE LAKE

BLACKWELL, Okla (AP) — The city of Blackwell has a $210,000 laundry bill — for its lake. The city hired a "lake cleaner" to dredge out mud and silt which had built up in Lake Blackwell, the city's water supply. About 1.5 million pounds of silt a day was taken from the lake.

Kennedys Shown By Cameras in News Report

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Crisis: Behind a Presidential Commitment" a special ABC news program Monday night, was truly an unusual piece of broadcasting enterprise.

The most remarkable aspect was that producer Robert Drew managed to have his cameras and sound equipment with the principals during the critical moments in the turbulent days last June when the Kennedy administration was preparing for a showdown on the admission of two Negro students to the University of Alabama.

The cameras covered not only the President of the United States and the attorney general and his top aides, but Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and the two students as well.

Fascinating and enlightening were the intimate scenes showing Robert Kennedy in his shirt sleeves and prowling his office nervously planning Justice Department moves. There were scenes of a council meeting in President Kennedy's office with a worried and tired-looking young man in a rocking chair doing more listening than talking—until he made his decision.

Frequently to protect privacy, the sound portions of conversations and telephone calls were omitted. But most of the time the Kennedy brothers went about their work completely oblivous to the cameras.

Gov. Wallace used his moments with the candid camera to emphasize first his position and later his bitterness over federal intervention to enforce a court order.

The ABC cameras covered many aspects of the far-flung story. They showed a briefing session near the university during which the Negro students were advised what to wear and how to act. Cameras were even in the automobile of Deputy Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach as he reported by telephone to his chief. They were with the attorney general as he received the call, with relief that was most obvious.

It was a great broadcast. It may very well start anew a lot of arguments about the way the affair was handled by all concerned.

Now that some scattered, preliminary returns are in from the viewers, television networks are turning their attention to salvage operations for shows that are in trouble.

Television trouble does not necessarily mean that the show is bad. The worst sort comes when a competing show, for some reason or other, is particularly attractive.

In those cases, the jacking-up procedure falls on the publicity and exploitation departments. Stars and supporting players are sent out on exhausting public appearance trips to talk up their programs through endless interviews and guest shots on local radio and television shows.

In other cases, there are closed circuit television news conferences, which put workbound stars before cameras in Hollywood, fielding questions telephoned in from reporters all over the country.

In cases where the show itself seems to be failing, emergency repairs are attempted. "The Travels of Jaimie McPheeters," for instance, just added a new character, Charles Bronson, who has a reputation for helping ailing shows.

Last season, he was pulled into the cast of "Empire" late in the season—too late, however, to save the show. "The Judy Garland Show," however, holds the season's repair record.

Jerry Lewis, who thought he could swing a weekly two-hour with a few musicians, a singer or two and his own fabulous personality, now is adding generous doses of guest stars.

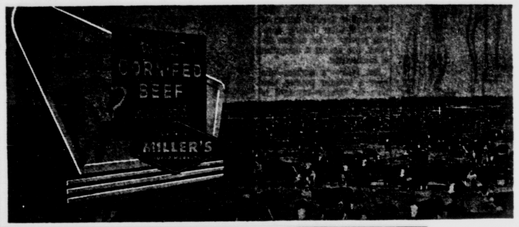
MILLER'S BEEF ROUND-UP SALE



OUR COLORADO CORN-FED BEEF STORY

Since 1952 Miller's expert beef buyers have traveled the great State of Colorado selecting and buying the finest quality cattle. These cattle are then transported to our huge feeding lots in Brighton, Colorado where they are fed a special formula of cracked corn for 150 to 200 days. Only after they have reached the peak of perfection are they processed, government graded, properly aged and delivered to Miller's Super Markets.

Be sure — Be safe — All beef sold at Miller's is stamped "U.S.D.A. Choice." Don't be misled by so-called grade "AA" "A" and other trade names, because the only impartial grading of meat for quality is that done by graders licensed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Fight for Tough Civil Rights Bill Reported

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fight for a tough civil rights bill reaches the showdown stage today in widely split House Judiciary Committee.

Spurning compromise, bipartisan supporters of a strong bill have forced a vote on a sweeping, 10-part measure aimed at nearly every form of racial discrimination.

The vote finds the 35-member committee divided between those favoring the strong bill, those who would like a milder one, and those -- all from the South -- who want no bill at all.

Very much on the spot is the chairman of the committee, Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y. He also headed the subcommittee that wrote the strong bill, but backed away from it under administration urging and agreed to work for a compromise.

Celler lined up the ranking committee Republican, Rep. William M. McCulloch of Ohio, in the search for a compromise, but they found their effors undone by the junior members.

Led by Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., and John V. Lindsay, R-N.Y., eight Democrats and seven Republicans refused to go along with the compromise. With the 10 Southerners in a bloc of their own, that left Celler and McCulloch in the minority.

Tuesday the holdouts for a strong bill forced the withdrawal of a proposed amendment that would have started the weakening process. They then succeeded in ordering the vote which takes place today.

Following the session Celler said he intended to keep trying for a compromise up until the vote is taken, but Kastenmeier and Lindsay claimed their force will hold firm.

That means the 10 Southern votes could play a decisive role in the outcome. They could join with Celler and McCulloch to reject the strong bill as the worse of two evils. Or they could vote for it in the belief—shared by the administration—that such a broad measure would be easier to defeat at a later stage in Congress than a compromise bill.

Whatever the outcome, the civil rights battle is far from over. The strong bill faces heavy opposition in the House Rules Committee and would probably have to be brought to the floor by getting a majority of the membership to sign a petition.

Deer Hunters May Be Facing Heart Trouble

By GEORGE MOSES

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — More than one in 10 deer hunters over 40 years of age—possibly many more—face serious heart trouble in an all-out, successful deer hunt.

This was the chief conclusion of a unique series of experiments recently conducted in Minneapolis, in which hunters actually broadcast the strain put on their hearts under simulated hunting conditions.

Thirty-seven hunters, all over 40 and certified by their own doctors as having normal hearts, were re-checked by a volunteer team of doctors.

Then they slogged through heavy gravel for three minutes, dragging a 100-poung sandbag to simulate pulling a deer out of snowy woods.

Of the 37 men, four showed abnormal heart activity sufficient to halt their tests.

The test results, to be published in the November issue of Minnesota Medicine, were released in advance by the Minnesota Heart Association as a warning to deer hunters before the Minnesota season opens next month.

Since more than one in 10 of a carefully screened group failed the test, said Dr. Arthur C. Kerkhof, director of the heart group's work valuation unit, it is probable that the percentage of failure would be considerably higher for the mass of over-40 deer hunters who take to the woods.

However, Dr. Kerkhof said, a deer hunter who takes it easy has the odds much more in his favor.

"The tests were deliberately planned to measure maximum heart stress on a deer hunter who not only gets his deer but who drags it out of snowy woods single-handed," he said.

Fight for Tough Civil Rights Bill Reported

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fight for a tough civil rights bill reaches the showdown stage today in widely split House Judiciary Committee.

Spurning compromise, bipartisan supporters of a strong bill have forced a vote on a sweeping, 10-part measure aimed at nearly every form of racial discrimination.

The vote finds the 35-member committee divided between those favoring the strong bill, those who would like a milder one, and those — all from the South — who want no bill at all.

Very much on the spot is the chairman of the committee, Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y. He also headed the subcommittee that wrote the strong bill, but backed away from it under administration urging and agreed to work for a compromise.

Celler lined up the ranking committee Republican, Rep. William M. McCulloch of Ohio, in the search for a compromise, but they found their effors undone by the junior members.

Led by Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., and John V. Lindsay, R-N.Y., eight Democrats and seven Republicans refused to go along with the compromise. With the 10 Southerners in a bloc of their own, that left Celler and McCulloch in the minority.

Tuesday the holdouts for a strong bill forced the withdrawal of a proposed amendment that would have started the weakening process. They then succeeded in ordering the vote which takes place today.

Following the session Celler said he intended to keep trying for a compromise up until the vote is taken, but Kastenmeier and Lindsay claimed their force will hold firm.

That means the 10 Southern votes could play a decisive role in the outcome. They could join with Celler and McCulloch to reject the strong bill as the worse of two evils. Or they could vote for it in the belief—shared by the administration—that such a broad measure would be easier to defeat at a later stage in Congress than a compromise bill.

Whatever the outcome, the civil rights battle is far from over. The strong bill faces heavy opposition in the House Rules Committee and would probably have to be brought to the floor by getting a majority of the membership to sign a petition.

Deer Hunters May Be Facing Heart Trouble

By GEORGE MOSES

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — More than one in 10 deer hunters over 40 years of age—possibly many more—face serious heart trouble in an all-out, successful deer hunt.

This was the chief conclusion of a unique series of experiments recently conducted in Minneapolis, in which hunters actually broadcast the strain put on their hearts under simulated hunting conditions.

Thirty-seven hunters, all over 40 and certified by their own doctors as having normal hearts, were re-checked by a volunteer team of doctors.

Then they slogged through heavy gravel for three minutes, dragging a 100-poung sandbag to simulate pulling a deer out of snowy woods.

The test results, to be published in the November issue of Minnesota Medicine, were released in advance by the Minnesota Heart Association as a warning to deer hunters before the Minnesota season opens next month.

Since more than one in 10 of a carefully screened group failed the test, said Dr. Arthur C. Kerkhof, director of the heart group's work valuation unit, it is probable that the percentage of failure would be considerably higher for the mass of over-40 deer hunters who take to the woods.

However, Dr. Kerkhof said, a deer hunter who takes it easy has the odds much more in his favor.

"The tests were deliberately planned to measure maximum heart stress on a deer hunter who not only gets his deer but who drags it out of snowy woods single-handed," he said.

Evening News Battle Seen On Television

In many cities around the country, the shows are seen at the same time. In the New York area, Cronkite comes on a half hour ahead of Huntley-Brinkley. In our house, the choice depends entirely on the hour when dinner is served.

Both programs have approximately the same size audiences, with perhaps a slight edge for NBC. News program audiences are nowhere near the size of popular entertainment shows like "Beverly Hillbillies" and "Bonanza" but news shows are vital to the networks because they give prestige and status.

Each show covers in abbreviated form the headline news of the day. Tuesday night each program opened with stories about the plane attack on the U.S.-bound freighter. Each had resumes of the day's civil rights developments. Each touched on Tito's U.N. visit, the British jet crash, the transatlantic troop airlift.

NBC had some shots of President Kennedy making speeches. CBS found time for a filmed feature about a salvage operation on a Civil War gunboat.

Obviously one's choice of program when they are broadcast simultaneously must be a preference for the style of those who read the news. Some like Chet Huntley's sober, incisive way with a short sentence or David Brinkley's dry manner and occasional flash of wit. Others prefer Walter Cronkite's business-like, no-nonsense approach.

My own choice is dictated by a preference for rare roast beef and well-done lamb and I find all news shows less satisfying than 30 minutes spent with my evening newspaper. But maybe I'm prejudiced.

ABC has purchased the television rights from the publishing company that own them and it will be able to show films of the Fisher quintuplets on a Nov. 17 news show.

If the programs already announced for next season really make the air, it will mean that every show currently in sight will disappear, and someone will have to organize a fourth network to accommodate the over-flow.

Recommended tonight: "CBS Reports," 7:30-8:30 (EDT) — "The Great American Funeral," based on Jessica Mitford's controversial new book.

LAUNDERED THE LAKE

BLACKWELL, Okla. (AP) — The city of Blackwell has a $210,000 laundry bill — for its lake. The city hired a "lake cleaner" to dredge out mud and silt which had built up in Lake Blackwell, the city's water supply. About 1.5 million pounds of silt a day was taken from the lake.

Mrs. Wini Pyle was installed as the new president of the Women's Fellowship, Church in the Wildwood, at a candlelight ceremony conducted by the Rev. Conrad Pyle, Pastor, Tuesday afternoon Oct. 15, in the church sanctuary. Mrs. Pyle will serve as the sixth president of the Women's Fellowship, which was organized in 1958. Other officers installed were Mrs. Lucille White, Mrs. Lorraine Martin and Mrs. Florence Salisbury, first, second and third vice presidents respectively; Mrs. Polly Lamb, treasurer, and Mrs. Maxine Van Arsdale, secretary. Preceding the installation a birthday covered dish luncheon was held, with thirty present. Four tables were decorated with traditional birthday cakes made by the hostess, one was the fall table centered with yellow marigolds, black eyed susans, gold candles and a devil's food cake. Those having birthdays in the months September, October and November sat at this table. The song, "Shine On Harvest Moon," was sung to honor them. The winter table, for December, January and February, was centered with a wrought iron Christmas tree, laden with red candles, and surrounded with red geraniums and pine boughs. The cake was a date torte, and the song, "Jingle Bells." The spring table for March, April and May, was centered with double pink petunias and pink snapdragons, and had a white angle food cake decorated with pink daisies. The spring song was, "Love's Old Sweet Song." For the summer table, large white double petunias and white snapdragons were arranged in a bowl between white candles with a gold angel food cake decorated in white. The summer song was, "Oh Beautiful For Spacious Skies." Hostesses were Maxine Haynes, Betty Reasonover, Maxine Van Arsdale and Laura Jones. Guests were: Florence and Grace Videll, from Boulder, who were visiting Miss Marguerite Mc Lellan; Mrs. Bette Beal; Mrs. Louise Weiman and Mrs. Ellen Foronen, Mrs. Blanche Fossieck, Craig, Colo.; Mrs. Cecilia Gearing and Mrs. Grace Aro, Mrs. Lester Griswold of Colorado Springs. The sweater project received 47 sweaters turned in at the meeting to Mrs. Polly Lamb, missionary education chairman, who plans to send them to destitute children in Hong Kong, who need them for wraps as they must sleep on the ground. Twenty additional sweaters were given Mrs. Lamb, from the Snowflake Chapter OES rummage sale. Others are promised. She hopes to send at least 100. They can be any size.

Members of Boy Scout Troop 26, were organized into two patrols at its weekly meeting Friday night. The Rattlesnake Group will have Ronnie Slaven as Patrol Leader with members David Hey, Robbie Blosser, Lance Rossi, Paul Tanner and Steve Cornett. In the Flying Eagle Group will be Bob Brooks, patrol leader, with members Terry Thomson, Layne Van Arsdale, David Mayfield, and Randy Westherington. After their meeting nine Scouts attended the football game with the Mustangs at Manitou Springs High School against the Cheyenne Indians Saturday, Oct. 19, eight Boy Scouts worked at the Bob Neal Quarry and surveyed the boundaries of his 20 acres of mineral lode claim. Establishing the metes and bounds was done by using regular engineer transits and equipment, plus the Scouts diligent and efficient work. Scoutmaster Charles Stull supervised the project.

Cub Scouts Pack 33, Den No. 1, holds regular weekly meetings at the home of Mrs. Joyce Woolston on Tuesdays right after school. The eight members went 100 per cent last week to visit the Manitou Springs Volunteer Fire Department. Mrs. Ann Rasner is co-den mother. Mascots who also attended the meetings are Albert Rasner and Steven Woolston, both age three.

Brownie Scouts will hold their first meeting this week, with 2-3 grade girls at the Dick Wilson home Wednesday Oct. 23, right after school. Twenty Brownies and their mothers attended the organizational meeting Oct 14, at the Church in the Wildwood. Mrs. Grace Wilson and Mrs. Phyllis Giles are leaders for the Brownies. On the same day eighteen Junior Girl Scouts and their mothers were enrolled under Mrs. Jonell Ewart and Mrs. Shirli Johnson, leaders, who will have their group meet at the Cascade Fire House on Wednesday each week, right after school, beginning Oct 23. All of the leaders have attended work shop meetings for four days, held at Hamp-Hut, Girl Scout cabin, Garden of the Gods. The sessions began at 9:30 a.m. ending at 2:30 p.m., with a sack lunch at noon, on Tuesdays and Thursdays the last two weeks.

The Little Ute Nursery School had eleven present at its Wednesday morning meeting, Oct. 16, in the White House Annex, Church in the Wildwood, 9 a.m. Directors Mrs. Beverly Page and Mrs. Jonell Ewart taught the story, "Manners Can Be Fun." For craft work the boys and girls made litter bags from paper sacks to take home for their rooms. Games were played out-of-doors and refreshment treats were enjoyed by the class.

After their regular Wednesday night meeting, members of the Polka Dot Sweet Adeline Quartet went to the Safari Restaurant and Lounge for an impromptu musical program. Mrs. Marlene Willie was the baritone Mrs. Stanley Saevig bass, Mrs. Barbara Nichols tenor and Mrs. Colette Divine lead. Mrs. Saevig was recently appointed new director of the Sweet Adeline Chorus. She left by jet last Sunday to attend the annual International convention in Oakland, Calif., from October 20 to 26. Accompanying her were Pat Tyree, a member of the International Board, and Doris Detweiller.

Showdown Postponed In Alabama

By COLIN BARRETT

BIRMINGHAMA, Ala. (UPI) —Negro leaders, denying they had backed down from an ultimatum, settled back today and waited for Birmingham to integrate its police force within "a reasonable length of time."

If Negro policemen are not hired within this period, "we will have to demonstrate," integration leader Martin Luther King Jr., said Tuesday. But he did not set a deadline.

Two weeks ago, King gave the city until Tuesday to hire 25 Negro policemen or face a renewal of racial demonstrations that brought mass arrests last spring. The city council Tuesday rejected the demand, stating such employment is governed by civil serviec regulations which have no racial restrictions.

"I have no intention of trying to circumvent (civil service) laws for any reason or under any pressure," said Mayor Albert Boutwell.

The city council adopted a report by its Public Safety Committee calling King's demand "arrogant and unrealistic." The council flatly refused to hire Negro policemen "as a matter of special privilege."

King, after meeting more than five hours with other Negro leaders here, withdrew the demand.

"There is a strong indication (city officials) are going to hire Negro policemen soon," he said. "If they need a little face-saving way out, we will give them the opportunity by withdrawing our deadline."

Other racial developments:

CHICAGO—Almost a quarter-million Negro children boycotted schools Tuesday in a massive show of opposition to school segregation. Some of the demonstrators were nursery school toddlers ranging in age from two to five.

ATLANTA—The U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals Tuesday ordered an indefinite stay of Louisiana state court proceedings against the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) which is conducting a desegregation campaign in Clinton, La. The order also stayed contempt proceedings against 26 CORE members charged with illegal picketing there.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Student leaders at predominantly Negro Florida A&M College threatened mass protests unless the school reinstates two students it expelled for participating in boisterous racial demonstrations.

NOT WHAT THEY SOUGHT

CADIZ, Ky. (AP) — Laster Hite was passing the hole where drillers were seeking water for his dairy herd. The hole had started to fill with water when Hite threw in a match. Hite said, after the explosion, he might not have pure water for his cows but he had a gas well to provide illumination for milking.

'Lady' in Fine Car Dumps Pop Bottles

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—A woman pulled up at a Des Moines high school campus in a new car, one of the costliest makes on the market, and dumped a collection of empty pop bottles on the grounds.

Lester T. Miller of Des Moines saw her do it, and told her he would report the incident to the school principal if she didn't return the bottles to her car.

She did.

Mrs. Wini Pyle was installed as the new president of the Women's Fellowship, Church in the Wildwood, at a candlelight ceremony conducted by the Rev. Conrad Pyle, Pastor, Tuesday afternoon Oct. 15, in the church sanctuary. Mrs. Pyle will serve as the sixth president of the Women's Fellowship, which was organized in 1958. Other officers installed were Mrs. Lucille White, Mrs. Lorraine Martin and Mrs. Florence Salisbury, first, second and third vice presidents respectively; Mrs. Polly Lamb, treasurer, and Mrs. Maxine Van Arsdale, secretary. Preceding the installation a birthday covered dish luncheon was held, with thirty present. Four tables were decorated with traditional birthday cakes made by the hostess, one was the fall table centered with yellow marigolds, black eyed susans, gold candles and a devil's food cake. Those having birthdays in the months September, October and November sat at this table. The song, "Shine On Harvest Moon," was sung to honor them. The winter table, for December, January and February, was centered with a wrought iron Christmas tree, laden with red candles, and surrounded with red geraniums and pine boughs. The cake was a date torte, and the song, "Jingle Bells." The spring table for March, April and May, was centered with double pink petunias and pink snapdragons, and had a white angle food cake decorated with pink daisies. The spring song was, "Love's Old Sweet Song." For the summer table, large white double petunias and white snapdragons were arranged in a bowl between white candles with a gold angel food cake decorated in white. The summer song was, "Oh Beautiful For Spacious Skies." Hostesses were Maxine Haynes, Betty Reasonover, Maxine Van Arsdale and Laura Jones. Guests were: Florence and Grace Videll, from Boulder, who were visiting Miss Marguerite Mc Lellan; Mrs. Bette Beal; Mrs. Louise Weiman and Mrs. Ellen Foronen, Mrs. Blanche Fossieck, Craig, Colo.; Mrs. Cecilia Gearing and Mrs. Grace Aro, Mrs. Lester Griswold of Colorado Springs. The sweater project received 47 sweaters turned in at the meeting to Mrs. Polly Lamb, missionary education chairman, who plans to send them to destitute children in Hong Kong, who need them for wraps as they must sleep on the ground. Twenty additional sweaters were given Mrs. Lamb, from the Snowflake Chapter OES rummage sale. Others are promised. She hopes to send at least 100. They can be any size.

Members of Boy Scout Troop 26, were organized into two patrols at its weekly meeting Friday night. The Rattlesnake Group will have Ronnie Slaven as Patrol Leader with members David Hey, Robbie Blosser, Lance Rossi, Paul Tanner and Steve Cornett. In the Flying Eagle Group will be Bob Brooks, patrol leader, with members Terry Thomson, Layne Van Arsdale, David Mayfield, and Randy Westherington. After their meeting nine Scouts attended the football game with the Mustangs at Manitou Springs High School against the Cheyenne Indians Saturday, Oct. 19, eight Boy Scouts worked at the Bob Neal Quarry and surveyed the boundaries of his 20 acres of mineral lode claim. Establishing the metes and bounds was done by using regular engineer transits and equipment, plus the Scouts diligent and efficient work. Scoutmaster Charles Stull supervised the project.

Cub Scouts Pack 33, Den No. 1, holds regular weekly meetings at the home of Mrs. Joyce Woolston on Tuesdays right after school. The eight members went 100 per cent last week to visit the Manitou Springs Volunteer Fire Department. Mrs. Ann Rasner is co-den mother. Mascots who also attended the meetings are Albert Rasner and Steven Woolston, both age three.

Brownie Scouts will hold their first meeting this week, with 2-3 grade girls at the Dick Wilson home Wednesday Oct. 23, right after school. Twenty Brownies and their mothers attended the organizational meeting Oct 14, at the Church in the Wildwood. Mrs. Grace Wilson and Mrs. Phyllis Giles are leaders for the Brownies. On the same day eighteen Junior Girl Scouts and their mothers were enrolled under Mrs. Jonell Ewart and Mrs. Shirli Johnson, leaders, who will have their group meet at the Cascade Fire House on Wednesday each week, right after school, beginning Oct. 23. All of the leaders have attended work shop meetings for four days, held at Hamp-Hut, Girl Scout cabin, Garden of the Gods. The sessions began at 9:30 a.m. ending at 2:30 p.m., with a sack lunch at noon, on Tuesdays and Thursdays the last two weeks.

The Little Ute Nursery School had eleven present at its Wednesday morning meeting, Oct. 16, in the White House Annex, Church in the Wildwood, 9 a.m. Directors Mrs. Beverly Page and Mrs. Jonell Ewart taught the story, "Manners Can Be Fun." For craft work the boys and girls made litter bags from paper sacks to take home for their rooms. Games were played out-of-doors and refreshment treats were enjoyed by the class.

After their regular Wednesday night meeting, members of the Polka Dot Sweet Adeline Quartet went to the Safari Restaurant and Lounge for an impromptu musical program. Mrs. Marlene Willie was the baritone Mrs. Stanley Saevig bass, Mrs. Barbara Nichols tenor and Mrs. Colette Divine lead. Mrs. Saevig was recently appointed new director of the Sweet Adeline Chorus. She left by jet last Sunday to attend the annual International convention in Oakland, Calif., from October 20 to 26. Accompanying her were Pat Tyree, a member of the International Board, and Doris Detweiller.

Showdown Postponed In Alabama

By COLIN BARRETT

BIRMINGHAMA, Ala. (UPI) —Negro leaders, denying they had backed down from an ultimatum, settled back today and waited for Birmingham to integrate its police force within "a reasonable length of time."

If Negro policemen are not hired within this period, "we will have to demonstrate," integration leader Martin Luther King Jr., said Tuesday. But he did not set a deadline.

Two weeks ago, King gave the city until Tuesday to hire 25 Negro policemen or face a renewal of racial demonstrations that brought mass arrests last spring. The city council Tuesday rejected the demand, stating such employment is governed by civil serviec regulations which have no racial restrictions.

"I have no intention of trying to circumvent (civil service) laws for any reason or under any pressure," said Mayor Albert Boutwell.

The city council adopted a report by its Public Safety Committee calling King's demand "arrogant and unrealistic." The council flatly refused to hire Negro policemen "as a matter of special privilege."

King, after meeting more than five hours with other Negro leaders here, withdrew the demand.

"There is a strong indication (city officials) are going to hire Negro policemen soon," he said. "If they need a little face-saving way out, we will give them the opportunity by withdrawing our deadline."

Other racial developments:

CHICAGO—Almost a quarter-million Negro children boycotted schools Tuesday in a massive show of opposition to school segregation. Some of the demonstrators were nursery school toddlers ranging in age from two to five.

ATLANTA—The U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals Tuesday ordered an indefinite stay of Louisiana state court proceedings against the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) which is conducting a desegregation campaign in Clinton, La. The order also stayed contempt proceedings against 26 CORE members charged with illegal picketing there.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Student leaders at predominantly Negro Florida A&M College threatened mass protests unless the school reinstates two students it expelled for participating in boisterous racial demonstrations.

NOT WHAT THEY SOUGHT

CADIZ, Ky. (AP) — Laster Hite was passing the hole where drillers were seeking water for his dairy herd. The hole had started to fill with water when Hite threw in a match. Hite said, after the explosion, he might not have pure water for his cows but he had a gas well to provide illumination for milking.

'Lady' in Fine Car Dumps Pop Bottles

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—A woman pulled up at a Des Moines high school campus in a new car, one of the costliest makes on the market, and dumped a collection of empty pop bottles on the grounds.

Lester T. Miller of Des Moines saw her do it, and told her he would report the incident to the school principal if she didn't return the bottles to her car.

She did.

Fight for Tough Civil Rights Bill Reported

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fight for a tough civil rights bill reaches the showdown stage today in widely split House Judiciary Committee.

Spurning compromise, bipartisan supporters of a strong bill have forced a vote on a sweeping, 10-part measure aimed at nearly every form of racial discrimination.

The vote finds the 35-member committee divided between those favoring the strong bill, those who would like a milder one, and those — all from the South — who want no bill at all.

Very much on the spot is the chairman of the committee, Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y. He also headed the subcommittee that wrote the strong bill, but backed away from it under administration urging and agreed to work for a compromise.

Celler lined up the ranking committee Republican, Rep. William M. McCulloch of Ohio, in the search for a compromise, but they found their effors undone by the junior members.

Led by Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., and John V. Lindsay, R-N.Y., eight Democrats and seven Republicans refused to go along with the compromise. With the 10 Southerners in a bloc of their own, that left Celler and McCulloch in the minority.

Tuesday the holdouts for a strong bill forced the withdrawal of a proposed amendment that would have started the weakening process. They then succeeded in ordering the vote which takes place today.

Following the session Celler said he intended to keep trying for a compromise up until the vote is taken, but Kastenmeier and Lindsay claimed their force will hold firm.

That means the 10 Southern votes could play a decisive role in the outcome. They could join with Celler and McCulloch to reject the strong bill as the worse of two evils. Or they could vote for it in the belief—shared by the administration—that such a broad measure would be easier to defeat at a later stage in Congress than a compromise bill.

Whatever the outcome, the civil rights battle is far from over. The strong bill faces heavy opposition in the House Rules Committee and would probably have to be brought to the floor by getting a majority of the membership to sign a petition.

Deer Hunters May Be Facing Heart Trouble

By GEORGE MOSES

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — More than one in 10 deer hunters over 40 years of age—possibly many more—face serious heart trouble in an all-out, successful deer hunt.

This was the chief conclusion of a unique series of experiments recently conducted in Minneapolis, in which hunters actually broadcast the strain put on their hearts under simulated hunting conditions.

Thirty-seven hunters, all over 40 and certified by their own doctors as having normal hearts, were re-checked by a volunteer team of doctors.

Then they slogged through heavy gravel for three minutes, dragging a 100-poung sandbag to simulate pulling a deer out of snowy woods.

Of the 37 men, four showed abnormal heart activity sufficient to halt their tests.

The test results, to be published in the November issue of Minnesota Medicine, were released in advance by the Minnesota Heart Association as a warning to deer hunters before the Minnesota season opens next month.

Since more than one in 10 of a carefully screened group failed the test, said Dr. Arthur C. Kerkhof, director of the heart group's work valuation unit, it is probable that the percentage of failure would be considerably higher for the mass of over-40 deer hunters who take to the woods.

However, Dr. Kerkhof said, a deer hunter who takes it easy has the odds much more in his favor.

"The tests were deliberately planned to measure maximum heart stress on a deer hunter who not only gets his deer but who drags it out of snowy woods single-handed," he said.

More Western 'rrigation Projects Urged

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (AP)—The president of the 17-state National Reclamation Association today called for unslackened development of new Western irrigation projects to keep the United States ahead of Russia's growing economic strength.

"The more the arms race stands at a stalemate, the more important becomes the production race," said Laselle E. Coles, Prinville, Ore. He quoted Soviet Premier Khrushchev as saying that the real contest between Russia and the United States is to see who can produce more meat, butter and milk.

Kenneth Holum, assistant secretary of the Interior for water and power, told the delegates hydroelectric power and irrigation are full partners in multi-purpose water resource development.

"The Bureau of Reclamation's power customers must support irrigation" he said. "It is equally important that irrigators and wouldbe irrigators understand the importance of the power features."

Coles described the pork barrel label frequently put on Western water projects as "partly a sympton of a growing breach between rural and urban interests which must somehow be healed..."

Coles said reclamationists must not only tell the East their story, but listen to the other side.

Coles said a tour he made of Russian reclamation projects last month with Reclamation Commissioner Floyd E. Dominy showed the Soviet Union's potential for growth.

"Their economic system is full of inefficiencies that are apparent even to a casual visitor," he said. "Nevertheless this is a land of such enormous size, such hugh resources, that only a really incredably inefficient operation in the past could have held it back up to now."

State to Get Higher School District Levies

DENVER (AP) — Coloradans will pay higher school district levies next year — in somes cases 5 per cent more than this year, Howard Latting, State Tax Commission chairman, reported Tuesday.

Latting said that the increases were due principally to the scheduled salary increases and the necessity of hiring more teachers because of increased enrollments.

Of the figures available, the greatest increase was 5.01 mills at Meeker in Rio Grande County. Fort Collins reported the second highest — up 4.66 mills, and Akron will be up 4 mills.

Figures for Denver were not available.

Mill levy changes for some of the reporting areas (1962 mill levy, 1963 mill levy and amount of increase, unless noted):

Brighton 23 mills, 25.90 mills, 2.9 mills; Aurora 20.6, 24.5, 3.9; Alamosa 23, 26.5, 3.5; Littleton 30.76, 30.70, down .06; Buena Vista 13.8, 13.5, down .3; Delta 26.5, 27.5, 1; Colorado Springs 23.73, 24.94, 1.21; Canon City 25.13, 28.03, 2.90; Glenwood Springs 16.67, 16.98, .31.

Gunnison 17.87, 19.81, 1.94; Burlington 15.93, 19.31, 3.38; Durango 21.77, 24.80, 3.13; Fort Collins 23.90, 28.56, 4.66; Loveland 16.30, 19.78, 3.48; Jefferson County 43.15, 42, down 1.15; Grand Junction 22.69, 26.12, 3.43; Cortez 23.92, 24.73, .81; Dolores remains same at 19.36.

La Junta 24.45, 26.20, 1.75; Pueblo (city) 25.869, 28.519, 2.65; Meeker 15.855, 20.86, 5.01; Rangely 8.0752, 9.07, 1; Monte Vista 20.1409, 19.730, down 1.41; Steamboat Springs remains at 27; Telluride 14.50, 16.60, 2.10; Akron 14.08, 18.08, 4.

SPEEDY SINGING

DENVER (AP)—Church congregations used to sing hymns too sluggishly, but now they're speeding up the tempo too much, says the Rev. Charles R. Anders, musicologist and assistant director of the Lutheran church in America's commission on worship.

He told a conference here: "The bugbear used to be chronic 'dragitis;' now it's 'speedomania.' One frequently hears the plainsong . . . rendered in the style of John Philip Sousa."

"The more the arms race stands at a stalemate, the more important becomes the production race," said Laselle E. Coles, Prinville, Ore. He quoted Soviet Premier Khrushchev as saying that the real contest between Russia and the United States is to see who can produce more meat, butter and milk.

Kenneth Holum, assistant secretary of the Interior for water and power, told the delegates hydroelectric power and irrigation are full partners in multi-purpose water resource development.

"The Bureau of Reclamation's power customers must support irrigation" he said. "It is equally important that irrigators and wouldbe irrigators understand the importance of the power features."

Coles described the pork barrel label frequently put on Western water projects as "partly a sympton of a growing breach between rural and urban interests which must somehow be healed..."

Coles said reclamationists must not only tell the East their story, but listen to the other side.

Coles said a tour he made of Russian reclamation projects last month with Reclamation Commissioner Floyd E. Dominy showed the Soviet Union's potential for growth.

"Their economic system is full of inefficiencies that are apparent even to a casual visitor," he said. "Nevertheless this is a land of such enormous size, such hugh resources, that only a really incredably inefficient operation in the past could have held it back up to now."

State to Get Higher School District Levies

DENVER (AP) — Coloradans will pay higher school district levies next year — in somes cases 5 per cent more than this year, Howard Latting, State Tax Commission chairman, reported Tuesday.

Latting said that the increases were due principally to the scheduled salary increases and the necessity of hiring more teachers because of increased enrollments.

Of the figures available, the greatest increase was 5.01 mills at Meeker in Rio Grande County. Fort Collins reported the second highest — up 4.66 mills, and Akron will be up 4 mills.

Figures for Denver were not available.

Mill levy changes for some of the reporting areas (1962 mill levy, 1963 mill levy and amount of increase, unless noted):

Brighton 23 mills, 25.90 mills, 2.9 mills; Aurora 20.6, 24.5, 3.9; Alamosa 23, 26.5, 3.5; Littleton 30.76, 30.70, down .06; Buena Vista 13.8, 13.5, down .3; Delta 26.5, 27.5, 1; Colorado Springs 23.73, 24.94, 1.21; Canon City 25.13, 28.03, 2.90; Glenwood Springs 16.67, 16.98, .31.

Gunnison 17.87, 19.81, 1.94; Burlington 15.93, 19.31, 3.38; Durango 21.77, 24.80, 3.13; Fort Collins 23.90, 28.56, 4.66; Loveland 16.30, 19.78, 3.48; Jefferson County 43.15, 42, down 1.15; Grand Junction 22.69, 26.12, 3.43; Cortez 23.92, 24.73, .81; Dolores remains same at 19.36.

La Junta 24.45, 26.20, 1.75; Pueblo (city) 25.869, 28.519, 2.65; Meeker 15.855, 20.86, 5.01; Rangely 8.0752, 9.07, 1; Monte Vista 20.1409, 19.730, down 1.41; Steamboat Springs remains at 27; Telluride 14.50, 16.60, 2.10; Akron 14.08, 18.08, 4.

SPEEDY SINGING

DENVER (AP)—Church congregations used to sing hymns too sluggishly, but now they're speeding up the tempo too much, says the Rev. Charles R. Anders, musicologist and assistant director of the Lutheran church in America's commission on worship.

He told a conference here: "The bugbear used to be chronic 'dragitis;' now it's 'speedomania.' One frequently hears the plainsong . . . rendered in the style of John Philip Sousa."

Mrs. Wini Pyle was installed as the new president of the Women's Fellowship, Church in the Wildwood, at a candlelight ceremony conducted by the Rev. Conrad Pyle, Pastor, Tuesday afternoon Oct. 15, in the church sanctuary. Mrs. Pyle will serve as the sixth president of the Women's Fellowship, which was organized in 1958. Other officers installed were Mrs. Lucille White, Mrs. Lorraine Martin and Mrs. Florence Salisbury, first, second and third vice presidents respectively; Mrs. Polly Lamb, treasurer, and Mrs. Maxine Van Arsdale, secretary. Preceding the installation a birthday covered dish luncheon was held, with thirty present. Four tables were decorated with traditional birthday cakes made by the hostess, one was the fall table centered with yellow marigolds, black eyed susans, gold candles and a devil's food cake. Those having birthdays in the months September, October and November sat at this table. The song, "Shine On Harvest Moon," was sung to honor them. The winter table, for December, January and February, was centered with a wrought iron Christmas tree, laden with red candles, and surrounded with red geraniums and pine boughs. The cake was a date torte, and the song, "Jingle Bells." The spring table for March, April and May, was centered with double pink petunias and pink snapdragons, and had a white angle food cake decorated with pink daisies. The spring song was, "Love's Old Sweet Song." For the summer table, large white double petunias and white snapdragons were arranged in a bowl between white candles with a gold angel food cake decorated in white. The summer song was, "Oh Beautiful For Spacious Skies." Hostesses were Maxine Haynes, Betty Reasonover, Maxine Van Arsdale and Laura Jones. Guests were: Florence and Grace Videll, from Boulder, who were visiting Miss Marguerite Mc Lellan; Mrs. Bette Beal; Mrs Louise Weiman and Mrs. Ellen Foronen, Mrs. Blanche Fossieck, Craig, Colo.; Mrs. Cecilia Gearing and Mrs. Grace Aro, Mrs. Lester Griswold of Colorado Springs. The sweater project received 47 sweaters turned in at the meeting to Mrs. Polly Lamb, missionary education chairman, who plans to send them to destitute children in Hong Kong, who need them for wraps as they must sleep on the ground. Twenty additional sweaters were given Mrs. Lamb, from the Snowflake Chapter OES rummage sale. Others are promised. She hopes to send at least 100. They can be any size.

Members of Boy Scout Troop 26, were organized into two patrols at its weekly meeting Friday night. The Rattlesnake Group will have Ronnie Slaven as Patrol Leader with members David Hey, Robbie Blosser, Lance Rossi, Paul Tanner and Steve Cornett. In the Flying Eagle Group will be Bob Brooks, patrol leader, with members Terry Thomson, Layne Van Arsdale, David Mayfield, and Randy Westherington. After their meeting nine Scouts attended the football game with the Mustangs at Manitou Springs High School against the Cheyenne Indians Saturday, Oct. 19, eight Boy Scouts worked at the Bob Neal Quarry and surveyed the boundaries of his 20 acres of mineral lode claim. Establishing the metes and bounds was done by using regular engineer transits and equipment, plus the Scouts diligent and efficient work. Scoutmaster Charles Stull supervised the project.

Cub Scouts Pack 33, Den No. 1, holds regular weekly meetings at the home of Mrs. Joyce Woolston on Tuesdays right after school. The eight members went 100 per cent last week to visit the Manitou Springs Volunteer Fire Department. Mrs. Ann Rasner is co-den mother. Mascots who also attended the meetings are Albert Rasner and Steven Woolston, both age three.

Brownie Scouts will hold their first meeting this week, with 2-3 grade girls at the Dick Wilson home Wednesday Oct. 23, right after school. Twenty Brownies and their mothers attended the organizational meeting Oct 14, at the Church in the Wildwood. Mrs. Grace Wilson and Mrs. Phyllis Giles are leaders for the Brownies. On the same day eighteen Junior Girl Scouts and their mothers were enrolled under Mrs. Jonell Ewart and Mrs. Shirli Johnson, leaders, who will have their group meet at the Cascade Fire House on Wednesday each week, right after school, beginning Oct. 23. All of the leaders have attended work shop meetings for four days, held at Hamp-Hut, Girl Scout cabin, Garden of the Gods. The sessions began at 9:30 a.m. ending at 2:30 p.m., with a sack lunch at noon, on Tuesdays and Thursdays the last two weeks.

The Little Ute Nursery School had eleven present at its Wednesday morning meeting, Oct. 16, in the White House Annex, Church in the Wildwood, 9 a.m. Directors Mrs. Beverly Page and Mrs. Jonell Ewart taught the story, "Manners Can Be Fun." For craft work the boys and girls made litter bags from paper sacks to take home for their rooms. Games were played out-of-doors and refreshment treats were enjoyed by the class.

After their regular Wednesday night meeting, members of the Polka Dot Sweet Adeline Quartet went to the Safari Restaurant and Lounge for an impromptu musical program. Mrs. Marlene Willie was the baritone Mrs. Stanley Saevig bass, Mrs. Barbara Nichols tenor and Mrs. Colette Divine lead. Mrs. Saevig was recently appointed new director of the Sweet Adeline Chorus. She left by jet last Sunday to attend the annual International convention in Oakland, Calif., from October 20 to 26. Accompanying her were Pat Tyree, a member of the International Board, and Doris Detweiller.

Showdown Postponed In Alabama

By COLIN BARRETT

BIRMINGHAMA, Ala. (UPI) —Negro leaders, denying they had backed down from an ultimatum, settled back today and waited for Birmingham to integrate its police force within "a reasonable length of time."

If Negro policemen are not hired within this period, "we will have to demonstrate," integration leader Martin Luther King Jr., said Tuesday. But he did not set a deadline.

Two weeks ago, King gave the city until Tuesday to hire 25 Negro policemen or face a renewal of racial demonstrations that brought mass arrests last spring. The city council Tuesday rejected the demand, stating such employment is governed by civil serviec regulations which have no racial restrictions.

"I have no intention of trying to circumvent (civil service) laws for any reason or under any pressure," said Mayor Albert Boutwell.

The city council adopted a report by its Public Safety Committee calling King's demand "arrogant and unrealistic." The council flatly refused to hire Negro policemen "as a matter of special privilege."

King, after meeting more than five hours with other Negro leaders here, withdrew the demand.

"There is a strong indication (city officials) are going to hire Negro policemen soon," he said. "If they need a little face-saving way out, we will give them the opportunity by withdrawing our deadline."

Other racial developments:

CHICAGO—Almost a quarter-million Negro children boycotted schools Tuesday in a massive show of opposition to school segregation. Some of the demonstrators were nursery school toddlers ranging in age from two to five.

ATLANTA—The U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals Tuesday ordered an indefinite stay of Louisiana state court proceedings against the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) which is conducting a desegregation campaign in Clinton, La. The order also stayed contempt proceedings against 26 CORE members charged with illegal picketing there.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Student leaders at predominantly Negro Florida A&M College threatened mass protests unless the school reinstates two students it expelled for participating in boisterous racial demonstrations.

NOT WHAT THEY SOUGHT

CADIZ, Ky. (AP) — Laster Hite was passing the hole where drillers were seeking water for his dairy herd. The hole had started to fill with water when Hite threw in a match. Hite said, after the explosion, he might not have pure water for his cows but he had a gas well to provide illumination for milking.

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

QUESTION: Please help me! I doubt everything I have ever believed in. How can I be sure there is a God? — M. A. N.

ANSWER: You intimate that you were once a believer. May I suggest that there are two kinds of belief: the belief of the mind, and the belief of the heart. Beliefs of the mind are quite easily cast aside. They hang loosely upon us, until they are jarred off by the first strong argument they run into. But belief of the heart is something different. It takes men through fires, flood, storms, and the most vicious persecution, and still it cries: "I believe God that it shall be even as it was told me."

It is one thing to say: "I believe in God the Father, maker of heaven and earth." This is belief of the mind, it makes no commitment. It is abstract. But David expressed another kind of faith. He said: "In Thee, O Lord, have I put my trust." There is a faith put into action. This is belief of the heart.

You can believe in Christ without trusting in Him, just as you can believe in a restaurant without ever partaking of its food. But when you become a partaker, then you believe because of experience. My advice to you is this: get down on your knees and say: "O God, forgive me for my wavering and doubting: in Thee, O God, do I put my trust." If you can say this and mean it, your problem will be resolved.

QUESTION: Can you tell me how to get closer to God through prayer? I am not growing in my parayer life.— S. E.

ANSWER: Prayer is a spiritual exercise, and the only way to become proficient in any exercise is by practice. The best way to learn to pray is to pray. I find that the more I pray, the easier and more natural it is to pray. But by the same token prayerlessness can become a habit — if we practice not praying, we lapse into prayerlessness, and pay the price of feeling "afar off" from God. The Bible says: "Draw nigh unto God, and God will draw nigh to you." He rushes to those who lift holy hands to Him in prayer. "Where two or three are gathered in His name," He will be in the midst of them.

Remember, prayer is not just words. Our prayers are to mean something to us if they are to mean anything to God. Remember too, prayer is a two-way conversation, and the most important part of it is listening to what God has to say to us.

More Western Irrigation Projects Urged

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (AP)—The president of the 17-state National Reclamation Association today called for unslackened development of new Western irrigation projects to keep the United States ahead of Russia's growing economic strength.

"The more the arms race stands at a stalemate, the more important becomes the production race," said Laselle E. Coles, Prinville, Ore. He quoted Soviet Premier Khrushchev as saying that the real contest between Russia and the United States is to see who can produce more meat, butter and milk.

Kenneth Holum, assistant secretary of the Interior for water and power, told the delegates hydroelectric power and irrigation are full partners in multi-purpose water resource development.

"The Bureau of Reclamation's power customers must support irrigation" he said. "It is equally important that irrigators and wouldbe irrigators understand the importance of the power features."

Coles described the pork barrel label frequently put on Western water projects as "partly a sympton of a growing breach between rural and urban interests which must somehow be healed..."

Coles said reclamationists must not only tell the East their story, but listen to the other side.

Coles said a tour he made of Russian reclamation projects last month with Reclamation Commissioner Floyd E. Dominy showed the Soviet Union's potential for growth.

"Their economic system is full of inefficiencies that are apparent even to a casual visitor," he said. "Nevertheless this is a land of such enormous size, such hugh resources, that only a really incredably inefficient operation in the past could have held it back up to now."

State to Get Higher School District Levies

DENVER (AP) — Coloradans will pay higher school district levies next year — in somes cases 5 per cent more than this year, Howard Latting, State Tax Commission chairman, reported Tuesday.

Latting said that the increases were due principally to the scheduled salary increases and the necessity of hiring more teachers because of increased enrollments.

Of the figures available, the greatest increase was 5.01 mills at Meeker in Rio Grande County. Fort Collins reported the second highest — up 4.66 mills, and Akron will be up 4 mills.

Figures for Denver were not available.

Mill levy changes for some of the reporting areas (1962 mill levy, 1963 mill levy and amount of increase, unless noted):

Brighton 23 mills, 25.90 mills, 2.9 mills; Aurora 20.6, 24.5, 3.9; Alamosa 23, 26.5, 3.5; Littleton 30.76, 30.70, down .06; Buena Vista 13.8, 13.5, down .3; Delta 26.5, 27.5, 1; Colorado Springs 23.73, 24.94, 1.21; Canon City 25.13, 28.03, 2.90; Glenwood Springs 16.67, 16.98, .31.

Gunnison 17.87, 19.81, 1.94; Burlington 15.93, 19.31, 3.38; Durango 21.77, 24.80, 3.13; Fort Collins 23.90, 28.56, 4.66; Loveland 16.30, 19.78, 3.48; Jefferson County 43.15, 42, down 1.15; Grand Junction 22.69, 26.12, 3.43; Cortez 23.92, 24.73, .81; Dolores remains same at 19.36.

La Junta 24.45, 26.20, 1.75; Pueblo (city) 25.869, 28.519, 2.65; Meeker 15.855, 20.86, 5.01; Rangely 8.0752, 9.07, 1; Monte Vista 20.1409, 19.730, down 1.41; Steamboat Springs remains at 27; Telluride 14.50, 16.60, 2.10; Akron 14.08, 18.08, 4.

SPEEDY SINGING

DENVER (AP)—Church congregations used to sing hymns too sluggishly, but now they're speeding up the tempo too much, says the Rev. Charles R. Anders, musicologist and assistant director of the Lutheran church in America's commission on worship.

He told a conference here: "The bugbear used to be chronic 'dragitis;' now it's 'speedomania.' One frequently hears the plainsong . . . rendered in the style of John Philip Sousa."

Peyton News

By MRS. LEROY COTTON — Phone 749-2335

The Peyton Ladies Guild met at the home of of Mrs. Cecil Farthing with Mrs. Clara Hamlin and Mrs. Grace Seger co-hostesses, with cream, cider and Halloween candy served at a dessert luncheon. There were 15 members, three visitors and three children present. We are glad to welcome Mrs. John Tulowetzke, Mrs. Bert Hays and Mrs. Phil Tanner as new members. The plans were made for the Eastern Slope Rural Telephone Association dinner and meeting which the Guild will serve Nov. 2 at the Peyton School. Mrs. Melvin Fields and Mrs. John Tulowetzke were appointed to investigate buying a portable oxygen tank for use in the community. The members also voted to pay the balance on new curtains at the church. A report was also made on the proceeds from the Addison sale. after adjournment a film was shown by Mrs. Bert Hays on where the family lived when Bert was stationed in Japan. The next meeting will be held Nov. 21 with Mrs. Stanley Addison and Mrs. Harvey Gieck, assistant hostess. Mrs. Gertrude Payne will have charge of the program. The meeting will also be election of officers.

The Peyton boys won the baseball game which they played with Alta Vista Friday, at Alta Vista with a score of 8-4, the Peyton girls also won their game with Alta Vista with a score of 13-1.

The community extends sympathy to Mrs. Walt Aubuchon and family upon the death of her father, Oscar Vaughn of Colorado Springs, who died Friday at a hospital in Colorado Springs. The funeral was held Tuesday at the Swan Funeral Home with burial at Evergreen Cemetery.

Mrs. Jerry Brown, Titus Mix, Marylin, Sherrie and Terry Cotton called at the Roy Weatherly, Lee Gaddie and Bud Ishmael homes Saturday Morning.

A masquerade party will be held at the Peyton School gym Oct. 30 from 7:30-11 p.m. with games and dancing. The admittance charge will be, couples 75 cents, stag 50 cents, and family rate $1.50. No one will be admitted without a mask or costume. The sophomores will sponsor the party.

Mrs. Nellie Wray and Mrs. Robert Duncan returned home Saturday after being confined to the hospital.

The 4-H members who participated in the 4-H talent show during the summer and some of the parents enjoyed a hayride and a wiener roast at Peron's Grove Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hagerman and Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Grimes were callers at the Cecil Farthing home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schwindt and Clara Hamlin were luncheon guests Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Farthing.

Mrs. Gertrude Payne called on Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Farthing Monday morning.

Protected herds of elk in Yellowstone and Grand Teton National Parks are growing so fast the browsing areas cannot support them.

OUSTERS OVER RACE

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Three ministers in Disciples of Christ (Christian) churches were forced out of their pulpits in August and September for favoring racial integration, Barton Hunter, administrative head of the church's civil rights committee, reports. He said a special church committee has been set up to aid ministers subjected to such problems.

Egg War May Take Place of Chicken War

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI)—U.S. officials here watched closely today for signs that an "egg war" may replace the recent "chicken war" with the European Common Market.

The 15-month-old dispute over American poultry exports seemed headed for a possible peaceful solution through arbitration by a neutral panel of experts from the General Agreement for Tariff and Trade (GATT).

But the U.S. mission to the European communities was said to have reported to Washington on increased levies on imports of eggs into the six-nation Common Market area.

This increase could affect American egg exports to the Common Market, although this would be on a far smaller scale than the tariff increases on chickens.

American egg exports to the community, mainly West Germany, total about $3.5 million a year. U.S. poultry exports amounted to about $60 million a year before Common Market tariff increases became effective in July last year.

According to Common Market sources, eggs from the United States, Yugoslavia and Denmark were being offered in Germany, Italy, France, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg at prices below the locally produced eggs.

Cooper Is Vindicated In View of Earth Sights

By ALVIN B. WEBB Jr.

Others were less incredulous, but preferred to believe that "outside influences" such as atmospheric conditions or perhaps even weightlessness were primarily responsible for it

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) put a five-man scientific team to work on the problem. After weeks of research, the group came up with its rather startling answer:

Astornaut Cooper saw exactly what he said he saw on earth below during his 22.9-orbit voyage around the globe last May 15-16.

Thus, with no ifs, ands or buts, one of the most remarkable scientific reports of the year was vindicated. It could have an important bearing on future manned space flights, and even on the development of "spy-in-the-sky" satellites for policing military build-ups on earth.

All the flurry centered around Cooper's report of spectacular views of earth. At one point, he said, "I could detect individual houses and streets" in the Himalaya mountains, on the plains of Tibet and in the southwestern desert area of the United States.

On another occasion, the astronaut said, "I saw what I took to be a vehicle along a road in the Himalaya area and in the Arizona - West Texas area. I could first see the dust blowing off the road, then could see the road clearly . . . "

And still another: "I saw a steam locomotive by seeing the smoke first; then I noted the object moving along what was apparently a track . . . "

All of which triggered a hot debate in scientific circles. Experts quickly noted that cars, locomotives, houses and such are only a comparatively few feet wide, that a road is scant yards across and that Cooper was claiming he saw them from orbital heights of more than 100 miles.

Some said outright that it was impossible, that Cooper must have suffered hallucinations or some sort of space-going variation of the "raptures of the deep." Others said perhaps the atmosphere magnified the objects on earth, or that the astronaut's vision was improved by the effects of weightlessness in orbit.

Not a bit of it, said the NASA scientific team headed by Dr. John A. O'Keefe: " . . . from knowledge of the factors which affect visibility under these conditions, there appears to be no reason to suspect that these identifications (by Cooper) were not generally accurate."

"In the first place, it was pointed out, Cooper has exceptional vision. A recent examination measured his eyesight at 20-12 — meaning he could see objects at 20 feet that a person with normal 20-20 vision could not detect beyond about 12 feet.

Secondly, Cooper enjoyed "unusually good weather conditions." His report stood out all the more in the light of a general lack of similar sightings by three previous U. S. orbiting astronauts. But on all three of the earlier flights, cloud cover around earth was heavy.

His view was aided by the rarified atmosphere in the Tibetan plain, which rises 16,000 feet above sea level, and by the low humidity, cloudless weather over the U.S. southwest. He did not see other more massive sights such as Los Angeles or Calcutta — even though he flew right over them — because of obscuring haze or clouds.

As for spotting roads of perhaps less than 50 feet across, the NASA experts pointed out that U. S. rockets are far back as the Viking series in the early 1950s had made similar sightings from altitudes of up to 150 miles.

American military leaders are reported to have found Cooper's report impressively encouraging. The Air Force is developing a camera-carrying "spy" satellite called Samos to photograph sites on earth from perches in space as lofty as Cooper's.

One more point is certain: such grandiose views right outside the spaceship windows should make flights into orbit interesting experiences for many years to come.

Philippines, Cornell Join Farm Program

ITHACA, N.Y. (UPI)—Cornell University and the University of the Philippines have joined in a $1,496,000 agricultural assistance program.

The cooperative project, supported by the Ford Foundation, is intended to further develop staff and facilities at the College of Agriculture, University of the Philippines, at Los Banos; train Filipino and Asian graduate students, exchange Filipino and American staffs and provide professional training for American staffs in agricultural production under tropical conditions.

The first formal large - scale program between Cornell and the University of the Philippines started in 1952 under the auspices of the U.S. aid program and ended in 1960 by mutual agreement. That program was designed to rebuild the war - damaged College of Agriculture.

Commenting on the new program, Dean D. L. Umali of the Philippine college said, "We are especially pleased that we can proceed at a faster pace to develop the College as a graduate center in agricultural sciences for the Philippines and other countries in Southeast Asia."

OUSTERS OVER RACE

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Three ministers in Disciples of Christ (Christian) churches were forced out of their pulpits in August and September for favoring racial integration, Barton Hunter, administrative head of the church's civil rights committee, reports. He said a special church committee has been set up to aid ministers subjected to such problems.

Egg War May Take Place of Chicken War

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI)—U.S. officials here watched closely today for signs that an "egg war" may replace the recent "chicken war" with the European Common Market.

The 15-month-old dispute over American poultry exports seemed headed for a possible peaceful solution through arbitration by a neutral panel of experts from the General Agreement for Tariff and Trade (GATT).

But the U.S. mission to the European communities was said to have reported to Washington on increased levies on imports of eggs into the six-nation Common Market area.

This increase could affect American egg exports to the Common Market, although this would be on a far smaller scale than the tariff increases on chickens.

American egg exports to the community, mainly West Germany, total about $3.5 million a year. U.S. poultry exports amounted to about $60 million a year before Common Market tariff increases became effective in July last year.

According to Common Market sources, eggs from the United States, Yugoslavia and Denmark were being offered in Germany, Italy, France, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg at prices below the locally produced eggs.

Cooper Is Vindicated In View of Earth Sights

By ALVIN B. WEBB Jr.

Others were less incredulous, but preferred to believe that "outside influences" such as atmospheric conditions or perhaps even weightlessness were primarily responsible for it.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) put a five-man scientific team to work on the problem. After weeks of research, the group came up with its rather startling answer:

Astornaut Cooper saw exactly what he said he saw on earth below during his 22.9-orbit voyage around the globe last May 15-16.

Thus, with no ifs, ands or buts, one of the most remarkable scientific reports of the year was vindicated. It could have an important bearing on future manned space flights, and even on the development of "spy-in-the-sky" satellites for policing military build-ups on earth.

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

© 1963 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: Please help me! I doubt everything I have ever believed in. How can I be sure there is a God? — M. A. N.

ANSWER: You intimate that you were once a believer. May I suggest that there are two kinds of belief: the belief of the mind, and the belief of the heart. Beliefs of the mind are quite easily cast aside. They hang loosely upon us, until they are jarred off by the first strong argument they run into. But belief of the heart is something different. It takes men through fires, flood, storms, and the most vicious persecution, and still it cries: "I believe God that it shall be even as it was told me."

It is one thing to say: "I believe in God the Father, maker of heaven and earth." This is belief of the mind, it makes no commitment. It is abstract. But David expressed another kind of faith. He said: "In Thee, O Lord, have I put my trust." There is a faith put into action. This is belief of the heart.

You can believe in Christ without trusting in Him, just as you can believe in a restaurant without ever partaking of its food. But when you become a partaker, then you believe because of experience. My advice to you is this: get down on your knees and say: "O God, forgive me for my wavering and doubting: in Thee, O God, do I put my trust." If you can say this and mean it, your problem will be resolved.

QUESTION: Can you tell me how to get closer to God through prayer? I am not growing in my parayer life.— S. E.

ANSWER: Prayer is a spiritual exercise, and the only way to become proficient in any exercise is by practice. The best way to learn to pray is to pray. I find that the more I pray, the easier and more natural it is to pray. But by the same token prayerlessness can become a habit — if we practice not praying, we lapse into prayerlessness, and pay the price of feeling "afar off" from God. The Bible says: "Draw nigh unto God, and God will draw nigh to you." He rushes to those who lift holy hands to Him in prayer. "Where two or three are gathered in His name," He will be in the midst of them.

Remember, prayer is not just words. Our prayers are to mean something to us if they are to mean anything to God. Remember too, prayer is a two-way conversation, and the most important part of it is listening to what God has to say to us.

Navy Commander Promoted to Captain Here

Cmdr. Francis L. Mickle recently received his promotion to Captain U. S. Naval Reserve, with congratulations from Capt. John K. Sterrett, commanding officer of Naval Resvere Research company 9-26 here, Capt. Mickle serves as membership officer of NRRC 9-26. In civilian life he is employed by the Defense Communications Agency-CONUS at Ft. Carson, as a communications engineer.

Capt. Mickle enlisted in the Naval Reserve V-5 program in May 1941, receiving his Naval Aviators Wings and commission as Ensign in June, 1942. He was released to inactive duty in Oct. 1945, following a variety of aviation duties during World War II.

From 1946 to 1952 he was engaged in the radio broadcast industry as consultant, engineer, and manager. In Jan. 1952 he was recalled to active duty and assigned to the Naval Air Test Center at Patuxent River, Maryland. From there, he was assigned as executive officer of photographic Sqdn VJ-62.

His last active duty assignment was with the Office of Naval Materiel in Washington, D.C., where he was released to inactive duty in March 1958.

Since then he was employed by the U. S. Army Signal Corps, and for the last year by the Defense Communications Agency. From 1958 to date, Capt. Mickle has been actively participating in the Naval Reserve Program.

For three years during this time he was Commanding Officer of Helicopter Utility Sqdn. 932 at the Naval Air Station, Willow Grove, Pa. He moved to Colorado Springs with his family a year ago, when he was transferred to his present job, from Washington, D. C.

Capt. Mickle urges Naval Reservists to participate in the Reserve Program for retirement and promotion credit and the opportunity to keep abreast of current Naval activities.

Academy Band To Broadcast Program Sunday

The entire "Back to School" concert presented earlier this fall by the Air Force Academy Band will be broadcast at 6 p. m. Sunday on KCMS-FM, 102.7 mgs.

Featured during the concert, first conducted locally by new Band commander-conductor Capt. Arnald Gabriel, are a musical tour of civilian and military schools and a tuneful trek around the world.

M.Sgt. Wes Adams arranged the globe-girdling musical tour of all countries visited this summer by members of the Academy's Class of 1965 on their field study of overseas area.

The concert also includes "Autumn Collage" arranged by M.Sgt. Dick Hubbard, "College Medley" by T.Sgt. John Caughman, and a medley of service academy songs.

"Autumn Collage" includes Autumn Leaves, September in the Rain, and September Song.

The next public concert will be given by the Academy Band Sunday, at 3 p.m. Nov. 10, in the Arnold Hall theater.

Mrs. Ella Miller To Speak Here Friday

Mrs. Ella May Miller will speak here at 2 p.m. Friday at a meeting at the First Menonite Church.

She is a speaker on the nationwide "Heart to Heart" radio program, a women's broadcast of Christian inspiration which deals with practical problems every homemaker faces.

Mrs. Miller and her husband are former missionaries to South Africa.

Interested persons are asked to note the time of Mrs. Miller's talk at the local church. In Tuesday's Gazette Telegraph, the date was given as 2 p.m. Tuesday, which was in error.

Academy Band To Broadcast Program Sunday

The entire "Back to School" concert presented earlier this fall by the Air Force Academy Band will be broadcast at 6 p. m. Sunday on KCMS-FM, 102.7 mgs.

Featured during the concert, first conducted locally by new Band commander-conductor Capt. Arnald Gabriel, are a musical tour of civilian and military schools and a tuneful trek around the world.

M.Sgt. Wes Adams arranged the globe-girdling musical tour of all countries visited this summer by members of the Academy's Class of 1965 on their field study of overseas area.

The concert also includes "Autumn Collage" arranged by M.Sgt. Dick Hubbard, "College Medley" by T.Sgt. John Caughman, and a medley of service academy songs.

"Autumn Collage" includes Autumn Leaves, September in the Rain, and September Song.

The next public concert will be given by the Academy Band Sunday, at 3 p.m. Nov. 10, in the Arnold Hall theater.

Mrs. Ella Miller To Speak Here Friday

Mrs. Ella May Miller will speak here at 2 p.m. Friday at a meeting at the First Menonite Church.

She is a speaker on the nationwide "Heart to Heart" radio program, a women's broadcast of Christian inspiration which deals with practical problems every homemaker faces.

Mrs. Miller and her husband are former missionaries to South Africa.

Interested persons are asked to note the time of Mrs. Miller's talk at the local church. In Tuesday's Gazette Telegraph, the date was given as 2 p.m. Tuesday, which was in error.

OUSTERS OVER RACE

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Three ministers in Disciples of Christ (Christian) churches were forced out of their pulpits in August and September for favoring racial integration. Barton Hunter, administrative head of the church's civil rights committee, reports. He said a special church committee has been set up to aid ministers subjected to such problems.

Egg War May Take Place of Chicken War

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI)—U.S. officials here watched closely today for signs that an "egg war" may replace the recent "chicken war" with the European Common Market.

The 15-month-old dispute over American poultry exports seemed headed for a possible peaceful solution through arbitration by a neutral panel of experts from the General Agreement for Tariff and Trade (GATT).

But the U.S. mission to the European communities was said to have reported to Washington on increased levies on imports of eggs into the six-nation Common Market area.

This increase could affect American egg exports to the Common Market, although this would be on a far smaller scale than the tariff increases on chickens.

American egg exports to the community, mainly West Germany, total about $3.5 million a year. U.S. poultry exports amounted to about $60 million a year before Common Market tariff increases became effective in July last year.

According to Common Market sources, eggs from the United States, Yugoslavia and Denmark were being offered in Germany, Italy, France, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg at prices below the locally produced eggs.

Cooper Is Vindicated In View of Earth Sights

By ALVIN B. WEBB Jr.

Others were less incredulous, but preferred to believe that "outside influences" such as atmospheric conditions or perhaps even weightlessness were primarily responsible for it.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) put a five-man scientific team to work on the problem. After weeks of research, the group came up with its rather startling answer:

Astornaut Cooper saw exactly what he said he saw on earth below during his 22.9-orbit voyage around the globe last May 15-16.

Thus, with no ifs, ands or buts, one of the most remarkable scientific reports of the year was vindicated. It could have an important bearing on future manned space flights, and even on the development of "spy-in-the-sky" satellites for policing military build-ups on earth.

All the flurry centered around Cooper's report of spectacular views of earth. At one point, he said, "I could detect individual houses and streets" in the Himalaya mountains, on the plains of Tibet and in the southwestern desert area of the United States.

On another occasion, the astronaut said, "I saw what I took to be a vehicle along a road in the Himalaya area and in the Arizona - West Texas area. I could first see the dust blowing off the road, then could see the road clearly . . . "

And still another: "I saw a steam locomotive by seeing the smoke first; then I noted the object moving along what was apparently a track . . . "

All of which triggered a hot debate in scientific circles. Experts quickly noted that cars, locomotives, houses and such are only a comparatively few feet wide, that a road is scant yards across and that Cooper was claiming he saw them from orbital heights of more than 100 miles.

Some said outright that it was impossible, that Cooper must have suffered hallucinations or some sort of space-going variation of the "raptures of the deep." Others said perhaps the atmosphere, magnified the objects on earth, or that the astronaut's vision was improved by the effects of weightlessness in orbit.

Not a bit of it, said the NASA scientific team headed by Dr. John A. O'Keefe: " . . . from knowledge of the factors which affect visibility under these conditions, there appears to be no reason to suspect that these identifications (by Cooper) were not generally accurate."

In the first place, it was pointed out, Cooper has exceptional vision. A recent examination measured his eyesight at 20-12 — meaning he could see objects at 20 feet that a person with normal 20-20 vision could not detect beyond about 12 feet.

Secondly, Cooper enjoyed "unusually good weather conditions." His report stood out all the more in the light of a general lack of similar sightings by three previous U. S. orbiting astronauts. But on all three of the earlier flights, cloud cover around earth was heavy.

His view was aided by the rarified atmosphere in the Tibetan plain, which rises 16,000 feet above sea level, and by the low humidity, cloudless weather over the U.S. southwest. He did not see other more massive sights such as Los Angeles or Calcutta — even though he flew right over them — because of obscuring haze or clouds.

As for spotting roads of perhaps less than 50 feet across, the NASA experts pointed out that U. S. rockets are far back as the Viking series in the early 1950s had made similar sightings from altitudes of up to 150 miles.

American military leaders are reported to have found Cooper's report impressively encouraging. The Air Force is developing a camera-carrying "spy" satellite called Samos to photograph sites on earth from perches in space as lofty as Cooper's.

One more point is certain: such grandiose views right outside the spaceship windows should make flights into orbit interesting experiences for many years to come.

Philippines, Cornell Join Farm Program

ITHACA, N.Y. (UPI)—Cornell University and the University of the Philippines have joined in a $1,496,000 agricultural assistance program.

The cooperative project, supported by the Ford Foundation, is intended to further develop staff and facilities at the College of Agriculture, University of the Philippines, at Los Banos; train Filipino and Asian graduate students, exchange Filipino and American staffs and provide professional training for American staffs in agricultural production under tropical conditions.

The first formal large - scale program between Cornell and the University of the Philippines started in 1952 under the auspices of the U.S. aid program and ended in 1960 by mutual agreement. That program was designed to rebuild the war - damaged College of Agriculture.

Commenting on the new program, Dean D. L. Umali of the Philippine college said, "We are especially pleased that we can proceed at a faster pace to develop the College as a graduate center in agricultural sciences for the Philippines and other countries in Southeast Asia."

CAPT. FRANCIS MICKLE

* * *

Navy Commander Promoted to Captain Here

Cmdr. Francis L. Mickle recently received his promotion to Captain U. S. Naval Reserve, with congratulations from Capt. John K. Sterrett, commanding officer of Naval Resvere Research company 9-26 here, Capt. Mickle serves as membership officer of NRRC 9-26. In civilian life he is employed by the Defense Communications Agency-CONUS at Ft. Carson, as a communications engineer.

Capt. Mickle enlisted in the Naval Reserve V-5 program in May 1941, receiving his Naval Aviators Wings and commission as Ensign in June, 1942. He was released to inactive duty in Oct. 1945, following a variety of aviation duties during World War II.

From 1946 to 1952 he was engaged in the radio broadcast industry as consultant, engineer, and manager. In Jan. 1952 he was recalled to active duty and assigned to the Naval Air Test Center at Patuxent River, Maryland. From there, he was assigned as executive officer of photographic Sqdn VJ-62.

His last active duty assignment was with the Office of Naval Materiel in Washington, D.C., where he was released to inactive duty in March 1958.

Since then he was employed by the U. S. Army Signal Corps, and for the last year by the Defense Communications Agency. From 1958 to date, Capt. Mickle has been actively participating in the Naval Reserve Program.

For three years during this time he was Commanding Officer of Helicopter Utility Sqdn. 932 at the Naval Air Station, Willow Grove, Pa. He moved to Colorado Springs with his family a year ago, when he was transferred to his present job, from Washington, D. C.

Capt. Mickle urges Naval Reservists to participate in the Reserve Program for retirement and promotion credit and the opportunity to keep abreast of current Naval activities.

Academy Band To Broadcast Program Sunday

The entire "Back to School" concert presented earlier this fall by the Air Force Academy Band will be broadcast at 6 p. m. Sunday on KCMS-FM, 102.7 mgs.

Featured during the concert, first conducted locally by new Band commander-conductor Capt. Arnald Gabriel, are a musical tour of civilian and military schools and a tuneful trek around the world.

M.Sgt. Wes Adams arranged the globe-girdling musical tour of all countries visited this summer by members of the Academy's Class of 1965 on their field study of overseas area.

The concert also includes "Autumn Collage" arranged by M.Sgt. Dick Hubbard, "College Medley" by T.Sgt. John Caughman, and a medley of service academy songs.

"Autumn Collage" includes Autumn Leaves, September in the Rain, and September Song.

The next public concert will be given by the Academy Band Sunday, at 3 p.m. Nov. 10, in the Arnold Hall theater.

Mrs. Ella Miller To Speak Here Friday

Mrs. Ella May Miller will speak here at 2 p.m. Friday at a meeting at the First Menonite Church.

She is a speaker on the nationwide "Heart to Heart" radio program, a women's broadcast of Christian inspiration which deals with practical problems every homemaker faces.

Mrs. Miller and her husband are former missionaries to South Africa.

Interested persons are asked to note the time of Mrs. Miller's talk at the local church. In Tuesday's Gazette Telegraph, the date was given as 2 p.m. Tuesday, which was in error.

Embezzlement Charge Against Davis Dismissed

A charge of embezzlement against John Sam Davis Jr., 41, will be dismissed, District Attorney Patrick M. Hinton said Wednesday.

Davis, of 806 Cresta Rd., had been charged with the embezzlement of $2,683 from the Allservice Life Insurance Co. on March 8. He was then president of the company.

Allservice Life has since merged with Western Empire Life Insurance Co. and representatives of Western Empire have requested that the charge be dropped, Hinton said.

Davis was scheduled for trial in District Court on Oct. 29. Western Empire representatives said the publicity of the trial might have an adverse effect on the company's policy holders, according to Hinton.

The district attorney said his office would need the cooperation of the company in prosecuting Davis and since the company does not want the case to come to trial, he is dropping the charge.

Bill Matthews Places In Top Sales Club

Bill Matthews, a salesman for Bob Foss Motors, Inc., has earned membership in the "100 Club," a group of outstanding salesmen in Lincoln-Mercury dealerships, George F. Walters, Denver district sales manager for Lincoln-Mercury Division, said today.

The local salesman's sales proficiency placed him among the top third of all Lincoln-Mercury salesmen and earned him special recognition from the Lincoln-Mercury Sales Council.

Penrose News

By PEGGY SANDEFUR

The Reserve Champions and Champions of the Home Economics in Fremont County were presented by Mr. Totten of Canon City, a trip to Denver last Sunday. Three carloads of girls and sponsors took the trip. They toured the museum near the Capitol Building and went to see "How the West Was Won". They took a sack lunch with them and had dinner at the Drumstick Restaurant. Those awarded the trip from Penrose included Carolyn Goodall, Nancy Comstock, Linda Molello and Kathy Molello, who was unable to attend. Gene Comstock took the girls.

Mr. Totten also presented the champions of the smaller projects to a day at the fair. Hubert Dungan and Dan Molello were able to enjoy this day. Larry Avilla, Rancy Stephens and Kathy Molello were unable to go.

All of the Beaver Park Ag Club 4-H members are to meet at the Grange Hall at 7 p.m. Nov. 1. Please dress warm for a secret mystery party. Parents are invited.

A Halloween party for members was planned. Included on the refreshment committee are Joyce Davis, Donnie Whittiaker, Helen Conran. The game committee included Richard Armijo Randy Stephens, and Dione Brown.

Fourteen members and five guests were present. After the meeting refreshments were served.

School will be dismissed Thursday and Friday for the State Teachers Convention.

The regular meeting of the PTA was held at the school house last Thursday. The meeting was opened by the president, Emmet McBeth, who presented the group with his written resignation. The members present refused to accept this so he took the meeting over again.

Two of the decisions made were the PTA wants to have a joint meeting with the different organizations in Penrose, and make Apple Day a community project instead of school and PTA-sponsored. They also voted to pay Johnny Bowser $50 for his extra work and cleaning up after Apple Day. A committee was appointed to attend a school board meeting and put in a bid for fixing up the playground. This committee included Charles Brown, Mrs. Jean Stephens, Leon Hinkle, and Mrs. Carolyn Chockley. They also voted not to pay Nick Goodall the $200 for the rest rooms, since they had not been fixed for Apple Day. This will go for things which are needed at the school. The teachers will not receive the $25 as they have in the past, but they are to present the PTA with a list of the things which they need.

Refreshments were served.

The High Low Pinochle club meeting which was to be held Thursday has been postponed until the first Thursday in November. The hostess is Mrs. Rose Little.

Mrs. Mildred Goodall and Mean Costillo will make calls in town for the hospital drive. Mrs. Carrithers and Mrs. Biernacki were to do the west side. The drive started last Saturday and will continue throughout the week.

The Grace Bible class of the Presbyterian Church met at the home of Mrs. Pearl Aldred last Thursday. Those present included Mrs. Cullison and Mrs. Plunkett of Canon City, Mrs. Gertrude Hollifield, Mrs. Anna Stowe, Mrs. Jean Stebbins, Mrs. Abbey Stowe and Mrs. Marion McBride.

The Junior Youth group of the Friends Church will be treated to a Halloween party at the church basement Thursday at 6:30 p.m.

The Senior Youth group is planning a fishing trip and picnic to Lake Isabel Saturday. They plan to leave here about 1 p.m.

Due to the fact that the Rev. Mr. Oliver was hunting, the Rev. Mr. Riley Ambrine of Canon City delivered the message at the Friends Church on Sunday.

A picnic was held for some of the small fry, pre-schoolers at Penrose Park Friday. Five mothers were present.

Mrs. Jean Stephens was hostess at a products party last Tuesday morning. Fourteen women attended. Mrs. Nita Shipler was the demonstrator.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Green and Mrs. Grimes and Mrs. Everett Clester attended the Queen Esther Bible Class party at the Baptist Church in Canon City Thursday.

Mrs. Jack Clay and children of Colorado Springs spent Sunday afternoon with the John Bowsers.

Leonard Humble, formerly of 2611 Greenwood, Pueblo, died Friday after suffering a heart attack. He had been employed by the Pueblo Post Office for 37 years and had retired as postal supervisor in 1958. He is survived by his widow Ruth, four children, five sisters and two brothers. Funeral services were under the direction of the Davis Mortuary in Pueblo.

Mrs. Donna Coffman and baby of Salida, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Lester Coffman, while her husband Glen went hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Stroud and baby moved into their home, which they have recently remodeled.

Mrs. Ron Oxnam and children spent the weekend visiting with her parents in Castle Rock.

The new home which has been built on the old Newton place belongs to Costillos.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ettleman have moved to Pueblo for the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Dale Little will be moving into the Ettleman home shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Steiner of Pueblo and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Quinlin of LaVeta visited with Mrs. Pearl Aldrid Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Carrithers and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Knight of Pueblo spent the weekend at Twin Lakes. They reported light snow fell all day.

Unsolicited JFK Tip Followed By Goldwater

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP)— Advice from the White House cuts no ice these days with Sen. Bary Goldwater. But the political formula the Arizona Republican follows is in line with an unsolicited tip from President Kennedy.

Goldwater, a possibility for the GOP presidential nomination next year, has spanned the continent twice on a hectic two-weekend round of speaking engagements.

Kennedy said two weeks ago Goldwater could win the GOP nomination, but it would take "a trying seven or eight months which will test his endurance and his perseverance and his agility."

The formula is one that has made Goldwater a champion among Republican fund-raisers with Republican workers from coast to coast, and he credits that for his showing in the public opinion polls.

Goldwater's travels have few of the trappings of a campaign. He says most of his speaking dates, from Massachusetts to Texas, to California and Oregon were made long before the Republican presidential pot began boiling.

Goldwater says he's logged a million miles for the Republican cause, running up an air travel bill that averages $10,000 a year.

Amid talk that he is veering toward the middle of the road in the gathering battle for the nomination, Goldwater said once more that he hasn't changed his ideas—people are just starting to pay some attention to them.

"My basic conservative philosophy remains the same," said Goldwater.

He summed it up this way: "You make your progress best on the known and proven values of the past."

Most of the time, the senator and his wife have been traveling alone, or with only one aide. But now he's thinking of sending out advance men and taking along more help.

The senator's political audiences have been receptive, if not wildly enthusiastic. Much of the noise they make is stirred up by youthful Goldwater fans.

But Goldwater says crowdsmanship and polls don't win nominations—and primary elections don't guarantee delegate support. He points to the fate of the last conservative champion to bid for the White House, Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, who lost the nomination to Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952.

Goldwater's travels usually are weekend journeys or one-night stands. And he insists they haven't kept him away from his work at the Capitol.

Chrysler Chiefs Propose Another Split in Stock

By CHARLES C. CAIN

DETROIT (AP) — Directors of Chrysler Corp., which split its stock 2-for-1 last April, voted today to recommend to shareholders the stock be split again in the same ratio.

The directors, who met in New York, declared a dividend of 25 cents a share for the fourth quarter of 1963 and also declared a dividend for the first quarter of 1964 and 25 cents on each share of stock after giving effect to the proposed stock split.

In effect, the moves meant that Chrysler, which had paid a 25-cent quarterly dividend since 1961, would be paying $1 on stock issued before the two splits.

Chrysler reported net earnings for the third quarter of 1963 at $22.8 million, equal to $1.22 per share, compared with $3.2 million or 18 cents a share in the third quarter a year ago. Dollar sales in the third quarter were $661 million, compared with $472 million in the similar period of 1962.

The fourth-quarter dividend is payable Dec. 2 to shareholders of record Nov. 7. The first-quarter dividend will be payable March 2, 1964, to shareholders of record next Feb. 6.

The board also recommended that the authorized common stock of Chrysler be increased from 40 million to 80 million shares and the par value be reduced from $12.50 a share to $6.25.

The proposed stock split, if approved by shareholders at a special meeting Dec. 17 would become effective on Dec. 20.

Church Operates Nursery School In Park Hill

A nursery school for children 3 to 5 years of age is being operated by Park Hill Church of the Nazarene in the church buiding at 314 S. Circle Dr.

Open to youngsters of all faiths, the school is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. thru the week. Its is authorized to have 24 youngsters and now has nine.

Mrs. George Robbins, supervisor, is assisted by other women of the church in operating the school. Playground equipment is available for outdoor activities and there is instruction in art and music. The school provides a lunch at noon and mid-morning and mid-afternoon snacks. Youngsters also have an afternoon rest period.

Mrs. Robbins said that the nursery school also accepts after-school children, who spend the time from the end of their class work until 5 p.m. at the nursery.

Kennedy Lends Hand in Civil Rights Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has taken a personal hand in an attempt to win passage this year of a civil rights bill.

But the best the President could get out of a White House conference with House leaders Wednesday night, informed sources said, was a decision to delay until next Tuesday a crucial committee vote on a bill which the administration feels is too strong to get through Congress.

Informed sources disclosed Wednesday night's one - hour meeting at the White House. Present were House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass.; Democratic leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma; Republican leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana and his assistant, Leslie C. Arends of Illinois; and Reps. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., and Willia M. McCulloch of Ohio, chairman and ranking Republican member of the House Judiciary Committee.

Later it was learned that a House Judiciary Committee meeting scheduled for today will be postponed until next Tuesday, giving administration forces another chance to swing more committee votes behind a compromise civil rights bill more in line with the President's midsummer proposals to Congress.

Administration sources said Tuesday that they had convinced some Northern and Western Democrats on the committee to vote against the stronger bill on grounds that such a measure would be defeated in the House and might cripple any hope for civil rights legislation this year.

But McCulloch found that he could muster only three of the 14 Republican votes on the committee for the weaker compromise measure.

In August a subcommittee dominated by Northern liberal Democrats approved Kennedy's proposals. But they also tacked on other provisions, such as a fair employment practices commission and power for the attorney general to file suits on behalf of alleged victims of civil rights violations.

The program outlined by the President earlier this year — which is included in the bill now before the committee — would, among other things, give the attorney general more power to insure Negro voting rights and prohibit racially segregated schools. It also would ban discrimination in public accommodations.

Milliken's Donut House to Open Friday Morning

Davis, owner, will operate the business under a franchise in a building designed especially for Winchell's Donut Houses. Davis said he will offer 22 varieties of doughnuts, malted milks, sundaes, coffee and cokes.

The place will be open from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week.

Davis moved to Colorado Springs in 1959 from Des Moines, Ia., and is a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the First Methodist Church.

Embezzlement Charge Against Davis Dismissed

A charge of embezzlement against John Sam Davis Jr., 41, will be dismissed, District Attorney Patrick M. Hinton said Wednesday.

Davis, of 806 Cresta Rd., had been charged with the embezzlement of $2,683 from the Allservice Life Insurance Co. on March 8. He was then president of the company.

Allservice Life has since merged with Western Empire Life Insurance Co. and representatives of Western Empire have requested that the charge be dropped, Hinton said.

Davis was scheduled for trial in District Court on Oct. 29. Western Empire representatives said the publicity of the trial might have an adverse effect on the company's policy holders, according to Hinton.

The district attorney said his office would need the cooperation of the company in prosecuting Davis and since the company does not want the case to come to trial, he is dropping the charge.

Bill Matthews Places In Top Sales Club

Bill Matthews, a salesman for Bob Foss Motors, Inc., has earned membership in the "100 Club," a group of outstanding salesmen in Lincoln-Mercury dealerships, George F. Walters, Denver district sales manager for Lincoln-Mercury Division, said today.

The local salesman's sales proficiency placed him among the top third of all Lincoln-Mercury salesmen and earned him special recognition from the Lincoln-Mercury Sales Council.

Penrose News

By PEGGY SANDEFUR

The Reserve Champions and Champions of the Home Economics in Fremont County were presented by Mr. Totten of Canon City, a trip to Denver last Sunday. Three carloads of girls and sponsors took the trip. They toured the museum near the Capitol Building and went to see "How the West Was Won". They took a sack lunch with them and had dinner at the Drumstick Restaurant. Those awarded the trip from Penrose included Carolyn Goodall, Nancy Comstock, Linda Molello and Kathy Molello, who was unable to attend. Gene Comstock took the girls.

Mr. Totten also presented the champions of the smaller projects to a day at the fair. Hubert Dungan and Dan Molello were able to enjoy this day. Larry Avilla, Rancy Stephens and Kathy Molello were unable to go.

All of the Beaver Park Ag Club 4-H members are to meet at the Grange Hall at 7 p.m. Nov. 1. Please dress warm for a secret mystery party. Parents are invited.

A Halloween party for members was planned. Included on the refreshment committee are Joyce Davis, Donnie Whittiaker, Helen Conran. The game committee included Richard Armijo Randy Stephens, and Dione Brown.

Fourteen members and five guests were present. After the meeting refreshments were served.

School will be dismissed Thursday and Friday for the State Teachers Convention.

The regular meeting of the PTA was held at the school house last Thursday. The meeting was opened by the president, Emmet McBeth, who presented the group with his written resignation. The members present refused to accept this so he took the meeting over again.

Two of the decisions made were the PTA wants to have a joint meeting with the different organizations in Penrose, and make Apple Day a community project instead of school and PTA-sponsored. They also voted to pay Johnny Bowser $50 for his extra work and cleaning up after Apple Day. A committee was appointed to attend a school board meeting and put in a bid for fixing up the playground. This committee included Charles Brown, Mrs. Jean Stephens, Leon Hinkle, and Mrs. Carolyn Chockley. They also voted not to pay Nick Goodall the $200 for the rest rooms, since they had not been fixed for Apple Day. This will go for things which are needed at the school. The teachers will not receive the $25 as they have in the past, but they are to present the PTA with a list of the things which they need.

Refreshments were served.

The High Low Pinochle club meeting which was to be held Thursday has been postponed until the first Thursday in November. The hostess is Mrs. Rose Little.

Mrs. Mildred Goodall and Mean Costillo will make calls in town for the hospital drive. Mrs. Carrithers and Mrs. Biernacki were to do the west side. The drive started last Saturday and will continue throughout the week.

The Grace Bible class of the Presbyterian Church met at the home of Mrs. Pearl Aldred last Thursday. Those present included Mrs. Cullison and Mrs. Plunkett of Canon City, Mrs. Gertrude Hollifield, Mrs. Anna Stowe, Mrs. Jean Stebbins, Mrs. Abbey Stowe and Mrs. Marion McBride.

The Junior Youth group of the Friends Church will be treated to a Halloween party at the church basement Thursday at 6:30 p.m.

The Senior Youth group is planning a fishing trip and picnic to Lake Isabel Saturday. They plan to leave here about 1 p.m.

Due to the fact that the Rev. Mr. Oliver was hunting, the Rev. Mr. Riley Ambrine of Canon City delivered the message at the Friends Church on Sunday.

A picnic was held for some of the small fry, pre-schoolers at Penrose Park Friday. Five mothers were present.

Mrs. Jean Stephens was hostess at a products party last Tuesday morning. Fourteen women attended. Mrs. Nita Shipler was the demonstrator.

Mrs. Jack Clay and children of Colorado Springs spent Sunday afternoon with the John Bowsers.

Leonard Humble, formerly of 2611 Greenwood, Pueblo, died Friday after suffering a heart attack. He had been employed by the Pueblo Post Office for 37 years and had retired as postal supervisor in 1958. He is survived by his widow Ruth, four children, five sisters and two brothers. Funeral services were under the direction of the Davis Mortuary in Pueblo.

Mrs. Donna Coffman and baby of Salida, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Lester Coffman, while her husband Glen went hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Stroud and baby moved into their home, which they have recently remodeled.

Mrs. Ron Oxnam and children spent the weekend visiting with her parents in Castle Rock.

The new home which has been built on the old Newton place belongs to Costillos.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ettleman have moved to Pueblo for the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Dale Little will be moving into the Ettleman home shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Steiner of Pueblo and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Quinlin of LaVeta visited with Mrs. Pearl Aidrid Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Carrithers and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Knight of Pueblo spent the weekend at Twin Lakes. They reported light snow fell all day.

Unsolicited JFK Tip Followed By Goldwater

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP)— Advice from the White House cuts no ice these days with Sen. Bary Goldwater. But the political formula the Arizona Republican follows is in line with an unsolicited tip from President Kennedy.

Goldwater, a possibility for the GOP presidential nomination next year, has spanned the continent twice on a hectic two-weekend round of speaking engagements.

Kennedy said two weeks ago Goldwater could win the GOP nomination, but it would take "a trying seven or eight months which will test his endurance and his perseverance and his agility."

The formula is one that has made Goldwater a champion among Republican fund-raisers with Republican workers from coast to coast, and he credits that for his showing in the public opinion polls.

Goldwater's travels have few of the trappings of a campaign. He says most of his speaking dates, from Massachusetts to Texas, to California and Oregon were made long before the Republican presidential pot began boiling.

Goldwater says he's logged a million miles for the Republican cause, running up an air travel bill that averages $10,000 a year.

Amid talk that he is veering toward the middle of the road in the gathering battle for the nomination, Goldwater said once more that he hasn't changed his ideas—people are just starting to pay some attention to them.

"My basic conservative philosophy remains the same," said Goldwater.

He summed it up this way: "You make your progress best on the known and proven values of the past."

Most of the time, the senator and his wife have been traveling alone, or with only one aide. But now he's thinking of sending out advance men and taking along more help.

The senator's political audiences have been receptive, if not wildly enthusiastic. Much of the noise they make is stirred up by youthful Goldwater fans.

But Goldwater says crowdsmanship and polls don't win nominations—and primary elections don't guarantee delegate support. He points to the fate of the last conservative champion to bid for the White House, Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, who lost the nomination to Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952.

Goldwater's travels usually are weekend journeys or one-night stands. And he insists they haven't kept him away from his work at the Capitol.

Chrysler Chiefs Propose Another Split in Stock

By CHARLES C. CAIN

DETROIT (AP) — Directors of Chrysler Corp., which split its stock 2-for-1 last April, voted today to recommend to shareholders the stock be split again in the same ratio.

The directors, who met in New York, declared a dividend of 25 cents a share for the fourth quarter of 1963 and also declared a dividend for the first quarter of 1964 and 25 cents on each share of stock after giving effect to the proposed stock split.

In effect, the moves meant that Chrysler, which had paid a 25-cent quarterly dividend since 1961, would be paying $1 on stock issued before the two splits.

Chrysler reported net earnings for the third quarter of 1963 at $22.8 million, equal to $1.22 per share, compared with $3.2 million or 18 cents a share in the third quarter a year ago. Dollar sales in the third quarter were $661 million, compared with $472 million in the similar period of 1962.

The fourth-quarter dividend is payable Dec. 2 to shareholders of record Nov. 7. The first-quarter dividend will be payable March 2, 1964, to shareholders of record next Feb. 6.

The board also recommended that the authorized common stock of Chrysler be increased from 40 million to 80 million shares and the par value be reduced from $12.50 a share to $6.25.

The proposed stock split, if approved by shareholders at a special meeting Dec. 17 would become effective on Dec. 20.

A nursery school for children 3 to 5 years of age is being operated by Park Hill Church of the Nazarene in the church buiding at 314 S. Circle Dr.

Open to youngsters of all faiths, the school is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. thru the week. Its is authorized to have 24 youngsters and now has nine.

Mrs. George Robbins, supervisor, is assisted by other women of the church in operating the school. Playground equipment is available for outdoor activities and there is instruction in art and music. The school provides a lunch at noon and mid-morning and mid-afternoon snacks. Youngsters also have an afternoon rest period.

Mrs. Robbins said that the nursery school also accepts after-school children, who spend the time from the end of their class work until 5 p.m. at the nursery.

Kennedy Lends Hand in Civil Rights Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has taken a personal hand in an attempt to win passage this year of a civil rights bill.

But the best the President could get out of a White House conference with House leaders Wednesday night, informed sources said, was a decision to delay until next Tuesday a crucial committee vote on a bill which the administration feels is too strong to get through Congress.

Informed sources disclosed Wednesday night's one - hour meeting at the White House. Present were House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass.; Democratic leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma; Republican leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana and his assistant, Leslie C. Arends of Illinois; and Reps. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., and Willia M. McCulloch of Ohio, chairman and ranking Republican member of the House Judiciary Committee.

Later it was learned that a House Judiciary Committee meeting scheduled for today will be postponed until next Tuesday, giving administration forces another chance to swing more committee votes behind a compromise civil rights bill more in line with the President's midsummer proposals to Congress.

Administration sources said Tuesday that they had convinced some Northern and Western Democrats on the committee to vote against the stronger bill on grounds that such a measure would be defeated in the House and might cripple any hope for civil rights legislation this year.

But McCulloch found that he could muster only three of the 14 Republican votes on the committee for the weaker compromise measure.

In August a subcommittee dominated by Northern liberal Democrats approved Kennedy's proposals. But they also tacked on other provisions, such as a fair employment practices commission and power for the attorney general to file suits on behalf of alleged victims of civil rights violations.

The program outlined by the President earlier this year — which is included in the bill now before the committee — would, among other things, give the attorney general more power to insure Negro voting rights and prohibit racially segregated schools. It also would ban discrimination in public accommodations.

Milliken's Donut House to Open Friday Morning

Davis, owner, will operate the business under a franchise in a building designed especially for Winchell's Donut Houses. Davis said he will offer 22 varieties of doughnuts, malted milks, sundaes, coffee and cokes.

The place will be open from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week.

Davis moved to Colorado Springs in 1959 from Des Moines, Ia., and is a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the First Methodist Church.

Demo Official's Probe Slated By Senate Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rules Committee will start Tuesday its investigation into the outside financial transactions of Robert G. Baker, resigned secretary of the Senate Democratic majority.

The committee set the date today and invited Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., to appear at a closed session then. Williams was asked to provide whatever information he has on the matter, together with a list of possible witnesses. Williams proposed the investigation.

Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., said the FBI also will be asked to provide information available to it.

A $300,000 civil suit against Baker charged that he used his office to help win contracts with a government defense contractor for an automatic vending machine company with which Baker had financial dealings.

Nearly 25 per cent of the interns and resident physicians in American hospitals are graduates of foreign medical schools.

Copper Liquor Still To Be Put on Display

"We've tried for a long time to get a still that we could put up for display and let the public see what one looks like," he said Wednesday. Bray and state revenue agents found the still on a recent raid.

"It's a well-built still and looks like a model operation," Bray said. "I know it will run because it was running when we captured it."

Federal Services To U.S. Indians To Be Continued

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP) — A top Bureau of Indian Affairs official said Wednesday night he does not believe a proposal to terminate federal services to Indians will ever succeed.

Fred M. Haverland of Gallup, N.M., said a plan by former Indian Commissioner Glenn Emmons is "too complex a thing to get through, if it ever does get through."

Haverland, BIA area director, said there are many unaswered questions involved.

Emmons, a Gallup banker, suggested termination of such services as provided by the BIA and U.S. Public Health Service to Indians and that they each be paid $50 monthly. The proposal has aroused the ire of New Mexico's All-Pueblo Council. It recently approved a resolution denouncing the plan.

American Funeral Tradition Is Shown on TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—That opening of Wednesday night's "CBS Reports" program on "The Great American Funeral" shows a specialty shoe manufacturer demonstrating footgear made expressly for the dead.

It was a bit grim and so were other shots of coffins in morticians' sales rooms, but generally the program concerned itself rather briskly with pro and con arguments on expensive, lavish funerals.

Narrator Robert Trout carefully emphasized that the program was involved not with the spiritual side but just "the business relationship between the people who make our funerals and the people who buy them." He noted the average cost of an American funeral today is $1,500.

Heart of the program was a best-selling book, "The American Way of Death" by Jessica Mitford.

Miss Mitford appeared on the program to reiterate some of her charges about undertakers' profits. A number of officers of morticians' and funeral directors' organizations also were interviewed. Their position was that the public wants the kind of funerals the nation's undertakers are giving them.

Three clergymen appeared and, with one exception, favored very simple funeral services. A British undertaker noted that the average funeral in his country cost around $200.

It was a fair and thoughtful treatment of a painful, controversial subject.

Television's D-Day is next Tuesday, when the first national Nielsen ratings that include all the new network shows will be released. As the result of low ratings received in this audience size estimate which the industry and advertising agencies use as their basic yardstick, some programs will be canceled, others placed on probation.

Already, before the listings are available, several shows are reported to be in big trouble. NBC is unhappy about "Redigo" and is expected to slip a game show in its half-hour spot at the end of the year, and about "Harry's Girls," the situation comedy ry's Girls," the situation comedy that yet has to produce a chuckle. And its "Espionage" series, an expensive, hour-long dramatic anthology show, also is suffering from lack of audience attention.

ABC's "100 Grand" has already bitten the dust, and it is having big troubles with both "The Travels of Jaimie McPheeters" and "Channing." CBS is pretty certain to cancel "Glynis" after 13 shows. And there are others.

Industry experts anticipate that by the end of the year, death will come to anywhere from eight to 15 of the season's new entries, a mortality rate of over 25 per cent.

Organized Labor Gives Boost to Tax Cut Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An AFL-CIO spokesman emphasized today that organized labor was supporting President Kennedy's tax cut program "for one single purpose — to help create badly needed jobs."

The labor official urged more generous rate cuts for low-income taxpayers and elimination of what he called "unwarranted" tax benefits for corporations.

Andrew J. Biemiller, AFL-CIO legislative director, made the comments in a statement prepared for Senate committee hearings on the $11 billion tax cut bill passed by the House Sept. 25.

Biemiller said the AFL-CIO "is for a tax cut" because "we believe that the funds it would release would significantly help create the additional jobs this country urgently needs."

However, he suggested a number of revisions, including a scaling down of rate reductions given to corporations in the House measure.

Instead of a cut from 52 to 48 per cent in the top corporate tax rate, Biemiller recommended it be limited to 50 per cent, and the $1 billion thus recouped be spread to low-income wage earners.

In the face of the nearly $2.5 billion in tax relief handed business last year through depreciation reform and the investment credit, he said, "we see little merit in a cut in the top corporate tax rate at this time."

The average earth tide at Los Angeles surges about 11 inches, according to Dr. John T. Petiit, research associate in the Los Angeles Institute of Geophysics of the University of California.

Former Mousketeer Collects Money

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One-time Mousketeer Annette Funicello turned 21 Tuesday. Wednesday, she turned up at Superior Court to collect $46,950 in savings bonds, earned while she was under contract to Walt Disney.

What's she going to do with it?

"First get my folks a new car, then buy myself some clo-o-o-othes," she said, rolling her eyes.

Miss Funicello was put under contract to Disney when she was 12 and appeared on his "Mickey Mouse Club" television show. The bonds represent 20 per cent of her salary during the contract period.

Demo Official's Probe Slated By Senate Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rules Committee will start Tuesday its investigation into the outside financial transactions of Robert G. Baker, resigned secretary of the Senate Democratic majority.

The committee set the date today and invited Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., to appear at a closed session then. Williams was asked to provide whatever information he has on the matter, together with a list of possible witnesses. Williams proposed the investigation.

Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., said the FBI also will be asked to provide information available to it.

A $300,000 civil suit against Baker charged that he used his office to help win contracts with a government defense contractor for an automatic vending machine company with which Baker had financial dealings.

Copper Liquor Still To Be Put on Display

"We've tried for a long time to get a still that we could put up for display and let the public see what one looks like," he said Wednesday. Bray and state revenue agents found the still on a recent raid.

"It's a well-built still and looks like a model operation," Bray said. "I know it will run because it was running when we captured it."

Organized Labor Gives Boost to Tax Cut Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An AFL-CIO spokesman emphasized today that organized labor was supporting President Kennedy's tax cut program "for one single purpose — to help create badly needed jobs."

The labor official urged more generous rate cuts for low-income taxpayers and elimination of what he called "unwarranted" tax benefits for corporations.

Andrew J. Biemiller, AFL-CIO legislative director, made the comments in a statement prepared for Senate committee hearings on the $11 billion tax cut bill passed by the House Sept. 25.

Biemiller said the AFL-CIO "is for a tax cut" because "we believe that the funds it would release would significantly help create the additional jobs this country urgently needs."

However, he suggested a number of revisions, including a scaling down of rate reductions given to corporations in the House measure.

Instead of a cut from 52 to 48 per cent in the top corporate tax rate, Biemiller recommended it be limited to 50 per cent, and the $1 billion thus recouped be spread to low-income wage earners.

In the face of the nearly $2.5 billion in tax relief handed business last year through depreciation reform and the investment credit, he said, "we see little merit in a cut in the top corporate tax rate at this time."

Federal Services To U.S. Indians To Be Continued

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP) — A top Bureau of Indian Affairs official said Wednesday night he does not believe a proposal to terminate federal services to Indians will ever succeed.

Fred M. Haverland of Gallup, N.M., said a plan by former Indian Commissioner Glenn Emmons is "too complex a thing to get through, if it ever does get through."

Haverland, BIA area director, said there are many unaswered questions involved.

Emmons, a Gallup banker, suggested termination of such services as provided by the BIA and U.S. Public Health Service to Indians and that they each be paid $50 monthly. The proposal has aroused the ire of New Mexico's All-Pueblo Council. It recently approved a resolution denouncing the plan.

American Funeral Tradition Is Shown on TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—That opening of Wednesday night's "CBS Reports" program on "The Great American Funeral" shows a specialty shoe manufacturer demonstrating footgear made expressly for the dead.

It was a bit grim and so were other shots of coffins in morticians' sales rooms, but generally the program concerned itself rather briskly with pro and con arguments on expensive, lavish funerals.

Narrator Robert Trout carefully emphasized that the program was involved not with the spiritual side but just "the business relationship between the people who make our funerals and the people who buy them." He noted the average cost of an American funeral today is $1,500.

Heart of the program was a best-selling book, "The American Way of Death" by Jessica Mitford.

Miss Mitford appeared on the program to reiterate some of her charges about undertakers' profits. A number of officers of morticians' and funeral directors' organizations also were interviewed. Their position was that the public wants the kind of funerals the nation's undertakers are giving them.

Three clergymen appeared and, with one exception, favored very simple funeral services. A British undertaker noted that the average funeral in his country cost around $200.

It was a fair and thoughtful treatment of a painful, controversial subject.

Television's D-Day is next Tuesday, when the first national Nielsen ratings that include all the new network shows will be released. As the result of low ratings received in this audience size estimate which the industry and advertising agencies use as their basic yardstick, some programs will be canceled, others placed on probation.

Already, before the listings are available, several shows are reported to be in big trouble. NBC is unhappy about "Redigo" and is expected to slip a game show in its half-hour spot at the end of the year, and about "Harry's Girls," the situation comedy ry's Girls," the situation comedy that yet has to produce a chuckle. And its "Espionage" series, an expensive, hour-long dramatic anthology show, also is suffering from lack of audience attention.

ABC's "100 Grand" has already bitten the dust, and it is having big troubles with both "The Travels of Jaimie McPheeters" and "Channing." CBS is pretty certain to cancel "Glynis" after 13 shows. And there are others.

Industry experts anticipate that by the end of the year, death will come to anywhere from eight to 15 of the season's new entries, a mortality rate of over 25 per cent.

Former Mousketeer Collects Money

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One-time Mousketeer Annette Funicello turned 21 Tuesday. Wednesday, she turned up at Superior Court to collect $46,950 in savings bonds, earned while she was under contract to Walt Disney.

What's she going to do with it?

"First get my folks a new car, then buy myself some cloo-o-othes," she said, rolling her eyes.

Miss Funicello was put under contract to Disney when she was 12 and appeared on his "Mickey Mouse Club" television show. The bonds represent 20 per cent of her salary during the contract period.

Embezzlement Charge Against Davis Dismissed

A charge of embezzlement against John Sam Davis Jr., 41, will be dismissed, District Attorney Patrick Mi Hinton said Wednesday.

Davis, of 806 Cresta Rd., had been charged with the embezzlement of $2,683 from the Allservice Life Insurance Co. on March 8. He was then president of the company.

Allservice Life has since merged with Western Empire Life Insurance Co. and representatives of Western Empire have requested that the charge be dropped, Hinton said.

Davis was scheduled for trial in District Court on Oct. 29. Western Empire representatives said the publicity of the trial might have an adverse effect on the company's policy holders, according to Hinton.

The district attorney said his office would need the cooperation of the company in prosecuting Davis and since the company does not want the case to come to trial, he is dropping the charge.

The Reserve Champions and Champions of the Home Economics in Fremont County were presented by Mr. Totten of Canon City, a trip to Denver last Sunday. Three carloads of girls and sponsors took the trip. They toured the museum near the Capitol Building and went to see "How the West Was Won". They took a sack lunch with them and had dinner at the Drumstick Restaurant. Those awarded the trip from Penrose included Carolyn Goodall, Nancy Comstock, Linda Molello and Kathy Molello, who was unable to attend. Gene Comstock took the girls.

Mr. Totten also presented the champions of the smaller projects to a day at the fair. Hubert Dungan and Dan Molello were able to enjoy this day. Larry Avilla, Rancy Stephens and Kathy Molello were unable to go.

All of the Beaver Park Ag Club 4-H members are to meet at the Grange Hall at 7 p.m. Nov. 1. Please dress warm for a secret mystery party. Parents are invited.

The Penrose Ranchers and Ranchettes met at the home of their leader, Melvin Whittiaker Oct. 15. Election was held. Those elected included: president, Sandy Davis; vice president, Randy Stephens; secretary Nona Conran; treasurer, Joyce Davis: reported Donnie Whittiaker; Dione Brown, song leader.

A Halloween party for members was planned. Included on the refreshment committee are Joyce Davis, Donnie Whittiaker, Helen Conran. The game committee included Richard Armijo Randy Stephens, and Dione Brown.

Fourteen members and five guests were present. After the meeting refreshments were served.

School will be dismissed Thursday and Friday for the State Teachers Convention.

The regular meeting of the PTA was held at the school house last Thursday. The meeting was opened by the president, Emmet McBeth, who presented the group with his written resignation. The members present refused to accept this so he took the meeting over again.

Two of the decisions made were the PTA wants to have a joint meeting with the different organizations in Penrose, and make Apple Day a community project instead of school and PTA-sponsored. They also voted to pay Johnny Bowser $50 for his extra work and cleaning up after Apple Day. A committee was appointed to attend a school board meeting and put in a bid for fixing up the playground. This committee included Charles Brown, Mrs. Jean Stephens, Leon Hinkle, and Mrs. Carolyn Chockley. They also voted not to pay Nick Goodall the $200 for the rest rooms, since they had not been fixed for Apple Day. This will go for things which are needed at the school. The teachers will not receive the $25 as they have in the past, but they are to present the PTA with a list of the things which they need.

Refreshments were served.

The High Low Pinochle club meeting which was to be held Thursday has been postponed until the first Thursday in November. The hostess is Mrs. Rose Little.

Mrs. Mildred Goodall and Mean Costillo will make calls in town for the hospital drive. Mrs. Carrithers and Mrs. Biernacki were to do the west side. The drive started last Saturday and will continue throughout the week.

The Grace Bible class of the Presbyterian Church met at the home of Mrs. Pearl Aldred last Thursday. Those present included Mrs. Cullison and Mrs. Plunkett of Canon City, Mrs. Gertrude Hollifield, Mrs. Anna Stowe, Mrs. Jean Stebbins, Mrs. Abbey Stowe and Mrs. Marion McBride.

The Junior Youth group of the Friends Church will be treated to a Halloween party at the church basement Thursday at 6:30 p.m.

The Senior Youth group is planning a fishing trip and picnic to Lake Isabel Saturday. They plan to leave here about 1 p.m.

Due to the fact that the Rev. Mr. Oliver was hunting, the Rev. Mr. Riley Ambrine of Canon City delivered the message at the Friends Church on Sunday.

A picnic was held for some of the small fry, pre-schoolers at Penrose Park Friday. Five mothers were present.

Mrs. Jean Stephens was hostess at a products party last Tuesday morning. Fourteen women attended. Mrs. Nita Shipler was the demonstrator.

Mrs. Jack Clay and children of Colorado Springs spent Sunday afternoon with the John Bowsers.

Leonard Humble, formerly of 2611 Greenwood, Pueblo, died Friday after suffering a heart attack. He had been employed by the Pueblo Post Office for 37 years and had retired as postal supervisor in 1958. He is survived by his widow Ruth, four children, five sisters and two brothers. Funeral services were under the direction of the Davis Mortuary in Pueblo.

Mrs. Donna Coffman and baby of Salida, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Lester Coffman, while her husband Glen went hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Stroud and baby moved into their home, which they have recently remodeled.

Mrs. Ron Oxnam and children spent the weekend visiting with her parents in Castle Rock.

The new home which has been built on the old Newton place belongs to Costillos.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ettleman have moved to Pueblo for the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Dale Little will be moving into the Ettleman home shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Steiner of Pueblo and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Quinlin of LaVeta visited with Mrs. Pearl Aidrid Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Carrithers and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Knight of Pueblo spent the weekend at Twin Lakes. They reported light snow fell all day.

Unsolicited JFK Tip Followed By Goldwater

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP)— Advice from the White House cuts no ice these days with Sen. Bary Goldwater. But the political formula the Arizona Republican follows is in line with an unsolicited tip from President Kennedy.

Goldwater, a possibility for the GOP presidential nomination next year, has spanned the continent twice on a hectic two-weekend round of speaking engagements.

Kennedy said two weeks ago Goldwater could win the GOP nomination, but it would take "a trying seven or eight months which will test his endurance and his perseverance and his agility."

The formula is one that has made Goldwater a champion among Republican fund-raisers, with Republican workers from coast to coast, and he credits that for his showing in the public opinion polls.

Goldwater's travels have few of the trappings of a campaign. He says most of his speaking dates, from Massachusetts to Texas, to California and Oregon were made long before the Republican presidential pot began boiling.

Goldwater says he's logged a million miles for the Republican cause, running up an air travel bill that averages $10,000 a year.

Amid talk that he is veering toward the middle of the road in the gathering battle for the nomination, Goldwater said once more that he hasn't changed his ideas—people are just starting to pay some attention to them.

"My basic conservative philosophy remains the same," said Goldwater.

He summed it up this way: "You make your progress best on the known and proven values of the past."

Most of the time, the senator and his wife have been traveling alone, or with only one aide. But now he's thinking of sending out advance men and taking along more help.

The senator's political audiences have been receptive, if not wildly enthusiastic. Much of the noise they make is stirred up by youthful Goldwater fans.

But Goldwater says crowdsmanship and polls don't win nominations—and primary elections don't guarantee delegate support. He points to the fate of the last conservative champion to bid for the White House, Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, who lost the nomination to Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952.

Goldwater's travels usually are weekend journeys or one-night stands. And he insists they haven't kept him away from his work at the Capitol.

Chrysler Chiefs Propose Another Split in Stock

By CHARLES C. CAIN

DETROIT (AP) — Directors of Chrysler Corp., which split its stock 2-for-1 last April, voted today to recommend to shareholders the stock be split again in the same ratio.

The directors, who met in New York, declared a dividend of 25 cents a share for the fourth quarter of 1963 and also declared a dividend for the first quarter of 1964 and 25 cents on each share of stock after giving effect to the proposed stock split.

In effect, the moves meant that Chrysler, which had paid a 25-cent quarterly dividend since 1961, would be paying $1 on stock issued before the two splits.

Chrysler reported net earnings for the third quarter of 1963 at $22.8 million, equal to $1.22 per share, compared with $3.2 million or 18 cents a share in the third quarter a year ago. Dollar sales in the third quarter were $661 million, compared with $472 million in the similar period of 1962.

The fourth-quarter dividend is payable Dec. 2 to shareholders of record Nov. 7. The first-quarter dividend will be payable March 2, 1964, to shareholders of record next Feb. 6.

The board also recommended that the authorized common stock of Chrysler be increased from 40 million to 80 million shares and the par value be reduced from $12.50 a share to $6.25.

The proposed stock split, if approved by shareholders at a special meeting Dec. 17 would become effective on Dec. 20.

Church Operates Nursery School In Park Hill

A nursery school for children 3 to 5 years of age is being operated by Park Hill Church of the Nazarene in the church buiding at 314 S. Circle Dr.

Open to youngsters of all faiths, the school is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. thru the week. Its is authorized to have 24 youngsters and now has nine.

Mrs. George Robbins, supervisor, is assisted by other women of the church in operating the school. Playground equipment is available for outdoor activities and there is instruction in art and music. The school provides a lunch at noon and mid-morning and mid-afternoon snacks. Youngsters also have an afternoon rest period.

Mrs. Robbins said that the nursery school also accepts after-school children, who spend the time from the end of their class work until 5 p.m. at the nursery.

Kennedy Lends Hand in Civil Rights Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has taken a personal hand in an attempt to win passage this year of a civil rights bill.

But the best the President could get out of a White House conference with House leaders Wednesday night, informed sources said, was a decision to delay until next Tuesday a crucial committee vote on a bill which the administration feels is too strong to get through Congress.

Informed sources disclosed Wednesday night's one - hour meeting at the White House. Present were House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass.; Democratic leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma; Republican leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana and his assistant, Leslie C. Arends of Illinois; and Reps. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., and Willia M. McCulloch of Ohio, chairman and ranking Republican member of the House Judiciary Committee.

Later it was learned that a House Judiciary Committee meeting scheduled for today will be postponed until next Tuesday, giving administration forces another chance to swing more committee votes behind a compromise civil rights bill more in line with the President's midsummer proposals to Congress.

Administration sources said Tuesday that they had convinced some Northern and Western Democrats on the committee to vote against the stronger bill on grounds that such a measure would be defeated in the House and might cripple any hope for civil rights legislation this year.

But McCulloch found that he could muster only three of the 14 Republican votes on the committee for the weaker compromise measure.

In August a subcommittee dominated by Northern liberal Democrats approved Kennedy's proposals. But they also tacked on other provisions, such as a fair employment practices commission and power for the attorney general to file suits on behalf of alleged victims of civil rights violations.

The program outlined by the President earlier this year — which is included in the bill now before the committee — would, among other things, give the attorney general more power to insure Negro voting rights and prohibit racially segregated schools. It also would ban discrimination in public accommodations.

Milliken's Donut House to Open Friday Morning

Davis, owner, will operate the business under a franchise in a building designed especially for Winchell's Donut Houses. Davis said he will offer 22 varieties of doughnuts, malted milks, sundaes, coffee and cokes.

The place will be open from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week.

Davis moved to Colorado Springs in 1959 from Des Moines, Ia., and is a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the First Methodist Church.

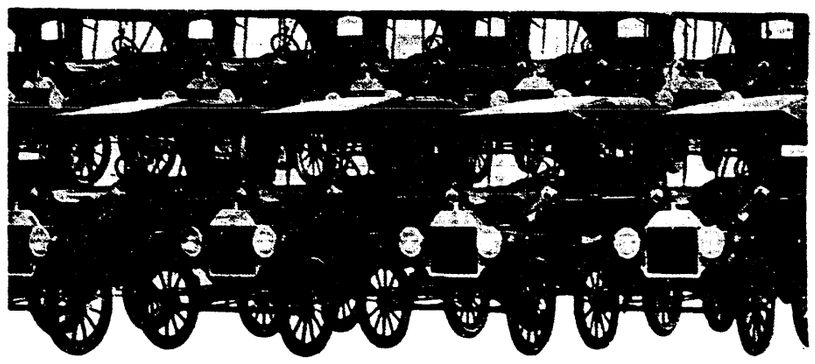
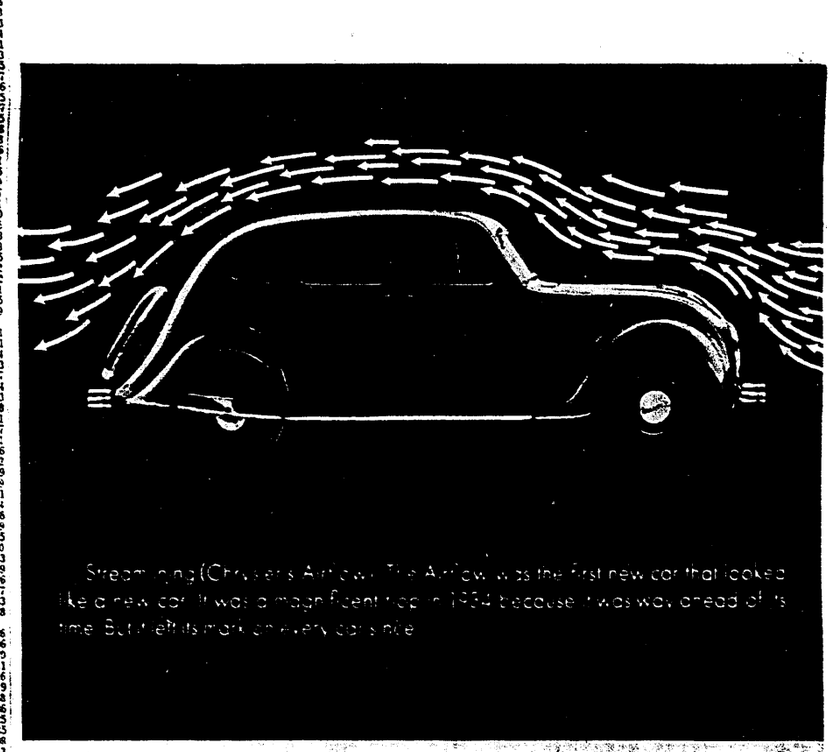
Three ideas that shook the automotive world.



Mass production (Ford's Model T): "Any color you want as long as it's black," was the theory. Henry Ford built one standard model that almost everyone could afford to buy. The "T" put the country on wheels.



Streamlining (Chrysler's Airflow): The Airflow was the first new car that looked like a new car. It was a magnificent flop in 1934 because it was way ahead of its time. But it left its mark on every car since.

The small car (Volkswagen's Volkswagen): The VW came along and offered a sensible size, low price, high gas mileage, utter reliability, careful workmanship and a shape that was always in style. You can still get one.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF CHATTEL MORTGAGE SALE

Notice is hereby given that the JOHN DEERE COMPANY of Kansas City, will, on the 1st day of November, 1963, at the hour of 2:00 P.M. of said day, at the Schwab Implement Co., Colorado Springs, Colo. expose for sale at Public Auction, and sell to the highest and best bidder for cash, a certain 1 used John Deere 114 W Haybaler, Ser. No. 18201 under and by virtue of the terms of a certain chattel mortgage thereon, executed to Schwab Implement Co. and by them assigned to the JOHN DEERE COMPANY of Kansas City, by Robert I. Wilson of Colorado Springs, Colo. dated August 15, 1962, and recorded in the office of the Recorder in the County of Teller, at Cripple Creek, State of Colorado, on the 22nd day of August, 1962.

Default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness therein described and the mortgagee, the JOHN DEERE COMPANY deeming itself insecure and unsafe in its security, as provided by said Chattel Mortgage, and having taken possession of said haybaler under the terms and conditions of said mortgage, will sell said haybaler on said date.

Dated this 15th day of October, 1963.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF SALE OF STATE OWNED LANDS

Notice is hereby given that, subject to the terms and conditions hereinafter set forth, the State Board of Land Commissioners, offer for sale, at public auction, to the highest responsible bidder, on the 28th day of October, 1963, at two o'clock p.m., at the office of the State Board of Land Commissioners, State Services Building, 1525 Sherman Street, Denver 3, Colorado, the following described lands, situate in El Paso County, Colorado, namely:

School Land:
Township 17 South, Range 61 West
Section 16:
NE¼—Minimum price per acre, $30.00 Value of improvements, $150.00
NW¼—Minimum price per acre, $30.00
SW¼—Minimum price per acre, $30.00
SE¼—Minimum price per acre, $30.00. Value of improvements, $150.00.

If the purchaser of the above described land is not the owner of the appurtenant improvements that are appurtenant to and go with the land, he must pay for same at sale.

Subject to any and all easements and rights of way heretofore legally obtained and now in full force and effect, if any there be.

Reserving, however, to the State of Colorado all rights to any and all minerals, ores and metals of any kind and character, and all coal, asphaltum, oil, gas, or other like substance in or under said land, the right of ingress and egress for the purpose of mining, together with enough of surface of the same as may be necessary for the proper and convenient working of such minerals and substances.

No land will be sold at less than the minimum price per acre, as given above. The land will be offered in tracts as above listed. All to be sold, or none, as may be determined by the State Board of Land Commissioners.

Terms of payment: 25% of purchase price in cash at time of sale, and a sufficient amount more to leave the balance in even hundreds of dollars; the balance payable under an amortization plan based on interest at 6% per annum and providing for the payment of semi-annual installments sufficient in amount to extinguish such balance at the end of 33 years from date of sale. Purchaser must pay appraisement and advertising fees.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

No sale shall become effective until approved by the State Board of Land Commissioners.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF SALE OF STATE OWNED LANDS

Notice is hereby given that, subject to the terms and conditions hereinafter set forth, the State Board of Land Commissioners will offer for sale, at public auction, to the highest responsible bidder, on the 28th day of October, 1963, at two o'clock p.m., at the office of the State Board of Land Commissioners, State Services Building, 1525 Sherman Street, Denver 3, Colorado, the following described lands, situate in El Paso County, Colorado, namely:

School Land:
Township 17 South, Range 61 West
Section 16:
NE¼—Minimum price per acre, $30.00. Value of improvements, $150.00
NW¼—Minimum price per acre, $30.00
SW¼—Minimum price per acre, $30.00
SE¼—Minimum price per acre, $30.00. Value of improvements, $150.00.

If the purchaser of the above described land is not the owner of the authorized improvements that are appurtenant to and go with the land, he must pay for same at sale.

Subject to any and all easements and rights of way heretofore legally obtained and now in full force and effect, if any there be.

Reserving, however, to the State of Colorado all rights to any and all minerals, ores and metals of any kind and character, and all coal, asphaltum, oil, gas, or other like substance in or under said land, the right of ingress and egress for the purpose of mining, together with enough of surface of the same as may be necessary for the proper and convenient working of such minerals and substances.

No land will be sold at less than the minimum price per acre, as given above. The land will be offered in tracts as above listed. All to be sold, or none, as may be determined by the State Board of Land Commissioners.

Terms of payment: 25% of purchase price in cash at time of sale, and a sufficient amount more to leave the balance in even hundreds of dollars; the balance payable under an amortization plan based on interest at 6% per annum and providing for the payment of semi-annual installments sufficient in amount to extinguish such balance at the end of 33 years from date of sale. Purchaser must pay appraisement and advertising fees.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

No sale shall become effective until approved by the State Board of Land Commissioners.

Demo Official's Probe Slated By Senate Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rules Committee will start Tuesday its investigation into the outside financial transactions of Robert G. Baker, resigned secretary of the Senate Democratic majority.

The committee set the date today and invited Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., to appear at a closed session then. Williams was asked to provide whatever information he has on the matter, together with a list of possible witnesses. Williams proposed the investigation.

Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., said the FBI also will be asked to provide information available to it.

A $300,000 civil suit against Baker charged that he used his office to help win contracts with a government defense contractor for an automatic vending machine company with which Baker had financial dealings.

Nearly 25 per cent of the interns and resident physicians in American hospitals are graduates of foreign medical schools.

Copper Liquor Still To Be Put on Display

"We've tried for a long time to get a still that we could put up for display and let the public see what one looks like," he said Wednesday. Bray and state revenue agents found the still on a recent raid.

"It's a well-built still and looks like a model operation," Bray said. "I know it will run because it was running when we captured it."

Organized Labor Gives Boost to Tax Cut Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An AFL-CIO spokesman emphasized today that organized labor was supporting President Kennedy's tax cut program "for one single purpose — to help create badly needed jobs."

The labor official urged more generous rate cuts for low-income taxpayers and elimination of what he called "unwarranted" tax benefits for corporations.

Andrew J. Biemiller, AFL-CIO legislative director, made the comments in a statement prepared for Senate committee hearings on the $11 billion tax cut bill passed by the House Sept. 25.

Biemiller said the AFL-CIO "is for a tax cut" because "we believe that the funds it would release would significantly help create the additional jobs this country urgently needs."

However, he suggested a number of revisions, including a scaling down of rate reductions given to corporations in the House measure.

Instead of a cut from 52 to 48 per cent in the top corporate tax rate, Biemiller recommended it be limited to 50 per cent, and the $1 billion thus recouped be spread to low-income wage earners.

In the face of the nearly $2.5 billion in tax relief handed business last year through depreciation reform and the investment credit, he said, "we see little merit in a cut in the top corporate tax rate at this time."

The average earth tide at Los Angeles surges about 11 inches, according to Dr. John T. Petiit, research associate in the Los Angeles Institute of Geophysics of the University of California.

Federal Services To U.S. Indians To Be Continued

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP) — A top Bureau of Indian Affairs official said Wednesday night he does not believe a proposal to terminate federal services to Indians will ever succeed.

Fred M. Haverland of Gallup, N.M., said a plan by former Indian Commissioner Glenn Emmons is "too complex a thing to get through, if it ever does get through."

Haverland, BIA area director, said there are many unaswered questions involved.

Emmons, a Gallup banker, suggested termination of such services as provided by the BIA and U.S. Public Health Service to Indians and that they each be paid $50 monthly. The proposal has aroused the ire of New Mexico's All-Pueblo Council. It recently approved a resolution denouncing the plan.

American Funeral Tradition Is Shown on TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—That opening of Wednesday night's "CBS Reports" program on "The Great American Funeral" shows a specialty shoe manufacturer demonstrating footgear made expressly for the dead.

It was a bit grim and so were other shots of coffins in morticians' sales rooms, but generally the program concerned itself rather briskly with pro and con arguments on expensive, lavish funerals.

Narrator Robert Trout carefully emphasized that the program was involved not with the spiritual side but just "the business relationship between the people who make our funerals and the people who buy them." He noted the average cost of an American funeral today is $1,500.

Heart of the program was a best-selling book, "The American Way of Death" by Jessica Mitford.

Miss Mitford appeared on the program to reiterate some of her charges about undertakers' profits. A number of officers of morticians' and funeral directors' organizations also were interviewed. Their position was that the public wants the kind of funerals the nation's undertakers are giving them.

Three clergymen appeared and, with one exception, favored very simple funeral services. A British undertaker noted that the average funeral in his country cost around $200.

It was a fair and thoughtful treatment of a painful, controversial subject.

Television's D-Day is next Tuesday, when the first national Nielsen ratings that include all the new network shows will be released. As the result of low ratings received in this audience size estimate which the industry and advertising agencies use as their basic yardstick, some programs will be canceled, others placed on probation.

Already, before the listings are available, several shows are reported to be in big trouble. NBC is unhappy about "Redigo" and is expected to slip a game show in its half-hour spot at the end of the year, and about "Harry's Girls," the situation comedy ry's Girls," the situation comedy that yet has to produce a chuckle. And its "Espionage" series, an expensive, hour-long dramatic anthology show, also is suffering from lack of audience attention.

ABC's "100 Grand" has already bitten the dust, and it is having big troubles with both "The Travels of Jaimie McPheeters" and "Channing." CBS is pretty certain to cancel "Glynis" after 13 shows. And there are others.

Industry experts anticipate that by the end of the year, death will come to anywhere from eight to 15 of the season's new entries, a mortality rate of over 25 per cent.

Former Mousketeer Collects Money

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One-time Mousketeer Annette Funicello turned 21 Tuesday. Wednesday, she turned up at Superior Court to collect $46,950 in savings bonds, earned while she was under contract to Walt Disney.

What's she going to do with it?

"First get my folks a new car, then buy myself some clo-o-o-othes," she said, rolling her eyes.

Miss Funicello was put under contract to Disney when she was 12 and appeared on his "Mickey Mouse Club" television show. The bonds represent 20 per cent of her salary during the contract period.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF CHATTEL MORTGAGE SALE

Notice is hereby given that the JOHN DEERE COMPANY of Kansas City, will, on the 1st day of November, 1963, at the hour of 2:00 P.M. of said day, at the Schwab Implement Co., Colorado Springs, Colo. expose for sale at Public Auction, and sell to the highest and best bidder for cash, a certain 1 used John Deere 114 W Haybaler, Ser. No. 18201 under and by virtue of the terms of a certain chattel mortgage thereon, executed to Schwab Implement Co. and by them assigned to the JOHN DEERE COMPANY of Kansas City, by Robert I. Wilson of Colorado Springs, Colo. dated August 15, 1962, and recorded in the office of the Recorder in the County of Teller, at Cripple Creek, State of Colorado, on the 22nd day of August, 1962.

Default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness therein described and the mortgagee, the JOHN DEERE COMPANY deeming itself insecure and unsafe in its security, as provided by said Chattel Mortgage, and having taken possession of said haybaler under the terms and conditions of said mortgage, will sell said haybaler on said date.

Dated this 15th day of October, 1963.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF SALE OF STATE OWNED LANDS

Notice is hereby given that, subject to the terms and conditions hereinafter set forth, the State Board of Land Commissioners will offer for sale, at public auction, to the highest responsible bidder, on the 28th day of October, 1963, at two o'clock p.m., at the office of the State Board of Land Commissioners, State Services Building, 1525 Sherman Street, Denver 3, Colorado, the following described lands, situate in El Paso County, Colorado, namely:

School Land:
Township 17 South, Range 61 West
Section 16:
NE¼—Minimum price per acre, $30.00. Value of improvements, $150.00
NW¼—Minimum price per acre, $30.00
SW¼—Minimum price per acre, $30.00
SE¼—Minimum price per acre, $30.00. Value of improvements, $150.00.

If the purchaser of the above described land is not the owner of the authorized improvements that are appurtenant to and go with the land, he must pay for same at sale.

Subject to any and all easements and rights of way heretofore legally obtained and now in full force and effect, if any there be.

Reserving, however, to the State of Colorado all rights to any and all minerals, ores and metals of any kind and character, and all coal, asphaltum, oil, gas, or other like substance in or under said land, the right of ingress and egress for the purpose of mining, together with enough of surface of the same as may be necessary for the proper and convenient working of such minerals and substances.

No land will be sold at less than the minimum price per acre, as given above. The land will be offered in tracts as above listed. All to be sold, or none, as may be determined by the State Board of Land Commissioners.

Terms of payment: 25% of purchase price in cash at time of sale, and a sufficient amount more to leave the balance in even hundreds of dollars; the balance payable under an amortization plan based on interest at 6% per annum and providing for the payment of semi-annual installments sufficient in amount to extinguish such balance at the end of 33 years from date of sale. Purchaser must pay appraisement and advertising fees.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

No sale shall become effective until approved by the State Board of Land Commissioners.

'Tools for Freedom Equips Schools In Foreign Lands

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP) —A little known organization of businessmen is providing underdeveloped countries with the means for industrial progress.

It is called "Tools for Freedom."

The movement got its start in 1960 and has been picking up momentum ever since.

At that time four Connecticut firms shipped metalworking shapers, lathes, a drill press, a grinding machine and machine tools to St. Joseph's School of Industrial Trades in Dacca, East Pakistan.

This was the beginning of industry's first formal effort to supplement the United States' tax-supported foreign aid program with one of its own operated and supported by private enterprise.

That first shipment enabled student enrollment at the school to more than double. Now St. Joseph's reports that it has become the second best-equipped technical school in East Pakistan, second only to a school sponsored by the Ford Foundation at a cost of nearly a million dollars.

Mansfield D. Sprague, president of Tools for Freedom and vice president of the American Machine & Foundry Co., explained the program.

"Tools for Freedom is an action program organized, sponsored and administered by the U.S. business community to foster both self-help development overseas and to give a boost to the U.S. business community here and abroad," he said.

"Its essence is the contribution by American industry of both new or used, outdated machinery, equipment and inventory to qualified technical and vocational schools in the developing countries of Africa, South Asia and Latin America.

"The equipment is only for schools. It is tax deductible at full market value. There is no government involvement."

Sprague says the program can become a two-way street. American Machine & Foundry signed a contract with the Pakistan atomic commission for construction of a nuclear research reactor.

Tools for Freedom has nearly 400 contributing companies and has on hand requests for equipment from 480 schools.

Prelate Says Laymen Are Not Sheep

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP) — An American prelate told the Vatican Ecumenical Council today it must not consider laymen as "passive sheep" existing only to pray, obey and pay.

Bishop Ernest J. Primeau of Manchester, N.H., called on the 2,200 council fathers to revise a document on the laity now before the Roman Catholic assembly.

Council press spokesman paraphrased the prelate as saying that laymen, in their own fields, have more competence than the church hierarchy.

Bishop Primau asked the council to clarify "the concepts of liberty and authority" for the laity to remove the possibility of laymen drifting away from the church. He added:

"Especially regarding the intellectuals among the laity, the church must recognize their right to investigaten and initiative. . .

"The present document gives the impression that laymen exist simply to believe, to pray, to obey, and to pay, and this should not be."

Earlier in today's council session in St. Peter's Basilica the more than 280 Roman Catholic bishops of the United States, taking a joint stand in the council for the first time, asked a clarification of a possible church-state reference in the laity document.

The laity documents is a chapter in a theological scheme, "De Ecclesia," examining the structure of the church.

Archbishop Lawrence J. Shehan of Baltimore spoke for the U.S. episcopate.

A council press spokesman quoted Archbishop Shehan as saying the document contained a confusing reference to "the regrettable separation of worldly things and the church."

The archbishop said some of the 2,300 council fathers took that phrase to mean church-state separation. But he said the U.S. bishops did not have such an understanding.

Molecules May Yield Science Secrets of Life

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Scientists working with molecules which boss the work of living cells may some day learn how to prolong youth and curb cancer.

This hope was held out today by Dr. T.M. Sonneborn of Indiana University in an address to scientists celebrating the centennial of the National Academy of Sciences.

Already researchers have managed to make one kind of cell stop the sort of work it has been doing and turn to other projects. They have set tumor cells, for example, to manufacturing products normally produced only by liver cells.

They have intervened so deeply in the makeup of paramecia, microscopic one-celled animals, as to create monstrosities with two mouths and three vents for waste.

Science has long been puzzled by what makes one cell function differently from another possessing generally the same equipment. The human being begins as an invisible fertilized egg which proceeds by cell division to produce more than a million billion other cells, the building blocks of the body.

The first cells, Sonneborn said, seem to be identical. Then differences appear. Finally, the body is possessed of scores of differently functioning cells which manufacture everything from toenails to teeth.

This is known as cell differentiation, and for a long time scientists held no hope of ever understanding it. In the past decade there has been a "revolution" in this field of study and a growing conviction that "it will be the area of one of the next great triumphs of biology in the decade or two ahead."

Sinatra Gives Up His Nevada Gambling License

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Frank Sinatra, the show business singer who branched out into legalized gambling, was formally divested of Nevada gaming licenses Tuesday.

The Nevada Gaming Commission stripped the lanky singer turned actor-business tycoon of his two gaming licenses — one for Las Vegas, another for Lake Tahoe area.

The commission said Sinatra would have to divest himself of a 9 per cent interest, worth $391,000, in the Sands Hotel-Casino, Las Vegas, since that operation is year-round and Sinatra is not to have anything more to do with Nevada gambling.

The commission gave him until spring to sell his $3-million interest — $360,000 gaming and $2.6 million real estate — in the Cal-Neva Lodge on Lake Tahoe's northern California-Nevada state line.

The Cal-Neva is closed fall and winter, and Sinatra will have to be out of the picture by time of the usual spring reopening.

Sinatra announced recently that he would sell his gambling interests rather than fight the gaming commission's charge that he harbored and entertained at Cal-Neva a nationally known Cosa Nostra crim figure, Sam Giancana, last July.

Archbishop Lawrence J. Shehan of Baltimore spoke for the U.S. episcopate.

A council press spokesman quoted Archbishop Shehan as saying the document contained a confusing reference to "the regrettable separation of worldly things and the church."

The archbishop said some of the 2,300 council fathers took that phrase to mean church-state separation. But he said the U.S. bishops did not have such an understanding.

Molecules May Yield Science Secrets of Life

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Scientists working with molecules which boss the work of living cells may some day learn how to prolong youth and curb cancer.

This hope was held out today by Dr. T.M. Sonneborn of Indiana University in an address to scientists celebrating the centennial of the National Academy of Sciences.

Already researchers have managed to make one kind of cell stop the sort of work it has been doing and turn to other projects. They have set tumor cells, for example, to manufacturing products normally produced only by liver cells.

They have intervened so deeply in the makeup of paramecia, microscopic one-celled animals, as to create monstrosities with two mouths and three vents for waste.

Science has long been puzzled by what makes one cell function differently from another possessing generally the same equipment. The human being begins as an invisible fertilized egg which proceeds by cell division to produce more than a million billion other cells, the building blocks of the body.

The first cells, Sonneborn said, seem to be identical. Then differences appear. Finally, the body is possessed of scores of differently functioning cells which manufacture everything from toenails to teeth.

This is known as cell differentiation, and for a long time scientists held no hope of ever understanding it. In the past decade there has been a "revolution" in this field of study and a growing conviction that "it will be the area of one of the next great triumphs of biology in the decade or two ahead."

Ethopia, unlike most African nations, was enjoying nationhood when Athens was still in its infancy.
